FIRST DAY

NOON SESSION

House Chamber, Olympia, Monday, January 9, 1989

The House of Representatives of the 1989 Regular Session of the Fifty-First Legislature was called to order at 12:00 noon by the Chief Clerk of the Fiftieth Legislature, Alan Thompson.

The Chief Clerk requested the Sergeant at Arms to escort the Members-elect to seats on the floor of the House, as selections from Washington Songs and Lore were performed by the Seattle Girls' Choir.

The flag was escorted to the rostrum by the Color Guard from the 9th Regiment U.S. Infantry.

Prayer was offered by The Reverend Richard Hart of Olympia:

Eternal Father, this is a day filled with celebration and excitement. So it is most appropriate that our first words be an expression of thanksgiving to You for bringing into each of us the unique and unmatched gift of life. For whatever else might be said today and for whatever else might be done in these moments, it is important that we begin with You, because You are a God of beginnings, newness and hope. You are a God of love, justice and mercy. You are a God Who knows us by name and declares that our individual value and worth is priceless and beyond our election victories. We are special because we are created in Your image.

And yet, Our Heavenly Father, as we spend moments celebrating the freedom and the growth of our first hundred years as a state, our prayer is that You will call us once more to be a people of beginning, as we lay hold to the opportunities and the challenges of the next hundred years. Even in the midst of our joy, may we not only hear but also understand and accept Your gentle, but persistent, invitation to be servants of You and the people of the state.

Thank You for those who have encouraged us by seeing more in us than we have seen in ourselves. Thank You for those who have gently nudged us when we needed to take another step. Thank You for those who have helped call forth the gift and talents of leadership with which we have been blessed.

And then, Oh Lord, may the joy in these moments of beginnings be our constant companion through the task that is before us. Heavenly Father, I hold up to You these, our representatives and leaders, and pray that, as the activities quicken, the workload increases, and the burden of responsibility becomes a bit heavier, each of them might experience a renewed freedom to be faithful and honest in their deepest convictions. My prayer is that You will give to each of them a sense of the appropriate which will not only keep them focused on the present concerns and opportunities, but will also save them from giving less than their best. And then as the night closes around them and the days of the session come to an end, may they rest from their work with that special peace of knowing that they have labored together with the God of Creation and new beginnings. In the name of Him, who gave Himself for us, we pray. Amen.

CHIEF CLERK'S PRIVILEGE

The Chief Clerk introduced to the Members-elect the 1988 Olympia LakeFair Queen, Miss Ericka D. Jackson, who extended a welcome to the Fifty-First Washington State Legislature.

CHIEF CLERK'S PRIVILEGE

Governor on November 11, 1889. Governor Ferry addressed the Members-elect and introduced "Harrison Big Foot," a symbol of the Washington State Centennial.

(A) RECOGNITION OF MEMBER. When any member desires to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the house, the member shall rise and respectfully address the speaker and pause until recognized.

(B) ORDER OF SPEAKING. When two or more members arise at once, the speaker shall name the one who is to speak.

(C) LIMITATION OF DEBATE. No member shall speak longer than ten (10) minutes without consent of the house: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution, or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, no member shall speak more than three (3) minutes without the consent of the house.

No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the house: PROVIDED, That the chair of the committee or the mover of the question may close debate if it is consistent with rule 19 (Previous Question).

RULES OF DEBATE

RULE 18. The rules for debate in the house are as follows:

(A) QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE. Any member may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter, by leave of the speaker, but the member shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations.

(B) WITHDRAWAL OF MOTION, BILL, ETC. After a motion is stated by the speaker or a bill, memorial, resolution, petition or remonstrance is read by the clerk, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the house, but may be withdrawn by consent of the house at any time before decision or amendment.

(C) READING OF A PAPER. When the reading of any paper is called for and is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the house.

(D) DISTRIBUTION OF MATERIALS. Any materials of any nature distributed to the members' desks on the floor shall be subject to approval by the speaker and shall bear the name of at least one member granting permission for the distribution. This shall not apply to materials normally distributed by the chief clerk.

(D) ORDER OF QUESTIONS. All questions, whether in committee or in the house, shall be propounded in the order in which they are named except that in filling blanks, the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

(E) DIVISION OF POINTS OF DEBATE. Any member may call for a division of a question which shall be divided if it embraces subjects so distinct that one being taken away a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the house; but a motion to strike out and to insert shall not be divided. The rejection of a motion to strike out and to insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and to insert a different proposition.

(F) DECORUM OF MEMBERS. While the speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk across or out of the house; nor when a member is speaking shall any member entertain private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the rostrum.

(G) REMARKS CONFINED. A member shall confine all remarks to the question under debate and avoid personalities. No member shall impugn the motive of any member's vote or argument.

(H) EXCEPTION TO WORDS SPOKEN IN DEBATE. If any member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling the member to order shall repeat the words excepted to and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's table. No member shall be held in answer or be subject to the censure of the house for words spoken in debate if any other member has spoken before exception to them shall have been taken.

(I) TRANSGRESSION OF RULES -- APPEAL. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the house the speaker shall, or any member may, call the member to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down unless permitted to explain; and the house shall, if appealed to, decide the case without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the chair shall be submitted to.

If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, the member shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case shall require it, the member shall be liable to the censure of the house.

ENDING OF DEBATE -- PREVIOUS QUESTION

RULE 19. The previous question may be ordered on all recognized motions or amendments which are debatable by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present.

The previous question is not debatable and cannot be amended.

The previous question shall be put in this form: "Representative demands the previous question. As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'Aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'No'."

The results of the motion are as follows: If determined in the negative, the consideration goes on as if the motion had never been made; if decided in the affirmative it shall have the effect of cutting off all debate and bringing the house to a direct vote upon the motion or amendment on which it has been ordered: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That when a bill is on final passage or when the motion to postpone indefinitely is pending, one of the sponsors of the bill or the chair of the committee may have the privilege of closing debate after the previous question has been ordered.

If an adjournment is had after the previous question is ordered, the motion or proposition on which the previous question was ordered shall be put to the house immediately following the approval of the journal on the next working day, thus making the main question privileged over all other business, whether new or unfinished.

VOTING

RULE 20. (A) PUTTING OF QUESTION. The speaker shall put the question in the following form: "The question before the house is (state the question). As many as are in favor say 'Aye'; and after the affirmative vote is expressed, "as many as are opposed say 'No'."

(B) ALL MEMBERS TO VOTE. Every member who was in the house when the question was put shall vote unless, for special reasons, excused by the house.

All motions to excuse a member shall be made before the house divides or before the call for yeas and nays is commenced; and any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief and verbal statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

Upon a division and count of the house on the question, only members at their desks within the bar of the house shall be counted.

(C) CHANGE OF VOTE. When the electric roll call machine is used, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the speaker has locked the roll call machine. When an oral roll call is taken, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the result has been announced.

(D) PRIVATE INTEREST. No member shall vote on any question in which that member is immediately or particularly interested*.

*"A member who has a private interest in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the legislature shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon." (Art. II § 30)

(E) INTERRUPTION OF ROLL CALL. Once begun, the roll call may not be interrupted. No member or other person shall visit or remain at the clerk's desk while the yeas and nays are being called.

(F) YEAS AND NAYS -- RECORDED VOTES. Upon the final passage of any bill, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and shall be recorded by the electric voting system: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That an oral roll call shall be ordered when demanded by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present. (Art. II § 21)

The speaker may vote last when the yeas and nays are called.

When the vote is by electric voting machine or by oral roll call on any question, it shall be entered upon the journal of the house. A recorded vote may be compelled by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present.

(G) TIE VOTE, QUESTION LOSES. In case of an equal division, the question shall be lost.

(H) DIVISION. If the speaker is in doubt, or if division is called for and is supported by at least seventeen members, the house shall divide and a recorded vote shall be taken.

RECONSIDERATION

RULE 21. Notice of a motion for reconsideration on the final passage of bills shall be made on the day the vote to be reconsidered was taken and before the house has voted to transmit the bill to the senate.

Reconsideration of the votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the next working day after such vote was taken: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution, or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, then reconsideration of votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the same day as the original vote was taken.

Any member who voted on the prevailing side may move for reconsideration or give notice thereof.

A motion to reconsider can be decided only once when decided in the negative.

When a motion to reconsider has been carried, its effect shall be to place the original question before the house in the exact position it occupied before it was voted upon.

CALL OF THE HOUSE

RULE 22. One-sixth (1/6) of the members present may demand a call of the house at any time before the house has divided or the voting has commenced by yeas and nays.

(A) DOORS TO BE CLOSED. When call of the house has been ordered, the sergeant at arms shall close and lock the doors, and no member shall be allowed to leave the chamber: PROVIDED, That the rules committee shall be allowed to meet, upon request of the speaker, while the house stands at ease: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That the speaker may permit members to use such portions of the fourth floor as may be properly secured.

(B) SERGEANT AT ARMS TO BRING IN THE ABSENTEES. The clerk shall immediately call a roll of the members and note the absentees, whose names shall be read and entered upon the journal in such manner as to show who are excused and who are absent without leave.

The clerk shall furnish the sergeant at arms with a list of those who are absent without leave, and the sergeant at arms shall proceed to bring in such absentees; but arrests of members for absence shall not be made unless ordered by a majority of the members present.

(C) HOUSE UNDER CALL. While the house is under a call, no business shall be transacted except to receive and act on the report of the sergeant at arms; and no other motion shall be in order except a motion to proceed with business under the call of the house or a motion to excuse absentees. The motion to excuse absent members shall not be adopted unless a majority of the members elected vote in favor thereof.

(D) CALL OF HOUSE RAISED WHEN ABSENTEES RETURN. When the sergeant at arms shall make a report showing that all who were absent without leave are present, the call of the house may be dispensed with.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR

RULE 23. The decision of the chair may be appealed from by any member, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once unless by leave of the house. In all cases of appeal, the question shall be: "Shall the decision of the chair stand as the judgment of the house?"

(2) A majority recommendation of a committee must be signed by a majority of the entire membership of the committee in a regularly called meeting before a bill, memorial or resolution may be reported out: PROVIDED, That a majority of the members elected to the house may require a committee to report a bill back to the house during the order of business at which it may be considered.

Bills referred to the ways and means committee may be assigned to the appropriations or revenue subcommittee by the committee chair. Bills assigned to the appropriations or revenue subcommittee may be acted upon by the assigned subcommittee and recommendations of these subcommittees when signed by a majority of the membership of such subcommittee and approved by the chair of the ways and means committee shall be reported back to the house, except that budget bills shall be acted upon by the whole ways and means committee before being reported back to the house.

Majority recommendations of a committee can only be "do pass", "do pass as amended" or that "the substitute be substituted therefor and that the substitute bill do pass."

(3) Minority reports "do not pass" or "without recommendation" may be submitted with the majority report. Members of the committee not concurring in the majority report may prepare a written minority report containing a different recommendation, which shall be signed by those members of the committee subscribing thereto.

The merits of the bill may be debated before the vote is taken, but the vote on a vetoed bill cannot be reconsidered.

In case of a bill containing several sections or items, one or more of which has been objected to by the governor, each section or item so objected to shall be voted upon separately by the house.

Action by the house upon all vetoed bills shall be endorsed upon the bill and certified by the speaker.

Vetoed bills originating in the house, which have not been passed notwithstanding the veto of the governor, shall remain in the custody of the officers of the house until the close of the assembly, after which they shall be filed with the secretary of state.

House Floor Resolution No. 89-4600 was adopted.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

The Chief Clerk announced that nominations were in order for Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Walk: Thank you, Mr. Chief Clerk. Ladies and gentlemen of the body: I rise to nominate Representative Joseph E. King as Speaker of the House of Representatives. Being Speaker of the House is a very unique office, I think we all agree. It requires a unique type of leadership; after all, we are a unique crew of characters that the Speaker is called upon to lead. When we look at the different types of leaders that we have had in the past, often the personalities of the House reflect the type of leader. At times we can recall very, very Democratic personalities in the House and that kind of leadership, and at other times, a very firm, strong hand.

I think most of us will agree that in the leadership of Speaker King, we have found a middle ground, a fine line—unfortunately often a very tight line—but a line that prevents us from falling into a chasm of anarchy on one side and the chasm of a dictatorship on the other side. Speaker King has proven himself to be open and accessible; he listens to criticism. That doesn't mean that we always get what we want as individuals. I think that is important, too. The actions of the Speaker have to be judged on the basis of love for the institution in which we serve and for the public which we represent. Sometimes he forces us to do the things that we must do. He forces us, with a firm hand sometimes, to face the task and the issues that we must face. As a representative of this body, the Speaker is above everyone else. It is the Speaker to whom the public looks for visions and leadership as he represents this House and, to a degree, this entire Legislature.

I think Joe King has proven himself to be the kind of person that we want to provide that leadership. I am very proud to be able to stand here and ask for the re-election of the gentleman from the 49th District.

Ms. Morris: Thank you, Mr. Chief Clerk. As a new member of this House, it is both a delight and a privilege to make my first public remarks to second the nomination of Joe King for Speaker of the House. I have not had the opportunity to work with Joe in a legislative capacity, but during the ten years of our acquaintanceship in the same home town, I know that he is a man who is admired as a leader, respected as a businessman and trusted as a friend. He is a man of substance, a man of character with the kind of qualities that will make a Speaker of unusual excellence. Thank you.

Ms. Brough: Thank you, Mr. Chief Clerk. It is truly with great pride and pleasure that I rise today to place in nomination the name of my respected colleague and good friend, Representative Clyde Ballard. I place his name in nomination for Speaker of the House of Representatives. I stand before you with a slight suspicion that, perhaps, this election has a known outcome. If we look at the reader board before us, we see "Mr. Speaker J. King" upon the board. It is quite possible that there is a foregone conclusion here.

Nonetheless I do wish to place Representative Ballard's name before you. I do this for several reasons. Clyde Ballard's leadership and commitment to service in this body are well known. He would serve us well. He would be a credit not only to this House of Representatives, but also to the citizens of our state. Representative Ballard has played a major role in developing an improved sense of respect and working relationships between the two political parties that represent the public in this arena. Representative Ballard has earned our respect not only because of the talent that he has and the sound judgements that he has made, but also because of his willingness to listen to each and every one of us, his open-minded approach to problem solving, and a very deep sense of integrity that we all recognize that he brings to us each and every time we have contact with him.

These attributes would go a long way in making him a truly outstanding Speaker for the House of Representatives. I place his name in nomination with pride and ask for your support. Thank you.

Mr. Padden: Thank you, Mr. Chief Clerk. I am most happy to second the nomination of the senior representative from the 12th District. He is in his seventh year in the Legislature and hails from East Wenatchee in Douglas County. We are going to be facing a tough session ahead, one that will require hard work and long hours from all of us, in all probability, for more than one hundred and five days. Our nominee knows the importance of both bipartisan cooperation and the necessity of strongly articulating certain basic concepts: individual freedom, limited government and public safety. This will be the first chance for many of you on the other side of the aisle to show your independence in casting a vote for the gentleman from the 12th District. I would ask you to join with me in that endeavor. Thank you.

On motion of Mr. Ebersole, the nominations for Speaker of the House were closed.

The Chief Clerk presented the gavel to the Speaker.

SPEAKER'S ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you very much for electing me as Speaker of the House of Representatives again. It is an almost inexpressible honor. First, let me say to my good friend Clyde Ballard, that tradition calls for us to be opponents for a few minutes in the election procedure. But, you know that we have always worked together to find common ground. And when we have found ourselves on opposite sides of the fence, we have acted like neighbors. I can't regard you as an opponent, Clyde. I respect you as a leader and regard you as a friend.

I also want to congratulate our newest members. An hour ago you were community leaders. Now that you have taken your oath of office, you are state leaders. I know how proud you are at this moment. I know how proud your friends and relatives are. Those of us who have served in this House before you are honored to welcome you as colleagues. Congratulations, Representatives. I suspect that you will swear a few more oaths before the session is over, but this was the one to invite your friends and family to.

To all honorable members on both sides of the aisle I want to say that I am and will be the Speaker for the entire House. Since this is our centennial year, I hope all of us will give a little extra weight to the importance of the institution of which we are all part. I hope that we will remember that this institution and, in general, the state of Washington is greater than the sum of its parts. I know that sounds trite, but most common-sense truths do. The truth is that we represent forty-nine districts, two parties, but only one state. We will need leadership coming from all directions and going in one direction. If we provide that kind of leadership, then we will have a session worthy of Washington's centennial year.

I am hoping that we will have a very successful year. When this gavel falls at the end of the session, I hope that we will have made more than merely incremental changes to our state. When this gavel falls, I hope our accomplishments will be a credit to us and to the people who elected us. And when this gavel falls at the end of the session, I hope that the press and public will say that the cynics were wrong, that expectations were exceeded and that this was a session of hard work well done. Thank you. Thank you very, very much.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. Ballard: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to first congratulate my friend, Representative King, on his re-election as Speaker. We, too, look forward to continuing a good working relationship this coming session. Congratulations.

As we convene today in this centennial year it is interesting to contemplate just what the people who met in the First Legislature, even before Washington was granted statehood, might think of the issues before us now. It is also fun to consider just what those first legislators might think of the changes that have occurred in this body during the past one hundred years. For instance, they would probably be pleased that the issues uppermost in their minds--the education of young people, protection of home and families, and the development of a transportation system to safely move people and products--remain top priorities of state government. On the other hand, think about how amazing those early legislators would find today's legislative world. After all, the first legislators didn't have a desk, much less a private office to work in. During the first legislative session there was no legislative hotline and, therefore, no hotline messages to answer. In fact, there weren't even any telephones. They tell me, and some of our senior members here can confirm this, that later on when they did have telephones, you had to ask the Chief Clerk for permission to use the phone and, if you wanted to call a constituent, you had to use a pay phone in the back of the Chamber and pay for it out of your pocket. Our forerunners would not have seen an Ulcer Gulch and they probably would have no idea what a Third House was. All things considered, the first legislators would likely be astounded when confronted with the demands and the questions posed daily by the throngs of reporters, lobbyists, staff and constituents who are so much a part of our everyday legislative life. If those first legislators could begin to come to grip with how much eleven or twelve billion dollars is, they would surely be amazed that all of our financial resources never seem to be enough to satisfy everyone. And what would the reaction of the first legislators be to our beloved murals?

It is also a pleasure to see so many new faces. As the Speaker said, we all benefit from the infusion of new ideas and new energy that follow an election. Of course, I must admit it would be a greater pleasure if there were more new faces on this side of the aisle. Nevertheless, we can all look forward to building new friendships and a cordial, yet frank, debate of the critical issues before us as we embark on Washington's second hundred years.

Clearly, we have some basic differences and these differences may be highlighted on some of the very substantial issues we will be asked to address this year. I can assure you that we will remain and operate as a loyal opposition. We will not obstruct the process, even if we try to save you from many mistakes toward which you may appear headed. We look forward to a good session and are prepared to work with you in conducting the people's business. Thank you.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The Speaker announced that nominations were in order for Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Ebersole: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is with a great deal of admiration and affection that I rise to nominate the most distinguished member of the Washington State House of Representatives, The Honorable John Lawrence O'Brien. In 1989 Washington State is one hundred years old and we celebrate its first century of statehood. In 1989 John L. O'Brien is somewhat less than one hundred years old and we celebrate his first half century of service as a State Representative.

John O'Brien is a great man. John O'Brien lives forever and serves forever. John O'Brien has served longer than anyone alive can remember. John was first appointed to this body in 1939. Franklin Delano Roosevelt was in the White House and John Lawrence O'Brien was in this State House. Since that time John O'Brien, with some help from his friends, has survived twenty-four election campaigns. Each year the sages predict his demise; each year John proves them wrong. John is invincible. In 1988 John emerged from his campaign as the darling of the left, the darling of the right, and the darling of the middle of the road.

Now you might have noticed the new carpet in the House. I want to set one thing straight. Contrary to popular opinion, John O'Brien did not pick out the carpet. He thinks it doesn't match his murals, although he does appreciate the Herculean effort that went into this renovation project.

A bit more history. From 1955 to 1962 John O'Brien served as Speaker of the House. John O'Brien is the only person elected Speaker of the House four consecutive times. Remember that. Joe. He also served as Acting Speaker in 1976 and 1980. He has served as Speaker Pro Tempore for seven terms. In fact, John O'Brien has served in a leadership position in a state legislature longer than any person, Democrat or Republican and House Member or Senator, in the history of these United States—a truly remarkable achievement. He has served as a member of this House for over sixty percent of all session days since statehood in 1889.

We all hold our eldest and best statesman in the highest regard. He brings dignity and decorum to our Chambers. His presence enriches our institution and gives us a sense of history and time-honored tradition. He is a gentleman. He was here before his good friend Lieutenant Governor Cherberg and he is here now after Lieutenant Governor Cherberg. He is an institution within this institution. John O'Brien loves this House and we love him. He represents all that is good about the Washington State House of Representatives. He was here as a member to celebrate the fiftieth birthday of this state, and he is here now as a member to celebrate the one-hundredth birthday. Father O'Brien, thank you.

Mr. Prince: Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the body: I rise and consider it a great honor to second the nomination of John L. O'Brien. You have heard an excellent rendition of his longevity, but the thing I think is most important about the service of John O'Brien is that he has left a record that few will ever attempt to equal. A four-time Speaker of the House is something to which we don't have a close peer. He was acknowledged in the 1960s as an outstanding legislator. That was before most of us showed up here. He has carried that tradition; he has carried that respect up through the years. When the history of this state is written, his name will be prominently displayed among those who gave of their time and their effort to make this the great state that it is. I consider it an honor to be able to join in seconding the nomination of Representative O'Brien.

Ms. Hine: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I also would like to second the nomination of Representative O'Brien for Speaker Pro Tempore. We have heard a good deal about the history and the dignity that Representative O'Brien brings to this office. I want to talk about a few of the other kinds of activities and flavor that Representative O'Brien contributes to the welfare of all of us. He has been in charge of finding people to give us the spiritual guidance and help beyond ourselves that we need every morning as we come into session. He has also been very willing to share his vast knowledge of time past and mistakes made. But he does it with a twinkle in his eye and never says, "You dumb jerk; you know you shouldn't be doing that." Rather he will look at you with a smile and say, "Are you sure you want to do that?" Most of the time, if you will probe, you will find a pretty good reason why the track you are on might not be the best one. The sense of history and the always decorous manner in which Representative O'Brien presides is something that we should all emulate. He is firm, but fair. As I have pointed out on other occasions, when he gives his rulings, he can always find one of his own to give reason for the current one, and it can sometimes be on opposite sides. With those kinds of tools in hand we could certainly do no better than to place Representative O'Brien as our Speaker Pro Tempore to guide us through this one-hundredth year in our state's history.

Mr. Dellwo: Mr. Speaker and members of the House: I also rise to second the nomination of this great man. I was looking through the archives, trying to find something new to say about John, and, as you might expect, I found nothing new. In my looking I found a quote that I wanted to share with the body and, with the permission of the House, I would like to read very briefly: "John, as you will readily recognize, is the legislator's legislator. He is the most senior member of this body. I have served in his shadow for eight years now. When John first came to the Legislature in 1941, I was in high school. (I wasn't even born. I think I was born four years later.) John, in fact, is so much a part of the legend and history and lore of this institution I was somewhat at a loss to convey this to the new members that might not be aware of it."

He then went on to extol the virtues and the qualities of John. This was back in 1973, on the first day of the session then, and the speaker is now our Chief Clerk. I am sure, if he were on the floor of the House now, he would join me in seconding the nomination of this illustrious man to serve again as our Speaker Pro Tempore.

On motion of Mr. Ebersole, the nominations for Speaker Pro Tempore were closed.

Representative John L. O'Brien was unanimously elected Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives.

The Speaker appointed Representatives Heavey and S. Wilson to escort Representative O'Brien to the rostrum.

Justice Pearson administered the oath of office to Speaker Pro Tempore John L. O'Brien.

Mr. O'Brien: Justice Pearson, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House: Thank you very much for again electing me to the office of Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives. I certainly appreciate the kind remarks of Representatives Ebersole, Prince, Hine and Dellwo. Representative Ebersole must have spent a great deal of time on his research, and I am humbled and flattered in listening to the remarks of that great gentleman.

I have been very fortunate to serve as a member of the House of Representatives for many terms. It is an experience deeply cherished by me. Due to this legislative service I have met and made friends with some of the finest people in the world, and that includes all of you here today. To represent the people of our districts in the State Legislature is a public trust of the highest degree. There is no greater honor than to have the confidence and respect of our fellow citizens. Legislators share a common bond of friendship and fraternalism that cannot be equalled anywhere. It develops due to the intensity of our legislative actions and work during the sessions. This becomes apparent when we meet during the interims and exchange greetings.

I look forward to serving with you, Speaker King, in this Fifty-First Session of the Washington State Legislature and with the anticipation that we will be successful in solving the many problems facing our state. Again, thank you very much for this kind honor. I would like to say that this is something that I appreciate very much. Thank you for giving me this high honor as Speaker Pro Tempore of this session of the Legislature.

At this time I would like to recognize my family in the south gallery--my wife, Mary; my daughters, Laurie, Karen and Jeannie; and my son, Paul, who are accompanied by my niece, Mary Lynn; her husband, Hank; and nephew, Jacob.

The Speaker instructed the escort committee to escort Speaker Pro Tempore John L. O'Brien to his seat on the floor of the House.

ELECTION OF CHIEF CLERK

The Speaker announced that nominations were in order for Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Ms. Hine: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to place in nomination the name of Mr. Alan Thompson. As we talk today about the history of this institution and sit in awe of the pomp and circumstance and staggering responsibility that we have undertaken in this year of our one-hundredth birthday, we must think about the kind of support and help that we need in order for us to do our jobs properly. That chief officer for us is our Chief Clerk.

As we think about the qualities of Chief Clerk, we think first about someone who is experienced, someone who knows this institution. Few people fit that category more than Alan. Alan has served here for several years--eighteen in the House and four in the Senate--before being elected our Chief Clerk two years ago. He served with distinction during that time. We need somebody who will show respect for the institution and fairness to both parties and to all of us, regardless of our committees or how long we have served here or anything else, other than the fact that we are duly elected and here to serve. Alan has shown over the last two years that he is very fair and helpful to everyone of us, whatever our needs might be. We need someone who will display calmness. There is an old saying, "When all around are in chaos and you remain calm, you probably don't understand the problem." Alan does. That kind of calmness in addressing tough questions makes something seemingly insurmountable suddenly become possible and manageable. We need someone who will be consistent, and Alan is consistent--he has worn a bow tie for years whether they are in fashion or not. We need someone who has a sense of humor. I know of no one else who has the wit and uses language in a way that can bring a smile and a little bit of cheer.

The job ahead is a challenging one. Without that sense of humor and without the ability to give us the tools to serve the public better, we would not be able to do as good a job. I believe the experience and the gentlemanly approach that Alan has brought to his position as Chief Clerk in the last two years will serve us well. He has started and will continue to support a process that will help us to serve our constituents better. I urge your support for Alan Thompson to be our Chief Clerk once again.

Ms. Walker: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Alan Thompson has shown us, time and time again, his concern for this institution and the way that this institution operates. He has been very fair to the loyal opposition--mind you, not overly generous, but fair. I was told, when Alan first became the Chief Clerk, that he was a very laid back, low key kind of guy. Looking at the number of people across the aisle from me--low key, laid back? I don't believe a word of it. After you and I have been elected, we think, "Well, that job is over with. Now I'll go down to Olympia on January 9 and go to work." Unless Alan Thompson performed all of the duties that he performs, we would be milling around in the parking lot, not knowing what to do with our cars. All the work that goes on so that we can come to this day and have the privilege and opportunity of being sworn in with grace and ease is attributable to Alan Thompson. For that reason I am very proud and pleased to second the nomination for Alan Thompson. I am sure that you are going to join me. Thank you.

On motion of Mr. Ebersole, the nominations for Chief Clerk were closed.

Mr. Alan Thompson was unanimously elected Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Justice Pearson administered the oath of office to Chief Clerk Alan Thompson.

The Chief Clerk: Thank you, Mr. Speaker and Justice Pearson. Representative Hine and Representative Walker, thank you for your generous comments. Thank you, Representative Ebersole, for your motion. I particularly liked that. To all of you on both sides of the aisle, I want to just state briefly and simply that I will do my very best to deserve your confidence and many kindnesses and the great honor you have just provided me to serve you as Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

SPEAKER'S PRIVILEGE

The Speaker introduced to the members of the House of Representatives a former member, Mr. John N. Sylvester, who served in the House of Representatives from 1937-41 and as Speaker of the House exactly fifty years ago. Speaker Sylvester was welcomed by the members of the House.

Speaker Sylvester: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen: It is a pleasure to be here. It was exactly fifty years ago today on January 9, 1939 that I was elected Speaker. We had seventy-five Democrats and twenty-four Republicans. All twenty-four Republicans voted for me. I abstained from voting, so that I could let the Republicans think that I needed their vote.

Things have changed since I have been here. I have done some lobbying down here. I wanted to tell you that in 1941 John O'Brien came to my office--I think he came to thank me for the twenty-five dollars I advanced to his campaign. He said, "Jack, I want to be Speaker of the House. I want to beat your record; I want to be Speaker the first time I'm in session." I said, "John, about how many people do you have in on it?" He said, "About fifteen or eighteen." I said, "Forget it." We were getting five dollars a day when we were in session and ten cents a mile to and from the Legislature one time, back and forth. We passed a referendum in 1939 to put to a vote of the people to raise the salary of the legislators to one hundred dollars a month. I was single then and went around the state in my own car at my own expense and talked any place they would give me a forum. I remember I was over in eastern Washington at a big Grange meeting with about a hundred people there. I said to them, "You know, I want to tell you, during the last sixty-three days I was down there in Olympia, I lost nine pounds and had to get new glasses. Now you should support and vote for this." One guy, a big farmer, said back to me, "Yes, and you're overpaid."

I have a very good friend in New York who has a summer place in Cape Cod. One day, while my wife and I were back there visiting, we came back from the golf course we had just enjoyed playing. He said, "Jack, would you like to meet Tip O'Neill?" I said I would, so he called up and came back and said, "Tip O'Neill has just left." So four years ago I was writing a letter to my friend, and I told him that I thought I was the youngest Speaker in the history of the United States. He took a photocopy of my letter and sent it to Tip O'Neill. Tip O'Neill was kind enough to send a nice letter to me, addressing me as Mr. Speaker--a kid like me being addressed by the Speaker of the U.S. Congress. In any event I would like to read you a speech after I was elected Speaker.

"Members of the 1939 Session of the Legislature:

"You have greatly honored me by selecting me to serve as your Speaker. May I thank each and every one of you who have so kindly expressed your confidence by placing this trust in me. I hope that my administration will merit your continued confidence and support.

"There are some people who would lead you to believe that you as members of the two political parties should pattern your activities with the 1940 elections foremost in your minds. In this regard may I remind you that you and I were elected to represent the people of our respective districts for the 1939 Session of the Legislature and, to fulfill the obligations assumed by us, we must concentrate solely upon the problems at hand. It is needless to say that we will have much to do in order to conscientiously attend to the immediate needs of our people.

"The welfare of the State of Washington is paramount to any political party or organization.

"I feel confident that by all of us working together, shoulder to shoulder, we can solve even the most difficult problems before us.

"Again I thank you for the honor you have bestowed upon me."

Thank you, Joe.

INITIATIVE TO THE LEGISLATURE NUMBER 99

AN ACT Relating to elections; providing for a presidential preference primary; amending RCW 29.13.010 and 29.13.020; and creating a new chapter in Title 29 RCW.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The people of the state of Washington declare that:

(1) The current presidential nominating caucus system in Washington state is unnecessarily restrictive of voter participation in that it discriminates against the elderly, the infirm, women, the handicapped, evening workers, and others who are unable to attend caucuses and therefore unable to fully participate in this most important quadrennial event that occurs in our democratic system of government.

(2) It is the intent of this chapter to make the presidential selection process more open and representative of the will of the people of our state.

(3) A presidential primary will afford the maximum opportunity for voter access at regular polling places during the daytime and evening hours convenient to the most people.

(4) This state's participation in the selection of presidential candidates shall be in accordance with the will of the people as expressed in a presidential preference primary.

(5) It is the intent of this chapter, to the maximum extent practicable, to continue to reserve to the political parties the right to conduct their delegate selection as prescribed by party rules insofar as it reflects the will of the people as expressed in a presidential primary election conducted every four years in the manner described by this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. On the fourth Tuesday in May of each year when a president of the United States is to be nominated and elected, or such other date as may be selected by the secretary of state to advance the concept of a regional primary, a presidential preference primary shall be held at which voters may express their preferences as to who should be the nominee of a major political party for the office of president.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The name of any candidate for a major political party nomination for president of the United States shall be printed on the presidential preference primary ballot of a major political party only:

(1) By direction of the secretary of state, who in the secretary's sole discretion has determined that the candidate's candidacy is generally advocated or is recognized in national news media; or

(2) If members of the political party of the candidate have presented a petition for nomination of the candidate that has attached to the petition a sheet or sheets containing the signatures of at least one thousand registered voters who declare themselves in the petition as being affiliated with the same political party as the presidential candidate. The petition shall be filed with the secretary of state not later than the thirty-ninth day before the presidential preference primary. The signature sheets shall also contain the residence address and name or number of the precinct of each registered voter whose signature appears thereon and shall be certified in the manner prescribed in RCW 29.79.200 and 29.79.210.

The secretary of state shall place the name of the candidate on the ballot unless the candidate, at least thirty-five days before the presidential preference primary, executes and files with the secretary of state an affidavit stating without qualification that he or she is not now and will not become a candidate for the office of president of the United States at the forthcoming presidential election. The secretary of state shall certify the names of all candidates who will appear on the presidential preference primary ballot to the respective county auditors on or before the fourth Tuesday in April of each presidential election year.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. The arrangement and form of presidential primary ballots shall be substantially as provided for any primary election within the state except as may be modified by this chapter or by rule of the secretary of state as provided for in section 7 of this act to adequately reflect the intent of this chapter.

A separate ballot shall be prepared for each major political party that has candidates whose names have been authorized for placement on presidential preference primary ballots under section 3 of this act. The names of all candidates for a party's nomination for the office of president shall be listed alphabetically in a column on that party's ballot. There shall be a printed box adjacent to the name of each candidate. A blank space to allow the voter to write in the name of another candidate shall also be included on each ballot.

The ballot, in providing for a choice of candidates for the office of president, shall set forth only those candidates, with their political party affiliation, who have qualified for a place on the ballot under section 3 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. Insofar as is practicable, and where the provisions of this chapter do not specifically indicate otherwise, the presidential preference primary shall be conducted in the same manner as a state partisan primary, including the certification of the election returns by the secretary of state. The requirement of rotation of names on the ballot does not apply to the candidates listed on the presidential preference primary ballot. County auditors may combine and consolidate two or more precincts for the purpose of conducting the presidential preference primary only if precinct vote totals for the primary can still be made available and the consolidation does not require a voter to go to a location different from that of the last regular election.

Each person desiring to vote in the presidential preference primary shall receive a ballot request form on which the voter shall sign his or her name and address and declare the party primary in which he or she wishes to participate. The form, which shall be supplied by the secretary of state, shall be identifiable by precinct, but may not contain any other information about the voter. After completing the form, the voter shall return it to the precinct election worker and shall receive the appropriate primary ballot. The precinct election worker shall immediately deposit the ballot request form in a sealed container.

Each person requesting an absentee ballot for a presidential preference primary shall complete the same ballot request form in addition to an application for an absentee ballot, whereupon the county auditor shall send the applicant the appropriate absentee ballot. The county auditor shall then deposit the ballot request form in a sealed container and, immediately following the election, combine these requests with those from the rest of the county.

Immediately following the election the county auditor shall combine all ballot request forms into centralized containers as prescribed by rule of the secretary of state. The secretary shall prescribe rules for providing each party central committee a list of the voters who participated in the presidential primary of that party.

The signed ballot request forms shall be maintained in the centralized containers by the county auditor for a period of time as specified by rule of the secretary of state, after which time they shall be destroyed, unless otherwise directed by federal law.

At a presidential preference primary, a voter may cast no more than one vote on a ballot. Any presidential preference primary ballot with more than one vote is void, and notice to this effect, couched in clear, simple language, and printed in large type, shall appear on the face of each presidential preference primary ballot. Where voting machines or electronic voting devices are in use, the notice shall be displayed on or about each machine or device.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. (1) The results of the presidential preference primary shall determine the percentage of delegate positions to be allocated to each presidential candidate. Selection of individuals to delegate positions shall be in compliance with applicable state party rules, and to the extent practicable, delegates shall be apportioned among the state's congressional districts. Delegate positions shall be allocated to presidential candidates in the manner specified in subsection (3) of this section except as otherwise provided by national party rules.

(2) All votes cast for a particular presidential candidate in a party's primary shall be considered votes for delegate positions committed to that candidate.

Each candidate for a delegate position who is committed to a particular presidential candidate, before the selection of delegates, shall sign and submit to the appropriate party's state committee the following pledge:

Delegate Pledge

I, do hereby swear that I am a supporter* of for the office of President of the United States; and that if elected as a delegate to the Party National Convention I pledge to cast my ballot as a delegate to the convention for that candidate on the first two ballots unless released by the candidate, and I pledge furthermore to do all that I can to advance the cause of that candidate at the national convention.

(3) Except as otherwise provided by national party rules, delegate positions shall be allocated from the state at-large among presidential candidates who receive at least fifteen percent of the total votes cast for candidates of the same political party, or such other percentage as national party rules may provide. Each candidate so qualified shall be allocated a percentage of delegate positions equal to as nearly as practicable that candidate's percentage of the total votes cast for candidates of the same political party in the presidential preference primary. The votes of candidates who do not receive at least fifteen percent of the total votes cast in their parties' presidential preference primary shall be proportionately allocated to those candidates who did receive fifteen percent or more of the total votes cast in their parties' presidential preference primary.

(4) If any presidential candidate, at any time after the presidential preference primary, formally releases the delegates holding positions committed to him or her under the formula established by subsection (3) of this section, the delegates shall be considered uncommitted. The delegates holding positions committed to a candidate shall be considered formally released when the candidate so notifies, in writing, the chair of his or her party's delegation.

(5) In the event of the death of a candidate to whom delegate positions have been committed, all such positions shall be considered uncommitted.

(6) If no ballot choice on a political party ballot receives fifteen percent or more of the total votes cast, the state committee of the political party shall determine how delegate positions allotted to the state by the national committee shall be committed.

(7) If a vacancy occurs in the position of delegate, the remaining delegates committed to the same preference as the vacating person shall name a person to fill the vacancy.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. The secretary of state as chief election officer may make rules in accordance with chapter 34.04 RCW or its statutory successor to facilitate the operation, accomplishment, and purpose of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. Whenever a presidential preference primary election is held as provided by this chapter, the state of Washington shall assume all costs of holding the election if it is held alone. If any other election or elections are held at the same time, the state is liable only for its prorated share. The county auditor shall determine the election costs, including the state's prorated share, if applicable, and shall file a certified claim therefore with the secretary of state. The secretary of state shall compile such claims for presentation to the next succeeding legislature in the same manner as other legislative relief claims.

Sec. 9. Section 29.13.010, chapter 9, Laws of 1965 as last amended by section 1, chapter 3, Laws of 1980 and RCW 29.13.010 are each amended to read as follows:

EDITOR'S NOTE:

April 28, 1989

Mr. Dennis Cooper

Olympia, WA 98504

RE: Corrected Copy of Initiative to the Legislature No. 99, Chapter 4, Laws of 1989.

Dear Mr. Cooper:

When the Legislature enacted Initiative Measure No. 99 at the 1989 Regular Session, it intended to enact the Initiative in the form in which it was refiled by the petitioner with the Secretary of State on April 7, 1988, and subsequently circulated among the voters of the state for their signatures. Apparently, the petitioner, before refiled his proposed Initiative with the Secretary of State, changed the draft that you had previously sent to him. These changes were never officially filed with you or with the Legislature and were, therefore, not incorporated into the Legislature's computer file.

In particular, the petitioner's filing indicates deletion of language beginning with "The form," on page 3, line 34, and continuing through "of state," on page 4, line 4. Please correct the text of Initiative No. 99 so that it matches the petitioner's filing and can be certified to the Secretary of State as the corrected copy of the Enrolled Enactment of Chapter 4, Laws of 1989.

Sincerely,
ALAN THOMPSON
Chief Clerk
House of Representatives.

Nothing in this chapter shall prohibit additional funding from other sources of the agencies, programs, and purposes eligible for funds under this chapter.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 18. CHILDREN'S INITIATIVE FUND OVERSIGHT COMMITTEE. (1) To assist the governor and the legislature in determining which programs and purposes should be supported with appropriations from the children's initiative fund and whether children's initiative fund moneys are being spent in an efficient and effective manner that minimizes administrative costs, an oversight committee, to be known as the children's initiative fund oversight committee, is established. The committee shall have the authority to analyze the current and emerging needs of children in the state and to review and evaluate the efficiency and effectiveness of programs supported by the children's initiative fund in meeting these needs.

A legislative member shall serve as long as he or she is a member of the caucus from which he or she was appointed. Successors to the initial members shall serve for a term of three years, except that any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which the predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term. Vacancies shall be filled within sixty days of their occurrence.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. INTENT ON SOURCE OF MONEYS FOR CHILDREN'S INITIATIVE FUND. (1) It is the intent of this chapter that the raising of revenues for the purposes of this chapter, as well as the raising of revenues for all other purposes of state government, shall be done in a fashion which fairly and equitably distributes the burdens of taxation among the state's taxpayers, protects those with the lowest incomes, promotes business development and economic growth in the state, and assures a stable funding base for state services that is sufficient to meet the needs of state government, including the purposes of this chapter. No cause of action may lie to enforce this subsection.

(2) The source of moneys for the children's initiative fund shall be new or increased taxes, which means one or more of the following:

- (a) An increase in the rate of any tax which was in effect as of July 1, 1988;
- (b) An increase in the base of any tax which was in effect as of July 1, 1988; or
- (c) Any tax which was not in effect as of July 1, 1988.

Funding from sources other than the children's initiative fund for the activities of state government, including those eligible for support from the children's initiative fund, shall not be reduced in order to provide moneys for the children's initiative fund.

(3) The tax increases specified in sections 8 and 9 of this act are imposed only for the purpose of making this chapter legally enforceable in the event the legislature fails to impose new or increased taxes which meet the specifications of subsection (1) of this section in order to provide sufficient moneys for the purposes of this chapter. It is the intent of this chapter that if the tax increases specified in sections 8 and 9 of this act are imposed, such increases will be repealed as soon as possible and replaced with taxes that meet the specifications of subsection (1) of this section, and that provide support for the children's initiative fund comparable to that provided by the tax increases imposed in sections 8 and 9 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. ALTERNATIVE ADDITIONAL TAX. A new section is added to chapter 82.08 RCW to read as follows:

Prior to June 1, 1990, if new or increased taxes sufficient to generate at least $360,000,000 during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1990, and ending June 30, 1991, have not been imposed and if at least $360,000,000 of the proceeds of such new or increased taxes have not been directed to be deposited in the children's initiative fund during such fiscal year, there is levied and shall be collected, as of June 1, 1990, an additional tax on each retail sale in this state equal to nine-tenths of one percent of the selling price. The moneys collected as a result of the increases specified in this section shall be deposited in the general fund for transfer to the children's initiative fund.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. ALTERNATIVE ADDITIONAL TAX. A new section is added to chapter 82.12 RCW to read as follows:

The flag was escorted to the rostrum by a Sergeant at Arms Color Guard, Pages Darcy Bristow and Michael Hasenstab. Prayer was offered by Dr. Dale Turner, retired Minister of the University Congregational Church of Seattle:

Eternal God, hear our prayer of gratitude for the high purpose that brings us to this place and for the excitement and promise of new beginnings. We praise You for our state and for all who have served in a century gone by to lay the firm foundation upon which we now may build. Teach us, O God, the proper uses of the past that we may better serve in the present and more wisely plan for the future. We thank You for the humor we have here experienced lending perspective to all that we do.

O God, in these tumultuous days when the issues of tomorrow weigh upon the decisions of today, we pray Your guidance with Governor Gardner and all who will share leadership with him. Grant to them humility without timidity, competence without arrogance, and may they exercise authority without being authoritarian. May they be just in the exercise of power, reverent in the use of freedom, and generous in the protection of weakness. Help us all to play a constructive part in the life of our time. We thank You for the good that we can do together that no one of us can do alone. Keep us from falling into moaning about how bad the world is and help us to work for the good it was intended to be. Nag us continually about our priorities until what matters most to You is what matters most to us. Make keen our minds to distinguish between what is really true and what is merely the defense of our own position. And, in love of truth, let us not be content to wait and see what will happen, but let us make the right things happen. Comfort us when we are overcome by affliction and afflict us with the pain of loving involvement when we are overcome by comfort. May we be mature in our actions, childlike but never childish, humble but never cringing, understanding but never conceited, always free from bitterness, self pity or despair.

And so, Eternal God, help us to be among the honorable company of citizens who lift our society and do not lean upon it and thus make it a better and a brighter society because we dwell within it. And may the just and peaceful world for which we all yearn be built upon the cornerstone of a strong and friendly state. To this end we all dedicate ourselves this day. Amen.

The National Anthem was sung by Jan Stentz.

The President of the Senate returned the gavel to the Speaker.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have set my hand and affixed the seal of the State of Washington, this ninth day of January, 1989.

(Seal)

RALPH MUNRO, Secretary of State.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

The Speaker: These inaugural ceremonies mark both a continuation and a beginning of public office. This occasion also marks, for three distinguished Washingtonians here today, retirement from office following long careers of outstanding achievement. Before we engage in those rites which look to the future, let us honor these three who have served this state so well for so long.

Three former Speakers of the House of Representatives have joined us for this worthy purpose. Distinguished service to their state is something held in common by all three former Speakers on the rostrum with me.

Charles Hodde was Speaker during some important and turbulent years in the State of Washington. Springing from a distinguished career in the House in the 1930's and 40's, Charles Hodde served as Speaker during 1949-51. Known to some of his political opponents as "Little Caesar," he was widely respected for his abilities. During his tenure, the number of miles of state roads multiplied several times. In the reminiscences of that period Mr. Hodde noted that, especially in the rural areas, "if you didn't come home with a new stretch of highway or a new bridge built by the state ... you probably wouldn't get re-elected."

Wayne Ehlers was Speaker from 1983-86, and he did much more than bring the leisure suit into popular acceptance. He also made the state a better place for all of us. The needs of education were uppermost on Wayne Ehler's agenda. The State School Directors' Association called his last session as Speaker "one of the most successful legislative sessions for education in history." It has also been said that a lot of polyesters had to die in order for Wayne to get dressed for work. But he kept his sense of humor, even on the rostrum. When his gavel strayed too far off the block and smashed the glass, slogans were born that lasted the entire session--"Ready, fire, aim."

Robert Schaefer was Speaker of the House in 1965-66. He was an attorney from Vancouver before taking his place in the House. Schaefer was a near-perfect choice for the times. He emerged as a compromise leader when members of the Majority Caucus had trouble picking a new Speaker. He was a smart choice. On that, many of the members of the day agree. Schaefer turned out to be effective and highly organized, and he earned high marks for his thoroughness and fair play. I got to watch Speaker Schaefer in Clark County and he taught me the "picket fence school of government." You walk up and down that picket fence very carefully. You don't press too hard, but you press on this picket; you press on the next. When you find a picket that is loose, you very carefully take it down. You move up and down the fence, and pretty soon you have a hole in the fence and you very politely step to the other side.

The Speaker introduced Speaker Wayne Ehlers to make a special presentation to Dr. Frank B. Brouillet.

Speaker Ehlers: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Governor Gardner, Lieutenant Governor Pritchard, distinguished elected officials, honored guests and friends: It is with a great deal of pleasure that I am here today to share some thoughts about these people, who have been a very important part of my life. As I was driving down this morning, I thought of the more than one hundred years of distinguished public service of the three gentlemen we are honoring today. I remembered the 1950s, when I was a Freshman in college and John Cherberg was first elected Lieutenant Governor. By that time Treasurer O'Brien had already been Clark County Treasurer for a number of years, certainly all through my high school days. Dr. Frank "Buster" Brouillet was elected as a State Representative in 1956; again, I was still in school as a Freshman.

I taught for a number of years--first in 1960 in a Tacoma high school. I had a chance to see a legislator, an educator, a counselor, a coach who was well respected by not only the Legislature and the public, but also certainly by students and teachers. As time went on, I continued to teach and watch from afar the career of Buster Brouillet. It was certainly a distinguished career. Again, he was first elected in 1956 and promoted education legislation which was truly a landmark, not only for this state, but also for this nation. It provided an appropriate education for the handicapped, for the disabled, in our state.

Later Buster became Superintendent of Public Instruction, after a stint with the Community College at Highline. He was elected in 1972 to the first of four terms as Superintendent of Public Instruction. I won't tell you all of the highlights of Buster Brouillet's career in that office, but there are many. He certainly provided leadership in bilingual education, vocational education, special education, remedial education, programs for the gifted, and some programs that aren't particularly well known, but perhaps some of you have had contact with them, including international education. In the last three years, for example, we have had two hundred and fifty exchange students from China and Japan. We don't read much about that in the newspapers, but a lot of the credit for international education goes to the gentleman we are honoring today. Lastly, he certainly deserves credit for something, which some of us should have been much more aware of and concerned with, and that is dropout prevention and substance abuse. He kept reminding us of that before it became the popular thing to address. He was there first.

As I was trying to put together some ending remarks, I thought I might give a recitation of a poem or a light story. Then I thought of Marge and Buster and that this is not truly an ending. It is a beginning. I suspect we are going to hear a lot more from Buster Brouillet, whether we want to or not, over the next few years. We would all be the better for that. It is with a great deal of pleasure that I have the opportunity to present this plaque and to introduce a teacher, a coach, a counselor, a college administrator, a State Representative, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and friend, Dr. Frank "Buster" Brouillet.

Speaker Ehlers presented to Dr. Frank B. Brouillet an engraved plaque, recognizing his sixteen years of dedicated service to the people of the State of Washington as Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Dr. Brouillet: Thank you very much, Wayne. Governor Gardner and Jean, Lieutenant Governor Cherberg and other distinguished guests: This is always an interesting time in one's life, because you look back and you think, "Those were great years." And you enjoyed them. But then there is looking forward. Marge and I look forward to doing some other things as we move ahead.

Let me say that education in the State of Washington, in spite of all the prodding that some may give you, is in good shape. I would like to tell you that it is all because of the State Superintendent, but we in this room know that is not true. You have played a very distinguished part in it. I want to say to you, "Thank you." Even though we may have disagreed on principle, we never did disagree personally. I mark among my friends people on both sides of this aisle, and many others in this state, who have helped me to try and do some things for our most important natural resource, our young people. Let me say to you, sixteen years in the Legislature was great and sixteen years as State Superintendent was even greater. You have been an important part of that, and I want to thank you so much for this honor and for your help. God bless you and good luck.

The Speaker introduced Speaker Robert Schaefer to make a special presentation to Mr. Robert S. O'Brien.

Speaker Schaefer: Mr. Speaker, Governor Gardner and Jean, Lieutenant Governor Cherberg, Lieutenant Governor Pritchard and distinguished elected officials. It is really a pleasure to be here today on this occasion. Our state has been blessed by long and continuous service to the State of Washington by many outstanding men and women. One of these outstanding individuals was sworn in for the first term as State Treasurer after serving many years as a County Treasurer. It is only fitting that during our centennial year we reflect on this type of outstanding service and take time to show our appreciation to people such as Bob O'Brien, who have made our state and nation a better place in which to live.

When Bob O'Brien's name first appeared on the ballot in 1965 to run for state-wide office as our state's chief banker, his name was listed along with well known names such as Goldwater and L.B.J. That is our history. Bob O'Brien has served six terms as State Treasurer. Counting his time as treasurer of Grant County, he has been elected to ten consecutive four-year terms as a treasurer handling our public funds. That is longevity and real dedication to all of us. Many federal and state administration office holders, famous or infamous, have come and gone with regularity in these years. Bob, who was first elected in 1965 as State Treasurer, has held a never-relinquishing grip on the treasurer's office until now. Some might call that stubbornness. But it is also a lot more. He quietly and efficiently has gone about the business of managing our state's financial resources and keeping this state on an even keel. During his twenty-four years as State Treasurer Bob O'Brien elevated investment income to a role of a major source of funding for this state. He has said of his job that his greatest responsibility was to be a good money manager, to get the greatest return from our state funds. He has done just that and we all thank him for it.

His list of professional activities is impressive. During his service with Grant County he was elected as President of the Washington State County Treasurers' Association and was also President of the Washington Association of County Elected Officials for an unprecedented three consecutive terms. In his role as State Treasurer he has served as Chairman of the State Finance Committee, Chairman of the Public Deposit Protection Commission, a member of the State Investment Board, and Secretary of the State Housing Finance Commission. Many other boards and committees, task forces and professional associations have been well served by this man's participation. His kind of service to this state will be sorely missed. We all wish you well, Bob.

Speaker Schaefer presented to Mr. Robert S. O'Brien an engraved plaque, recognizing his twenty-four years of dedicated service to the people of the State of Washington as State Treasurer.

Mr. O'Brien: Governor Gardner and Jean, distinguished and honored guests all: To tell you that I didn't have mixed emotions today would not be the truth. You cannot have been associated with government for thirty-eight years, as I have, without having a lot of thoughts about this particular time. I look here at the people. Over the years, if we have had success in our treasurer's office, and we have had, it is because of the authority and assistance the Legislature gave to this treasurer. Every time we had a reasonable request it was never turned down. As a result we have one of the most active treasuries in the nation which, as has been pointed out, has made more money than most any others by far. I will not go on with this, other than to say that I sincerely appreciate the faith and trust and loyalty that you have all placed in Bob O'Brien over the years. I'll look forward to working with you in the future. Thank you.

The Speaker introduced Speaker Charlie Hodde to make a special presentation to Lieutenant Governor John A. Cherberg.

Speaker Hodde: I just want to tell everybody that I am standing up. I had my picture taken one time with Governor Rosellini and President Johnson. It was cut off at the waist. I brought it home and proudly showed it to some of my employees in the tax commission. One fellow there, who had always been a very nice guy, said, "I thought you were supposed to stand up when you shook hands with the President."

I enjoy being here today, and one of the reasons that I am willing to participate in the program is that I got a free place to park right in the building. Anytime you want to furnish me a service like that, I am willing to come and make a talk. So judge by today whether or not that should be a trade.

I understood you had John Sylvester here to entertain you for a short time on Monday. Now I am a relative newcomer because this is only my fortieth anniversary, not fiftieth, of having been Speaker. I have been here quite a bit in different capacities since. There are two people here today who were leaders during my term as Speaker. Once in awhile a little difference occurred. I would first like to recognize Slim Rasmussen, who was my Floor Leader in 1949—one of them. I had two—he and Bob Fuller. We got along fine; he followed my orders quite well with one exception. He insisted that the ladies in the home should be able to get colored margarine without having to color it themselves. I was able to defeat him in the Legislature, being an old cow milker myself. But that guy went home and organized an initiative campaign right in his kitchen. He put it over and forced colored oleo down all those cow milkers' throats. The other guy who was here at the time is John O'Brien. I don't have to introduce John O'Brien to you anymore than I do Slim Rasmussen. John also was a very cooperative assistant, except that when I ran for re-election in 1951, he ran against me for Speaker. I got even with him. I made him Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. I have always thought that the reason he got back into the Speaker race and stayed there four terms is that he found out that being Chairman of Appropriations is work and it would be better to be Speaker. My congratulations to John O'Brien for serving very many years, and I am not giving him a retirement plaque today.

Before I get into too much about the Lieutenant Governor, I'll just take time to button my vest. Some of us have learned when we are working with Cherberg, we have to be quite proper. I was told that if I was going to perform this, I would have to wear a vest today. I'm surprised you don't have one on, Governor.

Governor Cherberg has been subjected, I think that is the term I'll use, to an awful lot of oratory, so I'm not going to make this very long. I am going to relate that at one time, and he may have forgotten this, he sort of gave me credit for getting elected the first time. I had been urged to run for Lieutenant Governor; I tried for Governor four years earlier and only came in third on the Democratic ticket. Rosellini particularly had urged me to run for Lieutenant Governor; he thought it would strengthen the ticket in Eastern Washington. But I couldn't see doing that at the time, because I was lined up to be Chairman of the committee against him. Anyway, I didn't run for Lieutenant Governor, so Cherberg got elected. I didn't make that up; he's the one that told me first.

He did bring quite a welcome change to the Senate, as far as I was concerned. What I would say would be repetitive, because it has been said before. I just want again to mention that not only has he been an excellent presiding officer and not only has he had the respect of both sides of the aisle in handling his duties in that office, but he also has spent more time being Governor than several of our Governors during the time he has served. The time he spent while they were out of state adds up to more time than Spellman served and Dixy served. That makes him Governor, not Lieutenant Governor. He has been an ambassador of good will and has done quite a bit of traveling around the state. When the state needed a representative in any part of the world, he was there. He has been on trade missions. I have all this written out and, if you really want to get it all one more time, John, I'll leave you a copy. Otherwise, I would now like to present one of my favorite people with a plaque as he retires from this very important office of Lieutenant Governor.

Speaker Hodde presented to President John A. Cherberg an engraved plaque, recognizing his thirty-two years of dedicated service to the people of the State of Washington as Lieutenant Governor.

President Cherberg: Thank you very much, ladies and gentlemen, and thank you, Charlie. Remember me is all I ask. If remembrance be a task, forget me. God bless you, my wife and children. Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Governor Cherberg, before I relinquish the presiding role to you so that you may complete your part of these proceedings, I wish to acknowledge the significance of this act. It falls to me to be the Speaker who hands you the gavel for this purpose for the last time. You have been coming to this rostrum to preside over the Joint Sessions of the Legislature since before several of our newer members were born. Your gracious presence on these occasions has always been welcomed by us all. I consider it a great honor to have stood by your side for a short part of your long career.

The Speaker presented the gavel to President Cherberg.

President Cherberg: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The purpose of this Joint Session is to administer the Oath of Office to the constitutionally elected state officials of the State of Washington and to receive the Inaugural Address of Governor Booth Gardner.

THE OATH OF OFFICE TO ELECTED OFFICIALS

Justice Barbara Durham administered the oath of office to Insurance Commissioner Richard Marquardt, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

Justice Charles Z. Smith administered the oath of office to Commissioner of Public Lands Brian Boyle, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

Justice James A. Andersen administered the oath of office to Superintendent of Public Instruction Judith A. Billings, and the President of the Senate presented her the Certificate of Office.

Justice Vernon R. Pearson administered the oath of office to Attorney General Kenneth Elkenberry, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

Justice James M. Dolliver administered the oath of office to State Auditor Robert V. Graham, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

Justice Robert F. Brachtenbach administered the oath of office to State Treasurer Daniel K. Grimm, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

Justice Robert F. Utter administered the oath of office to Secretary of State Ralph Munro, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

Acting Chief Justice Fred Dore administered the oath of office to Lieutenant Governor Joel Pritchard, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

President Cherberg: Lieutenant Governor Pritchard, I have the privilege now of presenting you with your Certificate of Election and, lastly, I turn the gavel over to you. I trust you will use it with discretion, and that you will enjoy, as I have, the days that you are going to serve in the State Senate. I wish you the best of luck, and God bless you.

President Pritchard: Governor and Mrs. Gardner, and Lieutenant Governor Cherberg, who will always be Lieutenant Governor Cherberg: It is a high honor and a great privilege to be elected to any office, but it is especially meaningful to come back to our state and be elected to the Lieutenant Governor's office and have an opportunity to serve, especially in an office that only comes around every thirty-two years.

I have known the Lieutenant Governor for many years--I believe it is forty years. I was fourteen when I first met him. He is a great friend. At that time, though, your football coach is not your friend, but you have great respect for him and you do everything you can to please him and do what he tells you. John Cherberg was a wonderful football coach and a great friend and administrator; the great thing was that he was an example to the young men who played under him.

I am terribly pleased that Slade Gorton and Rod Chandler have come down; they have played important parts in my life. When I first came here thirty years ago, by luck Dan Evans, Slade and I ended up living in a little house about six blocks from the Capitol. I became acquainted with them and life has not been the same since. I can say this for Rod Chandler. I was going to Greece and to the Middle East on a trip and a friend of mine said, "Why don't you take some movies? If they are any good, I'll put them on television as a travel show." I thought that was wonderful, but didn't know how to take pictures--I'd never taken a camera. He said that he knew somebody who could teach me in one day. So I spent a full day with Rod Chandler and he taught me what to do. The biggest thing he said was to take about ten times as much film as you think you'll need. I did it, and when we got back, ten percent of it was usable and we were able to put eighteen minutes together. That was quite an important part of my life, as many years later people said they had seen me on the travel show. So I thank you, Rod, for getting me through that.

You know, if you are going to have a good life, you have to have something to get up for. You have to have some challenges; you have to have something that puts zest in your system. Challenge is part of it. It is really a blessing to be challenged. Those of us in the government are richly blessed right now, because we have enormous challenges. I am going to work with the Governor, with all the state officials, elected representatives, particularly the Senators on both sides of the aisle. We have a lot of chores to do, and I am going to do everything I can to be helpful. When you think of what the settlers did one hundred years ago and the problems they had, we ought to be ashamed of ourselves if we can't solve our problems today. These opportunities, these challenges are before us, and I look forward to working with all of you in the coming years.

Let me say to John Cherberg: You set an example of fairness, of honesty and accessibility; you set a high standard. I only hope I can live up to that. Thank you very much and thank you, Lieutenant Governor Cherberg.

THE OATH OF OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Chief Justice Callow administered the oath of office to Governor Booth Gardner, and the President of the Senate presented him the Certificate of Office.

The President of the Senate introduced Governor Booth Gardner.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS: THE CENTENNIAL CHALLENGE

Governor Gardner: Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chief Justice, distinguished Justices of the Supreme Court, Members of the Legislature, honored elected officials, representatives of foreign countries, and fellow citizens of the State of Washington:

Over one hundred years ago, our ancestors stood at an historic crossroads. They had crossed thousands of miles of desert, mountains, rivers and wilderness to build a better life. They came as neighbors to our native friends, who had already built rich cultures and traditions from Washington's earliest days. People came to this state to build a brighter future for themselves and their families.

Today, in 1989, we in Washington State stand at another crossroads in our history, one in which we are forced by the tide of global events to decide what kind of future we want for our state. As we begin our second century, this state finds itself at the center of a new integrated global economy. This state is the nation's leader in per capita trade income, a precursor to exactly what the United States must become in the next twenty years. This new era of the interdependent global economy means excruciating, unprecedented international competition; it means declining influence and funding from the federal government; and it means an imperative that we do more for ourselves, for our children, and for our future. The global economy means that we no longer compete state against state, American company against American company. It means that we not only compete against Japan, but also with the growing economic powers of Taiwan, South Korea, the Philippines, with India, with Brazil, and with the soon-to-be-united countries of the European economic community. Those countries, which I have just mentioned, have begun to reform their economies and their societies for the new era.

What are we waiting for? It is time that we do the same. Either we respond to international competition, or we doom ourselves, and we doom our children, to a dramatic slide to second-rate status in the world. How we respond to that competition is perhaps the greatest challenge this state and this country have ever faced. We must look at ourselves and our economy in new ways. The competitive edge will go to those who pioneer customized precision products made by highly skilled workers. To do this, companies must add value to their products and export them. Adding value to goods and services and exporting them to markets throughout the world is our best strategy for economic health and vibrancy in the 21st century. Adding value to our products means exporting furniture or flooring systems, not just plywood, lumber and logs. Adding value means exporting processed products, not just raw materials. State government has a critical leadership role in helping to build local economic development capacity throughout our state.

What matters most in the long run are the actions of local entrepreneurs, local officials, local educators, local bankers and local workers. The partnership is working when Boeing expands to Spokane, when Lamb Weston moves into the Tri-Cities, when Ponderay Newsprint moves into northeast Washington. When Key Technology moves into Walla Walla, the partnership is working. When the employees of Omak Wood Products take over their own company and their own future in Omak, Washington, the partnership is working.

In February of 1985, this state began developing a long-range strategy to ensure our economic survival. Today, after four years, with input from citizens all across this state, we have in our hands a report that outlines an ambitious strategy to preserve and enhance this state's quality of life. The Economic Development Board report is not for the narrow-minded nor is it for the short-sighted. To implement this plan demands the best that is in each of us. And I believe we have what it takes.

Today, unemployment in this state is at its lowest level in twenty years. Today, Washington's economy is outperforming the nation. But make no mistake. We start now, adjusting to the challenges of the future in this our centennial year, or risk all that we have worked for.

For the first time since the industrial revolution began, a good business climate is also a good living climate—high quality public infrastructure; excellent, efficient public services; world class education and training; and a clean, healthy environment. A recent Business Week article on human capital said “the social agenda is now the business agenda.” What does that mean? Let me give you an example. The computer has become the pencil of the 21st century, the basic tool that must be mastered by all who expect a good job—not just a job—a good job. In addition, the workforce is shrinking, so business will need every available worker, and the workers will need more education and better skills. Think of this, the things that we have always wanted for our people and our society are now the very things that business needs from the workforce. So, in addition to our moral commitment, we have an economic imperative to help our people become well-educated, productive citizens.

Let me ask you this: Do we want a society with a growing number of illiterate adults? Do we want a society with a staggering high school dropout rate—fifty percent in some urban schools? Do we want a society where twenty percent of our children live and grow up in poverty, subjected to the environment of lost potential and broken dreams? I don't think there is a person in this room today that wants that. Now I implore you to understand it is not just some abstract “they” I am talking about. It's our children—yours and mine—who are not being educated for the 21st century. It's your children and our children and our neighborhoods, which are exposed to drugs and gangs. It's our roads and our bridges that need to be repaired and rebuilt. And it will be our children who will be the first generation in America's two-hundred year history that will not achieve, much less exceed, our standard of living, if we are not willing to commit to a public agenda of excellence for the common good.

Where do we start? To begin our twenty-year strategy, I am recommending to this Legislature that they take the following specific steps: Establish the Washington Development Finance Authority to improve the availability of capital for new and small businesses in the state; launch new efforts to train and retrain more than nine thousand Washington workers who would otherwise go unused; continue efforts to diversify the Tri-Cities economy through development projects, worker retraining and services for displaced workers; continue efforts to make Washington State a major international tourist destination; and we must expand domestic agricultural marketing by working with private industry to increase the national visibility of Washington-grown and Washington-processed food products.

I am also recommending that the 1989 Legislature take action in several educational areas crucial to the development of our economy and our children. I will list just three of those now. I am proposing that we double the size of the early childhood education program. We must give children-at-risk a fighting chance for success. I am also proposing that we double the size of our innovative Schools for the 21st Century program. It is a program of experimentation and discovery. It is testing fresh ideas on how to develop students' talents and skills. I am proposing that we take the next step toward competitive faculty salaries and better access to higher education.

For a strong economy and a healthy society we must protect our environment. The recent oil spill has presented a grave threat to wildlife and has fouled our ocean beaches. The oil spill vividly and dramatically demonstrates the danger of opening our coastline to oil and gas drilling. We will never accept contamination of our precious coastal waters. We must continue working to protect the Spokane aquifer and Puget Sound. And I am proposing new legislation providing comprehensive protection and enhancement of our state's priceless wetlands.

Transportation is another very important issue that bears on economic development as well as quality of life. I have outlined proposals to begin improving our rail and road transportation systems. We and this state are not a market economy; we are a production, service and distribution center. A high-quality, efficient transportation system is essential to our economic strength.

The health of our citizens, particularly our children, is an issue that goes right to the heart of quality of life. To ensure access, to help control costs, and to guarantee quality health care, I have proposed that we create a new Department of Health. I also propose the First Steps program, which carefully targets medical care. The program focuses on maternity care for low-income women and health care for children up to eight years of age who come from low-income families. These are among the most basic needs of our most vulnerable citizens and we are not going to turn our backs on them.

Finally, there is a strong connection between economic development and tax reform. Our current tax structure, which has remained basically unchanged since 1935, is unbalanced, unfair and inhibits business investment. Washington citizens will lose more than one hundred and twenty million dollars this year alone because the sales tax is not deductible from their federal income taxes. We in this state currently have a rate-adjusted system, which means simply that when the system does not respond to change, we raise rates. We have raised the B&O tax and the sales tax eight times in the last twenty years.

What we need is an economically adjusted tax system, one that will keep up with a rapidly changing and growing economy. To pursue a long-term strategy, we must have a financial plan for Washington's second century, one that responds to our changing economy and safeguards taxpayers through spending controls.

I am proposing that the 1989 Legislature join in bipartisan approval of a tax reform referendum to allow the people of Washington State to vote on this critical issue. We will have before this Legislature a plan that takes more than seventy-five thousand businesses off the B&O tax rolls. It will establish a rainy-day fund to meet economic downturns, and put into the Constitution a specific limitation on the ability to raise tax rates. It will provide tax relief for families earning less than thirty thousand dollars a year. It will provide a way to meet our transportation needs, and for local governments to meet their critical needs. And it will give us the capacity, over the long term, to meet many of the needs that go begging today, without continually raising taxes.

A group of citizens gathered in Walla Walla, Washington, for a constitutional convention in which they wrote a Constitution. That Constitution was approved by the people of the State of Washington in 1878. Because of partisan bickering in Washington, D.C., we were not granted statehood at the time we were ready. For twelve years in this country no territory was granted statehood. Finally, in 1889, by one vote, many of us joined the Union, which is why so many states are celebrating their centennials this year and next. I wish that I could say to you that statesmanship won out over partisanship, but such was not the case. We in Washington in 1989, in our centennial year, can rise above partisanship and we can avoid mistakes of the past if we summon the guts, the will, the strength and the wisdom to do so.

A few of you before me today have already outrightly rejected my tax reform referendum proposal. To those few of you: What are you afraid of? If you are right, if the people don't want tax reform, they will say so at the polls, at the focal point for freedom in a democratic society. If you are wrong, if the people of this state are ready to start a new century with a new system, then your opposition has been a barrier to progress. I want to end this paralysis. I want us to get out of the box of indecision and fear.

To the members of the Legislature, I have this to say: Now is the time to hear the peoples' voice on tax reform. Do not stonewall this issue. Let the people of the State of Washington decide.

And now, as I close, I share a personal philosophy with you. We in this state, as people in every state, are in a fight for our survival. Some states will prosper, and some states will not. I suggest that from this time forward, we begin to think of ourselves as a "nation-state," responsible for our own economic well-being and that we begin marshalling the tools, the capacity and the resources to internationalize our workforce, our businesses and our institutions. I believe that we must start thinking of ourselves as world citizens, competing internationally, with the best years of our lives ahead of us and with the best one hundred years of this state just beginning.

The State of Washington has a combination of advantages unlike any place else on earth--our resources, our people, our industries and our position at the gateway to the Pacific Rim. And, most precious of all, we have our children, who hold the future in their eyes, and in their minds, and in their hearts.

We stand on the threshold of a new century of statehood. We have an opportunity to do something extraordinary--to stand as a lighthouse on the edge of the great Pacific and to show other states, and indeed to show the world, the true meaning of enlightened and far-reaching leadership; to create for ourselves the highest quality of life imaginable.

The challenge is clear. The choice is ours. The best public policy is based on the understanding that everything we do, we do for our children. I agree with the prophetic wisdom of Thomas Jefferson, who said, "I like the dreams of the future better than the history of the past." Ladies and gentlemen, to all of you listening today, the future is not predetermined. The future will become what we make it. Thank you very much.

MOTION

On motion of Mr. Ebersole, the bills and memorial listed on today's introduction sheet under the fourth order of business were referred to the committees so designated.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

I first met Senator Lowell Peterson when I came to the Senate back in 1971. He was already a recognized leader in many fields, especially in the area of natural resources. As Chairman of that committee, he was a thoughtful and committed guardian of some of our state's most priceless resources.

Senator Peterson was a tireless and effective advocate for the needs and aspirations of northwest Washington, and especially Skagit County. From the creation of the Padilla Bay Sanctuary and Hart Lake State Park, the protection of many special wild lands in the area, and the North Cascades Highway, Senator Peterson has had a positive impact for which he will be long remembered.

But he was much more than an effective voice for his constituents in northwest Washington. His leadership was essential in gaining protection for children throughout our state through our child safety restraint law. He showed his concern for families all across the state by championing respite care programs to provide support for people caring for elderly and disabled loved ones.

Senator Peterson was a strong supporter of many of the most difficult efforts I have undertaken as Governor. He was also an early and strong supporter when I first ran for Governor in 1984. I am deeply grateful for his loyal support. I would also like to express my thanks and the gratitude of many throughout our state for his recent work as director of the Road Jurisdiction Committee. Their study of state-wide roadway needs provides the blueprint for addressing many of our transportation problems.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation for Senator Lowell Peterson's long years of dedicated service to the people of northwest Washington and our entire state. He will truly be missed.

Booth Gardner, Governor.

POINTS OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. Sayan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With the permission of the Speaker I, too, would like to add one or two words on behalf of a colleague and a friend, who I will miss and who shared with me the struggles of the Western States Forestry Practices Task Force jurisdiction on behalf of the Legislature. We worked diligently with our neighbor to the North, Canada, and with our western states on a compact, attempting to ensure an adequate solid wood supply of products for our mills and for export. Lowell Peterson was a person who could give us counsel and guidance from his vast years of experience, both at the local level and at the state government level. He was a personal friend to me and to my wife. We hope that Nancy will somehow recover from this shock. I simply wish to close by saying that we have lost a good friend, a good legislator and a colleague. We trust his memory will remain with us.

Ms. Haugen: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, too, would like to say a few words about Senator Peterson. I have the privilege of representing the Concrete area. When you go to Concrete, it is truly the home of Senator Peterson. He lived there for many years and he was the mayor. At one time he represented Concrete in the Skagit area in the State Legislature. In redistricting he lost his roots to those of us who are now privileged to represent it. One never visits that community without hearing and sensing the presence of Senator Peterson. He will not only be missed in this body, but he will also be missed by that upper Skagit Valley who loved him. Although they knew he was no longer their official Senator, he was their Senator. He remembered their thoughtfulness and care. I would hope that those of us, who are privileged to represent that area now, can do the type of job that he did in representing those people. They are very special, as he was. We really appreciate the privilege to take his place. Thank you.

The Speaker assumed the Chair.

Mr. S. Wilson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like you all to know that friendship transcends politics. I have known Lowell for many years. We have served together on forestry issues through the Multi-State Forestry Task Force. We served together, working on transportation issues that affected the Northwest and the state. He was a good friend. We traveled a lot of miles together and enjoyed a lot of good times. He was highly respected in his district and did a wonderful job for the 40th District and for the State of Washington. I think we will all miss his presence.

Ms. Spanel: Mr. Speaker and members of the House: Having been redistricted into the 40th District a few years ago, I at that time had the opportunity to begin to get acquainted with Senator Peterson. Upon coming to this House two years ago, I really began to understand the term institutional memory, how important it is that there are some members among us who have been here for many years and have memories to share with us. I know for myself that it was a very good way to get started in the House. Lowell served his district very well over the years. I for one certainly appreciate the opportunity to have had him as our Senator and, personally, to have had the opportunity to work with him. Thank you.

This shall not apply to materials normally distributed by the chief clerk.

Any member may call for a division of a question which shall be divided if it embraces subjects so distinct that one being taken away a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the house; but a motion to strike out and to insert shall not be divided. The rejection of a motion to strike out and to insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and to insert a different proposition.

The results of the motion are as follows: If determined in the negative, the consideration goes on as if the motion had never been made; if decided in the affirmative it shall have the effect of cutting off all debate and bringing the house to a direct vote upon the motion or amendment on which it has been ordered: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That when a bill is on final passage or when the motion to postpone indefinitely is pending, one of the sponsors of the bill or the chair of the committee may have the privilege of closing debate after the previous question has been ordered.

If an adjournment is had after the previous question is ordered, the motion or proposition on which the previous question was ordered shall be put to the house immediately following the approval of the journal on the next working day, thus making the main question privileged over all other business, whether new or unfinished.

A motion to reconsider an amendment may be made at any time the bill remains on second reading.

Any member who voted on the prevailing side may move for reconsideration or give notice thereof.

A motion to reconsider can be decided only once when decided in the negative.

When a motion to reconsider has been carried, its effect shall be to place the original question before the house in the exact position it occupied before it was voted upon.

The motion to excuse absent members shall not be adopted unless a majority of the members elected vote in favor thereof.

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

January 20, 1989

The Honorable Speaker of the House of Representatives
The Legislature of the State of Washington
Olympia, Washington
Dear Mr. Speaker:

As required by Article II, Section 1, of the State Constitution and RCW 29.79.200, we herewith respectfully transmit the certification of the sufficiency of Initiative to the Legislature 102, a copy of the full, true and complete test of which was certified to you on January 9, 1989.

CERTIFICATION OF INITIATIVE TO THE LEGISLATURE 102

Pursuant to Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution, RCW 29.79.200, and WAC 434-79-010, the office of the Secretary of State has caused the signatures submitted in support of Initiative to the Legislature 102 to be examined in the following manner:

1) It was determined that 217,143 signatures were submitted by the sponsors of the initiative. A random sample of 21,733 signatures was taken from those submitted;

2) Each sampled signature was examined to determine if the signer was a registered voter of the state at the address indicated on the petition, if the signature was reasonably similar to the one appearing on the record of that voter, and if the same signature appeared more than once in the sample. We found 18,678 valid signatures, 2,971 signatures invalid due to non-registration or improper form, and 84 pairs of duplicated signatures in the sample;

3) We calculated an allowance for the chance error of sampling (82) by multiplying the square root of the number of invalid signatures by 1.5;

4) We estimated the upper limit of the number of signatures on the initiative petition which were invalid (30,504) by dividing the sum of the number of invalid signatures in the sample and the allowance for the chance error of sampling by the sampling ratio;

5) We determined the maximum allowable numbers of pairs of signatures on the petition (20,392) by subtracting the sum of 110% of the number of signatures required by Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution (166,247) and the estimate of the upper limit of the number of invalid signatures on the petition from the number of signatures submitted;

6) We determined the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample (204) by multiplying the square of the sampling ratio by the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the initiative petition;

7) We determined the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample (180) by subtracting 1.65 times the square root of the expected number of pairs of signature in the sample from the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample; and

8) Since the number of pairs of signatures in the sample is less than the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample, I hereby declare Initiative to the Legislature 102 to be sufficient.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Seal of the State of Washington this 20th day of January, 1989.

(Seal)

RALPH MUNRO, Secretary of State.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

The President Pro Tempore introduced Mr. Alan Thompson, Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

The Chief Clerk: Thank you, Mr. President, distinguished public officers and guests. It is my honor--and my assignment as surrogate for Speaker Joe King, who regrettably was taken ill yesterday--to present this highest of our state's recognition to someone who is not here today.

Here instead, to receive the Washington State Medal of Merit on his mother's behalf, is Julia Butler Hansen's son, David. David is the only child of Julia and Henry Hansen. In him was bred a love of this region and a devotion to its history. His heritage from his mother has become the basis for his life's work. David serves as Curator of the Fort Vancouver National Historical Site, a post he has held for the past fifteen years.

Julia is not here. But she was here. She was here as a member of the State House of Representatives for twenty-two years of her long and distinguished career in public service. It is both fitting and humbling for me, as a former member of this House, to be asked to make this presentation in the name of so worthy a former member of this body. It is fitting, as well, that Julia's great presence, when she was among us, be acknowledged while memories of her are still strong, so as to keep strong the appreciation of an extraordinary life.

In the City Hall at Cathlamet, in the Courthouse of Wahkiakum County, here in this House, and in the Congress of the United States Julia set her great vitality and intelligence to small tasks and to great deeds, all with the common purpose of the common good.

Legislators leave their marks on an ever-changing landscape of societal change. They must be measured by the scale of their time. Julia's time is past, but her mark is monumental even yet. As Chairman of the House and Joint Highway Committees for term after term, as a nine-year Chairman of the Western States Highway Policy Committee that worked to link Washington with our neighbors, and as a member of the State Transportation Commission, Julia, more than any other of her time, was this state's master road builder. Julia's landscape was Washington's countryside and communities, and her monument is this state's highway system.

Julia Butler Hansen's preeminence in the transportation field did not, however, overshadow her devotion to human need in other areas or the recognition of her broad achievement. Julia was the recipient of innumerable state and national awards for education, the arts and conservation. She was the first woman to serve as Speaker Pro Tempore of this body. She came within one vote of the Speakership. She was the first woman to chair a Congressional Appropriations Subcommittee. She was for six years the Chair of a Congressional Process Reform Committee that substantially modified the rigid seniority system.

Julia was also very human. That comes through best from her own words. This--what I am about to read you--was written by Julia to Governor Ray in a letter of resignation from the State Transportation Commission. Here are some excerpts from that letter that reflect her human qualities of compassion and humor and her legendary acerbic style:

"It is after a great deal of thought and some regret that I submit my resignation. On January 1, 1981, I will have completed forty-three years of public service--thirty-seven years in elective office (twenty-three elections) in municipal, state and federal offices, then six years on the Highway and Transportation Commission (including the Toll Bridge Authority).

"The challenge is still here, but a soberer, sadder challenge. What answers can government make today with inflation so vicious that government itself cannot fulfill its role of bettering the lives of our citizens or meeting the needs of people's economic substance.

"I should love to solve or assist in solving these state problems but no one is indispensable. Others will serve you well and with vision and probably with more patience for the selfish, greedy, powerlusting demagogues and the ignorant than I.

"Now, finally, Governor Ray, I seldom mention personal affairs but my husband is ninety-seven, almost totally blind, unable to hear and has not walked or taken a step for fifteen months. I care for him at home. Help is very difficult to obtain in a small town.

"Also, Governor, it will be nice not to have to leave home at 7:30 on a winter morning and dodge the rocks on the Ocean Beach Highway to get to a meeting or wonder if the Toulte River Bridge will still be standing in the evening when I return. It will also be nice on Christmas morning not to have someone call about a ferry that serves poor french fries. I remember my first Christmas in politics—1936—as County Chairman. There was a knock at my front door at 7:30 a.m. A man and his wife stood on the porch. 'We have come to see about you calling Congressman Smith to see about getting my wife the Post Office appointment.' These visits and calls have continued three hundred and sixty-five days per year for forty-three years and there are no vacations.

"I have loved the people of this state and shall continue to give them my affection and interest. I have only gratitude for the thousands of people who have supported me."

Now, David, it is my honor to ask you to receive on behalf of your mother, in gratitude from the people of the State of Washington, the State Medal of Merit.

The Chief Clerk presented the Medal of Merit to Mr. David Hansen for his mother, the late Julia Butler Hansen.

Mr. Hansen: Mr. President, Lieutenant Governor Cherberg, Lieutenant Governor Pritchard, Mrs. Gardner, members of the House and Senate: It is a deep honor and privilege to come here today and accept this very, very great award in memory of my mother, who served the state and nation for so long.

It was fifty years ago this month that my mother began her legislative career in this Chamber, and it was thirty years ago that my mother served for the last time in this legislative body before going on to national service. She always did her best, at whatever the task was, to serve the constituents of her district, state and nation—with no thought to special interests and no thought to self, but always looking to the common interest and common good of those constituents and voters.

She, as you well know, was a master legislator. There are numerous stories of her management of this House and of her many legislative battles during the twenty-two years that she served in this state. I know there are those who still have memories and legislative scars from some of those battles. My mother always considered it a great privilege and an honor to serve in the public arena. She believed that public service, no matter at what level, was of the highest calling with no other reward than being able to serve the people and, when the job was done, being able to say that she had done the best job possible for all concerned and had given her best effort.

It is an honor to stand in this Chamber, where she stood and, in fact, from where she presided as Speaker Pro Tempore of the House. As a little boy, I remember looking down from the gallery numerous times and watching Mother preside, lead and cajole which she was so very good at. I well remember that.

It is indeed a great honor for me to accept this in her memory. I know that her spirit is with this body, as you and the state so thoughtfully remember her for all that she was able to do. I want to thank Alan, who has been a long-time friend and who served my mother when she was in Congress, for the kind remarks that he made in his introduction. Again, it is an honor to accept the thanks of our great state. Thank you so much.

The President Pro Tempore introduced Chief Justice Keith Callow.

Chief Justice Callow: Mr. President, distinguished public officials, members of the Legislature, guests and friends: Dr. Belding Scribner was born in Chicago, received his undergraduate degree from the University of California at Berkeley in 1941 and his Doctor of Medicine degree from Stanford in 1945. Thereafter, he spent three years at San Francisco Hospital, five years at the Mayo Clinic and has been on the University of Washington Medical School faculty since 1951.

In the mid-1950s Dr. Scribner began using a device called a hemodialyzer, or artificial kidney, to treat patients with temporary kidney failure. In those days each treatment began with a surgeon inserting a glass tube in an artery and another one in a vein, usually in the forearm. The tubes provided temporary access to the circulation of blood, so that the patient's blood could be pumped through the artificial kidney, which removed the toxic materials which otherwise would have been normally excreted. At the end of each procedure the surgeon removed the tubes and tied off the artery and vein, which thereby destroyed them and, of course, strictly limited the number of artificial kidney treatments that could be performed on any one individual.

In January of 1960 a patient arrived at the University Hospital, suffering from acute renal failure. After several treatments on the artificial kidney he was completely revived, but a biopsy of his kidney revealed permanent irreversible kidney disease. Dr. Scribner was forced to tell the patient's wife that the situation was hopeless.

This case had a profound effect on Dr. Scribner, and soon after he awoke in the middle of the night with an idea that, if it worked, would make it possible to use the artificial kidney to treat patients with permanent kidney failure. The basic idea was simple. Instead of removing the tubes and tying off the vessels, Dr. Scribner decided to leave the tubes in. Then, by connecting the tube in the artery to the tube in the vein with another tube, or shunt, the blood would flow through rapidly enough to prevent clotting. To implement this idea Dr. Scribner enlisted the help of University of Washington surgeon, Dr. David Dillard, and engineer Wayne Quinton, who at that time was head of the Medical Instrument Laboratory. Within two months this team had fashioned a device of plumbing fixtures and tubing made of teflon, chosen because of its smooth nonstick inner surface. This device, called an A-V shunt, was placed in the forearm of the patient by Dr. Dillard. That the experiment was a success is evident from the fact that the patient, who would have died within a few months from terminal kidney disease, survived for eleven years, returning to work shortly after the A-V shunt was in place. You may see this original A-V shunt which is being exhibited in the Rotunda.

In 1961 a grant was obtained to test the feasibility of an out-of-hospital community artificial kidney center. The basement of the nurses' residence next to Swedish Hospital was converted into the Seattle Artificial Kidney Center which later became the Northwest Kidney Center. The project was an immediate success and brought with it a problem unprecedented in medicine--how to select from among hundreds of candidates those nine patients which the original center could accept. The King County Medical Society created a selection committee to make the selection process as fair as possible. In 1962 when Life Magazine writer Shana Alexander came to Seattle to do a story on the artificial kidney program, she focused on the activities of this committee. Her story, which appeared in the November 9, 1962 issue of Life Magazine, caused a sensation and was reprinted in similar magazines in many other countries. You may also see this addition of Life Magazine which is exhibited today in the Rotunda. The committee itself became the subject of controversy concerning the best way to make life-and-death medical decisions. The committee, in fact, marked a milestone in the discipline of medical ethics.

In 1963 the experience at the Seattle Artificial Kidney Center demonstrated clearly that, if the treatment was to be expanded to meet demand, it would have to be simplified, improved and its cost drastically reduced. Consequently, Dr. Scribner in 1963 walked across the bridge that connects the Medical School with the upper campus at the University of Washington and gave a talk describing these problems to a group of professors in the School of Engineering. The result was a research collaboration between Dr. Scribner's medical team and an engineering team headed by Dr. Albert L. Babb, then Chairman of the Department of Nuclear Engineering. This collaborative program proved highly successful. Indeed, most of the major technical and medical advances that brought dialysis out of the research/demonstration stage and made it widely available as a treatment were made by collaborative research efforts. In addition to these research accomplishments, the Scribner/Babb team trained numerous physicians and engineers worldwide, who went on to make important contributions of their own.

Dr. Belding Scribner has given hope and life to many. He has contributed immeasurably to the advancement of medical knowledge and medical science.

The people of the State of Washington are fortunate to have such a giant among us, whom we claim with great pride. Dr. Scribner, would you come forward to receive the Medal of Merit.

Chief Justice Callow presented the Medal of Merit to Dr. Belding H. Scribner.

Dr. Scribner: This is clearly one of the great moments of my life. I want to thank all of you for conferring upon me this very great honor.

You have heard from the Chief Justice why I received this medal. It may seem a bit paradoxical to you that I am not going to talk about life support, to which I have devoted my life, but I am going to talk to you about a very morbid and serious subject called death and dying. As you have heard, I personally became very deeply involved in this issue in the early days of our artificial kidney program with what came to be known as "the infamous Seattle life and death committee." It is so vividly described in that article by Shana Alexander, which is in the exhibit in the Rotunda.

The time is obviously short and the situation is very complicated, so I am going to take the liberty of making a very simple classification of the issue of death, a sort of a spectrum. At one end of the spectrum we have natural death, and I won't say anything more about that.

In the middle of this spectrum is a large and growing number of incidents which I will arbitrarily call high-tech death. Let me give you a typical scenario: An elderly lady with a moderate disability enters the hospital to have a major procedure to improve her quality of life. Things go badly, unfortunately, and she ends up in the intensive care unit, the ICU. She is on a respirator; we're running her on an artificial kidney; she is getting total peritoneal nutrition. Despite the best efforts of the life support team in the ICU, death comes in a matter of days or weeks. The cost of this entire episode often runs into six figures. This is what I mean by the term high-tech death. And lest you think this is an unusual occurrence, please be aware of the fact that about fifty percent of the Medicare budget currently is spent on the beneficiary during the last six months of life.

I have talked to you about natural death and, in the middle, high-tech death. Now just a few words about the other extreme, prolonged high-tech death. Prolonged high-tech death can be divided into two categories, medical and legal. Medical high-tech death is a relatively new phenomenon. What happens is that a patient in the intensive care unit reaches a precarious balance where the life support team is able to stave off the death, but the patient becomes fully dependent on the life support systems that are supplied in the intensive care unit. The situation goes on and on in sort of a static, semi-stable state. There is, right now in an ICU in this state, a patient who has been there for over a year. The suffering that has been going on among the family, the medical staff and all concerned is immeasurable. The cost is now exceeding one million dollars. The patient continues to hang on. There is no end in sight. Prolonged high-tech medical death.

The legal type of high-tech death is exemplified by the case of Mr. Brophy. Mr. Brophy was a fireman in Boston, and he died, or almost died, while fighting a fire. Somehow they revived him, and he lived, but he was brain dead. His brain was irreversibly damaged. He stayed in an ICU in a Boston hospital for three and one-half years on total peritoneal nutrition, high-tech nutritional support, antibiotics and so on, while the family pleaded to have the treatment stopped. This case worked its way through the Massachusetts court system, and in the late fall of 1987, the Supreme Court in the State of Massachusetts finally granted permission to stop the nutrition on Mr. Brophy. And he died. Three and one-half years and millions of dollars. We have had similar cases in this state, and we will have more unless you people here in the Legislature address this issue in a realistic and forward-seeing manner.

I would like to close these rather somber remarks with a lighter note. I was at the Seahawks' game a couple of weeks ago and my wallet was stolen. I, of course, had to get a new driver's license. I noticed, when I went to get the new license, that there was no sign about organ donation around anywhere. When the duplicate license came, it didn't say anything on it about being an organ donor. In the meantime whoever stole my wallet dropped the thing in the mailbox. I had to pay the postage, but I did get it back--less the money. It says organ donor there on my original. So something has gone amiss in the Department of Motor Vehicles and you might want to look it up, because I feel very strongly about this issue of organ donation. I am looking at you through donated corneas. Indeed, I had my first corneal transplant in 1950, when I was going blind as a medical student. It saved my career. Since then I have had three additional corneal transplants. Somewhere out there are four nice people, who didn't die in vain because their corneas have kept me in business all these years.

Finally, I brought along a little check list which is a map to constructing a living will, or durable power of attorney. It is not a legal document, but it contains all the vital information you need. There are copies of this for those of you who are interested out at our exhibit in the foyer. Thank you very much.

The President Pro Tempore introduced Mrs. Jean Gardner.

Mrs. Gardner: Thank you, Mr. President. You have heard that Booth is in Washington, D.C., but he wanted me to let you know how much he wanted to be here to honor these extraordinary people today.

We can focus on the importance of the Medal of Merit by remembering those who have received it for the past two years: Scoop Jackson, Warren Magnuson, Eddie Carlson, Dorothy Bullitt, Dr. William Hutchinson of the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center, heart specialist Dr. Lester Sauvage, and Dr. Orville Vogel from Washington State University, whose research helped revolutionize agriculture in the State of Washington. This is distinguished company indeed.

It is a very special honor and privilege for me to introduce and present the Medal of Merit to Dr. Charles Odegaard, President Emeritus of the University of Washington. You see, I consider him my President. When he arrived at the U, I was just a sophomore and I had the privilege of being a student under his reign for two and one-half years and of receiving my diploma from Dr. Odegaard.

He was President of the University of Washington from 1958-1973. We all know that the University has always had a good reputation, but it was during his tenure that the University gained significantly in natural stature, for the quality of its teaching, the quality of its research, and the quality of its football team.

Charles Odegaard is a product of Chicago public schools, a graduate of Dartmouth College, and earned his Master's and Doctorate Degrees from Harvard University. He was a Professor of History at the University of Illinois when he took a four-year leave of absence to serve in the Navy, where he rose to the rank of Lieutenant Commander during World War II. He was a Professor of History and Dean of the College of Literature, Science and the Arts at the University of Michigan before coming to the University of Washington. He knew he made the right choice after seeing the Huskies beat the University of Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

Dr. Odegaard has always had his hands in a variety of other interests at the same time. He served in various capacities in such agencies as the United States Information Agency, the National Endowment for Humanity, Advisory Committee on ROTC for the Secretary of Defense, the U.S. Public Health Service, the National Academy of Sciences, and the Washington State Bar Association. He also served in community organizations such as the Pacific Science Center, the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, the Seattle Public Library, and the Seattle Symphony Orchestra. The list goes on and on.

He has been in great demand as a speaker and as a consultant on higher education throughout this country and in such foreign countries as England, France, the Netherlands, Denmark, West Germany, Switzerland, Rumania, Mexico, Japan, Korea and Greece. He also has been a forceful figure in the national debate regarding the quality of medical treatment, leading to significant improvements in the quality of physicians' training.

It is his performance as President of the University of Washington for which he is most remembered. During the 1960s he led the University through perhaps the most difficult time it ever faced. There were student disturbances; there was violence on campus and even one determined effort to literally shut down the University. Dr. Odegaard held the University together. He moved to respond to real grievances and, in dealing with the protests of the Black community, he took steps which permanently modified the University and made it a place in which minority students can feel a genuine and rewarding membership. As a result, the highest award that can be given to a member of the community by the University's Equal Opportunity Program is named in his honor, the Charles E. Odegaard Award.

In short, Charles Odegaard, through his vision, his compassion and his zeal, has touched our lives in countless ways. It gives me great pleasure to present the Medal of Merit to Charles E. Odegaard, truly one of this state's most distinguished citizens and most valuable resources.

Mrs. Gardner presented the Medal of Merit to Dr. Charles E. Odegaard.

Dr. Odegaard: Mrs. Gardner, ladies and gentlemen of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial branches of the government: It gives me great pleasure to stand before you in this hall for which I have a number of remembrances going back now over thirty years. I am particularly pleased that this award comes from representatives of our government in the State of Washington.

I first became conscious of public servants at work when I went to Washington, D.C. in 1948 as head of the National Organization for the Humanities and found myself in frequent contact with what were called, rather commonly in those days, bureaucrats and politicians--that is to say, a variety of persons associated with public offices in the various branches of the federal government in Washington, D.C. I learned to develop, as I had not had an opportunity to do before, great respect for the motivations, abilities and problems that had to be faced by members of the government, by public servants. It left in my mind a concern about the degree to which our educational institutions, which addressed many different kinds of problems encountered in human society, had really faced up to the importance of the role of public servants in our society.

That experience in Washington, D.C. was further expanded by my experiences here in the State of Washington, in this very building and, on occasion, in this very room. I found that the tradition of bashing public servants seemed to be singularly ill-advised in the nation which endeavored to find a democratic way of reaching the common will through public servants. We in this country have a way of moving between the private and public sector with an ease which is not commonly found in many other parts of the world.

I am proud of one thing that occurred at the University of Washington in my time. That is the founding of the Graduate School of Public Affairs as recognition by the University of the desirability of having learning opportunities, teaching opportunities and research opportunities on matters of concern to public servants which aid them in their official functioning. There had been, as far as private entrepreneurship was concerned, a tradition going back roughly to the 1920s of the establishment of what, in the beginning, were often called Colleges of Commerce. It seemed to me that we really needed to have a School of Public Administration to go along with the private administration, if you will, in the entrepreneurial section of our society. Both the public and the private have elements pertaining to the common will of all of us.

I want to affirm that many of the things which developed at the University of Washington during my time as President required the participation and the understanding of people in the government and, indeed, of many individuals who have been seated in this very room in the past. I do not believe that this is the first time that I have had the privilege of appearing before a Joint Session. It happened back in the 1960s that there was a Joint Session of the House and Senate, in which I was one of the speakers addressing problems associated with the development of the higher education. That was an unusual action on the part of the Legislature, but this is by no means the only unusual thing which occurred.

What I really wish to do is to express my gratitude to the public servants of the State of Washington who, in my understanding of things, contributed greatly to the rationalization and the expansion of the services of higher education in its many forms within this state. I come to you, the recipients of my expression of appreciation, for the part which you and your predecessors played in the evolution of a far more rational distribution of educational opportunities at the higher level than had existed previously--of multiple institutions, of differing but coordinated types and functions. It is not easy to keep that kind of institution going because of its complexity. It does need understanding.

I think we have been through a period when there was essentially, I think, a relative decline in the effectiveness of the educational system in this state. The losers, unfortunately, are ourselves, the citizens here. We have not invested the amount of energy, interest and money in the education of ourselves that we should have done. There is a new breeze blowing. I want to say that it looks to me very much like a breeze, which I saw in the 1960s and which I acknowledge with respect and gratitude.

I place a particular value on your kind statements about me here today, but I think that you should share in the credit. Thank you, ladies and gentlemen.

President Pro Tempore Bluechel: As we finish this ceremony, I want to say one thing about the participants. All of the winners of the Medal of Merit of the State of Washington are people who have influenced this state in major ways, and the effects will be with us for a long time. We all have that opportunity. We have before us three people--one who is no longer with us--who really dedicated their lives to making the State of Washington a better place in which to live. That influence and their lives will be long remembered.

The President Pro Tempore instructed the special committee to escort Governor Pritchard, Governor Cherberg and Mrs. Gardner to the State Reception Room.

The President Pro Tempore instructed the special committee to escort the State Elected Officials from the House Chamber.

The President Pro Tempore instructed the special committee to escort the Supreme Court Justices from the House Chamber.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Appelwick yielded to question by Mr. R. Meyers.

Mr. R. Meyers: Representative Appelwick, are the provisions of House Bill No. 1005 retroactive to the date the double amendments were adopted?

Mr. Appelwick: Bills correcting double amendments are procedural in nature. Procedural issues are by statute retroactive in their application.

Mr. R. Meyers: Is the double amendment regarding privileged communications retroactive back to 1987 when both bills passed?

Mr. Appelwick: In the case of the double amendments in House Bill No. 1005 dealing with privileged communications, both statutory sections are considered adopted and are law as long as they did not contradict each other. Neither of these bills contradicted each other, and the amendments on privileged communications therefore stand as separate acts from the date of their original effectiveness. They would not be retroactively superseded.

STATEMENT FOR THE JOURNAL

My absence for the roll call for the first three bills on this day's calendar (House Bill No. 1053, House Bill No. 1400 and House Bill No. 1138) was caused by the necessity to discuss with Dr. Alexander Schilt, President of Eastern Washington University, matters relating to branch campus issues. Because Dr. Schilt had to catch a return flight, this was the only opportunity to discuss an urgent concern relating to proposed amendments. I would have voted "Yes" on these bills.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. Youngsman: I hope that some of you are a bit curious about the primroses on your desks this morning. I did intend that these traditional spring flowers would help us forget winter for a while, and I hope that these colorful flowers will help you visualize the nicer weather yet to come. I also wanted to draw attention to a major event this weekend in Seattle, an event that provides another opportunity to forget, for a moment, that it is winter. The event is the Northwest Flower and Garden Show. The Flower and Garden Show is noteworthy for two reasons. One, it is the first major public show held in the Washington State Trade and Convention Center. That facility is one that the Legislature has made a commitment to support, and the event is an important opportunity to attract the public along with industry representatives to this facility. Second, flower growing is a major industry in the State of Washington. Whether it is primroses, tulips or rhododendrons, growing flowers is one of the things we do best in Washington. This event will showcase the quality that has created worldwide demand for flowers grown in Washington. This major event, featuring twenty-four demonstration gardens averaging one thousand square feet each, begins this Friday and continues through next Monday. Other features include fifty children's gardens, a Boeing Space Garden with a real astronaut, and appearances by Ed Hume and Merlin Olson among other notables. This event promises to be a showcase for the Washington flower industry and a showcase for our Washington State Trade and Convention Center. Enjoy the flowers and enjoy the show. Thank you.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY

MORNING SESSION

House Chamber, Olympia, Wednesday, February 15, 1989

The House was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by the Speaker (Mr. O'Brien presiding). The Clerk called the roll and all members were present.

The flag was escorted to the rostrum by a Sergeant at Arms Color Guard, Pages Julie Nelson and Sara Koopman.

The Speaker (Mr. O'Brien presiding) declared the House to be at ease.
The Speaker called the House to order.

Prayer was offered by The Reverend Robert Jeffery, Pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church of Seattle.

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

INTRODUCTION OF VISITING DIGNITARIES

Mr. Speaker: When I was reminded that it was protocol for the Speaker to introduce The Reverend Jackson, I thought the moment might be a little awkward. We know this man. We have seen more than a quarter of a century of Jackson action.

Jesse Jackson has been introducing himself for a long time. He introduced himself to Martin Luther King and stood with him from Selma to that terrible day in Memphis. He introduced Operation Push to generations of young people and taught them to strive for excellence. He introduced himself to kids threatened by drugs and brought them to their senses. He introduced himself to Lieutenant Robert Goodman and brought him home. He has introduced himself to millions of people, who have nothing but deprivation and despair, and he brought them hope and a sense of self-worth and a sense of purpose and passion and compassion and inspiration and faith and love.

Yes, we know this man. Many of us have followed him; many of us have disagreed with him. Many of us have prayed with him, and many of us have prayed for him. Many of us voted for him to be our President. But all of us--all of us--have been challenged by him.

This man needs no introduction from me. But for the sake of protocol, I'll say: Honorable members, ladies and gentlemen, the pride of the Rainbow, The Reverend Jesse Jackson.

Reverend Jackson: To the esteemed Governor of this great state; to the members and leaders of this august body; to a friend and brother beloved with whom I have lived and grown up for nearly twenty-five years, Senator Fleming; to Jesse Wineberry, one of the upcoming young leaders of our day; to all of you who are gathered here this morning on this very special occasion for me and this tremendous opportunity to share with you, the people who can make a difference:

I want to talk for a few moments about the quest for the moral center. What is unique about our country, having come from corrupt kings and potentates and the narrow confines of freedom through royal blood, is that all of God's children have royal blood. That everybody is somebody. That we would have a government not from top down, but from bottom up, and not a government that would be exclusive, but one that would be inclusive. A government of, for and by the people. A government rooted in the integrity of the common man and the common woman. The critical issues of our day are not left wing or right wing. These are convenient labels for lazy people who choose not to think, just join a wing and close their eyes and say, "I am a liberal." "I am a conservative." I am not sure that either of those wings express the critical point of this hour. It's not left wing; it's not right wing. It's not boundless liberalism; it's not static conservatism. It's not a convenient label. It is the moral center that transcends the labels and historic boundaries. If it is morally right, it will become politically right. It may be politically right, but never become morally right. Hitler's Germany, Mussolini's Italy, Botha's South Africa—all represent power, but do not represent goodness or represent moral authority. The end of slavery was not about the left-wing abolitionists and the right-wing slave masters, it was about the immorality of the institution itself. And so, as we sought to end slavery and the shame and burden of our nation, we sought to end racial segregation and sexist exploitation. It was not about left or right; it was about the moral center.

As we meet this morning our children are at risk. When I leave here and dash back to Seattle, I will go to Garfield High. As I have gone to high schools and middle schools all across our nation, I ask our children several basic questions and wish that you were there to witness it for yourselves. Since there are a number of youth in the balconies today, do respond to this question, if you will, because we need to share. How many of you in the audience today know someone who is dead because of drugs? Please stand. If you know someone who is in jail because of drugs, please stand. If you know someone in your school who has tried drugs, please stand. If you know of someone who has contemplated suicide, please stand. My friends, this is not about left or right, or Republican or Democrat. This is about the moral center. The great issues of our day challenge us, therefore, to find common ground.

In the last eight years seven hundred thousand family farmers have been driven from their land with no place to go. Rural hospitals close; houses are cold; often lights are turned off. These farmers fed America and fed the world. Fair prices for farmers.

Workers. There was a big debate two weeks ago about raising the salaries of Congress people. Congress people and judges ought to get paid. Legislators ought to get paid. But this is a government of, for and by the people. Thus, we must lift as we climb. If their raise had been linked to a raise in the minimum wage, it would have had some moral foundation. The people who sent them to Congress, who made them judges, have been making $3.35 an hour for eight years, which is now worth $2.51 an hour. They can't catch the bus cheaper or buy bread cheaper or buy milk cheaper or educate their children cheaper or buy clothes cheaper. We must keep the original contract and lift those most stuck at the bottom.

We must stop drugs from coming in, cut off the supply of and demand for drugs. In Washington, D.C. alone, in January, fifty people were killed because of drugs—not Communism, not an alien ideology, not from the Soviet Union—drugs. Cocaine, crack, heroin. If we had lost that many people across the whole nation because of some alien ideology, we would say, "Let us bear arms." But we have developed a tolerance for drugs' use and abuse. It leaves us vulnerable to the number-one killer of our day—drugs.

Automatic weapons. I believe it is constitutionally sound to have the right to bear arms, to protect your household. But what do Uzis and AK47s and automatic weapons, not designed to hunt animals and owned by people in our streets, have to do with the fundamental right to bear arms and the need to do so?

If a pregnant woman gets prenatal care for nine months, it would cost less than nine hundred dollars. Without prenatal care a low-birth-weight baby will cost up to one thousand dollars a day for up to twenty weeks in a hospital. Morally right, cost efficient prenatal care. If one goes to the University of Washington for four years on a full academic scholarship, it will cost less than forty thousand dollars. Those same four years at the Washington State Penitentiary will cost more than one hundred and ten thousand dollars. The schools at their worst are better than jails at their best. It just makes sense to choose prenatal care and Headstart and day care on the front side of life, rather than jail care and welfare and despair on the back side of life.

Dealing with the homeless is fundamentally moral. Jesus said that birds have nests and foxes have holes. The common man, the common people, have no place to lay their heads. It is a moral challenge to house the homeless. That there are homeless is not disconnected from Mr. Reagan's cutting the HUD budget from thirty-two billion to nine billion dollars in eight years. Tents for the masses and condos for the classes--it breaks the basic contract of the American promise.

Small business loans. It is a civil right to vote. It is also a civil right to borrow, a civil right to lend. That is what makes our economic system work.

We should take the politics out of registration. Politics should be who you vote for, not access to voting. On-site, same-day registration is reasonable. If you leave here and get a traffic ticket, in a matter of seven minutes, while they are writing you a ticket, the computer is running and the other tickets you didn't pay pop up on the machine, because we are just that computerized. We can reduce fraud at the polls by making it accessible. When only forty-nine percent of our people vote, it should be a signal for us all.

When our last baby was born, we convinced ourselves that it was going to be a boy and it was a girl. We weren't prepared for the name. We had all those blue clothes and had to change them to pink. The first day the doctor said, "What's the baby's name?" We said, "We'll get back to you." The second day--"What's the baby's name?" "We'll get back to you." The third day, we said, "The baby's name is...." He said, "That's all right. Go downtown. Put your baby's name by your baby's number. It's in the system."

Some years ago my father died. Through all the pain, searching for clothes and caskets and insurance and all of that, the funeral director eased up and said, "But we must have you sign this, your daddy's death certificate."

From birth certificate to death certificate, from womb to tomb, we are registered. From the age of eighteen the most fundamental right in our democracy is the right to vote. Let's take the pain and cost out of registration. On-site, same-day registration is the democratic way.

There is no right more fundamental than the right to breath free, and you cannot breath free if our air is polluted and our waters contaminated and our earth is poisoned.

Comparable worth for women. Half of the nation's poor children live in a house headed by a woman where there is no man. You can't run the men home. At least the women who work should get paid and should have day care as incentives. It is fair and it is right. We have learned to right our wrongs. Comparable worth for women will correct a wrong.

Civil rights for those who were denied them was correcting a wrong. Reparation for the Japanese was correcting a wrong. Helping to build the state of Israel for Jewish people was right and helped to correct a wrong. Therefore, honorably agreeing to a treaty with the Indians is the right thing to do. I am glad your city has taken the offensive on it. It is the right thing to do.

The last of the questions becomes this to every legislature: Who will pay the bill? Who will pay the bill? Where do we find common ground on that? I'm a conservative. I'm a liberal. That doesn't answer the question. Who will pay the bill? If we have more and more services to render and fewer and fewer resources, you cannot hide behind liberal or conservative or black or white or brown or male or female. Who is going to pay the bill? Who is going to pay for Reagan's party? Let those who had the party pay for the party, and let's look at who was at the party.

The first issue is that we are now a debtor nation. Every time you ask for more money from Washington, they remind you that we are in debt; we have a deficit. You are being held hostage to that budget and those priorities. Burden-sharing is the watchword. Europe and Japan are now creditor nations. We are now a debtor nation. Why are they creditor nations and why are we a debtor nation? Is it that they are smarter? Is it that they work harder? Or is it the formula? Today Great Britain, Japan, West Germany, Taiwan and South Korea have twenty- and thirty-year, two-percent loans for development. Twenty- and thirty-year, two-percent loans can develop anybody. Investing in their development was the right thing to do, but when you combine twenty- and thirty-year loans at two percent, backed up by governments that aren't spending one hundred and fifty billion dollars a year for their defense, they are building their cities, while ours collapse. Now that they are out of the hole, now that they are creditor nations, now that Taiwan is realizing surpluses of three million dollars a month, they must now help share the burden of their own defense. Use some of that money in the State of Washington and educate our children. It is not just a matter of taxing the rich. It is not just a matter of rich, poor, black, white. It is even more fundamental than that. These are creditor nations who are now preparing for a war that will not be fought and weapons that cannot be used. We need to change some assumptions.

Secondly, the savings and loan bailout. The Marshall Plan cost fifty billion dollars. The savings and loan bailout will cost about one hundred and thirty billion dollars—three times more than The Marshall Plan. And in one form or another you will pay for it. No matter what is said about the savings and loan plan, you read my lips: You will pay for it. If George Bush can say, "Keep hope alive," and not give me credit, I can say, "Read my lips," and not give him credit. A one hundred and thirty billion dollar bailout. Three times more than The Marshall Plan. When you start arguing about day care, money for a drug war, raising the minimum wage, you are strapped with all these burdens and few resources, while the treasury has been ripped off and we've all been violated. We need to have hearings in this state and every state. I talked to Congressman McDermott this morning and he agrees with it. Any bailout must be linked to greenlining the redlines, if, in fact, they greenline the redline and loan money for housing development and short ventures. Private and government loan money for refurbishing housing and loan money for small business development. The redline is Mr. Bush's enterprise zone. If they spent the money, that's the enterprise for the zone. That ties in with an affordable housing plan. Just have hearings—not to raise taxes. Just demand that the money already allocated, backed up by the government, goes to where it should go by law. Let's greenline the redline and make any S&L bailout an investing of a percent of their portfolio in those zones that they have violated. That doesn't cost money; it just costs sense.

Lastly, I just left the Soviet Union. There are some interesting things happening there, and I close on this note. You, who live in Washington, know that in a real sense they are your next door neighbors. There are some fundamental shifts taking place. We must hope that they succeed. A fundamental shift from killing and be killed to live and let live. Some fundamental shifts are taking place. The Goodwill Games, being held in this state, represent a step in the right direction. They represent adding the guts and character to glasnost and perestroika. Some fundamental shifts are taking place. Disarmament. Nuclear verifiable disarmament. A move away from a time for the war that will not be fought and weapons that must not be used. A move from military confrontation to economic cooperation. A move from military contests to economic contests. What do I mean by that? When Mr. Gorbachev worked out a new agreement with China, with which he shares five thousand miles of border, a move was made from military confrontation to economic cooperation. The Chinese represent a one-billion-customer market to Mr. Gorbachev. As he leaves Cuba and goes to Great Britain and to Bonn, West Germany, as he argues the case to the western Europeans that he is ceasing to be a military competitor and now wants to engage in joint economic partnerships, the western Europeans will see three hundred million customers next door. Assumptions are changing. We cannot get trapped while these fundamental economic assumptions are taking place between the Soviets and China and Europe. We are going to monitor what he says. Yes, monitor what he says. Verify his commitment, but match his deeds.

That's why the coalition of "English only" must be seen in the light of our interest as a world. We are a great nation, a God-blessed nation. We are just one third of this hemisphere, however. Two-thirds of our neighbors, our allies, our customers speak Spanish and Portuguese, four hundred million people. We are six percent of the world's population; the Soviets are six percent. When Gorbachev and Bush meet, that will be one-eighth of the human race, which means it is a minority meeting because seven-eighths are not in the meeting. The ultimate bane of "English only" is assuming that it is the only language we can speak. Number one, it says something about our lack of intelligence. But more than that, it denies us access to our customers. The most fundamental responsibility industry has is to speak the language of its customers. Since half of all human beings are Asian and half of them are Chinese; one-half billion people are African, one-eighth of the human race; several hundred million Indians, two hundred million more than the Soviets and Americans combined; four hundred million Latin Americans—since most people in the world are yellow, are brown, are black, are non-Christian, are poor, are female, are young or don't speak English, we must learn to speak the language of our customers. We must communicate to this world. It is the right thing to do. It is also cost efficient.

How do we measure it? We measure it by character. Of course we measure it by character. How we treat our children, who are at risk in the dawn of life. How we treat poor people in the pit of life. How we treat old folks in the sunset of life. How we treat the stranger on the Jericho Road. Common ground. The moral center. These are our children. They are at risk. Their salvation is our duty and our moral obligation. We cannot just sit here in this legislature today as Republicans and Democrats, blacks and whites, conservatives and liberals. We must find common ground.

The Bible teaches us that even lions and lambs, one day--even lions and lambs--will find common ground. That is a strange combination because lions have a habit of eating lambs, and lambs learn to run from lions. But the Bible suggests a rare thing, that one day lions and lambs will lie together. And when that happens, there will be peace in the valley, because extremes will have come together. What will make lions and lambs work out a coalition? What do lions and lambs have in common? It is that neither of them want the forest to catch on fire. Neither of them want polluted air and contaminated water. Neither lion nor lamb want to be trapped in a nuclear holocaust. Even lions and lambs in the jungle are at a point where they must find the moral center.

Here we are today with a chance to do a great thing--to find the moral center. Beyond racism, beyond sexism, beyond anti-Semitism, beyond Asian-bashing, beyond fear, beyond war, we can do a great thing today. Find common ground. Find the moral center. Challenge our youth to say, "Down with dope and up with hope and give life a chance." We can do a great thing today. Challenge our allies to share their part of the burden. Make the savings and loan bailout the bailing out of your state and America. Release states from being held hostage by budgets built up by the war that will not be fought. We can do a great thing today. We can find common ground.

And so I leave this place to go back to our children, to convince them to hold on, that help is on the way; to tell them, though it has been dark, do not despair, that morning comes. Do not surrender, that morning comes.

We have been blessed to live in a great nation with a great contract. "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses, who yearn to breathe free." That is a great contract.

"A government of, by and for the people." Everybody has royal blood. A great contract.

Respect women. Honor our children. Embrace our leadership. A great contract.

Choose the human race over the nuclear race and give peace a chance. A great contract.

Invest in people and reinvest in America. A great contract.

If My people will call Me by My Name,--and we are God's children--will humble themselves and pray and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways, then they will hear from Heaven and God will heal their land. And God will heal our land. And God bless America. Thank you very much.

(1) 'Underinsured motor vehicle' means a motor vehicle with respect to the ownership, maintenance, or use of which either no bodily injury or property damage liability bond or insurance policy applies at the time of an accident, or with respect to which the sum of the limits of liability under all bodily injury or property damage liability bonds and insurance policies applicable to a covered person after an accident is less than the applicable damages which the covered person is legally entitled to recover.

(2) No new policy or renewal of an existing policy insuring against loss resulting from liability imposed by law for bodily injury, death, or property damage, suffered by any person arising out of the ownership, maintenance, or use of a motor vehicle shall be issued with respect to any motor vehicle registered or principally garaged in this state unless coverage is provided therein or supplemental thereto for the protection of persons insured thereunder who are legally entitled to recover damages from owners or operators of underinsured motor vehicles, hit-and-run motor vehicles, and phantom vehicles because of bodily injury, death, or property damage, resulting therefrom, except while operating or occupying a motorcycle or motor-driven cycle, and except while operating or occupying a motor vehicle owned or available for the regular use by the named insured or any family member, and which is not insured under the liability coverage of the policy. Property damage coverage required under subsection (2) of this section shall mean physical damage to the insured motor vehicle unless the policy specifically provides coverage for the contents thereof or other forms of property damage.

(4) A named insured or spouse may reject, in writing, underinsured coverage for (~~bodily injury or death, or~~) property damage, and the requirements of subsections (2) and (3) of this section shall not apply. If a named insured or spouse has rejected underinsured coverage for property damage, such coverage shall not be included in any supplemental or renewal policy unless a named insured or spouse subsequently requests such coverage in writing. The requirement of a written rejection under this subsection shall apply only to the original issuance of policies issued after July 24, 1983, and not to any renewal or replacement policy.

(5) The limit of liability under the policy coverage may be defined as the maximum limits of liability for all damages resulting from any one accident regardless of the number of covered persons, claims made, or vehicles or premiums shown on the policy, or premiums paid, or vehicles involved in an accident.

(6) The policy may provide that if an injured person has other similar insurance available to him under other policies, the total limits of liability of all coverages shall not exceed the higher of the applicable limits of the respective coverages.

(7) (a) The policy may provide for a deductible of not more than three hundred dollars for payment for property damage when the damage is caused by a hit-and-run driver or a phantom vehicle.

(b) In all other cases of underinsured property damage coverage, the policy may provide for a deductible of not more than one hundred dollars.

(8) For the purposes of this chapter, a 'phantom vehicle' shall mean a motor vehicle which causes bodily injury, death, or property damage to an insured and has no physical contact with the insured or the vehicle which the insured is occupying at the time of the accident if:

(a) The facts of the accident can be corroborated by competent evidence other than the testimony of the insured or any person having an underinsured motorist claim resulting from the accident; and

(b) The accident has been reported to the appropriate law enforcement agency within seventy-two hours of the accident."

SENATE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL

Mr. Speaker:

The Senate has passed SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1599 with the following amendments:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that chapter 74.50 RCW, the alcoholism and drug addiction treatment and support act, is a successful method of providing treatment to indigent alcoholics and drug addicts. The legislature further finds that the program is facing fiscal restraints in the current biennium that may prevent the program from accomplishing its mission and may do irreparable harm to the continuation of the program.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 74.50 RCW to read as follows:

Within available funds, the department may provide to eligible persons services for assessment, inpatient and outpatient treatment, and shelter. In order to control expenditures or to comply with conditions or limitations placed on appropriations, the department may establish caseload ceilings and client eligibility standards for any of these services. The eligibility standards may provide for limiting eligibility for any service to that class or classes of applicants that the department determines constitute the highest priority for services under this chapter. The department's determination of priority shall be based on the department's estimate of the potential benefit to applicants and the likelihood that the service will reduce future demands for state assistance. The department may provide such a priority classification system for any or all services provided under this chapter. Any caseload ceiling or priority classification system adopted by the department shall be consistent with any appropriation condition or limitation prescribing or dealing with such a ceiling or system. If funds provided for any of these services have been fully expended, the department shall immediately discontinue that service.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 74.08 RCW to read as follows:

Nothing in this chapter except RCW 74.08.070 and 74.08.080 applies to chapter 74.50 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. Section 4, chapter 406, Laws of 1987, section 2, chapter 163, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.50.030 are each repealed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The sum of ten million two hundred thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the fiscal biennium ending June 30, 1989, from the general fund to the department of social and health services solely for alcoholism and drug addiction services as specifically described in this section. Four million eight hundred thousand dollars of this appropriation shall be from federal sources. The appropriation in this section is subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) This appropriation shall not be construed as a commitment to a funding level for the program for the 1989-91 fiscal biennium.

(2) The department shall manage treatment services so that caseloads are gradually modified to produce a caseload of approximately 1,075 outpatient clients on June 30, 1989. Living allowance stipends for outpatient treatment clients may be paid within this appropriation.

(3) The highest priority classes of clients for treatment services, in order of priority, are: (a) Pregnant women; (b) persons referred through child protective services; (c) adults living in households with children; and (d) persons who receive substantial services from the state, as determined by the department.

(4) The department shall manage shelter services so that caseloads are gradually modified to achieve an average of approximately 1,213 clients per month receiving shelter services during the period from January 1, 1989, through June 30, 1989.

(5) For the period February 1, 1989, through June 30, 1989, the average monthly rate of expenditure for assessment services shall be not more than seventy-five percent of the expenditure rate for assessment services during January 1989.

(6) If any condition or limitation in this section is held null or invalid, the general fund—state appropriation in this section shall lapse and any unexpended funds shall revert to an unappropriated status.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect immediately."

On page 1, beginning on line 2 of the title, after "addiction," strike the remainder of the title and insert "adding a new section to chapter 74.50 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 74.08 RCW; creating a new section; repealing RCW 74.50.030; making an appropriation; and declaring an emergency."

and the same is herewith transmitted.

Gordon A. Golob, Secretary.

MOTION

Mr. Locke moved that the House do concur in the Senate amendments to Substitute House Bill No. 1599.

Representatives Locke, Youngsman and Brække spoke in favor of the motion, and it was carried.

FINAL PASSAGE OF HOUSE BILL AS SENATE AMENDED

The Speaker (Mr. O'Brien presiding) stated the question before the House to be the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 1599 as amended by the Senate.

Mr. Locke spoke in favor of passage of the bill.

MOTION

Ms. Hine moved that the remarks of Representative Locke be spread upon the Journal. The motion was carried.

REMARKS BY REPRESENTATIVE LOCKE

Mr. Locke: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I think the House can feel very good about this legislation, even though it is not quite at the level that we first proposed. This ADATSA Program replaced the so-called "drunk check" that was available to welfare recipients two years ago. It was the House that reformed that "drunk check" system, where transients from out of state would come and get these drunk checks, cash them, and then use them for alcohol and drugs. We required that, for those people receiving them, there be a trustee to receive the money, to make sure that the money went for food and shelter. We also had a drug and alcohol treatment component that turned out to be so successful that we had so many people sign up for the program that we ran out of money. In this proposal here we will now allow new people to come into the program where the Senate originally said no new people. So we have prevailed on that score. We also previously said that we wanted more people entering into the shelter side; the Senate said no new people. We have prevailed on that side, and, in fact, there will be almost five hundred new people being able to enter into the treatment program and about fifty people entering into the shelter component—more than half-way, and in some cases almost three-fourths of the way, to what the House had first proposed.

There is language, however, in this bill that I think is very bad policy, and I will speak to that momentarily. The Senate has proposed that, if any part of this legislation is held invalid, the entire appropriation is dead or goes away. It is kind of a poison pill. It is basically trying to threaten Legal Services from filing a lawsuit to challenge any provision of this legislation. They have challenged the legislation before and have succeeded. But we have rewritten the entire legislation, so that we think it is immune from any court or lawsuit. Nonetheless, the Senate has said that, if we still have not done a good enough job and if Legal Services wins in court, then all the money for treatment goes away. We think that is bad public policy for many reasons. First of all, Legal Services is concerned about protecting shelters; they are not concerned about the treatment side. If they prevail in court, not only would the shelter side be rewritten by the courts, but all the money for the treatment side would go by the wayside. So the entire program would stop dead in its tracks. We don't have enough time, quite frankly, to argue with the Senate on this, because today is the last day by which the department must file the notice on whether or not it will continue the ADATSA Program or whether or not all providers and patients must get ready to terminate the program.

So we reluctantly accept this poison pill, even though it is bad public policy. We want to warn the Senate, because if, in fact, Legal Services succeeds in a lawsuit and if, in fact, we are no longer in session when that court case comes down, whether it is in May or June, then the entire program will terminate in its tracks and the Legislature will not have the ability to come back and fix the problem. All the wrath of the public will descend upon the heads of the Legislature. I think that is very bad public policy. However, we feel that since we have provided more money for shelter, since we have addressed many of the concerns of Legal Services and since we have rewritten the statute, it is much more immune from a lawsuit. We reluctantly accept the poison-pill language of the Senate. Quite frankly, I don't think the public would be able to understand why we might allow the program to undergo the process of termination and notices of termination, while we argue with the Senate on this provision. It is bad public policy, also bad politically and in terms of public perception—they wouldn't understand it. We feel that there are enough safeguards in the bill that we are willing, as a House, to take that risk. I urge your support for the legislation.

The Speaker (Mr. O'Brien presiding) announced he was signing:
SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1599.

Ms. Rayburn moved adoption of the following amendment by Representatives Rayburn, Patrick, Chandler, Nealey, Baugher, Grant and Ballard:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. Section 16, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 2, chapter 292, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. and RCW 50.04.150 are each amended to read as follows:

Except as otherwise provided in RCW 50.04.155, the term 'employment' shall not include service performed by individuals under eighteen years of age in agricultural labor (except as otherwise provided in RCW 50.04.155) or services in agricultural labor by individuals who performed such services in less than thirteen calendar weeks during any four consecutive calendar quarters.

Agricultural labor is defined as services performed:

(1) On a farm, in the employ of any person, in connection with the cultivation of the soil, or in connection with raising or harvesting any agricultural or horticultural commodity, including raising, shearing, feeding, caring for, training, and management of livestock, bees, poultry, and furbearing animals and wild life, or in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of such farm and its tools and equipment; or

(2) In packing, packaging, grading, storing, or delivering to storage, or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, any agricultural or horticultural commodity; but only if such service is performed as an incident to ordinary farming operations. The exclusions from the term 'employment' provided in this paragraph shall not be deemed to be applicable with respect to commercial packing houses, commercial storage establishments, commercial canning, commercial freezing, or any other commercial processing or with respect to services performed in connection with the cultivation, raising, harvesting and processing of oysters or raising and harvesting of mushrooms or in connection with any agricultural or horticultural commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption.

Sec. 2. Section 5, chapter 205, Laws of 1984 as last amended by section 3, chapter 171, Laws of 1987 and RCW 50.29.025 are each amended to read as follows:

The contribution rate for each employer shall be determined under this section.

(1) A fund balance ratio shall be determined by dividing the balance in the unemployment compensation fund as of the June 30th immediately preceding the rate year by the total remuneration paid by all employers subject to contributions during the second calendar year preceding the rate year and reported to the department by the following March 31st. The division shall be carried to the fourth decimal place with the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded. The fund balance ratio shall be expressed as a percentage.

(2) The interval of the fund balance ratio, expressed as a percentage, shall determine which tax schedule in subsection (5) of this section shall be in effect for assigning tax rates for the rate year. The intervals for determining the effective tax schedule shall be:

Interval of the Fund Balance Ratio Expressed as a Percentage	Effective Tax Schedule
3.40 and above	A
2.90 to 3.39	B
2.40 to 2.89	C
1.90 to 2.39	D
1.40 to 1.89	E
Less than 1.40	F

(3) An array shall be prepared, listing all qualified employers in ascending order of their benefit ratios. The array shall show for each qualified employer: (a) identification number; (b) benefit ratio; (c) taxable payrolls for the four calendar quarters immediately preceding the computation date and reported to the department by the cut-off date; (d) a cumulative total of taxable payrolls consisting of the employer's taxable payroll plus the taxable payrolls of all other employers preceding him or her in the array; and (e) the percentage equivalent of the cumulative total of taxable payrolls.

(4) Each employer in the array shall be assigned to one of twenty rate classes according to the percentage intervals of cumulative taxable payrolls set forth in subsection (5) of this section: PROVIDED, That if an employer's taxable payroll falls within two or more rate classes, the employer and any other employer with the same benefit ratio shall be assigned to the lowest rate class which includes any portion of the employer's taxable payroll.

(5) The contribution rate for each employer in the array shall be the rate specified in the following table for the rate class to which he or she has been assigned, as determined under subsection (4) of this section, within the tax schedule which is to be in effect during the rate year:

(c) For all other employers not qualified to be in the array, the contribution rate shall be a rate equal to the average industry rate as determined by the commissioner; however, the rate may not be less than one percent. Assignment of employers by the commissioner to industrial classification, for purposes of this subsection, shall be in accordance with established classification practices found in the 'Standard Industrial Classification Manual' issued by the federal office of management and budget to the third digit provided in the Standard Industrial Classification code.

Sec. 3. Section 83, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 7, chapter 2, Laws of 1970 ex. sess. and RCW 50.20.150 are each amended to read as follows:

The applicant for initial determination, ~~((his))~~ the applicant's most recent employing unit as stated by the applicant, all base year employers, and any other interested party which the commissioner by regulation prescribes, shall, if not previously notified within the same continuous period of unemployment, be given notice promptly in writing that an application for initial determination has been filed and such notice shall contain the reasons given by the applicant for his last separation from work. If, during ~~((his))~~ a benefit year, the applicant becomes unemployed after having accepted subsequent work, and reports for the purpose of reestablishing ~~((his))~~ eligibility for benefits, a similar notice shall be given promptly to ~~((his-then))~~ the most recent employing unit as stated by ((him)) the applicant, ((or)) all base year employers, and to any other interested party which the commissioner by regulation prescribes.

~~((Each base year employer shall be promptly notified of the filing of any application for initial determination which may result in a charge to his account.))~~

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 50.24 RCW to read as follows:

The department shall adopt rules to collect contributions from employers for individuals who performed agricultural services for one or more employers during at least thirteen calendar weeks during any four consecutive calendar quarters. The rules shall require that employers report wages, hours worked, and the number of weeks employed for all employees. The department shall bill liable employers quarterly for contributions due.

Sec. 5. Section 78, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 6, chapter 33, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. and RCW 50.20.100 are each amended to read as follows:

Suitable work for an individual is employment in an occupation in keeping with the individual's prior work experience, education, or training and if the individual has no prior work experience, special education, or training for employment available in the general area, then employment which the individual would have the physical and mental ability to perform, and for individuals with base year work experience in agricultural labor, any agricultural labor available from any employer shall be deemed suitable unless it meets the conditions in RCW 50.20.110 or the commissioner finds elements of specific work opportunity unsuitable for a particular individual. In determining whether work is suitable for an individual, the commissioner shall also consider the degree of risk involved to the individual's health, safety, and morals, the individual's physical fitness, the individual's length of unemployment and prospects for securing local work in the individual's customary occupation, the distance of the available work from the individual's residence, and such other factors as the commissioner may deem pertinent, including state and national emergencies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. (1) It is the intent of the legislature that the department undertake activities to accomplish the following:

(a) Ensure increased compliance with work search requirements;

(b) Provide employers prompt notification of potential claims filed against their experience rating and information in lay language explaining what their rights are to appeal the claim and how and where they must respond to protect those rights;

(c) Develop ways to better inform employers of the operations of the unemployment laws such as how employers must offer work which may involve different wage rates for different work activities to avoid confusion so employees may make a claim and qualifying for benefits when assigned a lower paying work activity;

(d) Reduce claimant and employer fraud; and

(e) Implement voluntary combined reporting for employment security department, department of labor and industries, department of licensing, and department of revenue required reports.

(2) The department shall report to the appropriate standing committees of the legislature by January 10, 1990, 1991, and 1992 and include a description of the activities of the department to carry out the intents of this section and provide quantitative data where possible on the effectiveness of the activities undertaken by the department to comply with the intents of this section during the previous calendar year.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. If any part of this act is found to be in conflict with federal requirements that are a prescribed condition to the allocation of federal funds to the state, the conflicting part of this act is inoperative solely to the extent of the conflict and with respect to the agencies directly affected, and this finding does not affect the operation of the remainder of this act in its application to the agencies concerned. The rules under this act shall meet federal requirements that are a necessary condition to the receipt of federal funds by the state."

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Vekich: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like you to rule on the scope and object of the amendment as it pertains to the bill.

SPEAKER'S RULING

The Speaker (Mr. O'Brien presiding): In connection with your Point of Order, Representative Vekich, the Speaker finds that your point is well taken. Rule 12(E), for instance, says, "Scope and Object Not To Be Changed. No amendment to any bill shall be allowed which shall change the scope and object of the bill." In this particular instance, we have Section 3 where employment compensation applies to all employers, and also Section 6 where it appears that a study is asked for. These two instances are beyond the scope and object of the original bill, which pertains to unemployment for agricultural workers. The amendment is declared out of order.

Mr. Insee moved adoption of the following amendment:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. Section 16, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 2, chapter 292, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. and RCW 50.04.150 are each amended to read as follows:

The term 'employment' shall not include service performed by individuals under eighteen years of age in agricultural labor except as otherwise provided in RCW 50.04.155.

Agricultural labor is defined as services performed:

(1) On a farm, in the employ of any person, in connection with the cultivation of the soil, or in connection with raising or harvesting any agricultural or horticultural commodity, including raising, shearing, feeding, caring for, training, and management of livestock, bees, poultry, and furbearing animals and wild life, or in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of such farm and its tools and equipment; or

(2) In packing, packaging, grading, storing, or delivering to storage, or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, any agricultural or horticultural commodity; but only if such service is performed as an incident to ordinary farming operations. The exclusions from the term 'employment' provided in this paragraph shall not be deemed to be applicable with respect to commercial packing houses, commercial storage establishments, commercial canning, commercial freezing, or any other commercial processing or with respect to services performed in connection with the cultivation, raising, harvesting and processing of oysters or raising and harvesting of mushrooms or in connection with any agricultural or horticultural commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption.

Sec. 2. Section 5, chapter 205, Laws of 1984 as last amended by section 3, chapter 171, Laws of 1987 and RCW 50.29.025 are each amended to read as follows:

The contribution rate for each employer shall be determined under this section.

(1) A fund balance ratio shall be determined by dividing the balance in the unemployment compensation fund as of the June 30th immediately preceding the rate year by the total remuneration paid by all employers subject to contributions during the second calendar year preceding the rate year and reported to the department by the following March 31st. The division shall be carried to the fourth decimal place with the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded. The fund balance ratio shall be expressed as a percentage.

Suitable work for an individual is employment in an occupation in keeping with the individual's prior work experience, education, or training and if the individual has no prior work experience, special education, or training for employment available in the general area, then employment which the individual would have the physical and mental ability to perform, and for individuals with base year work experience in agricultural labor, any agricultural labor available from any employer shall be deemed suitable unless the commissioner finds elements of specific work opportunity unsuitable for a particular individual. In determining whether work is suitable for an individual, the commissioner shall also consider the degree of risk involved to the individual's health, safety, and morals, the individual's physical fitness, the individual's length of unemployment and prospects for securing local work in the individual's customary occupation, the distance of the available work from the individual's residence, and such other factors as the commissioner may deem pertinent, including state and national emergencies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. A new section is added to chapter 50.04 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The term 'employer newly covered under RCW 50.04.150' means an employer who employs, during calendar years 1990, 1991, and 1992, individuals whose services are excluded from employment as defined in Title 50 RCW by the section amended in section 1, chapter ____, Laws of 1989 (section 1 of this act).

(2) The term 'employment newly covered under RCW 50.04.150' means services performed during calendar years 1990, 1991, and 1992, that are excluded from employment as defined in Title 50 RCW by the section amended in section 1, chapter ____, Laws of 1989 (section 1 of this act).

- (d) Reduce claimant fraud among agricultural claimants.

(2) The department shall report to the appropriate standing committees of the legislature by January 10, 1990, 1991, and 1992, describing the department's activities undertaken to carry out the intent of this section and providing quantitative data where possible on the effectiveness of the department's activities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. If any part of this act is found to be in conflict with federal requirements that are a prescribed condition to the allocation of federal funds to the state, the conflicting part of this act is inoperative solely to the extent of the conflict and with respect to the agencies directly affected, and this finding does not affect the operation of the remainder of this act in its application to the agencies concerned. The rules under this act shall meet federal requirements that are a necessary condition to the receipt of federal funds by the state.

POINTS OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. Ballard: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. On this Presidents' Day America honors two of our greatest leaders, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. This holiday also recognizes contributions to our nation by each of our Presidents. It should be noted that Presidents influence the country and its citizens in many ways, not simply through their policies or the quality of their leadership. Presidents have established traditions of protocol, manners, speech, dress and action. Presidents have even been known to start trends in American eating habits. While historians may not know what was George Washington's favorite candy, we do know that jelly beans were a White House staple during the Reagan years and their popularity throughout the populous was restored. While we may not have any evidence about what Abraham Lincoln preferred to eat when he came across a vending machine, we do know that George Bush considers pork rinds to be a gourmet treat among snack foods. Therefore, to commemorate the first Presidents' Day of the Bush Administration, you will find at your desks a package of pork rinds to sample. Representative Brooks was a little excited about this; to make him happy you will notice a copy of his favorite low-fat, low-cholesterol diet just to offset any effects of consuming pork rinds in any substantial quantity. Please enjoy the pork rinds. Thank you.

Mr. Sprengle: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As a physician and a Democrat, I have trouble accepting pork rinds both for the pork and the implication it plays for legislative policy and for the cholesterol of fat-frying and using this food. It will not be offset by the apple. Eat the apple; don't eat the pork rinds. Accept them as a gesture and be concerned that this may have more profound implications for the Bush Administration as well as affect our health.

Representatives P. King and Locke appeared at the bar of the House.

The Speaker declared the House to be at ease until 11:30 a.m.

The Speaker called the House to order at 11:30 a.m.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the seventh order of business.

Speaker O'Brien: We are assembled today to pay tribute to the lives and service of distinguished former members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Washington who have passed from among us. This is the first occasion that we are paying tribute to former officers of the Senate and House of Representatives who rendered such dedicated service during their careers.

On behalf of the people of our state, the Fifty-First Legislative Session of the State of Washington conveys its respect to these deceased legislators who once sat in the hallowed Chambers of the House and Senate, like we are doing today, answered roll calls on sometimes critical and perplexing bills, attended committee meetings, and, above all else, served to the best of their abilities in order to make our state a better and more enjoyable place to live. While they have passed to the great beyond, their achievements, records and valued services have been recorded in the Journals of the Senate and House, and are now and forever more a permanent part of the history of the State of Washington.

We express our sympathies to the bereaved families and their friends, and also share with them on this memorable occasion the fond and happy memories of these legislators, who served beyond their call of duty and responsibilities, and truly loved the State of Washington. They have left a legacy of dedicated services that will remain forever etched in our hearts, our memories and our legislative records. I will now call the roll of the deceased former members and officers of the Senate and House of Representatives.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Ms. Belcher yielded to question by Mr. Heavey.

Mr. Heavey: Representative Belcher, if I have five acres on one of these rivers and I want to subdivide it into four lots for homes and if I have the current right to do that, would that be affected by this bill?

Ms. Belcher: Not at all. Current statutes would prevail. This bill specifically prohibits any impact from this bill on private property ownership.

Ms. Rasmussen spoke in favor of passage of the bill.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Ms. Belcher yielded to question by Mr. Hargrove.

Mr. Hargrove: Representative Belcher, it is my understanding that the state Scenic Rivers Act has several portions that explicitly provide for protection of private property rights. Is that correct?

Ms. Belcher: Yes. The current version of the state Scenic Rivers Act provides that the management plan developed for the land adjoining the scenic river shall only affect public lands. The right of eminent domain cannot be used under the act. The law strictly prohibits any government from restricting the use of private lands without either the specific written consent of the landowner or the acquisition of property rights.

Mr. Hargrove: Does this mean that forest management activities will not be affected by a rivers designation?

Ms. Belcher: Several provisions refer to the lack of regulation, not only to forest management but also to other activities. A specific portion of the existing law refers to DNR management activities as exempt from regulation. Also, the previous points about not affecting private property apply. But just to make everything perfectly clear, this bill adds language that state and local governments may not add regulation to private lands solely due to a river's designation into the state scenic river system. In committee we added a protection that probably should have been in the original law: one stating that no existing water rights are affected by a rivers designation.

CENTENNIAL MESSAGE FROM THE WASHINGTON STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

On this day in 1889 detectives arrested six people from Walla Walla for fraud. They drove worthless cattle in front of trains and charged the railroad the price of prime animals. And Captain Paul Boynton, a swimmer noted for his aquatic shows and for swimming in his "patent rubber suit," arrived in Seattle to capture live sea lions for the Lincoln Park Zoo of Chicago. He would also try to capture mountain goats, seals, grizzlies and cougars. He warned that the work was dangerous, for a sea lion could bite off a man's arm.

On March 1, 1918 lumber mills and logging camps switched from a ten-hour day to an eight-hour day, and on March 1, 1922 Bertha Knight Landes began her successful campaign for the Seattle City Council. She and Kathryn Miracle were elected and were the first two women to serve on the council.

On this day in 1953 Tacoma's first television station (KTNT, Channel 11) began broadcasting. The first day consisted of six hours of programming, including the movie "Our Town," starring William Holden.

And on this day in 1984 the Washington Public Power Supply System's first plant to be completed was approved by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. Capable of generating more power than Seattle used in a day, it was seven years behind schedule and cost eight times the original estimate.

On this day in 1889, at the request of an Oakesdale man, several Indian chiefs surveyed the scene of the Steptoe Butte battlefield. The Oakesdale man wanted to mark the site to encourage tourists to visit the battlefield. And, in Seattle, jail sentences seemed to reflect ethnic prejudice. A white man received one year for burglary; a Chinese man got four years for stealing chickens.

On March 2, 1899 President William McKinley signed the bill to create Mt. Rainier National Park. Until final passage of the bill in the House of Representatives, the proposed named of the park had been "Washington National Park."

On March 2, 1910 the worst rail disaster in Washington occurred when an avalanche of snow swept over two trains detained at the Wellington Station near the Stevens Pass Tunnel. Ninety-six people were killed.

And on this day in 1953, Washington citizens celebrated the centennial of the state's becoming a territory. President Millard Fillmore signed the bill creating the territory on that date in 1853, the day before he left office.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

March 1, 1989

Mr. Speaker:

The Senate has passed:

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5041,
ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5386,
SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5560,

and the same are herewith transmitted.

W. D. Naismith, Assistant Secretary.

The Speaker (Mr. Heavey presiding) called on Mr. O'Brien to preside.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. Betrozoff: I would like to give the members of the House a short report on the very successful Centennial Winter Games, which were just completed last weekend in Wenatchee, East Wenatchee, Chelan and Leavenworth. The opening ceremonies were held last Thursday and were carried statewide by KIRO Television and KXLY Television, which, incidentally, not only covered the State of Washington but also western Canada. It was a very successful opening ceremony. Eight teams marched into the Wenatchee High School gymnasium, which was filled to capacity. For an hour and a half they went through a very enjoyable program that started the Winter Games.

Over the weekend there were sixteen hundred and fifty participants in twenty-three different sports. There were the regular winter sports of alpine skiing, ice hockey and ice skating. In addition, there was badminton, judo, fencing and the new game of pickle ball. The athletes won gold medals, silver medals and bronze medals.

The athletes were housed in Wenatchee. Once they arrived and registered, they were taken in. Their room and board was completely paid for by a combination of a grant from the Centennial Commission, from the Games Foundation, from corporate sponsors and from the local committee. The local committee in Wenatchee paid for the vast majority of the cost of running the Winter Games.

If you happened to catch the coverage on KIRO, you noted the enthusiasm of the athletes, parents and organizations. There was a tremendous amount of enthusiasm for the Winter Games activities; it is the first time the State of Washington has had Winter Games activities and it was very successful. We are looking forward to the Summer Games in Spokane, which will probably be three times the size of the Winter Games. I wanted you to know that this is a first-time activity for the State of Washington. All of you were a part of that in appropriating and establishing the Centennial, and it is a part of the Centennial celebration this year. I want you to know that all of the participants and people involved are appreciative of this great event. Thank you very much.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

On page 4, after line 2, insert the following:

NEW SECTION, Sec. 10. The office of the administrator for the courts shall conduct a study to determine the effectiveness of implementing section 9 of this act in reducing frivolous petitions and alleviating the burden on the state in responding to petitions. For purposes of the study the office of the administrator for the courts shall maintain the following records:

(1) The total number of personal restraint petitions filed between July 1, 1989, and July 1, 1990;

(2) The number of petitions filed within each category of grounds that form the basis for the petition. The office of the administrator for the courts shall develop a system to categorize the various grounds that petitioners rely upon for relief from incarceration. The categories shall include but shall not be limited to the following grounds:

(a) Newly discovered evidence;

(b) The statute under which the petitioner was convicted was unconstitutional on its face;

(c) The conviction was barred by double jeopardy;

(d) The evidence introduced at trial was insufficient to support the conviction;

(e) The sentence imposed was in excess of the court's jurisdiction;

(f) A significant procedural or substantive change in the law warrants retroactive application;

(g) The conviction was obtained in violation of the Washington state or United States constitution;

(h) The convicting court lacked jurisdiction over the petitioner or subject matter; and

(i) Other grounds;

(3) The total number dismissed by the court of appeals prior to requiring the state to respond to the petitions;

(4) The total number referred to the state to respond to the petitions;

(5) The total number filed after one year of final judgment:

For purposes of this section, a judgment becomes final on the last of the following dates:

(a) The date it is filed with the clerk of the trial court;

(b) The date that an appellate court issues its mandate disposing of a timely direct appeal from the conviction;

(c) The date that the United States supreme court denies a timely petition for certiorari to review a decision affirming the conviction on direct appeal. The filing of a motion to reconsider denial of certiorari does not prevent a judgment from becoming final; and

(6) The total number of petitions referred to the state that are filed after one year of final judgment.

The office of the administrator for the courts shall report its findings to the legislature in a written report by December 1, 1990."

Correct internal references accordingly.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Padden: I would like a ruling on scope and object on the amendments.

SPEAKER'S RULING

The Speaker: Representative Padden, having examined both the original bill and the amendments to the substitute, I find that your point is not well taken. The amendments strike parts of the bill and ask the Administrator of the Courts to conduct a study, which seems to me to be within the original subject. We haven't strayed from the original subject of the bill, so I find your point not well taken.

Mr. Wineberry spoke in favor of adoption of the amendments, and Representatives H. Myers, Patrick and Crane opposed them.

Ms. Brough demanded an electric roll call vote, and the demand was sustained.

Mr. Appelwick spoke in favor of the amendments, and Mr. Padden spoke against them.

ROLL CALL

The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 1071, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 74; nays, 20; absent, 2; excused, 2.

Voting yea: Representatives Ballard, Basich, Baugher, Beck, Belcher, Betrozoff, Bowman, Brooks, Brough, Brumsickle, Cantwell, Chandler, Cooper, Crane, Day, Dellwo, Dorn, Doty, Ebersole, Ferguson, Fisher G, Fuhrman, Grant, Hankins, Hargrove, Haugen, Hine, Holland, Horn, Inslée, Jesernig, Jones, King P, Kremen, May, McLean, Meyers R, Miller, Morris, Moyer, Myers H, Nealey, Padden, Patrick, Peery, Prince, Pruitt, Rasmussen, Rayburn, Rector, Sayan, Schmidt, Scott, Silver, Smith, Sommers D, Sommers H, Spanel, Sprenkle, Tate, Todd, Valle, Van Luven, Vekich, Walk, Walker, Wilson K, Wilson S, Winsley, Wolfe, Wood, Youngsman, Zellinsky, and Mr. Speaker - 74.

Absent: Representatives Gallagher, Locke - 2.

Excused: Representatives Bristow, Schoon - 2.

Substitute House Bill No. 1071, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTION

Mr. Heavey moved that the House immediately consider House Bill No. 1855 on the regular second reading calendar. The motion was carried.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1855, by Representatives Jones, Vekich, Wang, Leonard, Jacobsen, R. King, Anderson, Ebersole, Cole, Nelson, Belcher, Basich, Brekke, Rector, Dellwo, Sayan, Wineberry, Crane, Prentice and Phillips

Making assaults on law enforcement personnel third degree assault.

The Speaker stated the question before the House to be the Point of Order by Mr. Padden. (See Journal, 50th Day, February 27, 1989 for previous action.)

SPEAKER'S RULING

The Speaker: The Point of Order was the timeliness of the Point of Order on scope and object. This is a difficult decision for the Speaker to make because I wasn't out here. It is clear from the record that Representative Walker was recognized three different times, and the third time was to begin the debate which she did do. Reed's Rule 112 is very, very clear: "Both these objections to present action must be presented before consideration has been entered upon. After debate has begun or other action has been taken it is too late." It is clear that the debate had started. I find, Representative Padden, that your point is well taken, that the point was not raised in a timely manner.

The Speaker deferred further consideration of House Bill No. 1258 and the bill was ordered to hold its place on the regular second reading calendar.

The Speaker declared the House to be at ease.

The Speaker (Mr. Raiter presiding) called the House to order.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eighth order of business.

CENTENNIAL MESSAGE FROM THE WASHINGTON STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

March 3, 1989

On this day in 1889, a Walla Walla newspaper printed answers to a questionnaire it had sent to inmates at the Walla Walla Penitentiary. To the question, "What brought about your incarceration?" common answers included "the influence of whiskey; bad company combined with whiskey". And, the superintendent of schools in Spokane, Bruce Wolverton, described his efforts to reform the schools by instituting grades and other more systematic discipline, over the objections of a few of the teachers. He said that he felt that he had laid the foundations for a good school system.

On this day in 1891 the Federal Government granted 50 foot by 140 foot lots to members of the Squatters Aid Association, who had invaded Federal lands near Port Angeles on July 4, 1890.

On March 3, 1893 the Indian Appropriations Act allowed Puyallup Tribe members to sell individual holdings and lands held in common. Many neighboring whites had sought to buy Puyallup land, and some Indians had favored the sale. By 1974, thirty-three acres remained of an estimated eighteen thousand acres of the original reservation.

On March 3, 1908, at the request of citizens of Moclips, the County Commissioners decided not to renew any liquor licenses in Moclips; all would expire on September 1. And on March 3, 1933 the Governor signed a bill legalizing horse racing, allowing it for the first time in the state in thirty years.

*SUBPART E

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT FOR CERTAIN VIOLATIONS OF THE UNIFORM CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES ACT

NEW SECTION. Sec. 120. No rule promulgated by the supreme court of Washington pursuant to RCW 2.04.190 and 2.04.200, now or in the future, shall be construed to supersede or alter any of the provisions of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 121. A person is guilty of aggravated first degree murder if he or she commits first degree murder as defined by RCW 9A.32.030(1)(a), as now or hereafter amended, and the following aggravating circumstance exists: The murder was committed in the course of, in furtherance of, or in immediate flight from a violation of the uniform controlled substances act under RCW 69.50.401(a)(1)(i) or (b)(1)(i).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 122. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, any person convicted of the crime of aggravated first degree murder under this chapter shall be sentenced to life imprisonment without possibility of release or parole. A person sentenced to life imprisonment under this section shall not have that sentence suspended, deferred, or commuted by any judicial officer and the indeterminate sentence review board or its successor may not parole such prisoner nor reduce the period of confinement in any manner whatsoever including but not limited to any sort of good-time calculation. The department of social and health services or its successor or any executive official may not permit such prisoner to participate in any sort of release or furlough program.

(2) If, pursuant to a special sentencing proceeding held under section 124 of this act, the trier of fact finds that there are not sufficient mitigating circumstances to merit leniency, the sentence shall be death.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 123. (1) If a person is charged with aggravated first degree murder as defined by section 121 of this act, the prosecuting attorney shall file written notice of a special sentencing proceeding to determine whether or not the death penalty should be imposed when there is reason to believe that there are not sufficient mitigating circumstances to merit leniency.

(2) The notice of special sentencing proceeding shall be filed and served on the defendant or the defendant's attorney within thirty days after the defendant's arraignment upon the charge of aggravated first degree murder under this chapter unless the court, for good cause shown, extends or reopens the period for filing and service of the notice. Except with the consent of the prosecuting attorney, during the period in which the prosecuting attorney may file the notice of special sentencing proceeding, the defendant may not tender a plea of guilty to the charge of aggravated first degree murder under this chapter nor may the court accept a plea of guilty to the charge of aggravated first degree murder under this chapter or any lesser included offense.

(3) If a notice of special sentencing proceeding is not filed and served as provided in this section, the prosecuting attorney may not request the death penalty.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 124. (1) If a defendant is adjudicated guilty of aggravated first degree murder under this chapter, whether by acceptance of a plea of guilty, by verdict of a jury, or by decision of the trial court sitting without a jury, a special sentencing proceeding shall be held if a notice of special sentencing proceeding was filed and served as provided by section 123 of this act. No sort of plea, admission, or agreement may abrogate the requirement that a special sentencing proceeding be held.

(2) A jury shall decide the matters presented in the special sentencing proceeding unless a jury is waived in the discretion of the court and with the consent of the defendant and the prosecuting attorney.

(3) If the defendant's guilt was determined by a jury verdict, the trial court shall reconvene the same jury to hear the special sentencing proceeding. The proceeding shall commence as soon as practicable after completion of the trial at which the defendant's guilt was determined. If, however, unforeseen circumstances make it impracticable to reconvene the same jury to hear the special sentencing proceeding, the trial court may dismiss that jury and convene a jury pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

(4) If the defendant's guilt was determined by plea of guilty or by decision of the trial court sitting without a jury, or if a retrial of the special sentencing proceeding is necessary for any reason including but not limited to a mistrial in a previous special sentencing proceeding or as a consequence of a remand from an appellate court, the trial court shall impanel a jury of twelve persons plus whatever alternate jurors the trial court deems necessary. The defense and prosecution shall each be allowed to peremptorily challenge twelve jurors. If there is more than one defendant, each defendant shall be allowed an additional peremptory challenge and the prosecution shall be allowed a like number of additional challenges. If alternate jurors are selected, the defense and prosecution shall each be allowed one peremptory challenge for each alternate juror to be selected and if there is more than one defendant each defendant shall be allowed an additional peremptory challenge for each alternate juror to be selected and the prosecution shall be allowed a like number of additional challenges.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 125. (1) At the commencement of the special sentencing proceeding, the trial court shall instruct the jury as to the nature and purpose of the proceeding and as to the consequences of its decision, as provided in section 122 of this act.

(2) At the special sentencing proceeding both the prosecution and defense shall be allowed to make an opening statement. The prosecution shall first present evidence and then the defense may present evidence. Rebuttal evidence may be presented by each side. Upon conclusion of the evidence, the court shall instruct the jury and then the prosecution and defense shall be permitted to present argument. The prosecution shall open and conclude the argument.

(3) The court shall admit any relevant evidence which it deems to have probative value regardless of its admissibility under the rules of evidence, including hearsay evidence and evidence of the defendant's previous criminal activity regardless of whether the defendant has been charged or convicted as a result of such activity. The defendant shall be accorded a fair opportunity to rebut or offer any hearsay evidence.

In addition to evidence of whether or not there are sufficient mitigating circumstances to merit leniency, if the jury sitting in the special sentencing proceeding has not heard evidence of the aggravated first degree murder of which the defendant stands convicted, both the defense and prosecution may introduce evidence concerning the facts and circumstances of the murder.

(4) Upon conclusion of the evidence and argument at the special sentencing proceeding, the jury shall retire to deliberate upon the following question: 'Having in mind the crime of which the defendant has been found guilty, are you convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that there are not sufficient mitigating circumstances to merit leniency?'

In order to return an affirmative answer to the question posed by this subsection, the jury must so find unanimously.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 126. In deciding the question posed by section 125(4) of this act, the jury, or the court if a jury is waived, may consider any relevant factors, including but not limited to the following:

(1) Whether the defendant has or does not have a significant history, either as a juvenile or an adult, of prior criminal activity;

(2) Whether the murder was committed while the defendant was under the influence of extreme mental disturbance;

(3) Whether the victim consented to the act of murder;

(4) Whether the defendant was an accomplice to a murder committed by another person where the defendant's participation in the murder was relatively minor;

(5) Whether the defendant acted under duress or domination of another person;

(6) Whether, at the time of the murder, the capacity of the defendant to appreciate the wrongfulness of his or her conduct or to conform his or her conduct to the requirements of law was substantially impaired as a result of mental disease or defect;

(7) Whether the age of the defendant at the time of the crime calls for leniency; and

(8) Whether there is a likelihood that the defendant will pose a danger to others in the future.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 127. (1) If a jury answers affirmatively the question posed by section 125(4) of this act, or when a jury is waived as allowed by section 124(2) of this act and the trial court answers affirmatively the question posed by section 125(4) of this act, the defendant shall be sentenced to death. The trial court may not suspend or defer the execution or imposition of the sentence.

(2) If the jury does not return an affirmative answer to the question posed in section 125(4) of this act, the defendant shall be sentenced to life imprisonment as provided in section 122(1) of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 128. If any sentence of death imposed pursuant to this chapter is commuted by the governor, or held to be invalid by a final judgment of a court after all avenues of appeal have been exhausted by the parties to the action, or if the death penalty established by this chapter is held to be invalid by a final judgment of a court which is binding on all courts in the state, the sentence for aggravated first degree murder under this chapter if there was an affirmative response to the question posed by section 125(4) of this act shall be life imprisonment as provided in section 122(1) of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 129. Whenever a defendant is sentenced to death, upon entry of the judgment and sentence in the trial court the sentence shall be reviewed on the record by the supreme court of Washington.

Within ten days of the entry of a judgment and sentence imposing the death penalty, the clerk of the trial court shall transmit notice thereof to the clerk of the supreme court of Washington and to the parties. The notice shall include the caption of the case, its cause number, the defendant's name, the crime or crimes of which the defendant was convicted, the sentence imposed, the date of entry of judgment and sentence, and the names and addresses of the attorneys for the parties. The notice shall vest with the supreme court of Washington the jurisdiction to review the sentence of death as provided by this chapter. The failure of the clerk of the trial court to transmit the notice as required shall not prevent the supreme court of Washington from conducting the sentence review as provided by this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 130. (1) Within ten days after the entry of a judgment and sentence imposing the death penalty, the clerk of the trial court shall cause the preparation of a verbatim report of the trial proceedings to be commenced.

(2) Within five days of the filing and approval of the verbatim report of proceedings, the clerk of the trial court shall transmit such verbatim report of proceedings together with copies of all of the clerk's papers to the clerk of the supreme court of Washington. The clerk of the supreme court of Washington shall forthwith acknowledge receipt of these documents by providing notice of receipt to the clerk of the trial court, the defendant or his or her attorney, and the prosecuting attorney.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 131. In all cases in which a person is convicted of aggravated first degree murder under this chapter, the trial court shall, within thirty days after the entry of the judgment and sentence, submit a report to the clerk of the supreme court of Washington, to the defendant or his or her attorney, and to the prosecuting attorney which provides the information specified under subsections (1) through (8) of this section. If this time requirement is not met, the chief justice of the supreme court of Washington shall state on the record the extraordinary and compelling circumstances causing the delay and the facts supporting such circumstances. A failure to comply with the time requirements of this subsection shall in no way preclude the ultimate execution of a sentence of death.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 135. If a death sentence is affirmed and the case remanded to the trial court as provided in section 133(2) of this act, a death warrant shall forthwith be issued by the clerk of the trial court, which shall be signed by a judge of the trial court and attested by the clerk thereof under the seal of the court. NEW SECTION. Sec. 139. Whenever the day appointed for the execution of a defendant shall have passed, from any cause whatever, without the execution of such defendant having occurred, the trial court which issued the original death warrant shall issue a new death warrant in accordance with section 135 of this act. The defendant's presence before the court is not required. However, nothing in this section shall be construed as restricting the defendant's right to be represented by counsel in connection with issuance of a new death warrant.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 140. Sections 120 through 139 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 10 RCW."

Mr. Patrick spoke in favor of adoption of the amendment, and Representatives Pruitt and Cole spoke against it.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Patrick yielded to question by Ms. Schmidt.

Ms. Schmidt: Representative Patrick, it is my understanding that the amendment that is before us would create a totally new section within our RCW, that there is no reference in this amendment to any of the existing capital punishment statutes, and that there is not opportunity, whatsoever, in any of our actions today that would jeopardize the current statute or allow for a prolonging of the current appeal process of the existing law. Is that your understanding?

Mr. Patrick: Thank you, Representative Schmidt. Your understanding is correct. This amendment creates a totally separate death penalty for pushers and does not amend current death penalty law in the State of Washington.

Representatives Belcher and R. Meyers spoke against the amendment, and Mr. Patrick again spoke in favor of it.

The amendment was not adopted.

The Clerk read the following amendment by Mr. R. Meyers:
On page 27, beginning on line 19, strike all of subsection (12)

With consent of the House, Mr. R. Meyers withdrew the amendment.

Mr. Padden moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 27, beginning on line 19, strike all of subsection (12)

Mr. Padden spoke in favor of adoption of the amendment.

Mr. May demanded an electric roll call vote, and the demand was sustained.

Representatives Wineberry, Braddock and Locke spoke against the amendment, and Representatives Patrick and Brough spoke in favor of it. Mr. Padden again spoke in favor of the amendment, and Representatives Nutley, Heavey and Vekich opposed it. Representatives R. Meyers, Van Luven, Appelwick and Baugher spoke in favor of the amendment.

On page 21, beginning on line 19, strike all of sections 201 through 205 and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 201. The legislature finds that the unlawful manufacture, sale, and distribution of controlled substances is becoming more prevalent and violent, resulting in increased danger to law enforcement officers engaged in the enforcement of the uniform controlled substances act, and that the interception of conversations between law enforcement officers and persons engaged in such unlawful activity is necessary in certain situations to protect against this increased danger.

Therefore, balancing the constitutional and statutory guarantees of privacy against the need to protect the lives and safety of law enforcement officers, the legislature finds that conversations regarding illegal drug operations may be intercepted, transmitted, and recorded under certain limited circumstances. The purpose of permitting limited interception, transmission, and recording shall be to protect the safety of law enforcement officers in those situations where the need for protection can be demonstrated.

Sec. 202. Section 1, chapter 48, Laws of 1970 ex. sess. as last amended by section 2, chapter 38, Laws of 1986 and RCW 9.73.090 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The provisions of RCW 9.73.030 through 9.73.080 shall not apply to police, fire, emergency medical service, emergency communication center, and poison center personnel in the following instances:

(a) Recording incoming telephone calls to police and fire stations, licensed emergency medical service providers, emergency communication centers, and poison centers;

(iii) At the commencement of the recording the arrested person shall be fully informed of his constitutional rights, and such statements informing him shall be included in the recording;

(iv) The recordings shall only be used for valid police or court activities.

(2) It shall not be unlawful for a law enforcement officer acting in the performance of the officer's official duties to intercept, record, or disclose an oral communication or conversation where the officer is a party to the communication or conversation or one of the parties to the communication or conversation has given prior consent to the interception, recording, or disclosure: PROVIDED, That prior to the interception, transmission, or recording the officer shall obtain written or telephonic authorization from a judge or magistrate, who shall approve the interception, recording, or disclosure of communications or conversations with a nonconsenting party for a reasonable and specified period of time, if there is probable cause to believe that the nonconsenting party has committed, is engaged in, or is about to commit a felony: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That if such authorization is given by telephone the authorization and officer's statement justifying such authorization must be electronically recorded (~~by the judge or magistrate on a recording device in the custody of the judge or magistrate at the time transmitted and~~). The recording shall commence with an indication of the time the recording is beginning and terminate with an indication of the time the recording is ending, and shall be delivered to the court within twenty-four hours of the time the recording was made. The recording shall be retained in the court records and reduced to writing as soon as possible thereafter.

Any recording or interception of a communication or conversation incident to a lawfully recorded or intercepted communication or conversation pursuant to this subsection shall be lawful and may be divulged.

All recordings of communications or conversations made pursuant to this subsection shall be retained for as long as any crime may be charged based on the events or communications or conversations recorded. If any crime is charged based on the events or communications or conversations recorded, then all related recordings or notes shall be preserved and made available to a defendant or his or her attorney subject to further order of the court.

(3) In each superior court judicial district in Washington there shall be available twenty-four hours a day at least one judge or magistrate designated to receive telephonic requests for authorizations that may be issued pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. The presiding judge in each superior court district shall establish a schedule of rotation for the judges of the courts and magistrates in that judicial district for purposes of ensuring the availability of at least one judge or magistrate at all times. During the period that each judge or magistrate is designated, he or she shall be equipped with an electronic paging device when not present at his or her usual telephone. It shall be the designated judge's or magistrate's responsibility to ensure that all attempts to reach him or her for purposes of requesting authorization pursuant to subsection (2) of this section are forwarded to the electronic page number when the judge or magistrate leaves the place where he or she would normally receive such calls.

Any such communication or conversation may be intercepted, recorded, or disclosed as authorized notwithstanding a change in the time or location of the communication or conversation after the authorization has been obtained or the presence of or participation in the communication or conversation by any additional party not named in the authorization.

(5) Communications or conversations authorized to be intercepted, recorded, or disclosed by this section shall not be inadmissible under RCW 9.73.050.

~~((4))~~ (6) Authorizations issued under subsection (2) of this section shall be effective for not more than seven days, after which period the issuing authority may upon application of the officer who secured the original authorization renew or continue the authorization for ((am)) additional periods not to exceed seven days. (2) A conversation or communication intercepted and transmitted pursuant to subsection (1) of this section may be recorded by any electronic or other device designed to record the conversation or communication regardless of how the device is powered or activated, and contemporaneous notes or transcriptions of the conversation or communication may be made. However, no recollection, recording, transcription, or notes of such an interception and transmission are admissible in any civil or criminal case in any court of general or limited jurisdiction in this state, except when introduced with approval of a court and pursuant to court rules and then only:

(4) By the end of the next judicial day after any authorization under this section, the law enforcement agency making the authorization shall submit the report required by subsection (3) of this section to the presiding judge of a superior court having jurisdiction over the offense involved and shall mail a copy of the report to the office of the administrator for the courts and to any judge identified in the report. In a multicounty judicial district or in the absence of the presiding judge, the report may be submitted to the court clerk for the presiding judge.

(5) Any information obtained in violation of RCW 9.73.030 or pursuant to an order issued under RCW 9.73.040 shall be inadmissible in any civil or criminal case in all courts of general or limited jurisdiction in this state, except:

(a) For the limited purpose of allowing any person who did not consent to the recording to impeach a witness in any proceeding;

(b) With the permission of the person whose communication or conversation was recorded without his or her knowledge; or

(c) In a criminal action in which the defendant is charged with a crime, the commission of which would jeopardize national security.

(6) Nothing in this section bars the admission of testimony of a participant in the communication or conversation unaided by the information obtained in violation of this section or RCW 9.73.030.

(7) The interception, transmission, or recording of a telephonic communication or conversation under this section is prohibited.

March 6, 1989

On this day in 1889, small pox was reported at Olympia. A cynical newspaper responded that that was not astonishing: "Almost anything is likely to break out in Olympia...."

On March 6, 1916 the fifth fire in a year destroyed the Moclips Hotel, and on March 6, 1920 the Milwaukee Road sponsored a contest in Kent between an electric locomotive and a steam locomotive.

And on this day in 1961 Western Washington College of Education and eastern Washington colleges of education became Western Washington State College, Eastern Washington State College, and Central Washington State College as the Governor signed a bill to that effect.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eighth order of business.

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION, Sec. 1. The legislature finds and declares the following:

(1) Declines in various Washington marine species of fish have adversely affected the sport and commercial fishing industries.

(2) Research, development, and technology transfer on the artificial propagation, rearing, and stocking of some marine species are needed.

(3) Funding for this research and development is most appropriately borne by a special fund derived from user fees on sport and commercial fishermen who stand to benefit directly from the resurgence of various marine species.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 2. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter:

(1) 'Fund' means the marine fish enhancement research fund.

(2) 'Marine fish' means all species for which a personal use license is required except salmon and sturgeon.

(3) 'Program' means the Washington marine fish enhancement research program.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 3. The Washington marine fish enhancement research program is established for the purpose of supporting basic and applied research and technology transfer on the artificial propagation, rearing, and stocking of marine fish species that are important to sport and commercial fishing in the marine and ocean waters of Washington. Research funds shall be allocated between studies of marine fish species important to sport fishers and studies of marine fish important to commercial fishers in proportion to each fishing group's relative financial contribution to the program. Research shall include, but is not limited to: (1) Artificial propagation, rearing, and stocking of marine fishes; (2) ecological requirements necessary to sustain marine fish stocks; (3) population dynamics in order to better understand potential survival patterns; (4) tagging and monitoring programs to evaluate success of stocking programs; and (5) stock identification and genetics research to enable identification of migration patterns and populations of fish stocks.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 4. The program shall be administered by the director with the advice and assistance of the advisory panel created in section 5 of this act.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 5. To assist the director in establishing policy direction for research projects, there is hereby created a marine fish enhancement research advisory panel. The panel shall consist of the following members to be appointed by the director:

All fees received by the department under sections 7 and 8 of this act and RCW 75.28.095 shall be deposited in the fund. Any money received for the purposes of carrying out this chapter from other sources may be deposited in the fund. Expenditures from the fund may be used only for the purposes of the program. The fund is subject to allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW, but no appropriation is required for expenditures.

(2) An amount, not to exceed twelve percent of the total annual revenues deposited in the fund, may be used by the department for administering the research program, for the production and distribution of the marine fish enhancement research stamp, and for collecting stamp revenues.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. A new section is added to chapter 75.25 RCW to read as follows:

(1) In addition to a valid personal use license, a person taking marine fish from state and offshore waters for sport purposes shall have permanently affixed to his or her personal use license an annual marine fish enhancement research stamp that shall be issued upon payment of one dollar.

(2) Sport anglers who are entitled to a free personal use license, or who are not required to obtain a personal use license, shall not be required to obtain a marine fish enhancement research stamp.

MAJORITY recommendation: The substitute bill by Committee on Natural Resources & Parks do pass with the following amendments by Committee on Revenue:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds and declares that:

(1) Mineral production is currently an important component of the state's economy, and production will likely increase in the future.

(2) The two major state taxes on mineral reserves and production are the ad valorem property tax and the business and occupation tax.

(3) The assessment of minerals for ad valorem taxes varies from county to county, and there are no state-wide guidelines for assessing minerals.

(4) Many other states have adopted mineral severance taxes in place of, or in addition to, property taxes.

(5) There is a need to assess the state's current mineral taxation system to determine if it is fair, equitable, and efficient, and to determine if changes are needed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) The department of revenue shall study the state's existing taxation system for mineral resources, and examine possible modifications. Minerals shall include, but not be limited to, oil, gas, coal, industrial minerals, and precious metals.

(2) In completing the study, the department shall:

(a) Analyze the current mineral taxation program, including the assessment practices for the ad valorem tax. Methods of increasing the uniformity of assessment practices among counties should be identified.

(b) Examine alternatives to the current mineral taxation system, including the possible imposition of a severance tax in place of, or in addition to, the ad valorem tax. Advantages and disadvantages of the current system and the alternatives shall be included.

(c) Examine possible taxation rates for a severance tax, and whether all minerals should be taxed at one rate, or whether varying rates for different types of minerals should be imposed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. To assist the department in the study, the department shall form an advisory committee composed of, but not necessarily limited to, county assessors, county commissioners, and representatives from the mineral industry and department of natural resources.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. Nothing in this act shall restrict the department in taking steps to administratively increase the uniformity of mineral assessments among counties for purposes of the ad valorem tax.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The study shall be presented to the appropriate natural resource and revenue committees of the legislature on or before July 1, 1990."

MAJORITY recommendation: The substitute bill by Committee on Health Care do pass with the following amendments by Committee on Appropriations:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that:

- (1) Persons with functional limitations have broadly varying service needs, and residential care facilities that can meet those needs, directly or by subcontract, are an essential component of a long-term care system;
- (2) The development and operation of residential care facilities that can provide quality personal care and specialized services, directly or by subcontract, should be encouraged; and
- (3) The specialized service needs of residential care facility residents can be met through facility staff, or through facility subcontracts with qualified providers of specialized services serving the community.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The purposes of this chapter are to:

- (1) Encourage the establishment and operation of high quality residential care facilities that provide personal care and specialized services;
- (2) Permit some flexibility in the services provided and the individuals served in residential care facilities by allowing facilities to contract with the department of social and health services to provide, directly or by subcontract with qualified community providers, specialized services needed by their residents;
- (3) Establish standards for regulating residential care facilities that are based upon the number of residents in the facility, the needs of the residents served in the facility, and the specialized services, if any, provided to residents of the facility, but that are consistent with the abilities and resources of a residential care facility;
- (4) Establish standards for the operation of adult family homes that meet residents' needs, but recognize that care is being provided in the adult family home provider's own residence;
- (5) Ensure that residential care facility providers have the training and resources necessary to meet the needs of their residents and understand and comply with this chapter and rules adopted pursuant to this chapter;
- (6) Monitor a residential care facility's compliance with this chapter through routine inspections and, unless residents are in imminent danger, provide to facilities in violation of this chapter an opportunity to correct violations before sanctions are imposed;
- (7) Provide the department and residents with alternative mechanisms to enforce compliance with this chapter; and
- (8) Provide information to consumers and their families, providers, and the public and encourage their full participation in developing and enforcing standards under this chapter in order to ensure support for residential care facility providers and residents.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

- (1) 'Residential care facility' means any facility that is advertised, announced, or maintained for the express or implied purpose of providing personal care, room, and board to two or more persons not related by blood or marriage to the person or persons providing the services: PROVIDED, That a facility providing personal care, room, and board to at least one resident whose care is paid for by the state shall be considered a residential care facility. (2) 'Adult family home' means a type of residential care facility that is the regular family residence of the person or persons operating the facility and has at least two, but not more than four residents who are not related by blood or marriage to the person or persons providing the services: PROVIDED, That the department may grant a variance to allow for five residents: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That a person or persons caring for one or more residents whose care is paid for by the state in the person's or persons' regular family residence shall be considered an adult family home.

Specialized services include, but are not limited to nursing, medication management, habilitation, and counseling services. Skilled nursing services on a twenty-four hour basis may be provided only upon the granting of a variance specifically authorizing the provision of such services as provided in section 16 of this act. If the department fails to act by the expiration date of the license, the license shall continue in effect until the department acts.

(3) If the department finds that the applicant facility is not in compliance with this chapter, it shall require the facility to correct any violations as provided in section 25 of this act. (2) The department shall notify each resident of the facility of the application within five working days of receipt of the application by the department. A copy of the application shall be attached to the notice to each resident, and the notice shall state the right of each resident to comment verbally or in writing on whether the application for a variance should be granted or denied; and the date by which comments on the application must be received. The department shall consider the comments received as provided in this section in determining whether the application for a variance shall be granted or denied.

(3) The department shall grant a variance upon a determination that:

(a) Strict compliance with the rule or statutory provision of this chapter would impose a substantial hardship on the provider;

(b) The provider's alternative method of compliance will meet the same goal that the rule or provision of this chapter from which the provider seeks the variance was designed to meet; and

(c) The provider's alternative method for compliance with this chapter protects the health, safety, and welfare of the residents as well as they would be protected if strict compliance with this chapter was required.

MAJORITY recommendation: The substitute bill by Committee on Health Care be substituted therefor and the substitute bill do pass with the following amendments by Committee on Appropriations:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

*NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The purpose of this act is to create a system that: (1) Assists the courts in sentencing felony offenders regarding the offenders' legal financial obligations; (2) holds offenders accountable to victims, counties, cities, the state, municipalities, and society for the assessed costs associated with their crimes; and (3) provides remedies for an individual or other entities to recoup or at least defray a portion of the loss associated with the costs of felonious behavior.

Sec. 2. Section 11, chapter 145, Laws of 1988, section 1, chapter 153, Laws of 1988, section 2, chapter 154, Laws of 1988 and section 1, chapter 157, Laws of 1988 and RCW 9.94A.030 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

(1) 'Commission' means the sentencing guidelines commission.

(2) 'Community corrections officer' means an employee of the department who is responsible for carrying out specific duties in supervision of sentenced offenders and monitoring of sentence conditions.

(3) 'Community custody' means that portion of an inmate's sentence of confinement in lieu of earned early release time served in the community subject to controls placed on the inmate's movement and activities by the department of corrections.

(4) 'Community placement' means a one-year period during which the offender is subject to the conditions of community custody and/or postrelease supervision, which begins either upon completion of the term of confinement (postrelease supervision) or at such time as the offender is transferred to community custody in lieu of earned early release. Community placement may consist of entirely community custody, entirely postrelease supervision, or a combination of the two.

(5) 'Community service' means compulsory service, without compensation, performed for the benefit of the community by the offender.

(6) 'Community supervision' means a period of time during which a convicted offender is subject to crime-related prohibitions and other sentence conditions imposed pursuant to this chapter by a court. For first-time offenders, the supervision may include crime-related prohibitions and other conditions imposed pursuant to RCW 9.94A.120(5). For purposes of the interstate compact for out-of-state supervision of parolees and probationers, RCW 9.95.270, community supervision is the functional equivalent of probation and should be considered the same as probation by other states.

(7) 'Confinement' means total or partial confinement as defined in this section.

(8) 'Conviction' means an adjudication of guilt pursuant to Titles 10 or 13 RCW and includes a verdict of guilty, a finding of guilty, and acceptance of a plea of guilty.

(9) 'Court-ordered legal financial obligation' means a sum of money that is ordered by a superior court of the state of Washington for legal financial obligations which include restitution to the victim, statutorily imposed crime victims' compensation fees as assessed pursuant to RCW 7.68.035, court costs, county or interlocal drug funds, court-appointed attorneys' fees, and costs of defense, fines, and any other financial obligation that is assessed to the offender as a result of a felony conviction. The legal financial obligation including those that are imposed on behalf of victims may be collected by the department of corrections and remitted to the court.

(10) 'Crime-related prohibition' means an order of a court prohibiting conduct that directly relates to the circumstances of the crime for which the offender has been convicted, and shall not be construed to mean orders directing an offender affirmatively to participate in rehabilitative programs or to otherwise perform affirmative conduct.

((+0)) (11) (a) 'Criminal history' means the list of a defendant's prior convictions, whether in this state, in federal court, or elsewhere. The history shall include, where known, for each conviction (i) whether the defendant has been placed on probation and the length and terms thereof; and (ii) whether the defendant has been incarcerated and the length of incarceration.

(b) 'Criminal history' includes a defendant's prior convictions in juvenile court if: (i) The conviction was for an offense which is a felony or a serious traffic offense and is criminal history as defined in RCW 13.40.020(6)(a); (ii) the defendant was fifteen years of age or older at the time the offense was committed; and (iii) with respect to prior juvenile class B and C felonies or serious traffic offenses, the defendant was less than twenty-three years of age at the time the offense for which he or she is being sentenced was committed.

((+1)) (12) 'Department' means the department of corrections.

((+2)) (13) 'Determinate sentence' means a sentence that states with exactitude the number of actual years, months, or days of total confinement, of partial confinement, of community supervision, the number of actual hours or days of community service work, or dollars or terms of a ~~(fine or restitution)~~ legal financial obligation. The fact that an offender through 'earned early release' can reduce the actual period of confinement shall not affect the classification of the sentence as a determinate sentence.

((+3)) (14) 'Disposable earnings' means that part of the earnings of an individual remaining after the deduction from those earnings of any amount required by law to be withheld. For the purposes of this definition, 'earnings' means compensation paid or payable for personal services, whether denominated as wages, salary, commission, bonuses, or otherwise, and notwithstanding any other provision of law making the payments exempt from garnishment, attachment, or other process to satisfy a court-ordered legal financial obligation, specifically includes periodic payments pursuant to pension or retirement programs, or insurance policies of any type, but does not include payments made under Title 50 RCW, except as provided in RCW 50.40.020 and 50.40.050, or Title 74 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) Whenever a person is convicted of a felony, the court may order the payment of a legal financial obligation as part of the sentence. The court must on either the judgment and sentence or on a subsequent order to pay, designate the total amount of a legal financial obligation. On the same order, the court is also to set a sum that the offender is required to pay on a monthly basis towards satisfying the legal financial obligation.

(2) All legal financial obligations that are ordered as a result of a conviction for a felony, shall also constitute a civil judgment. Independent of the department, the party or entity to whom the legal financial obligation is owed shall have the authority to utilize any other remedies available to the party or entity to collect the legal financial obligation after the department's responsibility for collection has ceased.

(3) In order to assist the court in setting a monthly sum that the offender must pay during the period of supervision, the offender is required to report to the department for purposes of preparing a recommendation to the court. When reporting, the offender is required, under oath, to truthfully and honestly respond to all questions concerning present, past, and future earning capabilities and the location and nature of all property or financial assets. The offender is further required to bring any and all documents as requested by the department.

(4) After completing the investigation, the department shall make a report to the court on the amount of the monthly payment that the offender should be required to make towards a satisfied legal financial obligation.

(5) During the period of supervision, the department may make a recommendation to the court that the offender's monthly payment schedule be modified so as to reflect a change in financial circumstances. Also, during the period of supervision, the offender may be required at the request of the department to report to the department for the purposes of reviewing the appropriateness of the collection schedule for the legal financial obligation. During this reporting, the offender is required under oath to truthfully and honestly respond to all questions concerning earning capabilities and the location and nature of all property or financial assets. Also, the offender is required to bring any and all documents as requested by the department in order to prepare the collection schedule.

(6) After the judgment and sentence or payment order is entered, the department shall for any period of supervision be authorized to collect the legal financial obligation from the offender. After the funds are collected by the department, the funds shall be remitted to the county clerk's office for the purposes of disbursement. The department is authorized to accept credit cards as payment for a legal financial obligation.

(7) The department or any obligee of the legal financial obligation may seek a mandatory wage assignment for the purposes of obtaining satisfaction for the legal financial obligation pursuant to section 9 of this act.

(8) The requirement that the offender pay a monthly sum towards a legal financial obligation constitutes a condition and term of community supervision and the offender is subject to the penalties as provided in RCW 9.94A.200 for noncompliance.

Sec. 4. Section 21, chapter 143, Laws of 1988, section 2, chapter 153, Laws of 1988 and section 3, chapter 154, Laws of 1988 and RCW 9.94A.120 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

When a person is convicted of a felony, the court shall impose punishment as provided in this section.

(1) Except as authorized in subsections (2), (5), and (7) of this section, the court shall impose a sentence within the sentence range for the offense.

(2) The court may impose a sentence outside the standard sentence range for that offense if it finds, considering the purpose of this chapter, that there are substantial and compelling reasons justifying an exceptional sentence.

(3) Whenever a sentence outside the standard range is imposed, the court shall set forth the reasons for its decision in written findings of fact and conclusions of law. A sentence outside the standard range shall be a determinate sentence.

(4) An offender convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree shall be sentenced to a term of total confinement not less than twenty years. An offender convicted of the crime of assault in the first degree where the offender used force or means likely to result in death or intended to kill the victim shall be sentenced to a term of total confinement not less than five years. An offender convicted of the crime of rape in the first degree shall be sentenced to a term of total confinement not less than three years, and shall not be eligible for furlough, work release or other authorized leave of absence from the correctional facility during such minimum three year term except for the purpose of commitment to an inpatient treatment facility. The foregoing minimum terms of total confinement are mandatory and shall not be varied or modified as provided in subsection (2) of this section.

(5) In sentencing a first-time offender the court may waive the imposition of a sentence within the sentence range and impose a sentence which may include up to ninety days of confinement in a facility operated or utilized under contract by the county and a requirement that the offender refrain from committing new offenses. The sentence may also include up to two years of community supervision, which, in addition to crime-related prohibitions, may include requirements that the offender perform any one or more of the following:

(a) Devote time to a specific employment or occupation;

(b) Undergo available outpatient treatment for up to two years, or inpatient treatment not to exceed the standard range of confinement for that offense;

(c) Pursue a prescribed, secular course of study or vocational training;

(d) Remain within prescribed geographical boundaries and notify the court or the community corrections officer prior to any change in the offender's address or employment;

(e) Report as directed to the court and a community corrections officer; or

(f) Pay ~~((a fine))~~ all court-ordered legal financial obligations as provided in RCW 9.94A.030 and/or ~~((accomplish some))~~ perform community service work.

(6) If a sentence range has not been established for the defendant's crime, the court shall impose a determinate sentence which may include not more than one year of confinement, community service work, a term of community supervision not to exceed one year, and/or ~~((a fine))~~ other legal financial obligations. The court may impose a sentence which provides more than one year of confinement if the court finds, considering the purpose of this chapter, that there are substantial and compelling reasons justifying an exceptional sentence.

(7) (a) When an offender is convicted of a sex offense other than a violation of RCW 9A.44.040 or RCW 9A.44.050 and has no prior convictions for a sex offense or any other felony sexual offenses in this or any other state, the sentencing court, on its own motion or the motion of the state or the defendant, may order an examination to determine whether the defendant is amenable to treatment.

After receipt of the reports, the court shall then determine whether the offender and the community will benefit from use of this special sexual offender sentencing alternative. If the court determines that both the offender and the community will benefit from use of this provision, the court shall then impose a sentence within the sentence range and, if this sentence is less than six years of confinement, the court may suspend the execution of the sentence and place the offender on community supervision for up to two years. As a condition of the suspended sentence, the court may impose other sentence conditions including up to six months of confinement, not to exceed the sentence range of confinement for that offense, crime-related prohibitions, and requirements that the offender perform any one or more of the following:

- (i) Devote time to a specific employment or occupation;
- (ii) Undergo available outpatient sex offender treatment for up to two years, or inpatient sex offender treatment not to exceed the standard range of confinement for that offense. A community mental health center may not be used for such treatment unless it has an appropriate program designed for sex offender treatment;
- (iii) Remain within prescribed geographical boundaries and notify the court or the community corrections officer prior to any change in the offender's address or employment;
- (iv) Report as directed to the court and a community corrections officer;
- (v) Pay ~~((a fine, accomplish some:))~~ all court-ordered legal financial obligations as provided in RCW 9.94A.030, perform community service work, or any combination thereof; or
- (vi) Make recoupment to the victim for the cost of any counseling required as a result of the offender's crime.

If the offender violates these sentence conditions the court may revoke the suspension and order execution of the sentence. All confinement time served during the period of community supervision shall be credited to the offender if the suspended sentence is revoked.

(b) When an offender is convicted of any felony sexual offense committed before July 1, 1987, and is sentenced to a term of confinement of more than one year but less than six years, the sentencing court may, on its own motion or on the motion of the offender or the state, order the offender committed for up to thirty days to the custody of the secretary of social and health services for evaluation and report to the court on the offender's amenability to treatment at these facilities. If the secretary of social and health services cannot begin the evaluation within thirty days of the court's order of commitment, the offender shall be transferred to the state for confinement pending an opportunity to be evaluated at the appropriate facility. The court shall review the reports and may order that the term of confinement imposed be served in the sexual offender treatment program at the location determined by the secretary of social and health services or the secretary's designee, only if the report indicates that the offender is amenable to the treatment program provided at these facilities. The offender shall be transferred to the state pending placement in the treatment program. Any offender who has escaped from the treatment program shall be referred back to the sentencing court.

If the offender does not comply with the conditions of the treatment program, the secretary of social and health services may refer the matter to the sentencing court. The sentencing court shall commit the offender to the department of corrections to serve the balance of the term of confinement.

If the offender successfully completes the treatment program before the expiration of the term of confinement, the court may convert the balance of confinement to community supervision and may place conditions on the offender including crime-related prohibitions and requirements that the offender perform any one or more of the following:

- (i) Devote time to a specific employment or occupation;
- (ii) Remain within prescribed geographical boundaries and notify the court or the community corrections officer prior to any change in the offender's address or employment;
- (iii) Report as directed to the court and a community corrections officer;
- (iv) Undergo available outpatient treatment.

If the offender violates any of the terms of community supervision, the court may order the offender to serve out the balance of the community supervision term in confinement in the custody of the department of corrections.

After June 30, 1993, this subsection (b) shall cease to have effect.

(c) When an offender commits any felony sexual offense on or after July 1, 1987, and is sentenced to a term of confinement of more than one year but less than six years, the sentencing court may, on its own motion or on the motion of the offender or the state, request the department of corrections to evaluate whether the offender is amenable to treatment and the department may place the offender in a treatment program within a correctional facility operated by the department.

Except for an offender who has been convicted of a violation of RCW 9A.44.040 or 9A.44.050, if the offender completes the treatment program before the expiration of his term of confinement, the department of corrections may request the court to convert the balance of confinement to community supervision, and to place conditions on the offender including crime-related prohibitions and requirements that the offender perform any one or more of the following:

(i) Devote time to a specific employment or occupation;

(ii) Remain within prescribed geographical boundaries and notify the court or the community corrections officer prior to any change in the offender's address or employment;

(iii) Report as directed to the court and a community corrections officer;

(iv) Undergo available outpatient treatment.

If the offender violates any of the terms of his community supervision, the court may order the offender to serve out the balance of his community supervision term in confinement in the custody of the department of corrections.

Nothing in (c) of this subsection shall confer eligibility for such programs for offenders convicted and sentenced for a sexual offense committed prior to July 1, 1987.

(8) (a) When a court sentences a person to a term of total confinement to the custody of the department of corrections for an offense categorized as a sex offense, a serious violent offense, assault in the second degree, any crime against a person where it is determined in accordance with RCW 9.94A.125 that the defendant or an accomplice was armed with a deadly weapon at the time of commission, or any felony offense under chapter 69.50 or 69.52 RCW, committed on or after July 1, 1988, the court shall in addition to the other terms of the sentence, sentence the offender to a one-year term of community placement beginning either upon completion of the term of confinement or at such time as the offender is transferred to community custody in lieu of earned early release in accordance with RCW 9.94A.150(1). When the court sentences an offender under this section to the statutory maximum period of confinement then the community placement portion of the sentence shall consist entirely of such community custody to which the offender may become eligible, in accordance with RCW 9.94A.150(1). Any period of community custody actually served shall be credited against the community placement portion of the sentence.

(b) When a court sentences a person to a term of total confinement to the custody of the department of corrections for an offense categorized as a sex offense, a serious violent offense, assault in the second degree, any crime against a person where it is determined in accordance with RCW 9.94A.125 that the defendant or an accomplice was armed with a deadly weapon at the time of commission, or any felony offense under chapter 69.50 or 69.52 RCW, committed on or after July 1, 1988, unless a condition is waived by the court, the sentence shall include, in addition to the other terms of the sentence, a one-year term of community placement on the following conditions:

(i) The offender shall report to and be available for contact with the assigned community corrections officer as directed;

(ii) The offender shall work at department of corrections-approved education, employment, and/or community service;

(iii) The offender shall not consume controlled substances except pursuant to lawfully issued prescriptions;

(iv) An offender in community custody shall not unlawfully possess controlled substances; and

(v) The offender shall pay ~~((community placement))~~ supervision fees as determined by the department of corrections.

(c) The court may also order any of the following special conditions:

(i) The offender shall remain within, or outside of, a specified geographical boundary;

(ii) The offender shall not have direct or indirect contact with the victim of the crime or a specified class of individuals;

(iii) The offender shall participate in crime-related treatment or counseling services;

(iv) The offender shall not consume alcohol;

(v) The residence location and living arrangements of a sex offender shall be subject to the prior approval of the department of corrections; or

(vi) The offender shall comply with any crime-related prohibitions.

(d) Prior to transfer to, or during, community placement, any conditions of community placement may be removed or modified so as not to be more restrictive by the sentencing court, upon recommendation of the department of corrections.

(9) If the court imposes a sentence requiring confinement of thirty days or less, the court may, in its discretion, specify that the sentence be served on consecutive or intermittent days. A sentence requiring more than thirty days of confinement shall be served on consecutive days. Local jail administrators may schedule court-ordered intermittent sentences as space permits.

(10) If a sentence imposed includes ~~((a fine or restitution))~~ payment of a legal financial obligation, the sentence shall specify ~~((a reasonable manner and time in which the fine or restitution shall be paid. Restitution to victims shall be paid prior to any other payments of monetary obligations. In any sentence under this chapter the court may also require the offender to~~

~~make such monetary payments, on such terms as it deems appropriate under the circumstances, as are necessary (a) to pay court costs, including reimbursement of the state for costs of extradition if return to this state by extradition was required, (b) to make recoupment of the cost of defense attorney's fees if counsel is provided at public expense, (c) to contribute to a county or interlocal drug fund, and (d) to make such other payments as provided by law)) the total amount of the legal financial obligation owed, and shall require the offender to pay a specified monthly sum toward that legal financial obligation. Restitution to victims shall be paid prior to any other payments of monetary obligations. Any legal financial obligation that is imposed by the court may be collected by the department, which shall deliver the amount paid to the county clerk's office for credit. The offender's compliance with payment of ((monetary)) legal financial obligations shall be supervised by the department((The rate of payment shall be determined by the court or, in the absence of a rate determined by the court, the rate shall be set by the department)) for a period of ten years. All monetary payments ordered shall be paid no later than ten years after the ((most recent of either the)) last date of release from confinement pursuant to a felony conviction or the date the sentence was entered. Independent of the department, the party or entity to whom the legal financial obligation is owed shall have the authority to utilize any other remedies available to the party or entity to collect the legal financial obligation after the department's responsibility for collection has ceased. Nothing in this section makes the department, the state, or any of its employees, agents, or other persons acting on their behalf liable under any circumstances for the payment of these legal financial obligations. If an order includes restitution as one of the monetary assessments, the county clerk shall make disbursements to victims named in the order. ((The restitution to victims named in the order shall be paid prior to any payment for other penalties or monetary assessments.))~~

(11) Except as provided under RCW 9.94A.140(1) and 9.94A.142(1), a court may not impose a sentence providing for a term of confinement or community supervision or community placement which exceeds the statutory maximum for the crime as provided in chapter 9A.20 RCW.

(12) All offenders sentenced to terms involving community supervision, community service, ((restitution, or fines)) or legal financial obligation shall be under the supervision of the secretary of the department of corrections or such person as the secretary may designate and shall follow explicitly the instructions of the secretary including reporting as directed to a community corrections officer, remaining within prescribed geographical boundaries, and notifying the community corrections officer of any change in the offender's address or employment.

(13) The sentencing court shall give the offender credit for all confinement time served before the sentencing if that confinement was solely in regard to the offense for which the offender is being sentenced.

(14) A departure from the standards in RCW 9.94A.400(1) and (2) governing whether sentences are to be served consecutively or concurrently is an exceptional sentence subject to the limitations in subsections (2) and (3) of this section, and may be appealed by the defendant or the state as set forth in RCW 9.94A.210(2) through (6).

(15) The court shall order restitution whenever the offender is convicted of a felony that results in injury to any person or damage to or loss of property, whether the offender is sentenced to confinement or placed under community supervision, unless extraordinary circumstances exist that make restitution inappropriate in the court's judgment. The court shall set forth the extraordinary circumstances in the record if it does not order restitution.

(16) As a part of any sentence, the court may impose and enforce an order that relates directly to the circumstances of the crime for which the offender has been convicted, prohibiting the offender from having any contact with other specified individuals or a specific class of individuals for a period not to exceed the maximum allowable sentence for the crime, regardless of the expiration of the offender's term of community supervision.

(17) In any sentence of partial confinement, the court may require the defendant to serve the partial confinement in work release or in a program of home detention.

(18) All court-ordered legal financial obligations collected by the department and remitted to the county clerk shall be credited and paid where restitution is ordered. Restitution shall be paid prior to any other payments of monetary obligations.

Sec. 5. Section 14, chapter 137, Laws of 1981 as last amended by section 3, chapter 281, Laws of 1987 and RCW 9.94A.140 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) If restitution is ordered, the court shall determine the amount of restitution due at the sentencing hearing or within sixty days ((and may set the terms and conditions under which the defendant shall make restitution)). The court shall then set a minimum monthly payment that the offender is required to make towards the restitution that is ordered. The court shall take into consideration the total amount of the restitution owed, the offender's present, past, and future ability to pay, as well as any assets that the offender may have. During the period of supervision, the community corrections officer may examine the offender to determine if there has been a change in circumstances that warrants an amendment of the monthly payment schedule. The community corrections officer may recommend a change to the schedule of payment and shall inform the court of the recommended change and the reasons for the change. The sentencing court may then reset the monthly minimum payments based on the report from the community corrections officer of the change in circumstances. Restitution ordered by a court pursuant to a criminal conviction shall be based on easily ascertainable damages for injury to or loss of property, actual expenses incurred for treatment for injury to persons, and lost wages resulting from injury. Restitution shall not include reimbursement for damages for mental anguish, pain and suffering, or other intangible losses, but may include the costs of counseling reasonably related to the offense. The amount of restitution shall not exceed double the amount of the offender's gain or the victim's loss from the commission of the crime. For the purposes of this section, the offender shall remain under the court's jurisdiction for a maximum term of ten years subsequent to the imposition of sentence. The portion of the sentence concerning restitution may be modified as to amount, terms and conditions during the ten-year period, regardless of the expiration of the offender's term of community supervision and regardless of the statutory maximum for the crime. The offender's compliance with the restitution shall be supervised by the department for a maximum period of ten years.

(2) Restitution may be ordered whenever the offender is convicted of an offense which results in injury to any person or damage to or loss of property. In addition, restitution may be ordered to pay for an injury, loss, or damage if the offender pleads guilty to a lesser offense or fewer offenses and agrees with the prosecutor's recommendation that the offender be required to pay restitution to a victim of an offense or offenses which are not prosecuted pursuant to a plea agreement.

(3) In addition to any sentence that may be imposed, a defendant who has been found guilty of an offense involving fraud or other deceptive practice or an organization which has been found guilty of any such offense may be ordered by the sentencing court to give notice of the conviction to the class of persons or to the sector of the public affected by the conviction or financially interested in the subject matter of the offense by mail, by advertising in designated areas or through designated media, or by other appropriate means.

(4) This section does not limit civil remedies or defenses available to the victim or defendant.

Sec. 6. Section 10, chapter 443, Laws of 1985 as amended by section 4, chapter 281, Laws of 1987 and RCW 9.94A.142 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) When restitution is ordered, the court shall determine the amount of restitution due at the sentencing hearing or within sixty days (~~and shall set the terms and conditions under which the defendant shall make restitution~~). The court shall then set a minimum monthly payment that the offender is required to make towards the restitution that is ordered. The court should take into consideration the total amount of the restitution owed, the offender's present, past, and future ability to pay, as well as any assets that the offender may have. During the period of supervision, the community corrections officer may examine the offender to determine if there has been a change in circumstances that warrants an amendment of the monthly payment schedule. The community corrections officer may recommend a change to the schedule of payment and shall inform the court of the recommended change and the reasons for the change. The sentencing court may then reset the monthly minimum payments based on the report from the community corrections officer of the change in circumstances. Restitution ordered by a court pursuant to a criminal conviction shall be based on easily ascertainable damages for injury to or loss of property, actual expenses incurred for treatment for injury to persons, and lost wages resulting from injury. Restitution shall not include reimbursement for damages for mental anguish, pain and suffering, or other intangible losses, but may include the costs of counseling reasonably related to the offense. The amount of restitution shall not exceed double the amount of the offender's gain or the victim's loss from the commission of the crime. For the purposes of this section, the offender shall remain under the court's jurisdiction for a maximum term of ten years subsequent to the imposition of sentence. The portion of the sentence concerning restitution may be modified as to amount, terms and conditions during the ten-year period, regardless of the expiration of the offender's term of community supervision and regardless of the statutory maximum for the crime. The offender's compliance with the restitution shall be supervised by the department for a maximum period of ten years.

(2) Restitution shall be ordered whenever the offender is convicted of an offense which results in injury to any person or damage to or loss of property unless extraordinary circumstances exist which make restitution inappropriate in the court's judgment and the court sets forth such circumstances in the record. In addition, restitution shall be ordered to pay for an injury, loss, or damage if the offender pleads guilty to a lesser offense or fewer offenses and agrees with the prosecutor's recommendation that the offender be required to pay restitution to a victim of an offense or offenses which are not prosecuted pursuant to a plea agreement.

(3) In addition to any sentence that may be imposed, a defendant who has been found guilty of an offense involving fraud or other deceptive practice or an organization which has been found guilty of any such offense may be ordered by the sentencing court to give notice of the conviction to the class of persons or to the sector of the public affected by the conviction or financially interested in the subject matter of the offense by mail, by advertising in designated areas or through designated media, or by other appropriate means.

(4) This section does not limit civil remedies or defenses available to the victim, survivors of the victim, or defendant.

Sec. 7. Section 20, chapter 137, Laws of 1981 as last amended by section 11, chapter 153, Laws of 1988 and by section 2, chapter 155, Laws of 1988 and RCW 9.94A.200 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) If an offender violates any condition or requirement of a sentence, the court may modify its order of judgment and sentence and impose further punishment in accordance with this section.

(2) If an offender fails to comply with any of the requirements or conditions of a sentence the following provisions apply:

(a) The court, upon the motion of the state, or upon its own motion, shall require the offender to show cause why the offender should not be punished for the noncompliance. The court may issue a summons or a warrant of arrest for the offender's appearance;

(b) The state has the burden of showing noncompliance by a preponderance of the evidence. If the court finds that the violation has occurred, it may order the offender to be confined for a period not to exceed sixty days for each violation, and may (i) convert a term of partial confinement to total confinement, (ii) convert community service obligation to total or partial confinement, or (iii) convert monetary obligations, except restitution and the crime victim penalty assessment, to community service hours at the rate of the state minimum wage as established in RCW 49.46.020 for each hour of community service. Any time served in confinement awaiting a hearing on noncompliance shall be credited against any confinement order by the court; and

(c) If the court finds that the violation was not willful, the court may modify its previous order regarding payment of ~~((fines or other monetary payments))~~ legal financial obligations and regarding community service obligations.

(3) Nothing in this section prohibits the filing of escape charges if appropriate.

Sec. 8. Section 2, chapter 207, Laws of 1982 as amended by section 15, chapter 209, Laws of 1984 and RCW 9.94A.270 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Whenever a punishment imposed under this chapter requires community supervision services to be provided, the sentencing court shall require that the offender pay to the department of corrections the monthly assessment, prescribed under subsection (2) of this section, which shall be for the duration of the probation and which shall be considered as payment or part payment of the cost of providing probation supervision to the probationer. The court may exempt a person from the payment of all or any part of the assessment based upon any of the following factors:

(a) The offender has diligently attempted but has been unable to obtain employment that provides the offender sufficient income to make such payments.

(b) The offender is a student in a school, college, university, or a course of vocational or technical training designed to fit the student for gainful employment.

(c) The offender has an employment handicap, as determined by an examination acceptable to or ordered by the court.

(d) The offender's age prevents him from obtaining employment.

(e) The offender is responsible for the support of dependents and the payment of the assessment constitutes an undue hardship on the offender.

(f) Other extenuating circumstances as determined by the court.

(2) The department of corrections shall adopt a rule prescribing the amount of the assessment. The department may, if it finds it appropriate, prescribe a schedule of assessments that shall vary in accordance with the intensity or cost of the supervision. The department may not prescribe any assessment that is less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

(3) All amounts required to be paid under this section shall be collected by the department of corrections and deposited by the department in the ~~((state general))~~ dedicated fund established pursuant to section 26 of this act.

(4) This section shall not apply to probation services provided under an interstate compact pursuant to chapter 9.95 RCW or to probation services provided for persons placed on probation prior to June 10, 1982.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. A petition or motion seeking a mandatory wage assignment in a criminal action may be filed by the department or any obligee if the offender is more than thirty days past due in monthly payments in an amount equal to or greater than the amount payable for one month. The petition or motion shall include a sworn statement by the secretary or designee, or if filed solely by an obligee, by such obligee, stating the facts authorizing the issuance of the wage assignment order, including: (1) That the offender, stating his or her name and last known residence, is more than thirty days past due in payments in an amount equal to or greater than the amount payable for one month; (2) a description of the terms of the judgment and sentence and/or payment order requiring payment of a court-ordered legal financial obligation, the total amount remaining unpaid, and the amount past due; (3) the name and address of the offender's employer; (4) that notice by personal service, or any form of mail requiring a return receipt, has been provided to the offender at least fifteen days prior to the filing of a mandatory wage assignment, unless the judgment and sentence or the order for payment states that the department or obligee may seek a mandatory wage assignment without notice to the defendant. A copy of the judgment and sentence or payment order shall be attached to the petition or motion seeking the wage assignment.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. Upon receipt of a petition or motion seeking a mandatory wage assignment that complies with section 9 of this act, the court shall issue a wage assignment order as provided in section 12 of this act and including the information required in section 9 of this act, directed to the employer, and commanding the employer to answer the order on the forms served with the order that comply with section 14 of this act within twenty days after service of the order upon the employer.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. (1) The wage assignment order in section 10 of this act shall include: (a) The maximum amount or current amount owed on a court-ordered legal financial obligation, if any, to be withheld from the defendant's earnings each month, or from each earnings disbursement; and (b) the total amount of the arrearage or reimbursement judgment previously entered by the court, if any, together with interest, if any.

(2) The total amount to be withheld from the defendant's earnings each month, or from each earnings disbursement, shall not exceed twenty-five percent of the disposable earnings of the defendant. If the amounts to be paid toward the arrearage are specified in the payment order, then the maximum amount to be withheld is the sum of the current amount owed and the amount ordered to be paid toward the arrearage, or twenty-five percent of the disposable earnings of the defendant, whichever is less.

(3) If the defendant is subject to two or more attachments for payment of a court-ordered legal financial obligation on account of different obligees, the employer shall, if the nonexempt portion of the defendant's earnings is not sufficient to respond fully to all the attachments, apportion the defendant's nonexempt disposable earnings between or among the various obligees equally. Any obligee may seek a court order reapportioning the defendant's nonexempt disposable earnings upon notice to all interested parties. Notice shall be by personal service, or in the manner provided by the civil rules of superior court or applicable statute.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. The department shall develop a form and adopt rules for the wage assignment order.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. (1) An employer upon whom service of a wage assignment order has been made shall answer the order by sworn affidavit within twenty days after the date of service. The answer shall state whether the offender is employed by or receives earnings from the employer, whether the employer will honor the wage assignment order, and whether there are multiple attachments against the offender.

(2) If the employer possesses any earnings due and owing to the offender, the earnings subject to the wage assignment order shall be withheld immediately upon receipt of the wage assignment order. The withheld earnings shall be delivered to the department of corrections to be remitted to the clerk of the court pursuant to the payment order who entered the order at each regular pay interval, but the first delivery shall occur no sooner than twenty days after receipt of the wage assignment order.

(3) The employer shall continue to withhold the ordered amounts from nonexempt earnings of the offender until notified by the court that the wage assignment has been modified or terminated. The employer shall promptly notify the clerk of the court who entered the order when the employee is no longer employed.

(4) The employer may deduct a processing fee from the remainder of the employee's earnings after withholding under the wage assignment order, even if the remainder is exempt under section 11 of this act. The processing fee may not exceed: (a) Ten dollars for the first disbursement made by the employer to the clerk of the court; and (b) one dollar for each subsequent disbursement made under the wage assignment order.

(5) An order for wage assignment entered under this chapter shall have priority over any other wage assignment or garnishment, except for a wage assignment or garnishment for child support, or an order to withhold and deliver under chapter 74.20A RCW or any other collection action under chapter 26.18 or 74.20 RCW.

(6) An employer who fails to withhold earnings as required by a wage assignment order issued under this chapter may be held liable for the amounts disbursed to the offender in violation of the wage assignment order, and may be found by the court to be in contempt of court and may be punished as provided by law.

(7) No employer who complies with a wage assignment order issued under this chapter may be liable to the employee for wrongful withholding.

(8) No employer may discharge, discipline, or refuse to hire an employee because of the entry or service of a wage assignment order issued and executed under this chapter. A person who violates this subsection may be found by the court to be in contempt of court and may be punished as provided by law.

(9) An employer shall deliver a copy of the wage assignment order to the obligor as soon as is reasonably possible.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. The department shall develop a form and adopt rules for the wage assignment answer.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. (1) Service of the wage assignment order on the employer is invalid unless it is served with five answer forms in substantial conformance with section 14 of this act, together with stamped envelopes addressed to, respectively, the clerk of the court where the order was issued, the obligee's attorney, the petitioner, the department, and the obligor. The petitioner shall also include an extra copy of the wage assignment order for the employer to deliver to the obligor. Service on the employer shall be in person or by any form of mail requiring a return receipt.

(2) On or before the date of service of the wage assignment order on the employer, the petitioner shall mail or cause to be mailed by certified mail a copy of the wage assignment order to the obligor at the obligor's last known post office address; or, in the alternative, a copy of the wage assignment order shall be served on the obligor in the same manner as a summons in a civil action on, before, or within two days after the date of service of the order on the employer. This requirement is not jurisdictional, but if the copy is not mailed or served as this subsection provides, or if any irregularity appears with respect to the mailing of service, the superior court, in its discretion, may quash the wage assignment order, upon motion of the obligor promptly made and supported by an affidavit showing that the defendant has suffered substantial injury due to the failure to mail or serve the copy.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. In a hearing to quash, modify, or terminate the wage assignment order, the court may grant relief only upon a showing that the wage assignment order causes extreme hardship or substantial injustice. Satisfaction by the defendant of all past-due payments subsequent to the issuance of the wage assignment order is not grounds to quash, modify, or terminate the wage assignment order. If a wage assignment order has been in operation for twelve consecutive months and the obligor's payment towards a court-ordered legal financial obligation is current, the court may terminate the order upon motion of the obligor unless the obligee or the department can show good cause as to why the wage assignment order should remain in effect.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. In any action to enforce legal financial obligations under this chapter, the prevailing party is entitled to a recovery of costs, including an award for reasonable attorneys' fees. An obligor may not be considered a prevailing party under this section unless the obligee has acted in bad faith in connection with the proceeding in question.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. For those individuals who, as a condition and term of their sentence imposed on or before July 1, 1989, have had financial obligations imposed, and who are not in compliance with the court order requiring payment of that legal financial obligation, no action shall be brought before the court from July 1, 1989, through and including December 31, 1989, to impose a penalty for their failure to pay. All individuals who, after December 31, 1989, have not taken the opportunity to bring their legal financial obligation current, shall be proceeded against pursuant to RCW 9.94A.200.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. Sections 3 and 9 through 18 of this act are each added to chapter 9.94A RCW.

Sec. 20. Section 1, chapter 207, Laws of 1982 and RCW 72.04A.120 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any person placed on parole shall be required to pay the monthly assessment, prescribed under subsection (2) of this section, which shall be for the duration of the parole and which shall be considered as payment or part payment of the cost of providing parole supervision to the parolee. The board may exempt a person from the payment of all or any part of the assessment based upon any of the following factors:

(a) The offender has diligently attempted but has been unable to obtain employment which provides the offender sufficient income to make such payments.

(b) The offender is a student in a school, college, university, or a course of vocational or technical training designed to fit the student for gainful employment.

(c) The offender has an employment handicap, as determined by an examination acceptable to or ordered by the board.

(d) The offender's age prevents him from obtaining employment.

(e) The offender is responsible for the support of dependents and the payment of the assessment constitutes an undue hardship on the offender.

(f) Other extenuating circumstances as determined by the board.

(2) The department of corrections shall adopt a rule prescribing the amount of the assessment. The department may, if it finds it appropriate, prescribe a schedule of assessments which shall vary in accordance with the intensity or cost of the supervision. The department may not prescribe any assessment which is less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

(3) Payment of the assessed amount shall constitute a condition of parole for purposes of the application of RCW 72.04A.090.

(4) All amounts required to be paid under this section shall be collected by the department of corrections and deposited by the department in the ~~((state general))~~ dedicated fund established pursuant to section 26 of this act.

(5) This section shall not apply to parole services provided under an interstate compact pursuant to chapter 9.95 RCW or to parole services provided for offenders paroled before June 10, 1982.

Sec. 21. Section 6, chapter 17, Laws of 1967 and RCW 72.65.060 are each amended to read as follows:

The earnings of a work release participant shall not be subject to garnishment, attachment, or execution while such earnings are either in the possession of the employer or any state officer authorized to hold such funds, except for payment of a court-ordered legal financial obligation as that term is defined in section 22 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. Unless a different meaning is plainly required by the context, the following words and phrases as hereafter used in this chapter shall have the following meanings:

(1) 'Court-ordered legal financial obligation' means a sum of money that is ordered by a superior court of the state of Washington for payment of restitution to a victim, statutorily imposed crime victims compensation fee, court costs, a county or interlocal drug fund, court-appointed attorneys' fees and costs of defense, fines, and any other legal financial obligation that is assessed as a result of a felony conviction.

(2) 'Department' means the department of corrections.

(3) 'Offender' means an individual who is currently under the jurisdiction of the Washington state department of corrections, and who also has a court-ordered legal financial obligation as a result of a felony conviction.

(4) 'Secretary' means the secretary of the department of corrections or the secretary's designee.

(5) 'Superintendent' means the superintendent of a correctional facility under the jurisdiction of the Washington state department of corrections.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 23. The secretary shall be custodian of all funds of a convicted person that are in his or her possession upon admission to a state institution, or that are sent or brought to the person, or earned by the person while in custody, or that are forwarded to the superintendent on behalf of a convicted person. All such funds shall be deposited in the personal account of the convicted person within the institutional resident deposit account as established by the office of financial management pursuant to RCW 43.88.195, and the secretary shall have authority to disburse money from such person's personal account for the purposes of satisfying a court-ordered legal financial obligation. Unless specifically granted authority herein, at no time shall the withdrawal of funds for the payment of a legal financial obligation result in reducing the inmate's account to an amount less than the defined level of indigency to be determined by the department.

Further, unless specifically altered herein, court-ordered legal financial obligations shall be paid.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 24. (1) Except as otherwise provided herein, all court-ordered legal financial obligations shall take priority over any other statutorily imposed mandatory withdrawals from inmate's accounts.

(2) For those inmates who are on work release pursuant to chapter 72.65 RCW, before any legal financial obligations are withdrawn from the inmate's account, the inmate is entitled to payroll deductions that are required by law, or such payroll deductions as may reasonably be required by the nature of the employment unless any such amount which his or her work release plan specifies should be retained to help meet the inmate's needs, including costs necessary for his or her participation in the work release plan such as travel, meals, clothing, tools, and other incidentals.

(3) Before the payment of any court-ordered legal financial obligation is required, the department is entitled to reimbursement for any expenses advanced for vocational training pursuant to RCW 72.65.020(2), for expenses incident to a work release plan pursuant to RCW 72.65.090, payments for board and room charges for the work release participant, and payments that are necessary for the support of the work release participant's dependents, if any.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 25. Sections 22 through 24 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 72 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 26. The cost of supervision fund is created in the custody of the state treasurer. All receipts from assessments made under RCW 9.94A.270 and 72.04A.120 shall be deposited into the fund. Expenditures from the fund may be used only to support the collection of legal financial obligations. Only the secretary of the department of corrections or the secretary's designee may authorize expenditures from the fund. The fund is subject to allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW, but no appropriation is required for expenditures.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 27. Except for sections 18, 22, 23, and 24 of this act, this act applies prospectively only and not retrospectively. It applies only to offenses committed on or after the effective date of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 28. (1) Sections 1 through 17, 19 through 21, 25, and 26 of this act shall take effect July 1, 1990.

(2) Sections 18, 22, 23, and 24 of this act are necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect July 1, 1989.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 29. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected."

HB 1581 Prime Sponsor, Representative Wang: Providing for family and medical leave. Reported by Committee on Appropriations

MAJORITY recommendation: The substitute bill by Committee on Commerce & Labor be substituted therefor and the substitute bill do pass with the following amendments by Committee on Appropriations:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the demands of the workplace and the needs of families need to be balanced to promote family stability and economic security. Changes in workplace leave policies are desirable to accommodate changes in the work force such as rising numbers of dual-career couples and working single parents. Further, inadequate job security exists for some employees who experience serious health conditions which prevent them from working for temporary periods. In addition, given the mobility of American society, many people no longer have available community or family support networks and therefore need additional flexibility in the workplace. The legislature declares it to be in the public interest to provide reasonable family leave upon the birth or adoption of a child or to care for a family member with a serious health condition and to provide reasonable temporary medical leave for an employee with a serious health condition.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

(1) 'Child' means a biological, adopted, or foster child, a stepchild, or a legal ward, who is:

(a) Under eighteen years of age; or

(b) Eighteen years of age or older and incapable of self-care because of mental or physical disability.

(2) 'Department' means the department of labor and industries.

(3) 'Employee' means a person engaged by an employer:

(a) To work an average of at least eighteen hours per week;

(b) In a job that is not considered temporary or seasonal; and

(c) Who has completed an initial probationary period of not less than three months under a formal probationary policy or six months of employment, whichever is less.

For purposes of this subsection, a job is temporary if the term of employment is less than nine months and the original term has not extended beyond nine months.

(4) 'Employer' means:

(a) Any person, firm, corporation, partnership, business trust, legal representative, or other business entity which engages in any business, industry, profession, or activity in this state, that employed thirty-five or more persons in this state within a twenty-mile radius of the employee's workplace during any calendar quarter of the previous twelve months: PROVIDED, That until October 1, 1991, 'employer' is limited to any person, firm, corporation, partnership, business trust, legal representative, or other business entity which engages in any business, industry, profession, or activity in this state, that employed fifty or more persons in this state within a twenty-mile radius of the employee's workplace during any calendar quarter of the previous twelve months; and

(b) The state, state institutions, state agencies, and any unit of local government including, but not limited to, a county, city, town, municipal corporation, quasi-municipal corporation, or political subdivision.

(5) 'Family leave' means leave from employment to care for a newborn or newly adopted child, or a family member with a serious health condition, as provided in section 3 of this act.

(6) 'Health care provider' means a person licensed as a physician under chapter 18.71 RCW, an advanced registered nurse practitioner under rules adopted by the board of nursing under chapter 18.88 RCW, or an osteopath under chapter 18.57 RCW; a person authorized to practice as a physician's assistant under chapter 18.71A RCW; or any other persons licensed or certified to provide health care services and capable of making the determinations required by this chapter, as determined by the department.

(7) 'Medical leave' means leave from employment because of an employee's serious health condition, as provided in section 4 of this act.

(8) 'Parent' means a biological, foster, or adoptive parent, a stepparent, or a legal guardian.

(9) 'Person' includes one or more individuals, partnerships, associations, organizations, corporations, cooperatives, legal representatives, trustees and receivers, or any group of persons; includes any owner, lessee, proprietor, manager, agent, or employee, whether one or more natural persons; and further includes any political or civil subdivisions of the state and any agency or instrumentality of the state or of any political or civil subdivision.

(10) 'Reduced leave schedule' means leave scheduled for fewer than an employee's usual number of hours per workweek or hours per workday.

(11) 'Serious health condition' means an illness, injury, impairment, or physical or mental condition, whether or not preexisting, which requires:

(a) Inpatient care in a hospital, hospice, or residential medical care facility; or

(b) Continuing treatment or continuing supervision by a health care provider.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) Except as provided in subsection (4) of this section, an employee is entitled to thirteen workweeks of family leave during any twenty-four month period under the circumstances in (a) and (b) of this subsection. The leave required by this section is in addition to any leave because of disability as a result of sickness or temporary disability because of pregnancy or childbirth.

(a) An employee may take leave to care for a newborn child of the employee or an adopted child of the employee who is under the age of sixteen at the time of placement for adoption. Leave under this subsection shall be completed within twelve months after the birth or placement for adoption, as applicable.

(b) An employee may take leave to care for any of the following individuals who has a serious health condition:

(i) A child of the employee;

(ii) The spouse of the employee;

(iii) A parent of the employee or the employee's spouse who is dependent for care on the employee; or

(iv) Any other relative of the employee who is dependent for care on the employee and relies on the employee or the employee's spouse for at least twenty-five percent of his or her financial support.

An employee may take leave under this subsection only when the individual requires the care of another person and the employee is an appropriate person to provide the care, as determined by a health care provider.

(2) Leave may be taken on a reduced leave schedule if:

(a) The total period during which the thirteen workweeks is taken does not exceed thirty-six consecutive workweeks; and

(b) The leave is scheduled so as not to disrupt unduly the operations of the employer.

(3) The leave required by this section may be unpaid. If an employer provides paid family leave for more than thirteen workweeks, the additional weeks of leave added to attain the thirteen workweek total may be unpaid. An employer may require an employee to first use up the employee's total accumulation of paid vacation leave, personal leave, family leave, or other comparable paid leave to which the employee is otherwise entitled before going on unpaid leave; however, nothing in this section requires more than thirteen total workweeks of leave.

(4) An employer may limit or deny family leave to an employee who receives compensation that is within the top ten percent of compensation of the employer's employees within the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) Except as provided in subsection (5) of this section, an employee is entitled to thirteen workweeks of medical leave during any twelve-month period when the employee is unable to perform the functions of the employee's position because of a serious health condition. The leave required by this section shall not be construed to limit any leave required as a reasonable accommodation to the sensory, mental, or physical handicap of the employee.

(2) Medical leave may be taken on a reduced leave schedule if:

(a) The total period during which the thirteen workweeks is taken does not exceed fifty-two consecutive workweeks; and

(b) The leave is scheduled so as not to disrupt unduly the operations of the employer.

(3) The leave required by this section may be unpaid. An employer may require an employee to first use up the employee's total accumulation of paid sick leave, disability leave, vacation leave, personal leave, or other comparable paid leave to which the employee is otherwise entitled before going on unpaid leave; however nothing in this section requires more than thirteen total workweeks of leave.

(4) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to prohibit an employee with a serious health condition and an employer from mutually agreeing to alternative employment for the employee. Any such period of alternative employment shall not cause a reduction in the period of medical leave to which the employee is entitled.

(5) An employer may limit or deny medical leave to an employee who receives compensation that is within the top ten percent of compensation of the employer's employees within the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) An employee planning to take family leave under section 3(1)(a) of this act shall provide the employer with at least thirty days' written notice of the expected date of delivery or placement for adoption, except that if the placement for adoption is at an unanticipated time and the employee is unable to give thirty days' written notice, the employee shall notify the employer within twenty-four hours of the placement for adoption.

(2) If family leave under section 3(1)(b) of this act or medical leave under section 4 of this act is foreseeable, the employee shall provide the employer with at least fourteen days' written notice of the expected leave and shall make a reasonable effort to schedule the leave so as not to disrupt unduly the operations of the employer.

(3) If family leave under section 3(1)(b) of this act or medical leave under section 4 of this act is not foreseeable fourteen or more days before the leave is to take place, the employee shall notify the employer within twenty-four hours of knowing when the leave is to take place and shall make a reasonable effort to schedule the leave so as not to disrupt unduly the operations of the employer.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. (1) An employer may require that a claim for family leave under section 3(1)(b) of this act or medical leave under section 4 of this act be confirmed by a health care provider of the child, spouse, parent, other relative, or employee, whichever is appropriate.

(2) The health care provider shall confirm:

(a) The date on which the serious health condition commenced or was discovered;

(b) The probable duration of the condition; and

(c) That the individual requires the care of another person and the employee is an appropriate person to provide the care.

(3) An employer may require, at the employer's expense, that the employee obtain the opinion of a second health care provider selected by the employer concerning any information required under subsection (2) of this section. If the health care providers disagree on any factor which is determinative of the employee's eligibility for family or medical leave, the two health care providers shall select a third health care provider, whose opinion, obtained at the employer's expense, shall be conclusive.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. An employer may limit the combined number of workweeks of family leave and medical leave provided under this chapter to thirteen workweeks during any twelve-month period.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) Subject to subsection (2) of this section, an employee who exercises any right provided under section 3 or 4 of this act shall be entitled, upon return from leave or during any reduced leave schedule:

(a) To the same position held by the employee when the leave commenced; or
 (b) To a position with equivalent benefits, pay, and other terms and conditions of employment.

(2) The entitlement under subsection (1) of this section does not apply if:

(a) The employer is unable to reinstate the employee due to a bona fide reduction in force; or

(b) The employer is unable to reinstate the employee due to the permanent or temporary shutdown of the employee's workplace for at least thirty days or the transfer of the business of the employee's workplace to a location at least sixty miles from the original location of the workplace.

(3) The taking of leave under this chapter shall not result in the loss of any benefit, including seniority or pension rights, accrued before the date on which the leave commenced.

(4) Except as provided in section 9 of this act, nothing in this chapter shall be construed to require the employer to grant benefits, including seniority or pension rights, during any period of leave.

(5) All policies applied during the period of leave to the classification of employees to which the employee belongs shall apply to the employee on leave.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. (1) Subject to subsection (2) of this section, during any period of leave taken under section 3 or 4 of this act, an employer shall maintain the employer's contribution for medical, dental, and disability benefits. The employer's contribution shall be at the level it would be had the employee not taken leave.

(2)(a) In the case of leave under section 3(1)(a) of this act, an employer may require as a condition of making the contribution under subsection (1) of this section that the employee place in escrow with the employer an amount equal to the employer's contribution for medical, dental, and disability benefits for the expected leave period. An employee may pay the amount in three equal installments at regular intervals over the leave period. An employer shall deposit the payments at a financial institution in an interest-bearing account.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (3) of this section, an employer shall return to the employee any payments made under this subsection, plus the accumulated interest, within thirty days after the employee returns from leave.

(3) If an employee ends his or her employment with an employer before returning from leave or within thirty days after returning from leave, the employer may deduct from the amount returned to the employee under subsection (2) of this section any contribution paid by the employer for the employee's medical, dental, or disability insurance while the employee was on leave.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. The department shall administer the provisions of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. The department shall adopt rules to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. (1) The rights and remedies under this chapter are in addition to any other rights or remedies provided by law.

(2) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to discourage employers from adopting policies which provide greater leave rights to employees than those required by this chapter.

(3) The provisions of this chapter shall be construed liberally for the accomplishment of the purposes thereof.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. (1) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to supersede any provision of any local law which provides greater leave rights to employees than the rights established under this chapter.

(2) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to diminish an employer's obligation to comply with any collective bargaining agreement or any employment benefit program or plan which provides greater leave rights to employees than the rights provided under this chapter.

(3) The rights provided to employees under this chapter may not be diminished by any collective bargaining agreement or any employment benefit program or plan entered into or renewed after the effective date of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. This chapter shall apply to collective bargaining agreements or employment benefit programs or plans entered into or renewed after the effective date of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. The department has power to hold hearings, subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance, administer oaths, take the testimony of any person under oath, and in connection therewith, to require the production for examination of any books or papers relating to any matter under investigation or in question before the department. The department may make rules as to the issuance of subpoenas under this chapter, as to service of complaints, decisions, orders, recommendations, and other process or papers of the department, either personally or by registered mail, return receipt requested, or by leaving a copy thereof at the principal office or place of business of the person required to be served. The return post office receipt, when service is by registered mail, shall be proof of service of the same.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. No person shall be excused from attending and testifying or from producing records, correspondence, documents, or other evidence in obedience to the subpoena of the department, on the ground that the testimony or evidence required of the person may tend to incriminate or subject the person to a penalty or forfeiture, but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which the person is compelled, after having claimed the privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce evidence, except that such person so testifying shall not be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying. The immunity herein provided shall extend only to natural persons so compelled to testify.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. In case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena issued to any person, the superior court of any county within the jurisdiction of which the investigation, proceeding, or hearing is carried on or within the jurisdiction of which the person guilty of contumacy or refusal to obey is found or resides or transacts business, upon application by the department, shall have jurisdiction to issue to such person an order requiring such person to appear before the department, there to produce evidence, if so ordered, or there to give testimony touching the matter under investigation or in question. Any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by the court as a contempt thereof.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. Witnesses before the department shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the courts of this state. Witnesses whose depositions are taken and the person taking the same shall be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like services in the courts of the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. Violation of sections 3 through 9 of this act is an unfair practice.

(1) Any person claiming to be aggrieved by an alleged unfair practice may, personally or by his or her attorney, make, sign, and file with the department a complaint in writing under oath. The complaint shall state the name and address of the person alleged to have committed the unfair practice and the particulars thereof, and contain such other information as may be required by the department.

(2) Whenever it has reason to believe that any person has been engaged or is engaging in an unfair practice, the department may issue a complaint.

(3) Any employer or principal whose employees, or agents, or any of them, refuse or threaten to refuse to comply with the provisions of this chapter may file with the department a written complaint under oath asking for assistance by conciliation or other remedial action.

Any complaint filed pursuant to this section must be so filed within six months after the alleged violation of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. After the filing of any complaint, the department shall refer it to the appropriate staff of the department for investigation and ascertainment of the facts alleged in the complaint. The results of the investigation shall be reduced to written findings of fact, and a finding shall be made that there is or that there is not reasonable cause for believing that an unfair practice has been or is being committed. A copy of said findings shall be furnished to the complainant and to the person named in such complaint, hereinafter referred to as the respondent.

If the finding is made that there is reasonable cause for believing that an unfair practice has been or is being committed, the staff of the department shall endeavor to eliminate the unfair practice by conference, conciliation, and persuasion.

If an agreement is reached for the elimination of such unfair practice as a result of such conference, conciliation and persuasion, the agreement shall be reduced to writing and signed by the respondent, and an order shall be entered by the department setting forth the terms of said agreement. No order shall be entered by the department at this stage of the proceedings except upon such written agreement.

If no such agreement can be reached, a finding to that effect shall be made and reduced to writing, with a copy thereof furnished to the complainant and the respondent.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. (1) In case of failure to reach an agreement for the elimination of an unfair practice or upon violation of a final order issued under section 22(5) of this act, and upon the entry of findings to that effect, the department may issue a citation. The form of the citation shall be adopted by rule under chapter 34.05 RCW. The department may assess a civil penalty not to exceed one thousand dollars for each violation against a person issued a citation. Any person who receives a citation shall pay the amount noted on the citation within thirty days of receipt. Monetary penalties collected under this section shall be deposited into the general fund.

(2) Any person aggrieved by any action taken or decision made by the department under subsection (1) of this section may appeal the action or decision to the director by filing notice of the appeal with the director within thirty days of the department's action or decision. Upon receipt of an appeal, a hearing shall be held in accordance with chapter 34.05 RCW. The director shall issue all final orders after the hearing. The final orders are subject to appeal in accordance with chapter 34.05 RCW. Orders not appealed within the time period specified in chapter 34.05 RCW are final and binding.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. (1) Upon consideration of the circumstances of the respondent and the person aggrieved by an unfair practice, and after an evaluation of whether a remedy for the person aggrieved or imposing a penalty under section 21 of this act will more effectively accomplish the purposes of this chapter, the department may, in lieu of imposing a civil penalty under section 21 of this act, seek a remedy for the person aggrieved under this section. The director shall thereupon request the appointment of an administrative law judge under Title 34 RCW to hear the complaint and shall cause to be issued and served in the name of the department a written notice, together with a copy of the complaint, as the same may have been amended, requiring the respondent to answer the charges of the complaint at a hearing before the administrative law judge, at a time and place to be specified in such notice.

(2) The place of any such hearing may be the office of the department or another place designated by it. The case in support of the complaint shall be presented at the hearing by counsel for the department: PROVIDED, That the complainant may retain independent counsel and submit testimony and be fully heard. No member or employee of the department who previously made the investigation or caused the notice to be issued shall participate in the hearing except as a witness, nor shall the member or employee participate in the deliberations of the administrative law judge in such case. Any endeavors or negotiations for conciliation shall not be received in evidence.

(3) The respondent shall file a written answer to the complaint and appear at the hearing in person or otherwise, with or without counsel, and submit testimony and be fully heard. The respondent has the right to cross-examine the complainant.

(4) The administrative law judge conducting any hearing may permit reasonable amendment to any complaint or answer. Testimony taken at the hearing shall be under oath and recorded.

(5) If, upon all the evidence, the administrative law judge finds that the respondent has engaged in any unfair practice, the administrative law judge shall state findings of fact and shall issue and file with the department and cause to be served on such respondent an order requiring such respondent to cease and desist from such unfair practice and to take such affirmative action, including, but not limited to, hiring, reinstatement or upgrading of employees, with or without back pay, or to take such other action as, in the judgment of the administrative law judge, will effectuate the purposes of this chapter, including action that could be ordered by a court, except that damages for humiliation and mental suffering shall not exceed one thousand dollars, and including a requirement for report of the matter on compliance.

(6) The final order of the administrative law judge shall include a notice to the parties of the right to obtain judicial review of the order by appeal in accordance with the provisions of RCW 34.05.518 or 34.05.570, and that such appeal must be served and filed within thirty days after the service of the order on the parties.

(7) If, upon all the evidence, the administrative law judge finds that the respondent has not engaged in any alleged unfair practice, the administrative law judge shall state findings of fact and shall similarly issue and file an order dismissing the complaint.

(8) An order dismissing a complaint may include an award of reasonable attorneys' fees in favor of the respondent if the administrative law judge concludes that the complaint was frivolous or brought in bad faith.

(9) The department may impose a civil penalty under section 21(1) of this act upon any person who violates a final order. The respondent may seek review of the penalty under section 21(2) of this act or, if the respondent has sought judicial review of the underlying order, the respondent may seek review of the penalty as part of the review of the underlying order.

(10) The department shall establish rules of practice to govern, expedite and effectuate the foregoing procedure.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 23. (1) The department shall petition the court within the county wherein any unfair practice occurred or wherein any person charged with an unfair practice resides or transacts business for the enforcement of any final order which is not complied with and is issued by the department or an administrative law judge under the provisions of this chapter and for appropriate temporary relief or a restraining order, and shall certify and file in court the final order sought to be enforced. Within five days after filing such petition in court, the department shall cause a notice of the petition to be sent by registered mail to all parties or their representatives.

(2) From the time the petition is filed, the court shall have jurisdiction of the proceedings and of the questions determined thereon, and shall have the power to grant such temporary relief or restraining order as it deems just and suitable.

(3) If the petition shows that there is a final order issued by the department or administrative law judge under section 20, 21, or 22 of this act and that the order has not been complied with in whole or in part, the court shall issue an order directing the person who is alleged to have not complied with the administrative order to appear in court at a time designated in the order, not less than ten days from the date thereof, and show cause why the administrative order should not be enforced according to the terms. The department shall immediately serve the person with a copy of the court order and the petition.

(4) The administrative order shall be enforced by the court if the person does not appear, or if the person appears and the court finds that:

(a) The order is regular on its face;

(b) The order has not been complied with; and

(c) The person's answer discloses no valid reason why the order should not be enforced, or that the reason given in the person's answer could have been raised by review under RCW 34.05.570, and the person has given no valid excuse for failing to use that remedy.

(5) The jurisdiction of the court shall be exclusive and its judgment and decree shall be final, except that the same shall be subject to appellate review by the supreme court or the court of appeals, on appeal, by either party, irrespective of the nature of the decree or judgment. The review shall be taken and prosecuted in the same manner and form and with the same effect as is provided in other cases.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 24. Any respondent or complainant, including the department, aggrieved by a final order of an administrative law judge may obtain judicial review of such order as provided under the administrative procedure act, chapter 34.05 RCW. From the time a petition for review is filed, the court has jurisdiction to grant to any party such temporary relief or restraining order as it deems just and suitable. If the court affirms the order, it shall enter a judgment and decree enforcing the order as affirmed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 25. Petitions filed under sections 23 and 24 of this act shall be heard expeditiously and determined upon the transcript filed, without requirement of printing. Hearings in the court under this chapter shall take precedence over all other matters, except matters of the same character.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 26. In any case in which the department shall issue an order against any political or civil subdivision of the state, or any agency, or instrumentality of the state or of the foregoing, or any officer or employee thereof, the department shall transmit a copy of such order to the governor of the state. The governor shall take such action to secure compliance with such order as the governor deems necessary.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 27. It is an unfair practice for any employer, employment agency, labor union, or other person to discharge, expel, or otherwise discriminate against any person because he or she has opposed any practices forbidden by this chapter, or because he or she has filed a charge, testified, or assisted in any proceeding under this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 28. It is an unfair practice for any person to aid, abet, encourage, or incite the commission of any unfair practice, or to attempt to obstruct or prevent any other person from complying with the provisions of this chapter or any order issued thereunder, or to resist, prevent, impede, or interfere with the department or representatives in the performance of a duty under this chapter. Seeking review of an order shall not constitute an unfair practice.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 29. Any person deeming himself or herself damaged by an act in violation of this chapter shall have a civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction to enjoin further violations or to recover the actual damages sustained by him or her, or both, together with the cost of suit including reasonable attorneys' fees, in addition to any other remedy authorized by this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 30. The sum of three hundred thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, from the general fund to the department of labor and industries for the purpose of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 31. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 32. Sections 1 through 29 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 49 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 33. This act shall take effect September 1, 1989."

- (1) 'Department' means the department of social and health services.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 5. Except where otherwise provided, chapter 34.05 RCW shall govern all rule-making and adjudicative activities under this chapter.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 6. (1) In consultation with the child care coordinating committee established pursuant to RCW 74.13.090 and representatives of child care facilities to be licensed under this chapter, the department shall adopt rules and standards with respect to all child care facilities and the operators thereof to be licensed under this chapter to carry out the purposes and requirements of this chapter. In developing rules, the department is authorized to designate categories of child care facilities for which separate or different requirements may be developed, as may be appropriate, whether because of the age of children served, the number of children served in the facility, the number of hours children are in care, or any other relevant factors.

(2) The rules and standards adopted shall include but not be limited to:

(a) The size and suitability of a facility and the plan of operation;

(b) The character, suitability, and competence of the provider and staff directly responsible for the care of children using the facility. In consultation with law enforcement personnel, the department shall investigate the conviction record or pending charges and dependency record information under chapter 43.43 RCW of the provider and its staff. The department shall use the information solely for the purpose of determining eligibility for a license and for determining the character, suitability, and competence of those persons who will care for children using the facility. Criminal justice agencies shall provide the department such information as they may have and that the department may require for such purpose upon request of the department;

(c) The ratio of staff to children necessary to render care to children using the facility;

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. After July 1, 1990, no person shall operate or maintain a child care facility in this state without a license issued under this chapter.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 8. (1) An application for a license shall be made to the department upon forms provided by the department and shall contain such information as the department reasonably requires, which may include affirmative evidence of ability to comply with this chapter and the rules adopted under this chapter.

(2) The department shall issue a license to a child care facility if, after inspection and any discretionary investigation, the department finds that the provider and the facility are in compliance with this chapter and the rules adopted under this chapter; and that the provider has no prior violations of this chapter relating to the child care facility subject to the application or any other child care facility within the past five years that has resulted in revocation or nonrenewal of a license or certification.

(3) The department shall serve upon the provider by certified mail a copy of the decision granting or denying an application for a license. A provider shall have the right to contest denial of his or her application for a license as provided in chapter 34.05 RCW by requesting a hearing in writing within ten days after receipt of the notice of denial.

(2) At least ninety days prior to the expiration of the license, the department shall send a license renewal application to the provider. The provider shall complete and submit the application within sixty days of expiration of the license. The department shall have the authority to investigate any information included in the application for license renewal, and shall conduct an inspection of the applicant facility at least thirty days prior to expiration of the license.

(3) If the department finds that the facility is not in compliance with the requirements of this chapter, it shall require the facility to correct any violations as provided in section 10 of this act and may issue a provisional license as provided in section 14 of this act. If the department finds that the provider is in compliance with this chapter and the rules adopted under this chapter, the department shall renew the license of the facility.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. (1) Child care facilities shall accord the department, the department of health, if one is created, and the director of fire protection of the department of community development, or their designees access to the facility for purposes of inspection under this chapter. During inspections of a child care facility, the department, the department of health, if one is created, and the director of fire protection of the department of community development, or their designees, shall have full access and authority to examine, among other things, a child care facility's records and accounts, and physical premises, including the buildings, grounds, equipment, or any vehicles used to care for children using the facility. The department also shall have the authority to interview the provider, staff, and children in the care of the child care facility. Inspections may be conducted without advance notice during all hours of operation of the facility.

(2) Whenever an inspection is conducted and the department finds that a facility is in violation of this chapter or the rules adopted under this chapter, the department shall prepare a statement of deficiencies that contains the following information:

- (a) A description of each condition in the facility that constitutes a violation;
- (b) Each requirement alleged to have been violated;
- (c) A plan of correction that includes the date by which violations shall be corrected, but no later than ninety days after receipt of the notice;
- (d) Sanctions that may be imposed against the facility for failure to correct the violations by the date specified in the statement of deficiencies;
- (e) The right to contest violations if an administrative sanction is imposed; and
- (f) The right to apply for a variance, as provided in section 11 of this act.

The statement of deficiencies shall be served upon the provider personally or by certified mail within five working days of the inspection. All statements of deficiencies shall be made available to the public at the department during business hours.

(3) The department shall conduct an inspection of the facility within ninety days after the date by which violations shall be corrected as specified in the statement of deficiencies.

(4) The department may delegate all or part of its authority to inspect and monitor child care facilities to the department of community development, through the director of fire protection or to the department of health, if one is created. Following inspection, the director of fire protection or the department of health shall issue to licensed applicants who comply with the requirements of this chapter for which those agencies have been delegated authority, a certificate of compliance, a copy of which shall be presented to the department before a license is issued.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. (1) A child care facility provider may apply to the department for a variance from a requirement of this chapter. The application for a variance shall state:

- (a) The specific requirement from which the variance is sought;
- (b) A description of the way in which the facility is not in compliance with this chapter;
- (c) The reasons why strict compliance with the requirement would impose a substantial hardship on the provider;
 - (d) The alternative method the provider will use to meet the requirement, and the way in which the provider's alternative method:
 - (i) Meets the same goal as the specific requirement from which the variance is being sought is designed to meet; and
 - (ii) Protects the health and safety of the children using the facility as well as they would be protected if strict compliance with the requirement was required.

(2) The department shall grant a variance upon a determination that:

- (a) Strict compliance with the requirement would impose a substantial hardship on the provider;
- (b) The provider's alternative method of compliance will meet the same goal that the requirement from which the provider seeks the variance was designed to meet; and

(c) The provider's alternative method for compliance with this chapter protects the health, safety, and welfare of the children in care of the provider as well as they would be protected if strict compliance with this chapter were required.

(3) The decision to grant or deny a variance shall be in writing and shall state the finding upon which the decision was based. The department may impose conditions upon the variance it determines are necessary to meet the policies of this chapter, and may limit the duration of the variance. Any conditions imposed shall be stated in the decision granting the variance. The provider shall be served by certified mail with a copy of the decision, and with written notice of the provider's right to contest the decision as provided in chapter 34.05 RCW.

(4) A provider who fails to comply with a decision granting a variance shall be subject to the procedures and sanctions for failure to comply with this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. No public or private agency contractor or employee shall recommend placement of a child into a child care facility that is operating without a license. Any public or private agency contractor or employee who knows or should know that a child care facility is operating without a license shall report the name and address of the facility to the department. The department shall investigate any report filed under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. The department shall consult with child care facility licensees and applicants in order to help them comply with this chapter and the rules adopted under this chapter and improve their methods and facilities for the care of children.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. The department is authorized to issue a provisional license to any facility for a period not to exceed six months, renewable for a period not to exceed six months, to allow such facility reasonable time to become eligible for a license. A provisional license may be issued following a provider's application for a license when a determination has been made that the provider does not meet all of the requirements of this chapter, or following suspension of a license as provided in section 15 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. The department is authorized to deny, refuse to renew, revoke, or suspend a license or to assess civil monetary penalties, as provided in section 16 of this act, in any case in which the department finds that a child care provider has:

(1) After following the procedures in section 10 of this act, failed or refused to comply with the requirements of this chapter;

(2) Operated a child care facility without a license or under a revoked license;

(3) Knowingly or with reason to know made a false statement of material fact on his or her application for a license or any data attached thereto, or in any matter under investigation by the department; or

(4) Willfully prevented or interfered with any inspection or investigation by the department, the director of fire protection, of the department of community development, or their designee.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. (1) The department may assess civil monetary penalties not to exceed five hundred dollars per violation for violations of the requirements of this chapter. Each day upon which the same or a substantially similar violation occurs is a separate violation subject to the assessment of a separate penalty.

(2) Any civil penalty assessed under this section shall bear a reasonable rate of interest from the date of notification of the violation. The department may administer civil monetary penalties under this section by:

(a) Requiring payment in full;

(b) Permitting installment payments;

(c) Requiring that the full amount or a portion of the assessed civil penalty be expended to ameliorate the violation or to improve the nonadministrative services within the facility; or

(d) Deferring the penalty or a portion thereof until one year after corrective action has been completed to assure maintenance of such action. At the end of such year, the penalty may be reduced, all or in part, if the corrective action has been maintained. The penalty may be trebled if such corrective action is not maintained for one year.

(3) All civil monetary penalties collected by the department pursuant to this section shall be deposited in the child care expansion grant fund established under RCW 74.13.095.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, all orders of the department issued under the authority of section 15 of this act shall become final twenty days after the same has been served personally or by certified mail upon the child care provider, unless a hearing is requested.

(2) Orders of the department imposing suspension of a provider's license shall be effective immediately upon notice, pending any hearing, if the basis for the summary suspension is the existence of conditions presenting an immediate threat of harm to children using the facility.

(3) All hearings under this chapter and judicial review of such determinations shall be in accordance with chapter 34.05 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. In addition to other remedies provided by law, the department may seek enforcement of its final orders by filing an action for civil enforcement in a court of competent jurisdiction.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. In addition to other remedies provided by law, the department may, in the manner provided by law, upon the advice of the attorney general, who shall represent the department in the proceeding, maintain an action in the name of the state for injunction or such other relief as the department may deem advisable against any child care facility subject to licensing under this chapter or against any such facility not having a license as provided in this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. The enactment of this chapter does not have the effect of terminating, or in any way modifying, a license issued to a child care provider under chapter 74.15 RCW which is already in existence on the effective date of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. The operator of any child care facility which operates without a license is guilty of a misdemeanor.

(1) In consultation with the children's services advisory committee, and with the advice and assistance of persons representative of the various type agencies to be licensed, to designate categories of facilities for which separate or different requirements shall be developed as may be appropriate whether because of variations in the ages, sex and other characteristics of persons served, variations in the purposes and services offered or size or structure of the agencies to be licensed hereunder, or because of any other factor relevant thereto;

(b) The character, suitability and competence of an agency and other persons associated with an agency directly responsible for the care and treatment of children, expectant mothers or developmentally disabled persons. In consultation with law enforcement personnel, the secretary shall investigate the conviction record or pending charges and dependency record information under chapter 43.43 RCW of each agency and its staff seeking licensure or relicensure. Criminal justice agencies shall provide the secretary such information as they may have and that the secretary may require for such purpose;

However, if a child is placed with a relative under RCW 13.34.060 or 13.34.130, and if such relative appears otherwise suitable and competent to provide care and treatment the criminal history background check required by this section need not be completed before placement, but shall be completed as soon as possible after placement;

(4) On reports of child abuse and neglect, to investigate agencies in accordance with chapter 26.44 RCW, ~~((including day care centers and family day care homes;))~~ to determine whether the abuse or neglect has occurred, and whether child protective services or referral to a law enforcement agency is appropriate;

(5) To issue, revoke, or deny licenses to agencies pursuant to chapter 74.15 RCW and RCW 74.13.031. Licenses shall specify the category of care which an agency is authorized to render and the ages, sex and number of persons to be served;

HB 1584 Prime Sponsor, Representative Bristow: Dealing with child care facilities. Reported by Committee on Appropriations

MAJORITY recommendation: The substitute bill by Committee on Human Services be substituted therefor and the substitute bill do pass with the following amendments by Committee on Appropriations:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The purpose of this act is to:

(1) Increase the availability of child care services in Washington state through the provision of start-up and expansion grant funds to persons and organizations providing child care services;

(2) Make affordable child care services available to low-income families in Washington state; and

(3) Improve the quality of child care services in Washington state through the provision of training and support services to child care providers.

Sec. 2. Section 30, chapter 228, Laws of 1963 as amended by section 111, chapter 154, Laws of 1973 1st ex. sess. and RCW 74.12.340 are each amended to read as follows:

The department is authorized to promulgate rules and regulations governing the provision of ~~((day)) child care ((as a part of child welfare services))~~ when the secretary determines that a need exists for such ~~((day))~~ child care and that it is in the best interests of the child, the parents, or the custodial parent and in determining the need for such ~~((day))~~ child care priority shall be given to geographical areas having the greatest need for such care and to members of low income groups in the population: PROVIDED, That where the family is financially able to pay part or all of the costs of such care, fees shall be imposed and paid according to the financial ability of the family.

Sec. 3. Section 1, chapter 213, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.13.085 are each amended to read as follows:

It shall be the policy of the state of Washington to:

(1) Recognize the family as the most important social and economic unit of society and support the central role parents play in child rearing. All parents are encouraged to care for and nurture their children through the traditional methods of parental care at home. However,

~~((to the extent child care services are used;))~~ there has been a dramatic increase in participation of women in the workforce which has made the availability of quality, affordable child care a critical concern for the state and its citizens. There are not enough child care services and facilities to meet the needs of working parents, the costs of care are often beyond the resources of working parents, and child care facilities are not located conveniently to work places and neighborhoods. Parents are encouraged to participate fully in the effort to improve the quality of child care services.

(2) Promote a variety of culturally and developmentally appropriate child care settings and services of the highest possible quality in accordance with the basic principle of continuity of care. These settings shall include, but not be limited to, family day care homes, mini-centers, centers and schools.

(3) Promote the growth, development and safety of children by working with community groups including providers and parents to establish standards for quality service, training of child care providers, fair and equitable monitoring, and salary levels commensurate with provider responsibilities and support services.

(4) Promote equal access to quality, affordable, socio-economically integrated child care for all children and families.

(5) Facilitate broad community and private sector involvement in the provision of quality child care services to foster economic development and assist industry.

Sec. 4. Section 3, chapter 213, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.13.095 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The legislature ~~((recognizes))~~ finds that a severe shortage of affordable, quality child care services exists to the detriment of all families and employers throughout the state. Many workers are unable to enter or remain in the work force due to a shortage of child care ~~((resources))~~ services. The high costs of starting ~~((a child care business))~~ or expanding a child care facility create a barrier to the creation of new slots, especially for children with special needs. The legislature further finds that increasing the availability of affordable, quality child care services for the state's working parents, especially those who are low income or have handicapped children, is a recognized governmental function. The provision of grants to child care providers who, in consideration for receiving such grant, agree to serve special needs or low-income children for a fixed period of years, is a means of increasing the availability of child care services in this state.

(2) A child care expansion grant fund is created in the custody of the secretary of the department of social and health services. Grants shall be awarded on a one-time only basis to persons, organizations, or schools needing assistance to start a child care ~~((center or mini-center))~~ facility, including a family day care home, as defined by the department by rule, or to make capital improvements in existing licensed child care ~~((providers))~~ facilities, including family day care homes ~~((providers, for the purpose of making capital improvements in order to accommodate handicapped children as defined under chapter 72.40 RCW, sick children, or infant care, or children needing night time care))~~. As a condition of receiving a grant under this section, a person, organization, or school requesting a grant, shall make a commitment to serve a reasonable number of the following children:

(a) Handicapped children as defined under chapter 72.40 RCW;

(b) Sick children;

(c) Infants;

(d) Children requiring night time or weekend care;

(e) Children whose costs of care are subsidized by the department of social and health services; or

(f) Children of parents whose household income is at or below two hundred percent of the federal poverty level, adjusted for family size, as determined annually by the federal department of health and human services.

For each grant awarded under this section, the department shall designate the specific number or percentage of children under (a) through (f) of this subsection that the child care provider must be willing to accept in its program.

No grant may exceed ~~((ten))~~ twenty-five thousand dollars. Start-up costs shall not include operational costs after the first three months of business.

(3) Child care expansion grants shall be awarded on the basis of need for the proposed services in the community, within appropriated funds. Every effort shall be made to ensure that the distribution of grants is balanced geographically throughout the state.

(4) Where the grant is made to a private person or organization, the grant shall be repaid to the fund if the child care facility using the grant to start up or expand ceases to provide child care earlier than the following time periods from when the grant is made: (a) Twelve months for a grant up to five thousand dollars; (b) twenty-four months for a grant over five thousand dollars up to ten thousand dollars; (c) thirty-six months for a grant over ten thousand dollars up to fifteen thousand dollars; (d) forty-eight months for a grant over fifteen thousand dollars up to twenty thousand dollars; and (e) sixty months for a grant over twenty thousand dollars up to twenty-five thousand dollars.

(5) The department shall adopt rules under chapter ~~((3404))~~ 34.05 RCW setting forth criteria, application procedures, and methods to assure compliance with the purposes described in this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. RCW 74.12.340, 74.13.085, 74.13.090, 74.13.095, and 74.15.200 are recodified into a new chapter in Title 74 RCW relating to child care.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. The sum of eighteen million six hundred fifty thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, from the general fund to the department of social and health services for the purposes of section 2 of this act as follows:

(2) Three million seven hundred thirty thousand dollars is provided solely to expand child care services for children being served in the department's child protective services and child welfare services programs.

(3) Six million six hundred twenty thousand dollars is provided solely to expand child care services to children of low-income employed parents.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. The sum of four hundred thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, from the general fund to the department of social and health services for the purposes of section 4 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. The sum of one million five hundred thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, from the general fund to the department of social and health services as follows:

(1) One million dollars is provided solely for the purpose of providing start-up and operating funds to ten local child care resource and referral agencies. Grants under this subsection shall be limited to fifty thousand dollars per year.

(2) Five hundred thousand dollars is provided solely for the purpose of providing support and training programs to assist licensed providers or license applicants in obtaining child care provider certification or for grants to local child care resource and referral agencies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. HB 1864 Prime Sponsor, Representative Day: Concerning quality of care in nursing homes. Reported by Committee on Appropriations

MAJORITY recommendation: The substitute bill by Committee on Health Care be substituted therefor and the substitute bill do pass with the following amendments by Committee on Appropriations:

*Sec. 17, Section 36, chapter 177, Laws of 1980 as last amended by section 1, chapter 208, Laws of 1988 and by section 1, chapter 221, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.46.360 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) The depreciation base shall be the historical cost of the contractor or lessor, when the assets are leased by the contractor, in acquiring the asset in an arm's-length transaction and preparing it for use, less goodwill, and less accumulated depreciation which has been incurred during periods that the assets have been used in or as a facility by any contractor, such accumulated depreciation to be measured in accordance with subsections (2), (3), and (4) of this section and RCW 74.46.350 and 74.46.370. If the department challenges the historical cost of an asset, or if the contractor cannot or will not provide the historical costs, the department will have the department of general administration, through an appraisal procedure, determine the fair market value of the assets at the time of purchase. The depreciation base of the assets will not exceed such fair market value.

(2) The historical cost of donated assets, or of assets received through testate or intestate distribution, shall be the lesser of:

(a) Fair market value at the date of donation or death; or

(b) The historical cost base of the owner last contracting with the department, if any.

(3) Estimated salvage value of acquired, donated, or inherited assets shall be deducted from historical cost where the straight-line or sum-of-the-years' digits method of depreciation is used.

(4) (a) Where depreciable assets are acquired that were used in the medical care program subsequent to January 1, 1980, the depreciation base of the assets will not exceed the net book value which did exist or would have existed had the assets continued in use under the previous contract with the department; except that depreciation shall not be assumed to accumulate during periods when the assets were not in use in or as a facility.

(b) The provisions of (a) of this subsection shall not apply to the most recent arm's-length acquisition if it occurs at least ten years after the ownership of the assets has been previously transferred in an arm's-length transaction nor to the first arm's-length acquisition that occurs after January 1, 1980, for facilities participating in the medical care program prior to January 1, 1980. The new depreciation base for such acquisitions shall not exceed the fair market value of the assets as determined by the department of general administration through an appraisal procedure. A determination by the department of general administration of fair market value shall be final unless the procedure used to make such determination is shown to be arbitrary and capricious. This subsection is inoperative for any transfer of ownership of any asset occurring on or after July 18, 1984, leaving (a) of this subsection to apply alone to such transfers: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That this subsection shall apply to transfers of ownership of assets occurring prior to January 1, 1985, if the costs of such assets have never been reimbursed under medicaid cost reimbursement on an owner-operated basis or as a related-party lease: PROVIDED FURTHER, That for any contractor that can document in writing an enforceable agreement for the purchase of a nursing home dated prior to ~~((August 1))~~ July 18, 1984, and submitted to the department prior to January 1, 1988, the depreciation base of the nursing home, for rates established subsequent to July 18, 1984, shall not exceed the fair market value of the assets at the date of purchase as determined by the department of general administration through an appraisal procedure. For medicaid cost reimbursement purposes, an agreement to purchase a nursing home prior to July 18, 1984, is enforceable, even though such agreement contains no legal description of the real property involved, notwithstanding the statute of frauds or any other provision of law.

(c) In the case of assets leased by the same contractor since January 1, 1980, in an arm's-length lease, and purchased by the lessee/contractor, the lessee/contractor shall have the option:

(i) To have the provisions of subsection (b) of this section apply to the purchase; or

(ii) To have the reimbursement for property and return on investment continue to be calculated pursuant to the provisions contained in RCW 74.46.530(1)(e) and (f) based upon the provisions of the lease in existence on the date of the purchase, but only if the purchase date meets one of the following criteria:

(A) The purchase date is after the lessor has declared bankruptcy or has defaulted in any loan or mortgage held against the leased property;

(B) The purchase date is within one year of the lease expiration or renewal date contained in the lease;

(C) The purchase date is after a rate setting for the facility in which the reimbursement rate set pursuant to this chapter no longer is equal to or greater than the actual cost of the lease; or

(D) The purchase date is within one year of any purchase option in existence on January 1, 1988.

(d) Where depreciable assets are acquired from a related organization, the contractor's depreciation base shall not exceed the base the related organization had or would have had under a contract with the department.

(e) Where the depreciable asset is a donation or distribution between related organizations, the base shall be the lesser of (i) fair market value, less salvage value, or (ii) the depreciation base the related organization had or would have had for the asset under a contract with the department."

HB 2087 Prime Sponsor, Representative Bristow: Revising and adding provisions on alcoholism and drug abuse programs. Reported by Committee on Appropriations

MAJORITY recommendation: The substitute bill by Committee on Human Services be substituted therefor and the substitute bill do pass with the following amendments by Committee on Appropriations:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

*Sec. 1. Section 2, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 as amended by section 1, chapter 163, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.50.010 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature finds:

(1) There is a need for reevaluation of state policies and programs regarding indigent alcoholics and drug addicts;

(2) The practice of providing a cash grant may be causing rapid caseload growth and attracting transients to the state;

(3) Many chronic public inebriates have been recycled through county detoxification centers repeatedly without apparent improvement;

(4) The assumption that all individuals will recover through treatment has not been substantiated;

(5) The state must modify its policies and programs for alcoholics and drug addicts and redirect its resources in the interests of these individuals, the community, and the taxpayers; and

(6) Treatment resources should be focused on persons willing to commit to rehabilitation(~~and~~);

~~((?))~~ It is the intent of the legislature that, to the extent possible, shelter services be developed under this chapter that do not result in the displacement of existing emergency shelter beds. To the extent that shelter operators do not object, it is the intent of the legislature that any vacant shelter beds contracted for under this chapter be made available to provide emergency temporary shelter to homeless individuals.

The legislature further finds that this chapter is a successful method of providing treatment to indigent alcoholics and drug addicts, but the program is facing fiscal restraints that may prevent the program from accomplishing its mission and may do irreparable harm to the continuation of the program.

Therefore, it is the intent of the legislature that the department of social and health services provide to eligible persons a balanced range of services for assessment, inpatient and outpatient continuum of treatment, and shelter within appropriated funds.

Sec. 2. Section 3, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 and RCW 74.50.020 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Persons who are incapacitated from gainful employment due to alcoholism or drug addiction and who meet the eligibility requirements as established by rule by the department ~~((are eligible for))~~ may be eligible to receive special substance abuse programs as provided under this chapter. ~~(Eligible alcoholics and drug addicts shall have their needs addressed by the programs offered by the department of social and health services under this chapter and)~~ The department in its rules shall:

(a) Establish eligibility requirements for each program or service which requirements are designed to ensure that subsection (2) of this section is conformed to and that only persons who are incapacitated from gainful employment due to alcoholism or drug addiction qualify for assistance under this chapter.

(b) Establish income and resource limits for eligibility which shall be at least as stringent as the income and resource limits under RCW 74.04.005.

(c) Specify the amount of cash that can be disbursed by a protective payee to recipients of shelter assistance or outpatient treatment under this chapter.

(2) Within available funds, the department may provide to eligible persons services for assessment, inpatient and outpatient treatment, and shelter. In order to control expenditures or to comply with conditions or limitations placed on appropriations, the department may establish caseload ceilings and client eligibility standards for any of these services as well as priority classes for service under RCW 74.50.050(2).

(3) Nothing in this chapter shall prevent any person from receiving assistance under chapters 69.54 and 70.96A RCW.

Sec. 3. Section 5, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 and RCW 74.50.040 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Subject to RCW 74.50.020(2), the department shall provide client assessment, treatment, and support services. The assessment services shall include diagnostic evaluation and arranging for admission into treatment or supported living programs.

(2) The department shall assist clients in making application for supplemental security benefits and in obtaining the necessary documentation required by the federal social security administration for such benefits.

(3) If, as a result of appropriation limitations under RCW 74.50.020(2), a person is not receiving treatment or shelter assistance under this chapter, and might be incapacitated from gainful employment due to physical or mental conditions:

(a) An assessment center shall refer that person to the general assistance unemployable program; and

(b) The department shall evaluate that person's eligibility for the general assistance unemployable program.

Sec. 4. Section 6, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 as amended by section 3, chapter 163, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.50.050 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Subject to RCW 74.50.020(2), the department shall provide alcohol and drug treatment services for indigent persons eligible under this chapter who are incapacitated from gainful employment due to drug or alcohol abuse or addiction. The treatment services may include but are not limited to:

(a) Intensive inpatient treatment services;

(b) Recovery house treatment;

(c) Outpatient treatment and counseling, including assistance in obtaining employment, and including a living allowance while undergoing outpatient treatment. The living allowance may not be used to provide shelter to clients in a dormitory setting that does not require sobriety as a condition of residence. The living allowance shall be administered on the clients' behalf by the outpatient treatment facility or other social service agency designated by the department. The department is authorized to pay the facility a fee for administering this allowance.

~~(2) (Every effort will be made to serve all of those requesting treatment. If a waiting list develops, those persons awaiting treatment may be provided shelter services and shall have the option of receiving such shelter services through a protective payee. The department shall promulgate regulations which determine the amount of cash which may be disbursed by the protective payee to the recipient. A recipient who fails to appear for the scheduled treatment shall not be eligible for such waiting period benefits for a period of one year)) In order to comply with RCW 74.50.020(2), the department shall adopt rules providing for the classification of eligible applicants for treatment into priority classes. In establishing priority classes, the department shall consider the following:~~

~~(a) The need for treatment in conjunction with maternity care services for alcohol and drug abusing pregnant women to assure healthy births;~~

~~(b) The potential impact on families and children if treatment is unavailable for alcohol or drug abusing parents or household members; and~~

~~(c) The availability of treatment alternatives for persons eligible for treatment under this chapter who may also be eligible for drug and alcohol treatment services under other programs.~~

~~The department shall strive to serve all of those requesting treatment. If a waiting list develops, the department may limit treatment under this chapter to those in the highest priority class or classes. Persons awaiting treatment shall be referred to the shelter assistance program under RCW 74.50.060.~~

~~Treatment programs under this chapter for special populations such as pregnant women and single parents with children shall be designed to coordinate with programs providing maternity care services and child care, or to incorporate such services as necessary.~~

~~(3) No individual may receive treatment services under this section for more than six months in any two-year period: PROVIDED, That the department may approve additional treatment and/or living allowance as an exception.~~

~~(4) The department may require an applicant or recipient selecting treatment to complete inpatient and recovery house treatment when, in the judgment of a designated assessment center, such treatment is necessary prior to providing the outpatient program.~~

~~(5) The department may provide for outpatient treatment services without a shelter allowance to persons receiving income assistance through the family independence program, the aid to families with dependent children program, supplemental security income, or the general assistance program.~~

~~(6) The department shall adopt standards for performance-based contracting of treatment services under this section.~~

Sec. 5. Section 7, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 as amended by section 4, chapter 163, Laws of 1988 and RCW 74.50.060 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Subject to RCW 74.50.020(2), the department shall establish a shelter assistance program ~~((to ensure the availability of shelter))~~ for persons eligible under this chapter. 'Shelter,' 'shelter support,' or 'shelter assistance' means a facility under contract to the department providing room and board in a supervised living arrangement, normally in a group or dormitory setting, to eligible recipients under this chapter. This may include supervised domiciliary facilities operated under the auspices of public or private agencies. No facility under contract to the department shall allow the consumption of alcoholic beverages on the premises. The department may contract with counties and cities for such shelter services. To the extent possible, the department shall not displace existing emergency shelter beds for use as shelter under this chapter. In areas of the state in which it is not feasible to develop shelters, due to low numbers of people needing shelter services, or in which sufficient numbers of shelter beds are not available, the department may provide shelter through protective payees. Eligible recipients may receive shelter assistance through contracted facilities, a protective payee, or an intensive protective payee system, as determined appropriate by the department. The intensive protective payee system shall include a case-management function and shall be administered in such a manner as to prevent the diversion of assistance for purchasing of alcohol or drugs.

(2) Subject to RCW 74.50.020(2), persons continuously eligible for the general assistance—unemployable program since July 25, 1987, who transfer to the program established by this chapter, have the option to continue their present living situation, but only through ~~(e)~~ an intensive protective payee.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. A new section is added to chapter 74.50 RCW to read as follows:

The department shall adopt a record keeping and tracking system which, at a minimum, is designed to identify individuals not qualified to receive additional treatment under RCW 74.50.050 and to permit management control and program evaluation. Contract providers shall submit such information to the department as is required by the department for the purpose of establishing and maintaining the system.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. A new section is added to chapter 74.98 RCW to read as follows:

Nothing in this chapter applies to any provision of chapter 74.50 RCW.

Sec. 8. Section 19, chapter 6, Laws of 1981 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 12, chapter 406, Laws of 1987 and RCW 74.09.035 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) To the extent of available funds, medical care services may be provided to recipients of general assistance, and ~~((recipients of alcohol and drug addiction services provided under chapter 74.50 RCW, in accordance with medical eligibility requirements established by the department))~~ to other persons who are incapacitated from gainful employment due to alcoholism or drug addiction and who meet the income and resource eligibility requirements applicable to recipients of general assistance.

(2) Determination of the amount, scope, and duration of medical care services shall be limited to coverage as defined by the department, except that adult dental, and routine foot care shall not be included unless there is a specific appropriation for these services.

(3) The department shall establish standards of assistance and resource and income exemptions, which may include deductibles and co-insurance provisions. In addition, the department may include a prohibition against the voluntary assignment of property or cash for the purpose of qualifying for assistance.

(4) Residents of skilled nursing homes, intermediate care facilities, and intermediate care facilities for the mentally retarded who are eligible for medical care services shall be provided medical services to the same extent as provided to those persons eligible under the medical assistance program.

(5) Payments made by the department under this program shall be the limit of expenditures for medical care services solely from state funds.

(6) Eligibility for medical care services shall commence with the date of certification for general assistance or the date ~~((of eligibility for alcohol and drug addiction services provided under chapter 74.50 RCW))~~ on which the department certifies that a person is incapacitated from gainful employment due to alcoholism or drug addiction and meets the income and resource eligibility requirements applicable to recipients of general assistance.
