(i) It is the intent of the legislature to implement mental health reform on a multi-year schedule. Dramatic escalation of costs for new programs would impair the state's ability to proceed with subsequent expansion. The contracts shall contain a fiscal plan that will ensure that the increased cost of maintaining fiscal year 1991 programs in fiscal year 1992 will not unduly exceed the rate of inflation. Of the amounts provided in this subsection, a maximum of $500,000 from the general fund—state appropriation may be used for planning and technical assistance grants to counties or regions wishing to form networks. The amounts in this subsection include moneys needed to implement the federal omnibus budget and reconciliation act of 1987 ("OBRA"). Such services shall be consistent with an individual's discharge plan and shall include residential services, if needed. Assumptions regarding the number of transfers from the nursing homes shall be incorporated into each contract and shall be consistent with the state-wide plan. The department shall coordinate OBRA transfers consistent with the provisions of each contract. The secretary shall negotiate contracts ~~((with networks from areas comprising no more than two-thirds of the state's population. Contracts shall be negotiated in at least two competitive rounds. The reimbursement rate per available bed-day shall not exceed $206 in fiscal year 1990 and $210 in fiscal year 1991. During the contract period, all eligible involuntary treatment referrals for Kitsap county residents shall be made to the project. No involuntary referrals shall be made to western state hospital unless the Kitsap residential treatment facility is filled to capacity and the mental health division and the Kitsap county mental health coordinator concur with the referral. Priority for referral to western state hospital shall be given to individuals under ninety-day or one hundred eighty-day commitments and individuals who have exhausted all community placement options.

(iii) The department may continue to contract directly with Chartley house until King county joins or becomes a regional support network.

(b) $2,000,000 of the general fund—state appropriation is provided solely for a mental health housing reserve. The secretary of social and health services shall transfer funds from the reserve to the state hospitals in any quarter in which hospital census exceeds the December 1988 forecast adjusted to eliminate the bed contract assumption. Priority for the remaining moneys shall be given to maintaining Title XIX eligibility for children's outpatient services at risk of losing federal financial participation because of lack of state match.

(g) $3,509,000 of the general fund—state appropriation and $1,322,000 of the general fund—federal appropriation are for vendor rate increases for vendors providing services to the mental health program, as specified in section 202 of this act.

(h) $3,000,000 of the general fund—state appropriation and $2,000,000 of the general fund—federal appropriation are provided solely for the enhancement of children's mental health services. The department shall contract with networks and counties through separate performance-based contracts. Applications from counties and networks shall include endorsements from affected school districts, child welfare agencies, juvenile court systems, and tribes. Of these amounts, $200,000 is provided solely for the development of a state-wide action plan for children's mental health. The plan shall include strategies to reduce duplicate case management. Each program shall designate a lead agency, and develop written interagency agreements to provide a coordinated continuum of services. Pilot programs shall make every effort to preserve existing violence intervention programs and coordinate available funding for services related to community violence prevention and services to victims of violence.

(ii) Each pilot program shall provide at least the following services: Services to family members who are victims of violence; services to victims of violent crime; case management services; specialized intervention programs for treatment of perpetrators of violence; parenting and caregiver training to families experiencing or at-risk of experiencing violence; and public education regarding community violence.

(iii) Twenty-five percent of the funding for pilot programs shall be provided in-kind or in cash by public or private entities in communities administering pilot programs.

This factor is intended to adjust allocations so that, for the purposes of distributing insurance benefits, full time equivalent classified employees may be calculated on the basis of 1440 hours of work per year, with no individual employee counted as more than one full time equivalent.

(6)(a) For nonemployee related costs associated with each certificated staff unit allocated under subsection (2) (a), (b), and (d) through (h) of this section, there shall be provided a maximum of $6,355 per certificated staff unit in the 1989-90 school year and a maximum of $6,654 per certificated staff unit in the 1990-91 school year.

(b) For nonemployee related costs associated with each certificated staff unit allocated under subsection (2)(c) of this section, there shall be provided a maximum of $12,110 per certificated staff unit in the 1989-90 school year and a maximum of $12,679 per certificated staff unit in the 1990-91 school year.

(7) Allocations for substitute costs for classroom teachers shall be distributed at a maximum rate of $290 per year for allocated classroom teachers. Solely for the purposes of this subsection, allocated classroom teachers shall be equal to the number of certificated instructional staff units allocated under subsection (2) of this section, multiplied by the ratio between the number of actual basic education certificated teachers and the number of actual basic education certificated instructional staff reported state-wide for the 1987-88 school year.

(8) The superintendent may distribute a maximum of ~~$(9,925,000)~~ 41,925,000 outside the basic education formula during fiscal years 1990 and 1991 as follows:

(a) For fire protection for school districts located in a fire protection district as now or hereafter established pursuant to chapter 52.04 RCW, a maximum of $358,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1990 and a maximum of $375,000 in fiscal year 1991.

(b) For summer vocational programs at skills centers, a maximum of $1,321,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1990 and a maximum of $1,599,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1991.

(c) A maximum of $272,000 may be expended for school district emergencies.

(d) A maximum of $~~(6,000,000)~~ 8,000,000 is provided solely for the purchase of new and replacement equipment for use primarily in approved vocational-secondary and skill center programs, including $6,000,000 provided for allocation in the 1989-90 school year. These moneys shall be allocated to school districts ((during the 1989-90 school year)) on the basis of full time equivalent enrollment in vocational programs.

(e) $25,250,000 is provided solely to employ additional elementary school classroom assistants and certificated instructional staff for the 1990-91 school year. These moneys shall be distributed in proportion to school districts' full time equivalent enrollment in kindergarten through grade five and shall be allocated according to the schedule established in RCW 28A.48.010. School districts shall use a minimum of seventy-five percent of moneys received under this subsection 8(e) to employ additional classified instructional assistants assigned to kindergarten through fifth grade basic education classrooms. Districts may use remaining moneys to employ either basic education classified instructional assistants or certificated instructional staff assigned to kindergarten through grade five. A district may not use moneys provided under this section for certificated instructional staff unless these staff are excluded when determining the district's actual K-3 staffing ratio under subsection (10) of this section and the district documents to the superintendent of public instruction that its actual K-3 ratio under subsection (10) of this section for the 1990-91 school year is at least fifty-one full time basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand full time equivalent students. Districts may not use allocations provided under this subsection to supplant other moneys previously used to employ classified instructional assistants or certificated instructional staff in kindergarten through grade five.

(9) For the purposes of RCW 84.52.0531, the increase per full time equivalent student in state basic education appropriations provided under this act, including appropriations for salary and benefits increases, is 6.07 percent from the 1988-89 school year to the 1989-90 school year, and ((5-74)) 6.56 percent from the 1989-90 school year to the 1990-91 school year.

(10) (a) The superintendent of public instruction shall revise personnel reporting systems to include information on grade level assignments of basic education certificated instructional staff, by grade level groupings of K-3, 4-6, and 7-12. The superintendent of public instruction shall collect such information from school districts beginning in the 1989-90 school year. School districts may submit supplemental information on changes in staffing levels after the initial personnel report for each school year. Staffing ratios calculated under this subsection may recognize additional staff reported, prorated by the number of months of employment during the academic year.

(b) For each school year, the funding provided under subsection (2)(a) of this section shall be based on a ratio of fifty-one certificated instructional staff per thousand students in kindergarten through grade three only if the district documents an actual ratio of at least fifty-one full time basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand full time equivalent students at those grade levels. For any school district documenting a lower ratio, the funding provided under this section shall be based on the district's actual K-3 ratio achieved in that school year, or the statutory minimum ratio established under RCW 28A.41.140(2)(c), if greater.

(c) School districts that had a ratio of fifty-one basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand students in kindergarten through grade three in the 1988-89 school year shall expend additional funding generated by the increase in staffing ratios provided in this section solely to improve staffing ratios in kindergarten through grade twelve.

Sec. 503. Section 503, chapter 19, Laws of 1989 1st ex. sess. (uncodified) is amended to read as follows:

FOR THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION—BASIC EDUCATION EMPLOYEE COMPENSATION INCREASES

General Fund Appropriation $ ((196,128,000))

The appropriation in this section is subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) The following calculations determine the salaries used in the general fund allocations for certificated instructional, certificated administrative, and classified staff units under section 502 of this act:

(a) Salary allocations for certificated instructional staff units shall be determined for each district by multiplying the district's certificated instructional derived base salary shown on LEAP Document 12 by the district's average staff mix factor for basic education certificated instructional staff in that school year, computed using LEAP Document 1.

(b) Salary allocations for certificated administrative staff units and classified staff units shall be determined for each district by the district's certificated administrative and classified salary allocation amounts shown on LEAP Document 12.

(2)(a) Districts shall certify to the superintendent of public instruction such information as may be necessary regarding the years of service and educational experience of basic education certificated instructional employees for the purposes of calculating certificated instructional staff salary allocations pursuant to this section. Any change in information previously certified, on the basis of years of experience or educational credits, shall be reported and certified to the superintendent of public instruction at the time such change takes place.

(b) For the purposes of this section, "basic education certificated instructional staff" is defined as provided in RCW 28A.41.110.

(c) "LEAP Document 1" means the computerized tabulation establishing staff mix factors for basic education certificated instructional staff according to education and years of experience, as developed by the legislative evaluation and accountability program committee on August 18, 1987, at 13:26 hours.

(d) "LEAP Document 1R" means the computerized tabulation establishing staff mix factors for basic education certificated instructional staff according to education and years of experience, as developed on (~~May 7, 1989~~) February 17, 1990, at (~~(11:00)~~) 16:00 hours.

(e) "LEAP Document 12" means the computerized tabulation of 1988-89 salary allocations for basic education certificated administrative staff and basic education classified staff and 1988-89 derived base salaries for basic education certificated instructional staff as developed on April 20, 1989, at 14:15 hours.

(f) The incremental fringe benefits factors applied to salary increases in this section shall be 1.1916 for certificated salaries and 1.1379 for classified salaries in the 1989-90 school year, and 1.1921 for certificated salaries and 1.1384 for classified salaries in the 1990-91 school year.

(3) ~~S((7-492-000)) 9,851,000~~ is provided solely to increase allocations for certificated administrative staff units provided under section 502 of this act, pursuant to this subsection. For the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years, the allocation for each certificated administrative staff unit shall be increased by 2.5 percent of the 1988-89 state-wide average certificated administrative salary shown on LEAP Document 12, multiplied by incremental fringe benefits. For the 1990-91 school year, the allocation for two-thirds of the certificated administrative staff units shall be further increased by 2.5 percent of the 1988-89 state-wide average certificated administrative salary shown on LEAP Document 12, multiplied by incremental fringe benefits. School districts shall use the allocations generated by the 1990-91 increase under this subsection to provide salary increases for principals, vice-principals, and other school-based administrators.

(4) ~~S((27-903-000)) 30,401,000~~ is provided solely to increase allocations for classified staff units provided under section 502 of this act, pursuant to this subsection. For the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years, the allocation for each classified staff unit shall be increased by 4.0 percent of the 1988-89 state-wide average classified salary shown on LEAP Document 12, multiplied by incremental fringe benefits. For the 1990-91 school year, the allocation for each classified staff unit shall be further increased by an additional (~~(3-12)~~) 4.16 percent of the 1988-89 state-wide average classified salary shown on LEAP Document 12, multiplied by incremental fringe benefits.

(5) ~~S((160-733-000)) 186,739,000~~ is provided solely to increase allocations for certificated instructional staff units provided under section 502 of this act, pursuant to this subsection:

(a) For any district with a derived base salary of $17,600 on LEAP Document 12, the allocation for each certificated instructional staff unit in the 1989-90 school year shall be increased by the difference between:

(i) The district's salary allocation per certificated instructional staff unit computed under subsection (1)(a) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits; and

(ii) The district's 1989-90 average certificated instructional staff allocation salary as determined by placing the district's actual full time equivalent basic education certificated instructional staff on the state-wide salary allocation schedule established in subsection (6) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits.

(b) For any district with a derived base salary greater than $17,600 on LEAP Document 12, the allocation for each certificated instructional staff unit in the 1989-90 school year shall be increased by 4.0 percent of the district's salary allocation per certificated instructional staff unit computed under subsection (1)(a) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits.

(c) For any district with a derived base salary of $17,600 on LEAP Document 12, the allocation for each certificated instructional staff unit in the 1990-91 school year shall be increased by the difference between:

(i) The district's salary allocation per certificated instructional staff unit computed under subsection (1)(a) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits; and

(ii) The district's 1990-91 average certificated instructional staff allocation salary as determined by placing the district's actual full time equivalent basic education certificated instructional staff on the state-wide salary allocation schedule established in subsection (7) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits.

(d) For any district with a derived base salary greater than $17,600 on LEAP Document 12, the allocation for each certificated instructional staff unit in the 1990-91 school year shall be increased by the difference between:

(i) The district's salary allocation per certificated instructional staff unit computed under subsection (1)(a) of this section, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits; and

(ii) The district's salary allocation per certificated instructional staff unit computed under subsection (1)(a) of this section multiplied by the compounded increase provided in this subsection, adjusted for incremental fringe benefits. The compounded increase for each district shall be 7.12 percent, compounded by the percentage difference between the district's average staff mix factor for actual 1990-91 full time equivalent basic education certificated instructional employees computed using LEAP Document 1R and such factor for the same 1990-91 employees computed using LEAP Document 1.

(6)(a) Pursuant to RCW 28A.41.112, the following state-wide salary allocation schedule for certificated instructional staff is established for basic education salary allocations for the 1989-90 school year:

(b) As used in this subsection, the column headings "BA+(N)" refer to the number of credits earned since receiving the baccalaureate degree.

(c) For credits earned after the baccalaureate degree but before the masters degree, any credits in excess of forty-five credits may be counted after the masters degree. Thus, as used in this subsection, the column headings "MA+(N)" refer to the total of:

- (i) Credits earned since receiving the masters degree; and
- (ii) Any credits in excess of forty-five credits that were earned after the baccalaureate degree but before the masters degree.

(8) For the purposes of this section:

- (a) "BA" means a baccalaureate degree.
- (b) "MA" means a masters degree.
- (c) "PHD" means a doctorate degree.

(d) "Years of service" shall be calculated under the same rules used by the superintendent of public instruction for salary allocations in the 1988-89 school year.

(e) "Credits" means college quarter hour credits and equivalent inservice credits computed in accordance with RCW 28A.71.110.

(9) The salary allocation schedules established in subsections (6) and (7) of this section are for allocation purposes only. However, it is the legislature's intent to respond to salary needs of many senior teachers who have not been receiving salary increments on either state or local salary schedules. The legislature and the public recognize the need to provide salary growth for these senior teachers, to encourage them to remain teaching. School districts should target moneys generated by the additional seniority steps provided for state salary funding in the 1990-91 school year to senior teachers.

Sec. 504. Section 504, chapter 19, Laws of 1989 1st ex. sess. (uncodified) is amended to read as follows:

The superintendent of public instruction shall distribute salary increases for these programs not to exceed the percentage salary increases provided for basic education staff under section 503 of this act.

(4) While this section and section 509 of this act do not provide specific allocations for salary increases for school food services employees, nothing in this act is intended to preclude or discourage school districts from granting increases that are equivalent to those provided for other classified staff.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

March 9, 1990

Mr. President:

The House has passed SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6639 with the following amendments:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The purpose of this act is to provide a mechanism for the acquisition and maintenance of conservation areas through an orderly process that is approved by the voters of a county. The authorities provided in this act are supplemental, and shall not be construed to limit otherwise existing authorities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 36.32 RCW to read as follows:

The legislative authority of each county may acquire a fee simple interest, or lesser interest, in conservation areas in the county and may maintain the conservation areas. The conservation areas may be acquired and maintained with moneys obtained from the excise tax under section 3 of this act, or any other moneys available for such purposes.

As used in this section, the term "conservation area" means land and water that has environmental, agricultural, aesthetic, cultural, scientific, historic, scenic, or low-intensity recreational value for existing and future generations, and includes, but is not limited to, open spaces, wetlands, marshes, aquifer recharge areas, shoreline areas, natural areas, and other lands and waters that are important to preserve flora and fauna.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 82.46 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Subject to subsection (2) of this section, the legislative authority of any county may impose an additional excise tax on each sale of real property in the county at a rate not to exceed one-half of one percent of the selling price. The proceeds of the tax shall be used exclusively for the acquisition and maintenance of conservation areas.

The taxes imposed under this subsection shall be imposed in the same manner and on the same occurrences, and are subject to the same conditions, as the taxes under chapter 82.45 RCW, except the tax does not apply to the acquisition of conservation areas by the county or state.

The county may enforce the obligation through an action of debt against the purchaser or may foreclose the lien on the property in the same manner prescribed for the foreclosure of mortgages.

The tax shall take effect thirty days after the election at which the taxes are authorized.

(2) No tax may be imposed under subsection (1) of this section unless approved by a majority of the voters of the county voting thereon for a specified period and maximum rate after:

(a) The adoption of a resolution by the county legislative authority of the county proposing this action; or

(b) The filing of a petition proposing this action with the county auditor, which petition is signed by county voters at least equal in number to ten percent of the total number of voters in the county who voted at the last preceding general election.

The ballot proposition shall be submitted to the voters of the county at the next general election occurring at least sixty days after a petition is filed, or at any special election prior to this general election that has been called for such purpose by the county legislative authority.

(3) A plan for the expenditure of the excise tax proceeds shall be prepared by the county legislative authority at least sixty days before the election if the proposal is initiated by resolution of the county legislative authority, or within six months after the tax has been authorized by the voters if the proposal is initiated by petition. Prior to the adoption of this plan, the elected officials of cities located within the county shall be consulted and a public hearing shall be held to obtain public input. The proceeds of this excise tax must be expended in conformance with this plan.

(4) As used in this section, "conservation area" has the meaning given under section 2 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 82.46 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Subject to subsection (2) of this section, the legislative authority of a county may impose an additional excise tax on each sale of real property in the county at a rate not to exceed one-half of one percent of the selling price. The proceeds of the tax shall be used exclusively for the acquisition and maintenance of conservation areas that are critical habitat, natural areas, or urban wildlife habitat. As used in this section:

(a) "Critical habitat" means lands important for the protection, management, or public enjoyment of certain wildlife species or groups of species, including, but not limited to, wintering range for deer, elk, and other species, waterfowl and upland bird habitat, fish habitat, and habitat for endangered, threatened, or sensitive species.

(b) "Natural areas" means areas that have, to a significant degree, retained their natural character and are important in preserving rare or vanishing flora, fauna, geological, natural historical, or similar features of scientific or educational value.

(c) "Urban wildlife habitat" means lands that provide habitat important to wildlife in proximity to a metropolitan area.

(d) "Conservation area" has the meaning given under section 2 of this act.

(2) The taxes imposed under this section shall be imposed in the same manner and on the same occurrences, and are subject to the same conditions, as the taxes under chapter 82.45 RCW.

Sec. 5. Section 14, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.040 are each amended to read as follows:

Any tax imposed under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter and any interest or penalties thereon is a specific lien upon each piece of real property sold from the time of sale until the tax is paid, which lien may be enforced in the manner prescribed for the foreclosure of mortgages.

Sec. 6. Section 15, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.050 are each amended to read as follows:

The taxes levied under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter are the obligation of the seller and may be enforced through an action of debt against the seller or in the manner prescribed for the foreclosure of mortgages. Resort to one course of enforcement is not an election not to pursue the other.

Sec. 7. Section 16, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.060 are each amended to read as follows:

Any taxes imposed under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter shall be paid to and collected by the treasurer of the county within which is located the real property which was sold. The treasurer shall act as agent for any city within the county imposing the tax. The county treasurer shall cause a stamp evidencing satisfaction of the lien to be affixed to the instrument of sale or conveyance prior to its recording or to the real estate excise tax affidavit in the case of used mobile home sales. A receipt issued by the county treasurer for the payment of the tax imposed under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter shall be evidence of the satisfaction of the lien imposed in RCW 82.46.040 and may be recorded in the manner prescribed for recording satisfactions of mortgages. No instrument of sale or conveyance evidencing a sale subject to the tax may be accepted by the county auditor for filing or recording until the tax is paid and the stamp affixed thereto; in case the tax is not due on the transfer, the instrument shall not be accepted until suitable notation of this fact is made on the instrument by the treasurer."

On page 1, line 2 of the title, after "areas;" strike the remainder of the title and insert "amending RCW 82.46.040, 82.46.050, and 82.46.060; adding a new section to chapter 36.32 RCW; adding new sections to chapter 82.46 RCW; and creating a new section."

and the same are herewith transmitted.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

The President Pro Tempore appointed as members of the Conference Committee on Substitute Senate Bill No. 6639 and the House amendments thereto: Senators McDonald, McMullen and Hayner.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the Conference Committee appointments were confirmed.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

March 9, 1990

Mr. President:

The House has passed ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 6904 with the following amendments:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that there exists in the state of Washington a critical need to examine, plan, and finance criminal justice activities. It is the policy of the state of Washington to encourage self-reliance by cities, towns, and counties in meeting their local government responsibilities. However, local criminal justice needs have accelerated to such an extent that many local governments cannot continue to meet the challenges of crime. It is the policy of the state of Washington to assist cities, towns, and counties in meeting these financial needs while promoting and encouraging local solutions, improved management, coordination, and planning of criminal justice activities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

- (1) "Board" means the local justice assistance board created under this chapter.
- (2) "Local governments" means cities, towns, and counties.
- (3) "Criminal justice activities" means all activities including operational and capital expenditures of superior, district, and municipal courts, jails or corrections, law enforcement, indigent defense, prosecution, probation, and community service.
- (4) "Grants-in-aid" means moneys applied for by cities, towns, and counties and approved by the local justice assistance board based on criteria specified in this chapter.
- (5) "Formula financing" means moneys distributed by formula, to counties based on criteria and approved by the local justice assistance board.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) The local justice assistance board is created, composed of seventeen members as follows:

- (a) The director of the department of community development or the director's designee;
 - (b) The director of financial management or the director's designee;
 - (c) The chief of the state patrol or the chief's designee;
 - (d) Four representatives of cities and towns, appointed by the governor from a list of at least eight persons nominated by the association of Washington cities;
 - (e) Four representatives of counties, appointed by the governor from a list of at least eight persons nominated by the Washington state association of counties;
 - (f) One representative of sheriffs and police chiefs, appointed by the governor from a list of at least two persons nominated by the Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs;
 - (g) One representative of prosecutors, appointed by the governor from a list of at least two persons nominated by the Washington association of prosecutors;
 - (h) Two members of the house of representatives, one from each of the two largest caucuses, appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives; and
 - (i) Two members of the senate, one from each of the two largest caucuses, appointed by the president of the senate.
- (2) If a legislator would be ineligible for appointment to the board as a voting member under the state Constitution, that legislator shall be a nonvoting member of the board during the period of such ineligibility.

(3) Legislative members of the board and persons who are board members by virtue of holding a state office shall serve until their successors are appointed and qualified. Members of the board appointed by the governor shall serve six-year terms. Vacancies on the board shall be filled by appointment by the original appointing authority under this section. The board shall elect a chairperson from among its members.

(4) Board members shall receive no compensation, but shall be reimbursed as provided in RCW 43.03.050, 43.03.060, and 44.04.120.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. The director of the department of community development shall provide administrative and staff support for the board.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The board may:

(1) Accept from any state or federal agency, grants or other moneys for the planning or financing of criminal justice activities and enter into agreements with any such agency concerning grants or other moneys;

(2) Provide technical assistance to local governments, including (a) training and other services to assist them in planning, applying, and qualifying for funding for criminal justice activities; and (b) assistance to improve local management, coordination, and delivery of criminal justice services;

(3) Accept any gifts, grants, or loans of funds, property, or financial or other aid in any form from any other source on any terms and conditions that are not in conflict with this chapter;

(4) Adopt rules under chapter 34.05 RCW as necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter;

(5) Do all acts and things necessary or convenient to carry out the powers expressly granted or implied under this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. (1) The board shall adopt a formula financing methodology for funding county criminal justice activities. The formula is to be developed in a manner that provides resources to those counties most affected by extraordinary crime trends, and that encourages management efficiencies. In developing the formula, the board shall consider appropriate criteria that may include, but are not limited to:

(a) Reported crime;

(b) Bookings, filings, trials, convictions, and commitments;

(c) Releases, parole, and probation;

(d) Costs of financing indigent defense;

(e) Population factors; and

(f) Measures of fiscal capacity, including per capita assessed valuation, per capita excise tax data, other tax base indicators, rates of taxation, and other relevant revenue information.

(2) The specific data elements and methodology for formula financing of criminal justice activities and the resulting distribution shall be presented to the fiscal committees of the legislature by September 1, 1990, and each September 1st thereafter. The board may revise the formula after consulting with the fiscal committees. The board shall distribute moneys under the formula as soon as practical, but not earlier than thirty days after submitting the formula to the fiscal committees.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. (1) The board shall develop a methodology to distribute grants-in-aid for local government criminal justice activities. The purpose of the grants-in-aid program is to provide ongoing assistance to reduce specific categories of crime that are causing significant effects on the local criminal justice system. The objective of all grant-in-aid awards shall be to achieve a reduction of a specific crime rate unless an applicant documents that a specific crime reduction target is not appropriate for the proposed strategy and proposes a substitute objective acceptable to the board.

(2) The board shall develop criteria for awarding grants with specific weightings given for projects that:

(a) Encourage management efficiencies, interlocal agreements, mutual assistance, or other agreements and policy coordination; and

(b) Provide resources to geographic areas with high incidence of crime or unusual problems with extraordinary crime.

(3) The board shall establish a policy as to the number of succeeding awards that may be made to a qualifying local government in order that specific crime reduction goals may be met in keeping with a strategy proposed by an applicant. The board shall establish policies that require local matching rates that may increase in succeeding award periods. The board may provide for exemptions from matching requirements for those jurisdictions that it determines are economically distressed for the purposes of chapter 82.60 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) The board shall develop a methodology and process for distributing emergency grants-in-aid for local government criminal justice activities. The board shall identify drug crime impact areas for the purpose of expedited awards of moneys in order to meet the current crisis that is threatening public safety and the credibility of the local government criminal justice system. "Drug crime impact areas" means those local governments that are experiencing recent significant increases in criminal justice costs and activities related to drug crimes. If any awards for jail construction are awarded under this section, the conditions in section 13 (1) and (2) of this act shall apply.

(2) The board shall award these emergency grants-in-aid no later than August 1, 1990. Any portion of the amounts appropriated for this purpose not awarded by August 1, 1990, shall be transferred by the board to the grants-in-aid program under section 7 of this act. Matching requirements shall not be required by the board for receipt of moneys under this section. Grants under this section shall not be made after August 1, 1990.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. The board shall keep proper records of accounts and shall be subject to audit by the state auditor. The board may request information of the state auditor as to audits of local governments receiving any moneys under this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. (1) On or before January 1st of each year, the board shall prepare a report on the status of criminal justice in the state of Washington. Such report may include policy recommendations to the legislature for dealing with criminal justice issues and problems.

(2) The board may conduct studies and research into criminal policies and practices as identified by the board. In conducting studies and research, the board may request assistance from the office of financial management, department of corrections, state patrol, sentencing guidelines commission, or other appropriate state, local, or federal agency or private source.

(3) The board may develop a library of materials on trends and techniques in dealing with local government criminal justice problems and issues that may be used by interested parties.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. (1) The criminal justice assistance account is hereby created in the state treasury. Except for unanticipated receipts under chapter 43.79 RCW, moneys in the account may be spent only after appropriation by statute. Expenditures from the account may be used only for the purposes of sections 6 through 8 of this act.

(2) On July 1, 1990, the state treasurer shall transfer twenty million dollars from the general fund to the criminal justice assistance account. On July 1, 1991, and each July 1st thereafter, the state treasurer shall transfer from the general fund to the criminal justice assistance account an amount equal to fifteen million dollars multiplied by a fraction. The numerator of the fraction is estimated state personal income for the fiscal year beginning on the date of the transfer. The denominator of the fraction is estimated state personal income for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1990. State personal income estimates from the most recent official forecast under RCW 82.01.120 shall be used for purposes of this section. Once a transfer is made under this section, the amount of that transfer shall not be recalculated based on subsequent revisions of state personal income estimates.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. (1) Ten million dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the criminal justice assistance account to the department of community development for the fiscal biennium ending June 30, 1991, for the purpose of distributions under section 6 of this act.

(2) Five million dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the criminal justice assistance account to the department of community development for the fiscal biennium ending June 30, 1991, for the purpose of distributions under section 7 of this act.

(3) Five million dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the criminal justice assistance account to the department of community development for the fiscal biennium ending June 30, 1991, for the purpose of distributions under section 8 of this act.

(4) Two hundred fifty thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the general fund to the department of community development for the fiscal biennium ending June 30, 1991, for the purpose of administering sections 1 through 11 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. The sum of fourteen million four hundred thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the state building and construction account to the local justice assistance board for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, for the purpose of providing grants to local governments for construction and expansion of jail facilities. The appropriation in this section is subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) Before receiving a grant, an applicant shall demonstrate an ability to complete the construction or expansion of the jail facility:

(2) The grants shall not exceed an amount equivalent to sixty-six percent of the cost per bed, up to a maximum of twelve thousand dollars per bed, created or added to a jail facility;

(3) The office of financial management shall develop eligibility criteria for grants. The intent of the criteria is to award grants based on highest need. The criteria shall include, among other things determined by the office, a requirement for a jail management plan to reduce the local jail inmate population;

(4) The office of financial management may create a local advisory committee to develop the criteria for selection of projects for funding under this section. The advisory committee shall consist of representatives of law enforcement, jail administrators, prosecutors, judges, the department of corrections, the office of financial management, and other officials as deemed appropriate by the office.

Sec. 14. Section 21, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 82, chapter 57, Laws of 1985 and RCW 82.14.200 are each amended to read as follows:

There is created in the state treasury a special account to be known as the "county sales and use tax equalization account." Into this account shall be placed a portion of all motor vehicle excise tax receipts as provided in RCW 82.44.150(2). Funds in this account shall be allocated by the state treasurer according to the following procedure:

(1) Prior to April 1st of each year the director of revenue shall inform the state treasurer of the total and the per capita levels of revenues for the unincorporated area of each county and the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties imposing the sales and use tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(2) At such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150. (~~as now or hereafter amended~~;) the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than one hundred fifty thousand dollars from the tax for the previous calendar year, an amount from the county sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the amount of revenues received the previous calendar year by the county, to equal one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

The department of revenue shall establish a governmental price index as provided in this subsection. The base year for the index shall be the end of the third quarter of 1982. Prior to November 1, 1983, and prior to each November 1st thereafter, the department of revenue shall establish another index figure for the third quarter of that year. The department of revenue may use the implicit price deflators for state and local government purchases of goods and services calculated by the United States department of commerce to establish the governmental price index. Beginning on January 1, 1984, and each January 1st thereafter, the one hundred fifty thousand dollar base figure in this subsection shall be adjusted in direct proportion to the percentage change in the governmental price index from 1982 until the year before the adjustment. Distributions made under this subsection for 1984 and thereafter shall use this adjusted base amount figure.

(3) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (2) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties as determined by the department of revenue under subsection (1) of this section, an amount from the county sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated area received the previous calendar year by the county, to equal seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties determined under subsection (1) of this section, subject to reduction under subsections (6) and (7) of this section. When computing distributions under this section, any distribution under subsection (2) of this section shall be considered revenues received from the tax imposed under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(4) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (3) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150. (~~as now or hereafter amended~~;) the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (2) of this section, a third distribution from the county sales and use tax equalization account. The distribution to each qualifying county shall be equal to the distribution to the county under subsection (2) of this section, subject to the reduction under subsections (6) and (7) of this section. To qualify for the total distribution under this subsection, the county must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year. Counties imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(5) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (4) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150. (~~as now or hereafter amended~~;) the state treasurer shall apportion to each county imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (3) of this section, a fourth distribution from the county sales and use tax equalization account. The distribution to each qualifying county shall be equal to the distribution to the county under subsection (3) of this section, subject to the reduction under subsections (6) and (7) of this section. To qualify for the distributions under this subsection, the county must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year. Counties imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(6) (~~Revenues distributed under this section in any calendar year shall not exceed an amount equal to seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for the unincorporated areas of all counties during the previous calendar year. If distributions under subsections (3) through (5) of this section cannot be made because of this limitation, then distributions under subsections (3) through (5) of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying counties~~) Subsequent to distributions under subsection (5) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, the department of revenue shall apportion and the state treasurer shall distribute to each fourth through ninth class county a fifth distribution from the county sales and use tax equalization account. (7) Beginning on January 1, 1992, and each January 1st thereafter, the one hundred thousand dollars and three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars in subsection (6) of this section shall be adjusted by the same percentage calculated under subsection (2) of this section.

~~((7))~~ (8) If inadequate revenues exist in the county sales and use tax equalization account to make the distributions under subsections (3) through ~~((5))~~ (6) of this section, then the distributions under subsections (3) through ~~((5))~~ (6) of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying counties. At such time during the year as additional funds accrue to the county sales and use tax equalization account, additional distributions shall be made under subsections (3) through ~~((5))~~ (6) of this section to the counties.

~~((8))~~ (9) If the level of revenues in the county sales and use tax equalization account exceeds the amount necessary to make the distributions under subsections (2) through ~~((5))~~ (6) of this section, then the additional revenues shall be credited and transferred to the state general fund.

Sec. 15. Section 22, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 83, chapter 57, Laws of 1985 and RCW 82.14.210 are each amended to read as follows:

There is created in the state treasury a special account to be known as the "municipal sales and use tax equalization account." Into this account shall be placed such revenues as are provided under RCW 82.44.150(3)(b). Funds in this account shall be allocated by the state treasurer according to the following procedure:

(1) Prior to April 1st of each year the director of revenue shall inform the state treasurer of the total and the per capita levels of revenues for each city and the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities imposing the sales and use tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(2) At such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city not imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account equal to the amount distributed to the city under RCW 82.44.150(3)(a) multiplied by thirty-five sixty-fifths.

(3) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (2) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities as determined by the department of revenue under subsection (1) of this section, an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the per capita level of revenues received the previous calendar year by the city, to equal seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities determined under subsection (1) of this section, subject to reduction under subsection (5) of this section.

(4) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (3) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (3) of this section, a third distribution from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account. The distribution to each qualifying city shall be equal to the distribution to the city under subsection (3) of this section, subject to the reduction under subsection (5) of this section. To qualify for the distributions under this subsection, the city must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year. Cities imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(5) If inadequate revenues exist in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to make the distributions under subsection (3) or (4) of this section, then the distributions under subsection (3) or (4) of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying cities. At such time during the year as additional funds accrue to the municipal sales and use tax equalization account, additional distributions shall be made under subsections (3) and (4) of this section to the cities.

(6) If the level of revenues in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account exceeds the amount necessary to make the distributions under subsections (2) through (4) of this section, then the additional revenues shall be apportioned among the several cities within the state ratably on the basis of population as last determined by the office of financial management: PROVIDED, That no such distribution shall be made to those cities receiving a distribution under subsection (2) of this section.

(7) The municipal targeted fiscal assistance account is created in the state treasury. Into this account shall be placed such revenues as are provided under RCW 82.44.150(2)(b).

(8) Prior to January 1, 1991, and each January 1st thereafter, the department of revenue shall determine which cities and towns will receive distributions from the municipal targeted fiscal assistance account. Cities and towns shall be eligible to receive distributions from this account if the following conditions are met:

(a) They are receiving a distribution under subsection (3) of this section; and

(b) They have a per capita assessed valuation of property that is at or below seventy percent of the state-wide average per capita assessed valuation of property for all cities.

(9) Beginning January 1, 1991, and each January 1st thereafter, at the same time as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, the department of revenue shall apportion and the state treasurer shall distribute to each city and town eligible under subsection (8) of this section an amount which when added to the per capita level of revenues received from the distributions under RCW 82.14.030(1) the previous calendar year and from the current year's distributions under subsection (3) of this section equals seventy-five percent of the state-wide average per capita level of revenues for all cities and towns as determined under RCW 82.14.210(1). The minimum payment under this subsection shall be five hundred dollars in any calendar year. The maximum payment under this subsection shall be twenty-six thousand dollars in any calendar year.

(10) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (9) of this section and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, the department of revenue shall apportion and the state treasurer shall distribute to each city and town imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate during the full previous calendar year and receiving a distribution under subsection (9) of this section a second distribution from the municipal targeted fiscal assistance account. The distribution to each qualifying city or town shall be equal to the distribution to the city or town under subsection (9) of this section. Cities imposing the tax for less than the full calendar year shall qualify for prorated allocation under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax was imposed.

(11) If inadequate revenues exist in the municipal targeted fiscal assistance account to make the distributions under subsections (9) and (10) of this section, the distributions under subsection (10) of this section shall be ratably reduced to the qualifying cities and towns. If inadequate revenues still exist then the distributions under subsection (9) of this section shall be ratably reduced.

(12) If the level of revenues in the municipal targeted fiscal assistance account exceeds the amount necessary to make the distributions under this section, then the additional revenues shall be credited and transferred to the state general fund.

(13) For a city or town initially incorporated on or after January 1, 1983, at the time distributions are made under subsection (3) of this section, the state treasurer shall place into a separate designated account for such city or town a pro rata amount of the revenues received under RCW 82.44.150(3)(b) equal to the city's or town's population multiplied by the amount of equalization funds to which the city or town would be entitled if its per capita yield the previous calendar year were zero. Such account shall take effect on January 1st of the first full calendar year during which the city or town imposes the taxes authorized by RCW 82.14.030(1) and shall cease to exist on December 31st of that year.

~~((8) All earnings of investments of balances in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account shall be credited to the general fund.))~~

(14) At the time that sales and use tax distributions are made pursuant to RCW 82.14.060, the revenues in such designated account shall be added to the city's or town's sales and use tax distributions so as to provide to such city or town an amount which reflects what such jurisdiction's entitlement from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account would have been if the actual distributions of sales and use tax revenues to such city or town had been received the previous full calendar year. Any excess revenues remaining in such designated account upon its expiration shall be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section. If the department of revenue determines during the year that any funds in the designated account are not necessary for the purposes of distribution under this subsection, the department may deposit those funds in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section.

(15) All earnings of investments of balances in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account shall be credited to the general fund.

Sec. 16. Section 1, chapter 18, Laws of 1988 and RCW 82.44.150 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The director of licensing shall on the twenty-fifth day of February, May, August, and November of each year, commencing with November, 1971, advise the state treasurer of the total amount of motor vehicle excise taxes remitted to the department of licensing during the preceding calendar quarter ending on the last day of March, June, September, and December, respectively, except for those payable under RCW 82.44.020(6) and 82.44.030, from motor vehicle owners residing within each municipality which has levied a tax under RCW 35.58.273, which amount of excise taxes shall be determined by the director as follows:

The total amount of motor vehicle excise taxes remitted to the department, except those payable under RCW 82.44.020(6) and 82.44.030, from each county shall be multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the population of the municipality residing in such county, and the denominator of which is the total population of the county in which such municipality or portion thereof is located. The product of this computation shall be the amount of excise taxes from motor vehicle owners residing within such municipality or portion thereof. Where the municipality levying a tax under RCW 35.58.273 is located in more than one county, the above computation shall be made by county, and the combined products shall provide the total amount of motor vehicle excise taxes from motor vehicle owners residing in the municipality as a whole. Population figures required for these computations shall be supplied to the director by the office of financial management, who shall adjust the fraction annually.

(2) On the first day of the months of January, April, July, and October of each year, the state treasurer based upon information provided by the department of licensing shall make the following apportionment and distribution of motor vehicle excise taxes deposited in the general fund except taxes collected under RCW 82.44.020(6)(c):

(a) A sum equal to seventeen percent thereof shall be ~~((paid))~~ distributed to cities and towns ~~((in the proportions and for the purposes hereinafter set forth))~~ as provided in subsections (3) and (4) of this section:

(b) A sum equal to one-half of one percent shall be distributed to the municipal targeted fiscal assistance account created under RCW 82.14.210(7):

(c) A sum equal to ((two)) three percent thereof shall be ((allocable)) distributed to the county sales and use tax equalization account under RCW 82.14.200: and

(d) A sum equal to four and two-tenths percent of the special excise tax levied under RCW 35.58.273 by those municipalities authorized to levy a special excise tax at a rate not exceeding ninety-six one-hundredths of one percent on the fair market value of every motor vehicle owned by a resident of such municipality shall be deposited in the rail development account established in RCW 47.78.010.

(3) The amount payable to cities and towns shall be apportioned among the several cities and towns within the state according to the following formula:

(a) Sixty-five percent of the sum specified in subsection (2) of this section to be paid to cities and towns shall be apportioned ratably on the basis of population as last determined by the office of financial management.

(b) Thirty-five percent of the sum specified in subsection (2) of this section to be paid to cities and towns shall be apportioned to cities and towns under RCW 82.14.210.

(4) When so apportioned, the amount payable to each such city and town shall be transmitted to the city treasurer thereof, and shall be utilized by such city or town for the purposes of police and fire protection and the preservation of the public health therein, and not otherwise. In case it be adjudged that revenue derived from the excise tax imposed by this chapter cannot lawfully be apportioned or distributed to cities or towns, all moneys directed by this section to be apportioned and distributed to cities and towns shall be credited and transferred to the state general fund.

(5) On the first day of the months of January, April, July, and October of each year, the state treasurer, based upon information provided by the department of licensing, shall remit motor vehicle excise tax revenues imposed and collected under RCW 35.58.273 as follows:

(a) The amount required to be remitted by the state treasurer to the treasurer of any municipality levying the tax shall not exceed in any calendar year the amount of locally-generated tax revenues, excluding the excise tax imposed under RCW 35.58.273 for the purposes of this section, which shall have been budgeted by the municipality to be collected in such calendar year for any public transportation purposes including but not limited to operating costs, capital costs, and debt service on general obligation or revenue bonds issued for these purposes; and

(b) In no event may the amount remitted in a single calendar quarter exceed the amount collected on behalf of the municipality under RCW 35.58.273 during the calendar quarter next preceding the immediately preceding quarter.

(6) At the close of each calendar year accounting period, but not later than April 1, each municipality that has received motor vehicle excise taxes under subsection (5) of this section shall transmit to the director of licensing and the state auditor a written report showing by source the previous year's budgeted tax revenues for public transportation purposes as compared to actual collections. Any municipality that has not submitted the report by April 1 shall cease to be eligible to receive motor vehicle excise taxes under subsection (5) of this section until the report is received by the director of licensing. If a municipality has received more or less money under subsection (5) of this section for the period covered by the report than it is entitled to receive by reason of its locally-generated collected tax revenues, the director of licensing shall, during the next ensuing quarter that the municipality is eligible to receive motor vehicle excise tax funds, increase or decrease the amount to be remitted in an amount equal to the difference between the locally-generated budgeted tax revenues and the locally-generated collected tax revenues. In no event may the amount remitted for a calendar year exceed the amount collected on behalf of the municipality under RCW 35.58.273 during that same calendar year. At the time of the next fiscal audit of each municipality, the state auditor shall verify the accuracy of the report submitted and notify the director of licensing of any discrepancies.

(7) The motor vehicle excise taxes imposed under RCW 35.58.273 and required to be remitted under this section shall be remitted without legislative appropriation.

(8) Any municipality levying and collecting a tax under RCW 35.58.273 which does not have an operating, public transit system or a contract for public transportation services in effect within one year from the initial effective date of the tax shall return to the state treasurer all motor vehicle excise taxes received under subsection (5) of this section.

Sec. 17. Section 6, chapter 94, Laws of 1970 ex. sess. as last amended by section 81, chapter 57, Laws of 1985 and RCW 82.14.050 are each amended to read as follows:

The counties, metropolitan municipal corporations and cities shall contract, prior to the effective date of a resolution or ordinance imposing a sales and use tax, the administration and collection to the state department of revenue, which shall deduct a percentage amount, as provided by contract, not to exceed two percent of the taxes collected for administration and collection expenses incurred by the department. The remainder of any portion of any tax authorized by this chapter which is collected by the department of revenue shall be deposited by the state department of revenue in the local sales and use tax account hereby created in the state treasury. Moneys in the local sales and use tax account may be spent only for distribution to counties, metropolitan municipal corporations, and cities imposing a sales and use tax. All administrative provisions in chapters 82.03, 82.08, 82.12, and 82.32 RCW, as they now exist or may hereafter be amended, shall, insofar as they are applicable to state sales and use taxes, be applicable to taxes imposed pursuant to this chapter. All earnings of investments of balances in the local sales and use tax account shall be credited to the local sales and use tax account and distributed to the counties, metropolitan municipal corporations, and cities monthly.

Sec. 18. Section 7, chapter 94, Laws of 1970 ex. sess. as last amended by section 11, chapter 4, Laws of 1981 2nd ex. sess. and RCW 82.14.060 are each amended to read as follows:

The state treasurer shall make the distribution under this section without appropriation.

In the event that any ordinance or resolution imposes a sales and use tax at a rate in excess of the applicable limits contained herein, such ordinance or resolution shall not be considered void in toto, but only with respect to that portion of the rate which is in excess of the applicable limits contained herein.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. Sections 17 and 18 of this act shall not be effective for earnings on balances prior to July 1, 1990, regardless of when a distribution is made.

the county under this section, multiplied by a fraction. The numerator of the fraction is the number of persons for whom the city or town is obligated to pay such benefits. The denominator of the fraction is the total number of persons eligible to receive such benefits in the county.

However, the local government shall remain liable to pay the intangible property to a person or entity subsequently establishing its ownership of this intangible property.

Sec. 31. Section 19, chapter 179, Laws of 1983 and RCW 63.29.190 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (2) and (3) of this section, a person who is required to file a report under RCW 63.29.170, within six months after the final date for filing the report as required by RCW 63.29.170, shall pay or deliver to the department all abandoned property required to be reported. (1) To renew a vehicle license, an applicant shall satisfy all listed standing, stopping, and parking violations for the vehicle incurred while the vehicle was registered in the applicant's name and forwarded to the department pursuant to RCW 46.20.270(3). For the purposes of this section, "listed" standing, stopping, and parking violations include only those violations for which notice has been received from local agencies by the department (~~one hundred fifty~~) ninety days or more before the date the vehicle license expires and that are placed on the records of the department. The renewal application may be processed by the department or its agents only if the applicant:

(a) Presents a preprinted renewal application showing no listed standing, stopping, and parking violations, or in the absence of such presentation, the agent verifies the information that would be contained on the preprinted renewal application; or

(b) If listed standing, stopping, and parking violations exist, presents proof of payment and pays a (~~ten~~) fifteen dollar surcharge.

(2) The (~~ten dollar~~) surcharge shall be allocated as follows:

(a) (~~Five~~) Ten dollars shall be deposited in the motor vehicle fund to be used exclusively for the administrative costs of the department of licensing; and

(3) If there is a change in the registered owner of the vehicle, the department shall forward the information regarding the change to the local charging jurisdiction and release any hold on the renewal of the vehicle license resulting from parking violations incurred while the certificate of license registration was in a previous registered owner's name.

(4) The department shall send to all registered owners of vehicles who have been reported to have outstanding listed parking violations, at the time of renewal, a statement setting out the dates and jurisdictions in which the violations occurred as well as the amounts of unpaid fines and penalties relating to them and the surcharge to be collected.

Sec. 34. Section 46.20.270, chapter 12, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 5, chapter 14, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 46.20.270 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Whenever any person is convicted of any offense for which this title makes mandatory the suspension or revocation of the driver's license of such person by the department, the privilege of the person to operate a vehicle is suspended until the department takes the action required by this chapter, and the court in which such conviction is had shall forthwith secure the immediate forfeiture of the driver's license of such convicted person and immediately forward such driver's license to the department, and on failure of such convicted person to deliver such driver's license the judge shall cause such person to be confined for the period of such suspension or revocation or until such driver's license is delivered to such judge: PROVIDED, That if the convicted person testifies that he or she does not and at the time of the offense did not have a current and valid vehicle driver's license, the judge shall cause such person to be charged with the operation of a motor vehicle without a current and valid driver's license and on conviction punished as by law provided, and the department may not issue a driver's license to such persons during the period of suspension or revocation: PROVIDED, ALSO, That if the driver's license of such convicted person has been lost or destroyed and such convicted person makes an affidavit to that effect, sworn to before the judge, the convicted person may not be so confined, but the department may not issue or reissue a driver's license for such convicted person during the period of such suspension or revocation: PROVIDED, That perfection of notice of appeal shall stay the execution of sentence including the suspension and/or revocation of the driver's license.

(2) Every court having jurisdiction over offenses committed under this chapter, or any other act of this state or municipal ordinance adopted by a local authority regulating the operation of motor vehicles on highways, or any federal authority having jurisdiction over offenses substantially the same as those set forth in Title 46 RCW which occur on federal installations within this state, shall forward to the department within ten days of a forfeiture of bail or collateral deposited to secure the defendant's appearance in court, a payment of a fine or penalty, a plea of guilty or a finding of guilt, or a finding that any person has committed a traffic infraction an abstract of the court record in the form prescribed by rule of the supreme court, showing the conviction of any person or the finding that any person has committed a traffic infraction in said court for a violation of any said laws other than regulations governing standing, stopping, parking, and pedestrian offenses.

(3) Every municipality having jurisdiction over offenses committed under this chapter, or under any other act of this state or municipal ordinance adopted by a local authority regulating the operation of motor vehicles on highways, may forward to the department within ten days of failure to respond, failure to pay a penalty, failure to appear at a hearing to contest the determination that a violation of any statute, ordinance, or regulation relating to standing, stopping, or parking has been committed, or failure to appear at a hearing to explain mitigating circumstances, an abstract of the citation record in the form prescribed by rule of the department, showing the finding by such municipality that ~~((three))~~ two or more violations of laws governing standing, stopping, and parking have been committed and indicating the nature of the defendant's failure to act. Such violations may not have occurred while the vehicle is stolen from the registered owner or is leased or rented under a bona fide commercial vehicle lease or rental agreement between a lessor engaged in the business of leasing vehicles and a lessee who is not the vehicle's registered owner. The department may enter into agreements of reciprocity with the duly authorized representatives of the states for reporting to each other violations of laws governing standing, stopping, and parking.

(4) For the purposes of Title 46 RCW the term "conviction" means a final conviction in a state or municipal court or by any federal authority having jurisdiction over offenses substantially the same as those set forth in Title 46 RCW which occur on federal installations in this state, an unvacated forfeiture of bail or collateral deposited to secure a defendant's appearance in court, the payment of a fine, a plea of guilty, or a finding of guilt on a traffic law violation charge, regardless of whether the imposition of sentence is deferred or the penalty is suspended.

(5) For the purposes of Title 46 RCW the term "finding that a traffic infraction has been committed" means a failure to respond to a notice of infraction or a determination made by a court pursuant to this chapter. Payment of a monetary penalty made pursuant to RCW 46.63.070(2) is deemed equivalent to such a finding.

Sec. 35. Section 6, chapter 1, Laws of 1980 and RCW 43.135.060 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) (a) The legislature shall not impose responsibility for new programs or increased levels of service under existing programs on any taxing district unless the districts are reimbursed for the costs thereof by the state. The amount of increased revenue that is received or could be received by a taxing district as a result of legislative enactments after 1979 shall be included as reimbursement under this section.

(b) Reimbursement is not required under this section in respect to:

(i) Changes in sentences or enforcement procedures for criminal justice activities relating to crimes established before, or substantially similar to crimes established before, July 1, 1990.

(ii) Changes relating to criminal justice activities that have historically been the responsibility of the taxing district.

(iii) Enactments that the legislature declares are exempt from this subsection as necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, or safety.

(c) The legislature finds that adequate resources have been provided to all taxing districts and further reimbursement is thus not required for new programs and increased levels of service under existing programs required by the state through July 1, 1990.

~~(2) (That proportion of state tax revenue which consists of direct state appropriations to taxing districts taken as a group shall not be decreased below that proportion appropriated in the biennium immediately preceding January 1, 1986. PROVIDED, This proportion shall be decreased in any fiscal year only if: (a) The legislature decreases the state tax revenue limit for that fiscal year by an amount equal to the dollar amount of any decrease in direct state appropriations to taxing districts taken as a whole; or (b) the state tax revenue limit has been increased under RCW 43.135.056(3) or 43.135.060(3) and the decrease of the proportion is commensurate with the increase in the state tax revenue limit.~~

~~(3)) If by order of any court, or legislative enactment, the costs of a federal or taxing district program are transferred to or from the state, the otherwise applicable state tax revenue limit shall be increased or decreased, as the case may be, by the dollar amount of the costs of the program.~~

~~((4)) (3) The legislature, in consultation with the office of financial management or its successor agency, shall determine the costs of any new programs or increased levels of service under existing programs imposed on any taxing district or transferred to or from the state.~~

Sec. 36. Section 2, chapter 19, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. as last amended by section 16, chapter 125, Laws of 1984 and RCW 43.132.020 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The director of financial management or the director's designee shall, in cooperation with appropriate legislative committees and legislative staff, establish a mechanism for the determination of the fiscal impact of proposed legislation which if enacted into law would directly or indirectly increase or decrease revenues received or expenditures incurred by counties, cities, towns, or any other political subdivisions of the state. The office of financial management shall, when requested by a member of the state legislature, report in writing as to such fiscal impact and said report shall be known as a "fiscal note". Fiscal notes under this chapter shall be given the same priority as fiscal notes relating to state revenues and expenditures under chapter 43.88A RCW.

(2) Such fiscal notes shall indicate by fiscal year the total impact on the subdivisions involved for the first two years the legislation would be in effect and also a cumulative six year forecast of the fiscal impact. Where feasible and applicable, the fiscal note also shall indicate the fiscal impact on each individual county or on a representative sampling of cities, towns, or other political subdivisions.

(3) A fiscal note as defined in this section shall be provided only upon request of any member of the state legislature. A legislator also may request that such a fiscal note be revised to reflect the impact of proposed amendments or substitute bills. Fiscal notes shall be completed within seventy-two hours of the request unless a longer time period is allowed by the requesting legislator. In the event a fiscal note has not been completed within seventy-two hours of a request, a daily report shall be prepared for the requesting legislator by the director of financial management which report summarizes the progress in preparing the fiscal note. If the request is referred to the director of community development, the daily report shall also include the date and time such referral was made.

(4) A fiscal note as defined in this section shall be prepared for any bill, substitute bill, or amendment that substantially imposes responsibility for new programs or increased levels of service under existing programs on any unit of local government. A fiscal note under this subsection must be completed before the bill, substitute bill, or amendment becomes law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 37. Sections 1 through 11 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 43 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 38. Sections 1 through 11 of this act shall expire December 31, 1995.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 39. The expiration of sections 1 through 11 and 21 of this act shall not be construed as affecting any existing right acquired or liability or obligation incurred under that section or under any rule or order adopted under that section, nor as affecting any proceeding instituted under that section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 40. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 41. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect immediately except for sections 14 through 16 and 23 through 27 of this act, which shall take effect on January 1, 1991, and sections 33 and 34 of this act which shall take effect on July 1, 1990.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 42. Section 22 of this act shall be effective for taxes levied for collection in 1991 and thereafter."

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6698

March 21, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6698 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to limitations on the use of solid fuel burning devices."

Section 1 of the bill makes reference to Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2277, which would have set up a joint select task force on clean air. Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2277 did not pass the Legislature. Section 1 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6698 charges the task force with reviewing implementation of this bill. Since the task force does not exist, I have vetoed section 1.

With the exception of section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6698 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bauer, you will notice that I have signed on to this resolution and I am very much in favor of Earth Day. I am very much in favor of celebrating this great earth that we live on. I'm also very much in favor of using a little common sense. Have you heard of the snake pickleback?"

Senator Bauer: "Yes, I have heard of it, Senator."

Senator Rasmussen: "Had you ever heard of it before they stopped the dredging project up in Everett?"

Senator Bauer: "I never heard of it before that."

Senator Rasmussen: "You never heard of it before that. You have heard of the snail darter?"

Senator Bauer: "Yes."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, the Fisheries Department has stopped the dredging project up in Everett--Senator Vognild's District--because of the snake pickleback and they have to develop a plan for handling it. The snake pickleback, of course, is a hundred thousand years old--or older--older than the Fisheries Department. They don't know anything about it yet. Why would they expect somebody to develop a plan to handle the snake pickleback any more than the snail darter that is found all over the world? Just as an element of Earth Day, we should ask all departments to use a little common sense. You explain about how they can manage the snake pickleback. You are educated, and I don't know anything about it."

Senator Bauer: "I appreciate that science lesson, Senator Rasmussen. I've heard of the purple loose strife. That's a new one this session. You've added to my science knowledge and I appreciate that very much. You, also, do your homework. I have no problem with a little education now and then."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Bauer, I was listening to the common sense discussion and I was listening to the Earth Day discussion and all of those things. Does the resolution have anything to do with Sine Die?"

Senator Bauer: "Well, we could add that. What kind of creature is that anyway?"

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of Senate Resolution 1990-8742.

The motion by Senator Bauer carried and Senate Resolution 1990-8742 was adopted.

MOTION

On motion of Senator von Reichbauer, the following resolution was adopted:

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6399

March 23, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 6399 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to employer cooperation with the office of support enforcement."

Section 1 dramatically reduces the sanctions against employers who unlawfully penalize a person who pays child support through wage assignment.

Employers have cooperated well with wage assignment statutes, and there has been no indication that the existing sanctions have been abused to the detriment of employers.

Employee protections were established in furtherance of public policy that encourages and protects persons who pay their child support. Children also benefit when persons supporting them are protected from arbitrary actions by employers.

With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 6399 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

March 22, 1990

Mr. President:

The House has adopted HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4445, and the same is herewith transmitted.

ALAN THOMPSON, Chief Clerk

INTRODUCTION AND FIRST READING OF HOUSE BILL

HCR 4445 by Representative Ebersole

Permitting consideration of House Bill No. 3035 during special session.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended and House Concurrent Resolution No. 4445 was advanced to second reading and placed on the second reading calendar.

SECOND READING

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4445, by Representative Ebersole

Permitting consideration of House Bill No. 3035 during special session.

The concurrent resolution was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Newhouse moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, line 4 of the resolution, after "county" strike ", is hereby declared to be a measure" and insert "and Senate Bill No. 6906, concerning criminal offenders, are hereby declared to be measures"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Newhouse, I agree with you on this particular amendment. I have another question, though, relating to the sexual predator bill. Under that bill, we had the crime victim's program put in the Governor's Office. By executive order, he sent it over to some other agency. Are we going to have any correction on that?"

Senator Newhouse: "That is not in this bill, Senator."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, I wondered if we were going to do anything about it. He can send anything anyplace under his executive order. He has to have some money to follow it."

Senator Newhouse: "My recollection of the plans with this bill, as it passed, were that the matter would be taken care of next session with a trial period as the Governor dictated."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator Newhouse on page 1, line 4, to House Concurrent Resolution No. 4445.

The motion by Senator Newhouse carried and the amendment to the concurrent resolution was adopted.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, House Concurrent Resolution No. 4445, as amended by the Senate, was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the concurrent resolution, as amended, was adopted.

MOTION

At 11:13 a.m., on motion of Senator Newhouse, the Senate adjourned until 11:00 a.m., Tuesday, March 27, 1990.

JOEL PRITCHARD, President of the Senate.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6574

March 26, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 9, Senate Bill No. 6574 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the Washington state housing finance commission."

The bill allows the Housing Finance Commission to issue bonds to finance nursing home construction and renovation. The bill expands the purposes of bonding authority to include financing of capital facilities owned and operated by non-profit corporations. The bill also is intended to give, with limited exception, the Housing Finance Commission exclusive authority to issue bonds for these purposes.

Section 2(6) of the bill recognizes and preserves existing statutory authority for local housing authorities to establish non-profit corporations for the purpose of issuing bonds for the construction of low-income housing. While the remainder of the bill expands the purposes of bonding authority, section 9, unlike section 2(6), fails to preserve existing local housing finance programs by failing to except them from the purposes for which the Housing Finance Commission is established as the "sole issuer of revenue bonds."

Neither the bill nor its legislative history provides information to reconcile the apparent conflict between section 2(6) and section 9.

In order to preserve the financing programs of local housing programs and to correct any inconsistency between section 2(6) and section 9, I have vetoed section 9 of the bill.

With the exception of section 9, Senate Bill No. 6574 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6533

March 27, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6533 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to school suspension."

The bill restates existing statutory authority permitting a school district to reduce the length of a student's suspension upon condition that the student begin counseling or other treatment. The bill also specifically releases the district from any financial responsibility for such counseling or treatment.

School districts have not been found to be financially obligated for these expenses.

School districts sponsor many programs of voluntary participation by students contingent upon some financial or other student commitment. The bill's release of districts from financial obligation in the instance of counseling or treatment related to the length of a suspension raises an inference that the districts may be financially obligated in other instances where not specifically released.

In order to avoid unintended consequences from a well-intended bill, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 6533 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6729

March 27, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6729, as amended by the House, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to DNA Identification."

The bill specifically authorizes and directs the Washington State Patrol to adopt rules for RCW 43.43.752 through RCW 43.43.758, the statutes establishing the DNA Identification Program.

Section 4 of the bill does not specifically address the DNA Identification Program, but rather the general role and authority of the Department of Corrections and county jail administrators to conduct blood sampling. As constructed, section 4 would not be codified within the statutes for which the bill establishes rule-making authority. As a result, the rule-making authority established by the bill will not be effective to implement section 4.

I believe section 3 of the bill provides sufficient authority to implement the regulations necessary to carry out the intent of this bill.

For these reasons, I have vetoed section 4 of the bill.

With the exception of section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6729 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6664

March 28, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6664 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the business license center act."

Section 4 repeals the provisions which established the Business License Center and added licenses to the Master License System. Although technically these provisions are no longer applicable since the time frames and requirements have been met, they provide useful historical information regarding the program. It is normal practice to retain such historical information in statute to minimize confusion regarding programs. I have, therefore, vetoed section 4 of the bill.

With the exception of section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6664 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6663

March 28, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 48, 55, 76, and 87, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6663 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to Special License Plates and technical revisions to the department of licensing statutes."

Section 55 duplicates an amendment in Senate Bill No. 6190 and section 76 duplicates an amendment in Senate Bill No. 6358. To avoid these duplications, I have vetoed these two sections.

Section 48 allows those who refuse the alcohol breath test to obtain an occupational driver's license. An occupational driver's license is granted to a person who provides proof of requiring driving privileges for employment reasons. Section 87 requires rescission of the revocation, for failure to take the breath test, of a person's driving privilege if that person is found not guilty of the underlying offense and the person's impaired driving was caused by a medical condition. These two sections serve to erode the implied consent law. That law is the state's most effective tool to combat drunken driving.

Nearly 800 people die on Washington's roadways each year. Nearly half of those deaths are alcohol related. I have indicated a strong commitment to a policy of no tolerance and strict deterrence. I remain convinced that the public message of no tolerance for drunken driving, with swift and sure consequences, is an effective deterrent.

Although the Legislature declined to take the issue of drivers' license revocation out of the criminal process, now is not the time to erode tough sanctions against drunken drivers. Instead, I challenge the Legislature to join me in the endeavor to save lives in the upcoming years and improve safety on Washington roads by promoting tougher laws against drunken drivers.

For these reasons, I have vetoed sections 48, 55, 76, and 87 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6663.

With the exception of sections 48, 55, 76, and 87, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6663 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6306

March 28, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6306 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to tenure modification at community colleges."

Section 2 of this bill amends the community college faculty tenure review process by changing the maximum probationary period language from "three consecutive college years, excluding summer quarters" to "nine consecutive college quarters, excluding summer quarters and approved leaves of absence." In addition, section 2 provides that the probationary period could be extended up to three additional college quarters upon the recommendation of the review committee, and with the consent of the probationary faculty member and the appointing authority. Both the institution and the probationer would benefit by these changes.

I am supportive of an initiative which clarifies, and possibly lengthens, the performance review of faculty appointees prior to the granting of tenure, as long as the initiative improves the review process. I do not believe, however, that this proposed legislation adequately corrects the problems associated with the award of faculty tenure following a probationary period.

Under current law, the appointing authority, upon deciding not to renew a probationary faculty appointment, is required to notify the probationer of its decision by no later than the last day of the winter quarter in the third consecutive college year. Since this requirement was not eliminated in conjunction with the probationary period changes, virtually no improvement is made to the current review process. With the removal of section 2, sections 1, 4, 5 and 6 are superfluous. For these reasons, I have vetoed sections 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6306.

Section 3 of this bill requires the State Board of Community College Education to conduct a study of salaries for faculty and administrators at Community Colleges. That study, which I support, is already underway. This provision has the benefit of formalizing that study and setting a reporting date.

With the exception of sections 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6306 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

NEW SECTION, Sec. 102. A new section is added to chapter 82.14 RCW to read as follows:

The county criminal justice assistance account is created in the state treasury. The account shall consist of all motor vehicle excise tax receipts deposited into the account under chapter 82.44 RCW.

(1) Two and four one-hundredths percent of the county criminal justice assistance account shall be appropriated annually to the prosecution assistance revolving account hereby created in the custody of the state treasurer. The purpose of the revolving account is to assist local governments in the investigation and prosecution of exceptional criminal justice cases that, because of their magnitude, are beyond the normal scope of local law enforcement and prosecution agencies.

Within available funds, moneys in the revolving account may be disbursed, without appropriation, by the director of community development, upon advice of the local criminal justice advisory group, solely for grants to cities and counties for exceptional costs incurred in a criminal case during the year, but only to the extent the costs exceed five percent of the annual operating budget of the city or county.

If the legislature determines that moneys in the revolving account exceed the anticipated need, the legislature in the omnibus appropriations act may direct the transfer of a specified amount to the state general fund. The prosecution assistance revolving account is subject to the allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW. The department of community development shall adopt such rules as are necessary to implement this subsection.

(2) The remainder of the moneys in the county criminal justice assistance account shall be distributed at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150 and on the relative basis of each county's funding factor as determined under this subsection.

(a) A county's funding factor is the sum of:

(i) The population of the county, divided by one thousand, and multiplied by two-tenths;

(ii) The crime rate of the county, multiplied by three-tenths; and

(iii) The annual number of criminal cases filed in the county superior court, for each one thousand in population, multiplied by five-tenths.

(b) As used in this subsection:

(i) The population of the county shall be determined by the office of financial management;

(ii) The crime rate of the county is the annual occurrence of specified criminal offenses, as calculated in the most recent annual report on crime in Washington state as published by the Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs, for each one thousand in population;

(iii) The annual number of criminal cases filed in the county superior court shall be determined by the most recent annual report of the courts of Washington, as published by the office of the administrator for the courts.

(3) Moneys distributed under subsection (2) of this section shall be expended exclusively for criminal justice purposes. Within thirty days following the close of the county's fiscal year, the county shall report to the state auditor the expenditures made under subsection (2) of this section.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 103. A new section is added to chapter 82.14 RCW to read as follows:

The municipal criminal justice assistance account is created in the state treasury. The account shall consist of all motor vehicle excise tax receipts deposited into the account under chapter 82.44 RCW.

Such moneys shall be distributed to the cities of the state ratably on the basis of population as last determined by the office of financial management. No city may receive a distribution from the municipal criminal justice assistance account unless:

(a) The city has a crime rate in excess of one hundred twenty-five percent of the state-wide average as calculated in the most recent annual report on crime in Washington state as published by the Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs;

(b) The city has levied the tax authorized in RCW 82.14.030(2), or the tax authorized in RCW 82.46.010(2); and

(2) No city may receive more than one million dollars in any calendar year from the municipal criminal justice assistance account.

(3) Moneys distributed under this section shall be expended exclusively for criminal justice purposes. Within thirty days following the close of the city's fiscal year, the city shall report to the state auditor the expenditures made under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 104. The sum of nine million dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, from the general fund to the state treasurer for a one-time distribution on July 1, 1990, on the ratable basis of population to those counties of the state whose crime rate exceeds one hundred fifteen percent of the state-wide average crime rate. The population of the county shall be as last determined by the office of financial management. "Crime rate," as used in this section, is the annual occurrence of specified criminal offenses, as calculated in the 1988 annual report on crime in Washington state as published by the Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs, for each one thousand in population. Moneys distributed under this section shall be expended exclusively for criminal justice purposes.

There is created in the state treasury a special account to be known as the "municipal sales and use tax equalization account." Into this account shall be placed such revenues as are provided under RCW 82.44.150(3)(b). Funds in this account shall be allocated by the state treasurer according to the following procedure:

(1) Prior to ~~((April))~~ January 1st of each year the ~~((director))~~ department of revenue shall ~~((inform the state treasurer of))~~ determine the total and the per capita levels of revenues for each city and the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities imposing the sales and use tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(2) At such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city not imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account equal to the amount distributed to the city under RCW 82.44.150(3)(a) multiplied by thirty-five sixty-fifths.

(3) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (2) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities as determined by the department of revenue under subsection (1) of this section, an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the per capita level of revenues received the previous calendar year by the city, to equal seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities determined under subsection (1) of this section, subject to reduction under subsection ~~((5))~~ (6) of this section.

(4) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (3) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (3) of this section, a third distribution from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account. To qualify for the distributions under this subsection, the city must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year. Cities imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(5) For a city or town initially incorporated on or after January 1, 1990, municipal sales and use tax equalization distributions shall be made according to the procedures in this subsection. Municipal sales and use tax equalization distributions to eligible new cities shall be made at the same time as distributions are made under subsections (3) and (4) of this section. The department of revenue shall follow the estimating procedures outlined in (b) of this subsection until the new city has received a full year's worth of revenues under RCW 82.14.030(1) as of the January municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution.

(a) Whether a newly incorporated city determined to receive funds under (b) of this subsection receives its first equalization payment at the January, April, July, or October municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution shall depend on the date the city first imposes the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1).

(i) A newly incorporated city imposing the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) effective as of February 1st, March 1st, or April 1st shall be eligible to receive funds under this subsection beginning with the July municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution of that year.

(ii) A newly incorporated city imposing the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) effective as of May 1st, June 1st, or July 1st shall be eligible to receive funds under this subsection beginning with the October municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution of that year.

(b) For purposes of calculating the amount of funds the new city should receive under subsection (3) of this section, the department of revenue shall:

(i) Estimate the per capita amount of revenues from the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) that the new city would have received had the city received revenues from the tax the entire calendar year;

(ii) Calculate the amount provided under subsection (3) of this section based on the per capita revenues determined under (b)(i) of this subsection;

(iii) Pro rate the amount determined under (b)(ii) of this subsection by the number of months the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) is imposed.

(c) A new city imposing the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under (b) of this subsection shall receive another distribution from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account. This distribution shall be equal to the calculation made under (b)(ii) of this subsection, prorated by the number of months the city imposes the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the full rate.

(d) The department of revenue shall advise the state treasurer of the amounts calculated under (b)(iii) and (c) of this subsection and the state treasurer shall distribute these amounts to the new city from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account subject to the limitations imposed in subsection (6) of this section.

(e) Revenues estimated under this subsection shall not affect the calculation of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities made under subsection (1) of this section.

(6) If inadequate revenues exist in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to make the distributions under subsection (3) ~~((or)), (4), or (5)~~ of this section, then the distributions under subsections (3) ~~((or)), (4), and (5)~~ of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying cities. At such time during the year as additional funds accrue to the municipal sales and use tax equalization account, additional distributions shall be made under subsections (3) ~~((and)), (4), and (5)~~ of this section to the cities.

~~((6))~~ (7) If the level of revenues in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account exceeds the amount necessary to make the distributions under subsections (2) through ~~((4))~~ (5) of this section, then the additional revenues shall be apportioned among the several cities within the state ratably on the basis of population as last determined by the office of financial management: PROVIDED, That no such distribution shall be made to those cities receiving a distribution under subsection (2) of this section.

~~((7) For a city or town initially incorporated on or after January 1, 1983, at the time distributions are made under subsection (3) of this section, the state treasurer shall place into a separate designated account for such city or town a pro rata amount of the revenues received under RCW 82.44.150(3)(b) equal to the city's or town's population multiplied by the amount of equalization funds to which the city or town would be entitled if its per capita yield the previous calendar year were zero. Such account shall take effect on January 1st of the first full calendar year during which the city or town imposes the taxes authorized by RCW 82.14.030(1) and shall cease to exist on December 31st of that year.))~~

(8) All earnings of investments of balances in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account shall be credited to the general fund.

~~((At the time that sales and use tax distributions are made pursuant to RCW 82.14.060, the revenues in such designated account shall be added to the city's or town's sales and use tax distributions so as to provide to such city or town an amount which reflects what such jurisdiction's entitlement from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account would have been if the actual distributions of sales and use tax revenues to such city or town had been received the previous full calendar year. Any excess revenues remaining in such designated account upon its expiration shall be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section. If the department of revenue determines during the year that any funds in the designated account are not necessary for the purposes of distribution under this subsection, the department may deposit those funds in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section.))~~

NEW SECTION, Sec. 921. A new section is added to chapter 84.52 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Any county, city, town, fire protection district, hospital district, or emergency medical services district that has received voter approval for a regular property tax levy under RCW 84.52.069 may continue to impose the levies for the duration of the period for which such levies were authorized. However, these levies shall be reduced or eliminated if regular property taxes exceed the limitation contained in RCW 84.52.050.

(2) This section shall expire January 1, 1998.

Sec. 922. Section 3, chapter 325, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. as last amended by section 103, chapter 2, Laws of 1987 1st ex. sess. and RCW 84.52.053 are each amended to read as follows:

The limitations imposed by RCW 84.52.050 through 84.52.056, and RCW 84.52.043 shall not prevent the levy of additional taxes by school districts, when authorized so to do by the electors of such school district in the manner and for the purposes and number of years allowable under Article VII, section 2(a) of the Constitution of this state, as ~~((amended by Amendment 79 and as thereafter))~~ amended, at a special or general election to be held in the year in which the levy is made or, in the case of a proposition authorizing two-year through six-year levies for maintenance and operation support of a school district, or ~~((authorizing two-year through six-year levies))~~ to support the construction, modernization, or remodeling of school facilities, or both, at a special or general election to be held in the year in which the first annual levy is made: PROVIDED, That once additional tax levies have been authorized for maintenance and operation support of a school district for a ~~((two-year))~~ period of from two to six years, no further additional tax levies for maintenance and operation support of the district for that period may be authorized.

A special election may be called and the time therefor fixed by the board of school directors, by giving notice thereof by publication in the manner provided by law for giving notices of general elections, at which special election the proposition authorizing such excess levy shall be submitted in such form as to enable the voters favoring the proposition to vote "yes" and those opposed thereto to vote "no".

Sec. 923. Section 84.52.056, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 104, chapter 195, Laws of 1973 1st ex. sess. and RCW 84.52.056 are each amended to read as follows:

Any municipal corporation otherwise authorized by law to issue general obligation bonds for capital purposes may, at an election duly held after giving notice thereof as required by law, authorize the issuance of general obligation bonds for capital purposes only, which shall not include the replacement of equipment, and provide for the payment of the principal and interest of such bonds by annual levies in excess of the tax limitations contained in RCW 84.52.050 to 84.52.056, inclusive and RCW 84.52.043. Such an election shall not be held oftener than twice a calendar year, and the proposition to issue any such bonds and to exceed said tax limitation must receive the affirmative vote of a three-fifths majority of those voting on the proposition and the total number of persons voting at such election must constitute not less than forty percent of the voters in said municipal corporation who voted at the last preceding general state election.

Any taxing district shall have the right by vote of its governing body to refund any general obligation bonds of said district issued for capital purposes only, and to provide for the interest thereon and amortization thereof by annual levies in excess of the tax limitations provided for in RCW 84.52.050 to 84.52.056, inclusive and RCW 84.52.043.

The ballot proposition for the imposition of property taxes under this section shall indicate that approval is being sought for the imposition of excess property tax levies sufficient to retire the particular dollar value of general obligation bonds, and need not describe a dollar amount of the tax levies, nor the dollar rates of the tax levies.

Sec. 924. Section 7, chapter 138, Laws of 1987 as amended by section 6, chapter 274, Laws of 1988 and RCW 84.52.100 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The governing body of any library district, public hospital district, metropolitan park district, or fire protection district may provide for the submission of a ballot proposition to the voters of the taxing district authorizing the taxing district to maintain its otherwise authorized tax levy rate, and authorizing an increase in the cumulative regular property tax limitation established in RCW 84.52.043 of five dollars and fifty-five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation within the taxing district, as provided in this section. A fire protection district may use this authority to increase its regular property tax levy up to fifty cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

(2) A resolution by a governing body, requesting that a special election be called to submit such a ballot proposition to the voters, must be transmitted to the county legislative authority of the county, or county legislative authorities of the counties, within which the taxing district is located, at least forty-five days before the special election date at which the ballot proposition is submitted. The ballot proposition shall be worded substantially as follows:

"Shall the cumulative limitation on most regular property tax rates be increased by an amount not exceeding thirty-five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation for a five consecutive year period allowing (insert the name of the taxing district) to maintain its otherwise statutory authorized property tax rate?"

The ballot proposition for a fire protection district shall be worded substantially as follows:

"Shall the cumulative limitation on most regular property tax rates be increased by an amount not exceeding thirty-five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation for a five consecutive year period allowing (insert the name of the taxing district) to permit the fire protection district to impose its property tax at a value up to fifty cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation?"

Approval of this ballot proposition by a simple majority vote shall authorize the following for the succeeding five consecutive year period: (a) Property tax rates of junior taxing districts are calculated first as if this proposition had not been approved; (b) subject to the one hundred six percent limitation, the regular property tax rate of the taxing district receiving such authorization is increased to a level not exceeding the lesser of: (i) its maximum statutory authorized regular property tax rate; or (ii) whatever tax rate it otherwise would have been able to impose plus an additional thirty-five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation; and (c) the cumulative property tax rate limitation is increased within the boundaries of the taxing district receiving this authorization to an amount equal to five dollars and fifty-five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation plus the increased amount of the regular levy rate of this taxing district, but not to exceed five dollars and ninety cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

(3) If two or more taxing districts that occupy a portion of the same territory receive such approval, the additional authorized taxing capacity above five dollars and fifty-five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation shall be distributed among these taxing districts by adjusting their levy rate requests in the same manner and under the same conditions as if they were the only taxing districts in the area subject to adjustment of their property tax rates and the levy rate adjustments were being made with the cumulative limitation of five dollars and fifty-five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

~~((4) Levies authorized under RCW 84.52.069 are not subject to the rate adjustments and the five dollar and ninety cent per thousand dollar of assessed valuation cumulative limitation on regular property tax rates established by this section.))~~

Sec. 925, Section 84.69.020, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 17, chapter 378, Laws of 1989 and RCW 84.69.020 are each amended to read as follows:

(11) Paid as a state property tax levied upon property, the assessed value of which has been established by the state board of tax appeals for the year of such levy: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That the amount refunded shall only be for the difference between the state property tax paid and the amount of state property tax which would, when added to all other property taxes within the one percent limitation of Article VII, section 2 ~~((Amendment 59))~~ of the state Constitution, as amended, equal one percent of the assessed value established by the board;

(12) Paid on the basis of an assessed valuation which was adjudicated to be unlawful or excessive: PROVIDED, That the amount refunded shall be for the difference between the amount of tax which was paid on the basis of the valuation adjudged unlawful or excessive and the amount of tax payable on the basis of the assessed valuation determined as a result of the proceeding; or

(13) Paid on property acquired under RCW 84.60.050, and canceled under RCW 84.60.050(2).

(1) (a) The legislature shall not impose responsibility for new programs or increased levels of service under existing programs on any taxing district unless the districts are reimbursed for the costs thereof by the state. The amount of increased revenue that is received or could be received by a taxing district as a result of legislative enactments after 1979 shall be included as reimbursement under this section.

(b) The legislature finds that adequate resources have been provided to all taxing districts and further reimbursement is thus not required for new programs and increased levels of service under existing programs required by the state through July 1, 1990.

(2) (That proportion of state tax revenue which consists of direct state appropriations to taxing districts taken as a group shall not be decreased below that proportion appropriated in the biennium immediately preceding January 1, 1980; PROVIDED: This proportion shall be decreased in any fiscal year only if: (a) The legislature decreases the state tax revenue limit for that fiscal year by an amount equal to the dollar amount of any decrease in direct state appropriations to taxing districts taken as a whole, or (b) the state tax revenue limit has been increased under RCW 43.135.050(3) or 43.135.060(3) and the decrease of the proportion is commensurate with the increase in the state tax revenue limit.

The office of financial management shall, when requested by a member of the state legislature, report in writing as to such fiscal impact and said report shall be known as a "fiscal note". Fiscal notes under this chapter shall be given the same priority as fiscal notes relating to state revenues and expenditures under chapter 43.88A RCW.

(2) Such fiscal notes shall indicate by fiscal year the total impact on the subdivisions involved for the first two years the legislation would be in effect and also a cumulative six year forecast of the fiscal impact. Where feasible and applicable, the fiscal note also shall indicate the fiscal impact on each individual county or on a representative sampling of cities, towns, or other political subdivisions.

(3) A fiscal note as defined in this section shall be provided only upon request of any member of the state legislature. A legislator also may request that such a fiscal note be revised to reflect the impact of proposed amendments or substitute bills. Fiscal notes shall be completed within seventy-two hours of the request unless a longer time period is allowed by the requesting legislator. In the event a fiscal note has not been completed within seventy-two hours of a request, a daily report shall be prepared for the requesting legislator by the director of financial management which report summarizes the progress in preparing the fiscal note. If the request is referred to the director of community development, the daily report shall also include the date and time such referral was made.

(4) A fiscal note as defined in this section shall be prepared for any bill, substitute bill, or amendment that substantially imposes responsibility for new programs or increased levels of service under existing programs on any unit of local government. A fiscal note under this subsection shall be completed before the bill, substitute bill, or amendment becomes law.

Sec. 1102. Section 22, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 314, chapter 42, Laws of 1990 and RCW 82.14.210 are each amended to read as follows:

There is created in the state treasury a special account to be known as the "municipal sales and use tax equalization account." Into this account shall be placed such revenues as are provided under RCW 82.44.110(5). Funds in this account shall be allocated by the state treasurer according to the following procedure:

(1) Prior to ~~((April))~~ January 1st of each year the ~~((director))~~ department of revenue shall ~~((inform the state treasurer of))~~ determine the total and the per capita levels of revenues for each city and the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities imposing the sales and use tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) for the previous calendar year.

(2) At such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city not imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account equal to the amount distributed to the city under RCW 82.44.---- (section 309, chapter 42, Laws of 1990), multiplied by thirty-five sixty-fifths.

(3) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (2) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(1) at the maximum rate and receiving less than seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities as determined by the department of revenue under subsection (1) of this section, an amount from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account sufficient, when added to the per capita level of revenues received the previous calendar year by the city, to equal seventy percent of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities determined under subsection (1) of this section, subject to reduction under subsection ~~((5))~~ (6) of this section.

(4) Subsequent to the distributions under subsection (3) of this section, and at such times as distributions are made under RCW 82.44.150, as now or hereafter amended, the state treasurer shall apportion to each city imposing the sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under subsection (3) of this section, a third distribution from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account. The distribution to each qualifying city shall be equal to the distribution to the city under subsection (3) of this section, subject to the reduction under subsection ~~((5))~~ (6) of this section. To qualify for the distributions under this subsection, the city must impose the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) for the entire calendar year. Cities imposing the tax for less than the full year shall qualify for prorated allocations under this subsection proportionate to the number of months of the year during which the tax is imposed.

(5) For a city or town initially incorporated on or after January 1, 1990, municipal sales and use tax equalization distributions shall be made according to the procedures in this subsection. Municipal sales and use tax equalization distributions to eligible new cities shall be made at the same time as distributions are made under subsections (3) and (4) of this section. The department of revenue shall follow the estimating procedures outlined in (b) of this subsection until the new city has received a full year's worth of revenues under RCW 82.14.030(1) as of the January municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution.

(a) Whether a newly incorporated city determined to receive funds under (b) of this subsection receives its first equalization payment at the January, April, July, or October municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution shall depend on the date the city first imposes the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1).

(i) A newly incorporated city imposing the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) effective as of February 1st, March 1st, or April 1st shall be eligible to receive funds under this subsection beginning with the July municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution of that year.

(ii) A newly incorporated city imposing the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) effective as of May 1st, June 1st, or July 1st shall be eligible to receive funds under this subsection beginning with the October municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution of that year.

(iii) A newly incorporated city imposing the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) effective as of August 1st, September 1st, or October 1st shall be eligible to receive funds under this subsection beginning with the January municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution of the next year.

(iv) A newly incorporated city imposing the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) effective as of November 1st or December 1st shall be eligible to receive funds under this subsection beginning with the April municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution of the next year.

(v) A newly incorporated city imposing the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) effective as of January 1st shall be eligible to receive funds under this subsection beginning with the April municipal sales and use tax equalization distribution of that year.

(b) For purposes of calculating the amount of funds the new city should receive under subsection (3) of this section, the department of revenue shall:

(i) Estimate the per capita amount of revenues from the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) that the new city would have received had the city received revenues from the tax the entire calendar year;

(ii) Calculate the amount provided under subsection (3) of this section based on the per capita revenues determined under (b)(i) of this subsection;

(iii) Pro rate the amount determined under (b)(ii) of this subsection by the number of months the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(1) is imposed.

(c) A new city imposing the tax under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the maximum rate and receiving a distribution under (b) of this subsection shall receive another distribution from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account. This distribution shall be equal to the calculation made under (b)(ii) of this subsection, prorated by the number of months the city imposes the tax authorized under RCW 82.14.030(2) at the full rate.

(d) The department of revenue shall advise the state treasurer of the amounts calculated under (b)(iii) and (c) of this subsection and the state treasurer shall distribute these amounts to the new city from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account subject to the limitations imposed in subsection (6) of this section.

(e) Revenues estimated under this subsection shall not affect the calculation of the state-wide weighted average per capita level of revenues for all cities made under subsection (1) of this section.

(6) If inadequate revenues exist in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to make the distributions under subsection (3) ((or)), (4), or (5) of this section, then the distributions under subsections (3) ((or)), (4), and (5) of this section shall be reduced ratably among the qualifying cities. At such time during the year as additional funds accrue to the municipal sales and use tax equalization account, additional distributions shall be made under subsections (3) ((and)), (4), and (5) of this section to the cities.

((6)) (7) If the level of revenues in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account exceeds the amount necessary to make the distributions under subsections (2) through ((4)) (5) of this section, then the additional revenues shall be apportioned among the several cities within the state ratably on the basis of population as last determined by the office of financial management: PROVIDED, That no such distribution shall be made to those cities receiving a distribution under subsection (2) of this section.

((7) For a city or town initially incorporated on or after January 1, 1983, at the time distributions are made under subsection (3) of this section, the state treasurer shall place into a separate designated account for such city or town a pro rata amount of the revenues received under RCW 82-44-110(5) equal to the city's or town's population multiplied by the amount of equalization funds to which the city or town would be entitled if its per capita yield the previous calendar year were zero. Such account shall take effect on January 1st of the first full calendar year during which the city or town imposes the taxes authorized by RCW 82.14.030(1) and shall cease to exist on December 31st of that year.))

(8) All earnings of investments of balances in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account shall be credited to the general fund.

((At the time that sales and use tax distributions are made pursuant to RCW 82.14.060, the revenues in such designated account shall be added to the city's or town's sales and use tax distributions so as to provide to such city or town an amount which reflects what such jurisdiction's entitlement from the municipal sales and use tax equalization account would have been if the actual distributions of sales and use tax revenues to such city or town had been received the previous full calendar year. Any excess revenues remaining in such designated account upon its expiration shall be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section. If the department of revenue determines during the year that any funds in the designated account are not necessary for the purposes of distribution under this subsection, the department may deposit those funds in the municipal sales and use tax equalization account to be apportioned according to subsection (6) of this section:))

Senator Fleming: “Senator Smitherman, I don’t have all my lists in front of me, but I think the reason that it is not shown is that it probably--you are looking at the list of ten thousand or less. MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5882

March 29, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 2 and 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5882 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to reckless, negligent, and inattentive driving."

Section 1 of the bill makes the crime of reckless driving a gross misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of up to one year and by a fine of up to five thousand dollars. Increased penalties for this serious traffic offense should be a useful tool to prosecutors, police and judges.

Section 2 provides a 90-day maximum jail sentence for the less serious traffic offense of negligent driving. Currently, negligent driving is not punishable by imprisonment. While the overall intent of this bill is to provide judges with more options through increased penalties, this particular change fails to accomplish the intended result. It is counterproductive to increase the penalty for negligent driving while at the same time trying to reduce the number of cases that are plea-bargained from DWI and reckless driving to negligent driving. Of additional concern is the drain on resources associated with this change. Emphasis must be placed on providing the jail space and law enforcement personnel to assure convictions and stiff sentences for our most serious criminal and traffic offenders. I encourage the Legislature, working together with local officials, to pursue comprehensive solutions for our criminal justice system.

Section 3 creates a new traffic infraction of inattentive driving. The definition of this new infraction potentially punishes behavior where no erratic driving is present and thus creates enforcement problems for the police. Existing specific violations are adequate and this infraction is unnecessary.

For the reasons stated, I have vetoed sections 2 and 3.

With the exception of sections 2 and 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5882 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6190

March 29, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to prevention of health injuries."

Section 5 requires the Department of Health to establish a state-wide trauma registry to collect information on the incidence, severity and causes of traumatic brain injury. This registry is to identify and track major brain injury cases from onset through rehabilitation or recovery, and is to keep specific statistics on helmet and non-helmet, motorcycle-related head and neck injuries. This section would also require the Department of Health to report to the Legislature on the feasibility of expanding the registry to include information on minor brain injuries.

This bill contains an appropriation of $49,000 to the Department of Health for all the purposes of this act. The Department's estimate of the fiscal impact of section 5 alone is nearly $500,000. I cannot in good conscience sign into law a program which will put the Department of Health at such a fiscal risk.

However, I am signing into law Substitute Senate Bill No. 6191. Substitute Senate Bill No. 6191 requires the Department of Health to establish a state-wide data registry to collect and analyze data on the incidence, severity, and causes of trauma, including traumatic brain injury. That provision is more comprehensive than section 5 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190. It is very likely that if adequately funded, the Department could collect the information required by section 5 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190 in the overall trauma registry of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6191.

For the reasons stated, I have vetoed section 5.

With the exception of section 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

*LEARNING BY CHOICE

FAMILY INVOLVEMENT

NEW SECTION. Sec. 101. The legislature finds that academic achievement of Washington students can and should be improved. The legislature further finds that student success depends, in large part, on increased parental involvement in their children's education.

In order to take another step toward improving education in Washington, it is the purpose of this act to enhance the ability of parents to exercise choice in where they prefer their children attend school; inform parents of their options under local policies and state law for the intradistrict and interdistrict enrollment of their children; and provide additional program opportunities for secondary students.

PART II

FAMILY CHOICE

Sec. 201. Section 28A.58.240, chapter 223, Laws of 1969 ex. sess. as amended by section 10, chapter 130, Laws of 1969 and RCW 28A.225.220 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any board of directors may make agreements with adults ((wishing)) choosing to attend school ((or with the directors of other districts for the attendance of children in the school district of either as may be best accommodated therein)); PROVIDED, That unless such arrangements are approved by the state superintendent of public instruction, a reasonable tuition charge, fixed by the state superintendent of public instruction, shall be paid by such students as best may be accommodated therein.

(2) A district is strongly encouraged to honor the request of a parent or guardian for his or her child to attend a school in another district.

(3) A district shall release a student to a nonresident district that agrees to accept the student if:

(a) A financial, educational, safety, or health condition affecting the student would likely be reasonably improved as a result of the transfer; or

(b) Attendance at the school in the nonresident district is more accessible to the parent's place of work or to the location of child care; or

(c) There is a special hardship or detrimental condition.

(4) A district may deny the request of a resident student to transfer to a nonresident district if the release of the student would adversely affect the district's existing desegregation plan.

(5) For the purpose of helping a district assess the quality of its education program, a resident school district may request an optional exit interview or questionnaire with the parents or guardians of a child transferring to another district. No parent or guardian may be forced to attend such an interview or complete the questionnaire.

(6) School districts may establish annual transfer fees for nonresident students enrolled under subsection (3) of this section and section 203 of this 1990 act. Until rules are adopted under section 202 of this 1990 act for the calculation of the transfer fee, the transfer fee shall be calculated by the same formula as the fees authorized under section 10, chapter 130, Laws of 1969. These fees, if applied, shall be applied uniformly for all such nonresident students except as provided in this section. The superintendent of public instruction, from available funds, shall pay any transfer fees for low-income students assessed by districts under this section. All (~~tuition money~~) transfer fees must be paid over to the county treasurer within thirty days of its collection for the credit of the district in which such students attend. The superintendent shall indicate the low-income eligibility criteria used in developing the cost estimate.

(2) This section expires December 31, 1990.

Senator Bailey: "No. 1. A financial, educational, safety, or health condition affecting the student would likely be reasonably improved as a result of the transfer; or

No. 2. Attendance in the nonresident district is more accessible to the parents' place of work or to the location of child care; or

No. 3. There is a special hardship or detrimental condition."

Senator Rinehart: "Is the striking amendment intended to retain some authority for districts to deny a request for transfer?"

Senator Bailey: "Yes."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator Bailey, the thing that I have to ask you now is whether or not this document that we have on our desks is addressing the concerns that the rural school districts of this state have--legitimately--when the subject first came before us? If it doesn't, then what we ought to do is--we have a document that we could send out and get everyone throughout the state involved in taking a look at how Choice could be developed--where it really does help the educational processes of this state. I am just questioning you now as to whether or not those people that said 'no' know what is in this bill and would accept it based upon the discussions that you have had in this short interim that we have been involved with it?"

Senator Bailey: "Thank you, Senator Patterson, we have had a public hearing on a very similar measure to this. We have changed a few words from the public hearing that we had on this measure and I think that we will find that this will measure up to what some of the schools in your area would like to see, because we have put in here that cooperative school districts are important to the state of Washington and we wanted to continue that program and it is continued in this Choice Bill.

"To say that this is going to solve the education needs of the state of Washington would be incorrect, and I am not saying it and I don't think that those of us who are sponsoring this amendment to the bill are saying it. What we are saying is that we are building on the transfer statute of the state of Washington and we think that that will have some--while not a large benefit--will have some benefit on the school system of the state of Washington. We will continue--our education committee in the Senate--will continue to look at those issues that we originally brought before this body. Those issues are the need for additional dollars for small school districts in the state of Washington. I don't think that goes away. We will also be looking at the Magnet School Program."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bailey, you can make this just a yes or no, because I want a couple of minutes to talk. If you would kindly answer me--mostly on our educational issues, we have a demand from some source. Have you had any of the school directors or members of the school directors association request this legislation?"

Senator Bailey: "No."

Senator Rasmussen: "Did anybody else interested in education request this?"

Senator Rasmussen: "Like whom?"

Senator Bailey: "Senator Hayner."

Senator Rasmussen: "She left the floor. She was afraid you were going to use her name in vain. Thank you, Senator Bailey."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Second Substitute House No. 2379, as amended by the Senate.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Second Substitute House Bill No. 2379, as amended by the Senate, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 28; nays, 18; absent, 1; excused, 2.

Voting yea: Senators Anderson, Bailey, Bauer, Benitz, Bluechel, Craswell, DeJarnatt, Gaspard, Hansen, Hayner, Johnson, Kreidler, Lee, Madsen, McCaslin, McDonald, Nelson, Patrick, Rinehart, Saling, Smith, Smitherman, Sutherland, Thorsness, von Reichbauer, Warnke, West, Williams - 28.

Voting nay: Senators Amondson, Barr, Bender, Cantu, Conner, Matson, Metcalf, Moore, Murray, Newhouse, Niemi, Owen, Patterson, Rasmussen, Sellar, Stratton, Talmadge, Wojahn - 18.

Absent: Senator Vognild - 1.

Excused: Senators Fleming, McMullen - 2.

SECOND SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 2379, as amended by the Senate, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the Senate returned to the fifth order of business.

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the Senate resumed consideration of Substitute House Bill No. 3035 which was held on the Introduction and First Reading Calendar, March 29, 1990.

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3035 was advanced to second reading and placed on the second reading calendar.

SECOND READING

SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 3035, by Committee on Appropriations (originally sponsored by Representatives Inslee, Baugher, Rayburn, Rector, Haugen, Ebersole and Rasmussen)

Funding the construction and expansion of jail facilities in Yakima County.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the following amendment by Senators Newhouse and Matson was adopted:

On page 1, beginning on line 4, strike "one million eight hundred thousand" and insert "three million"

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, Substitute House Bill No. 3035, as amended by the Senate, was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gaspard: "Senator McDonald, as you know that we have been, for the past three weeks, trying to hammer out a compromise position on the budget and I am looking at this bill that we are about to pass and I don't recall that we have brought this measure up in our conference committee and it is an additional appropriation that had not been considered. Could you tell me out of which box of yours that this money would come out of?"

Senator McDonald: "Actually, Senator Gaspard, this is coming out of the state building and construction account which is part of the capital budget and not a subject of the negotiations that we have on the operating budget.

"We did discuss it in our conference committee when Representatives Locke and Ebersole informed us that Representative Inslee was running this bill on the floor. I suspect that Representative Locke and I and you and Representative Ebersole ought to sit down and talk about the capital budget as well and how that is going to be funded, but I, for one, would be in favor of this bill and hope that you will be as well."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Newhouse, this is a very worthwhile project and I agree with you and we may want to put some of ours over there unless we can get an appropriation for an extra three or four million. What I wanted to ask was that we moved from one million eight hundred thousand in one bill and the sum of one million and so much there and then we bounced up to three million. Where did they find out--both bills--one had one million eight hundred and one had one million and now the amendment says three million?"

Senator Newhouse: "As I mentioned in my previous remarks, Senator Rasmussen, the one million dollar appropriation for operation, I do not intend to pursue this evening."

Senator Rasmussen: "But, the additional three million is just for construction?"

Senator Newhouse: "It is for construction and is necessary because of the added costs they find in looking over the existing facilities. It is just an old store building and some people say it might better be torn down and start over again, rather than try and make a jail facility out of it and they certainly need better engineering and architectural services at this point."

Senator Rasmussen: "You know that we have suggested to the Governor that he use an airplane carrier for the prisons? They have the capability of holding five thousand people on an airplane carrier. It is a little hard to get it over to Yakima, however. I'll support your help on the jail."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 3035, as amended by the Senate.

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 5371, by Senators Gaspard, Bailey and Bauer

Establishing an award for excellence in teacher preparation.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Bailey moved that the following amendment by Senators Gaspard, Bauer and Bailey be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION, Sec. 1. Sections 2 through 5 of this act may be known and cited as the Washington award for excellence in teacher preparation act.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 2. (1) The state board of education shall establish an annual award program for excellence in teacher preparation to recognize higher education teacher educators for their leadership, contributions, and commitment to education.

(2) The program shall recognize annually one teacher preparation faculty member from one of the teacher preparation programs approved by the state board of education.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 3. The award for the teacher educator shall include:

(1) A certificate presented to the teacher educator by the governor, the president of the state board of education, and the superintendent of public instruction at a public ceremony; and

(2) A grant to the professional education advisory board of the institution from which the teacher educator is selected, which grant shall not exceed two thousand five hundred dollars and which grant shall be awarded under section 5 of this act.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 4. The state board of education shall adopt rules under chapter 34.05 RCW to carry out the purposes of sections 2 through 5 of this act. These rules shall include establishing the selection criteria for the Washington award for excellence in teacher preparation. The state board of education is encouraged to consult with teacher educators, deans, and professional education advisory board members in developing the selection criteria. The criteria shall include any role performed by nominees relative to implementing innovative developments by the nominee's teacher preparation program and efforts the nominee has made to assist in communicating with legislators, common school teachers and administrators and others about the nominee's teacher preparation program.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 5. The professional education advisory board for the institution from which the teacher educator has been selected to receive an award shall be eligible to apply for an educational grant as provided under section 3 of this act. The state board of education shall award the grant after the state board has approved the grant application as long as the written grant application is submitted to the state board within one year after the award is received by the teacher educator. The grant application shall identify the educational purpose toward which the grant shall be used.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 6. The legislature finds that excellence in teacher preparation requires increased cooperation and coordination between institutions of higher education and school districts as it relates to the preparation of students into the profession of teaching. The legislature further finds that an increase in the level of such cooperation and coordination in selecting, training, and supervising excellent "cooperating" teachers, and the development of new school and university partnerships, will be beneficial to the teaching profession, and will enhance the ability of all new teachers to perform at a more competent level during their initial teaching experience.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. The excellence in teacher preparation program is hereby created to improve the quality of teacher preparation by providing cooperating teachers for all student teachers during their student teaching internship. The superintendent of public instruction shall adopt rules to establish and operate the excellence in teacher preparation program. The program shall provide that:

(1) Cooperating teachers shall be appointed by school districts in a joint selection process with the institutions of higher education, and shall hold a continuing professional certificate;

(2) All student teacher interns from a regionally accredited institution of higher education whose professional education preparation program has been approved by the state board of education shall be provided a cooperating teacher for up to two academic quarters;

(3) Cooperating teachers shall provide a source of continuing and sustained assistance, training, and support and shall be involved in evaluations and recommendations to the institutions of higher education respecting the competency of the student teacher intern. Cooperating teachers shall collaborate with their school principals respecting the support, training, and assistance they provide under this program;

(4) Salary stipends for cooperating teachers shall be paid through supplemental contracts as provided in the state operating appropriations act; and

(5) The institutions of higher education, in consultation with the superintendent of public instruction, may provide workshops for training cooperating teachers, subject to appropriations in the state operating appropriations act.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 8. Sections 6 and 7 of this act shall take effect when funds are appropriated by the legislature.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 9. Sections 1 through 7 of this act are each added to Title 28A RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. The sum of two thousand five hundred dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, from the general fund to the superintendent of public instruction for the purpose of section 5 of this act."

I think there is a very strong possibility that we may take the federal government to court on this and I think that Mr. Thompson has left that option open. So, it is not resolved. I suspect that there will be ten to fifteen and maybe even more millions of dollars required to make us whole."

Senator Rasmussen: "But, this will allow them to tighten the program up, yet keep it operating?"

Senator McDonald: "That is correct. It will allow the Governor to have the flexibility to tighten it up."

Senator Newhouse: "The calendar has actually diminished a good deal in the last twenty-four hours, Senator Rasmussen. With the addition of this bill, we are now down to four measures on our calendar, plus the budget and the growth management issues. At this point, we have no intent of adding anymore, but several of the bills that we have added, and acted on, had to do with the implementation of the budget."

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6253

March 31, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6253 entitled:
"AN ACT Relating to the regulatory taking of private property by state government."

This bill sets a bad precedent by attempting to turn a complex and changing legal area into an overly simplistic administrative checklist. The bill also sends a very threatening message to agencies regarding the regulation of land use for health, safety and environmental protection. In addition, it creates an administrative process intended, but legally unable, to replace a current judicial process.

While it is true that both the state and U.S. Constitutions prohibit the "taking" of property without just compensation, it is not true that any regulation of land amounts to a "taking." More importantly, should a regulation amount to a constitutional infringement on someone's property rights, the analysis may well be that of a violation of due process, rather than a "taking", in which case the remedy is invalidation not compensation. The recent Washington Supreme Court opinion, Presbytery of Seattle v. King County, re-emphasized that there is only a slight risk of a taking occurring from regulatory programs, such as King County's wetland ordinance.

This bill would establish yet another administrative layer in state government. In conducting rule-making, state agencies currently must comply with the Administrative Procedure Act, the Regulatory Fairness Act, the State Economic Policy Act, and the State Environmental Policy Act. All agency rules are also submitted to a joint legislative committee for review (JARRC). Yet another layer would only further delay agency action and provide more reason for the public to view government as an administrative nightmare.

This bill would require the Attorney General's office to develop guidelines for evaluating and avoiding the risk of "regulatory takings." The Attorney General's office, in its role of advising each state agency, already reviews policies and provides advice on constitutional parameters. There is no need to codify the nature of the advice given, especially since the parameters have been and may continue to evolve within the judicial system.

The real impact of this bill is to impose an additional layer of review on governmental regulation in the hope that a more cautious approach by governmental entities will ensue. A bill such as this only serves to intimidate regulatory entities from making the difficult but necessary choices presented by the most sensitive environmental land-use problems.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 6253.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

FURTHER MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6417

March 30, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 315, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6417 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the capital budget."

This section provides $500,000 from the State Wildlife Fund for a continued feasibility study and design work for a steelhead and rainbow trout hatchery at Grandy Creek. Funds available to the State Wildlife Fund are extremely limited. Revenues may not be sufficient to cover projected expenditures next biennium. Additionally, initial studies by the Department of Wildlife have shown that the amount of water available at Grandy Creek is marginal to support a hatchery. Moreover, this project is being developed outside the normal Capital budget process, without a thorough review by the Department of Wildlife or the Office of Financial Management. The Department of Wildlife has not had the opportunity to rank this project in terms of its other capital needs. Given these factors, approval of the appropriation is not prudent. While I am opposing the project at this time, I am willing to work with the Department of Wildlife, the Legislature, and interested groups in pursuing the feasibility of a steelhead facility on the Skagit River.

With the exception of section 315, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6417 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6292

March 30, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 6292 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the control of mosquitos."

This bill allows local mosquito control districts to establish a policy that the control of mosquitos within the district is the responsibility of the owner of the land from which the mosquitos originate. However, section 1 of the bill expands the common definition of owner from the possessor of the legal or equitable title to include anyone with any other interest entitling the person to possession or management control. Individuals who are renting or leasing property would, therefore, be responsible for mosquito control. This definition would confuse landowners and tenants and would be inconsistent with other statutes relating to property ownership and management. For these reasons, I have vetoed section 1.

With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 6292 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6408

March 30, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 3, 13 and 33, Senate Bill No. 6408 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to transportation appropriations."

Section 3 replaces $750,000 of State Patrol Highway Account funds with an equal amount of Public Safety Education Account (PSEA) funds for the Safety Education program. Additionally, it appropriates $250,000 of PSEA funds to enhance the Safety Education program. The Public Safety Education Account, already in precarious financial condition, has many beneficiaries, including the Crime Victims Compensation program. With the lifting of the crime victim's medical cap, the future demands on this fund may exceed estimated revenues. The operating budget conference committee should appropriate $250,000 of State Patrol Highway Account funds to enhance the Safety Education Program, including the Bicycle Awareness program.

Section 13 appropriates state general funds and transportation funds to the newly created Air Transportation Commission. While I can support the purpose and need for creating a statewide Air Transportation Commission, I question the use of state general funds because the mission of this commission, as described in this legislation, does not include the broader perspective necessary to justify the use of general funds. Therefore, I will ask the House and Senate fiscal committee chairs to provide start-up and study funding for the Commission out of transportation funds.

Section 33 appropriates $3,000,000 General Fund - State to the Department of Ecology (DOE) for distribution to local air pollution control authorities for activities relating to transportation-caused air pollution.

I question whether the activities described in this section should be paid from the state general fund or more appropriately paid out of transportation funds, as the focus of the program addresses "transportation-caused air pollution."

An issue as important as air quality should not be approached in a piecemeal fashion. DOE is currently developing a comprehensive program and budget request to address air pollution as a priority in the 1991 legislative agenda. Vehicle emissions monitoring and compliance is but one component of a comprehensive air quality program. This program will be developed using the Department's Environment 2010 report which is due this June.

It is appropriate that the issue of additional funding for local air pollution control authorities be addressed next session in the context of an overall comprehensive plan, and for these reasons, I have vetoed this section.

With the exception of sections 3, 13, and 33, Senate Bill No. 6408 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5835

March 31, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5835 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to energy education."

This bill requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction, with the assistance of an Energy Education Advisory Committee, to develop and disseminate an energy information program for use in local school districts.

It is essential that the state's citizens understand the need for using energy efficiently and the trade-offs associated with acquiring energy resources. I concur that it is desirable to begin a public education campaign on energy issues through our school system.

Section 3 requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction to establish an Energy Education Advisory Committee but includes no sunset date for that committee. Currently, the Superintendent has authority to establish ad-hoc committees as the need arises. The Superintendent has assured me that individuals representing a broad spectrum of viewpoints on energy issues will be consulted.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed section 3 of Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5835.

With the exception of section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5835 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

SECOND READING

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6412, by Committee on Environment and Natural Resources (originally sponsored by Senators McDonald, Vognild, Bluechel, Nelson, Warnke, Rinehart, Gaspard, Bailey, Lee, Patrick, Bender, McMullen, Talmadge, Murray, Williams, Bauer, DeJarnatt, Stratton, Metcalf, Conner, Madsen and Kreidler) (by request of Governor Gardner)

Funding the acquisition of land for wildlife conservation and outdoor recreation.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator McDonald, the following amendment was adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds:

(1) That Washington possesses an abundance of natural wealth in the form of forests, mountains, wildlife, waters, and other natural resources, all of which help to provide an unparalleled diversity of outdoor recreation opportunities and a quality of life unmatched in this nation;

(2) That as the state's population grows, the demand on these resources is growing too, placing greater stress on today's already overcrowded public recreational lands and facilities, and resulting in a significant loss of wildlife habitat and lands of unique natural value;

(3) That public acquisition and development programs have not kept pace with the state's expanding population;

(4) That private investment and employment opportunities in general and the tourist industry in particular are dependent upon the continued availability of recreational opportunities and our state's unique natural environment;

(5) That if current trends continue, some wildlife species and rare ecosystems will be lost in the state forever and public recreational lands will not be adequate to meet public demands;

(6) That there is accordingly a need for the people of the state to reserve certain areas of the state, in rural as well as urban settings, for the benefit of present and future generations.

It is therefore the policy of the state to acquire as soon as possible the most significant lands for wildlife conservation and outdoor recreation purposes before they are converted to other uses, and to develop existing public recreational land and facilities to meet the needs of present and future generations.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The definitions set forth in this section apply throughout this chapter.

(1) "Acquisition" means the purchase on a willing seller basis of fee or less than fee interests in real property. These interests include, but are not limited to, options, rights of first refusal, conservation easements, leases, and mineral rights.

(2) "Committee" means the interagency committee for outdoor recreation.

(3) "Critical habitat" means lands important for the protection, management, or public enjoyment of certain wildlife species or groups of species, including, but not limited to, wintering range for deer, elk, and other species, waterfowl and upland bird habitat, fish habitat, and habitat for endangered, threatened, or sensitive species.

(4) "Local agencies" means a city, county, town, tribe, special purpose district, port district, or other political subdivision of the state providing services to less than the entire state.

(5) "Natural areas" means areas that have, to a significant degree, retained their natural character and are important in preserving rare or vanishing flora, fauna, geological, natural historical, or similar features of scientific or educational value.

(6) "Special needs populations" means physically restricted people or people of limited means.

(7) "Trails" means public ways constructed for and open to pedestrians, equestrians, or bicyclists, or any combination thereof, other than a sidewalk constructed as a part of a city street or county road for exclusive use of pedestrians.

(8) "Urban wildlife habitat" means lands that provide habitat important to wildlife in proximity to a metropolitan area.

(9) "Water access" means boat or foot access to marine waters, lakes, rivers, or streams.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The habitat conservation account is established in the state treasury. The committee shall administer the account in accordance with chapter 43.99 RCW and this chapter, and shall hold it separate and apart from all other money, funds, and accounts of the committee.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) Moneys appropriated for this chapter shall be divided equally between the habitat conservation and outdoor recreation accounts and shall be used exclusively for the purposes specified in this chapter.

(2) Moneys deposited in these accounts shall be invested as authorized for other state funds, and any earnings on them shall be credited to the respective account.

(3) All moneys deposited in the habitat conservation and outdoor recreation accounts shall be allocated under sections 5 and 6 of this act as grants to state or local agencies for acquisition, development, and renovation within the jurisdiction of those agencies, subject to legislative appropriation. The committee may use or permit the use of any funds appropriated for this chapter as matching funds where federal, local, or other funds are made available for projects within the purposes of this chapter.

(4) Projects receiving grants under this chapter that are developed or otherwise acquired for public recreational uses shall be available to the public on a nondiscriminatory basis.

(5) The committee may make grants to an eligible project from both the habitat conservation and outdoor recreation accounts and any one or more of the applicable categories under such accounts described in sections 5 and 6 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) Moneys appropriated for this chapter to the habitat conservation account shall be distributed in the following way:

(a) Not less than thirty-five percent for the acquisition and development of critical habitat;

(b) Not less than twenty percent for the acquisition and development of natural areas;

(c) Not less than fifteen percent for the acquisition and development of urban wildlife habitat; and

(d) The remaining amount shall be considered unallocated and shall be used by the committee to fund high priority acquisition and development needs for critical habitat, natural areas, and urban wildlife habitat.

(2) In distributing these funds, the committee retains discretion to meet the most pressing needs for critical habitat, natural areas, and urban wildlife habitat, and is not required to meet the percentages described in subsection (1) of this section in any one biennium.

(3) Only state agencies may apply for acquisition and development funds for critical habitat and natural areas projects under subsection (1) (a), (b), and (d) of this section.

(4) State and local agencies may apply for acquisition and development funds for urban wildlife habitat projects under subsection (1) (c) and (d) of this section.

(d) Not less than ten percent for the acquisition and development of water access sites, with at least seventy-five percent of this money for acquisition costs; and

(e) The remaining amount shall be considered unallocated and shall be distributed by the committee to state and local agencies to fund high priority acquisition and development needs for parks, trails, and water access sites.

(2) In distributing these funds, the committee retains discretion to meet the most pressing needs for state and local parks, trails, and water access sites, and is not required to meet the percentages described in subsection (1) of this section in any one biennium.

(3) Only local agencies may apply for acquisition, development, or renovation funds for local parks under subsection (1)(b) of this section.

(4) State and local agencies may apply for funds for trails under subsection (1)(c) of this section.

(5) State and local agencies may apply for funds for water access sites under subsection (1)(d) of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. (1) The committee may adopt rules establishing acquisition policies and priorities for distributions from the habitat conservation account.

(2) Moneys appropriated for this chapter may not be used by the committee to fund additional staff positions or other overhead expenses, or by a state, regional, or local agency to fund operation and maintenance of areas acquired under this chapter.

(3) Moneys appropriated for this chapter may be used for costs incidental to acquisition, including, but not limited to, surveying expenses, fencing, and signing.

(4) The committee may not approve a local project where the local agency share is less than the amount to be awarded from the habitat conservation account.

(6) Before October 1st of each even-numbered year, the committee shall recommend to the governor a prioritized list of state agency projects to be funded under section 5(1) (a), (b), and (c) of this act. The governor may remove projects from the list recommended by the committee and shall submit this amended list in the capital budget request to the legislature. The list shall include, but not be limited to, a description of each project.

(7) Before October 1st of each year, the committee shall recommend to the governor a prioritized list of all local projects to be funded under section 5(1)(c) of this act. The governor may remove projects from the list recommended by the committee and shall submit this amended list in the capital budget request to the legislature. The list shall include, but not be limited to, a description of each project and any particular match requirement, and describe for each project any anticipated restrictions upon recreational activities allowed prior to the project.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) In determining which state parks proposals and local parks proposals to fund, the committee shall use existing policies and priorities.

(2) Moneys appropriated for this chapter may not be used by the committee to fund additional staff or other overhead expenses, or by a state, regional, or local agency to fund operation and maintenance of areas acquired under this chapter.

(3) Moneys appropriated for this chapter may be used for costs incidental to acquisition, including, but not limited to, surveying expenses, fencing, and signing.

(4) The committee may not approve a project of a local agency where the share contributed by the local agency is less than the amount to be awarded from the outdoor recreation account.

The legislature may remove projects from the list recommended by the governor.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. Moneys made available under this chapter for land acquisition shall not be used to acquire land through condemnation.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. On or before November 1st of each odd-numbered year, the committee shall submit to the governor and the standing committees of the legislature dealing with fiscal affairs, fish and wildlife, and natural resources a report detailing the acquisitions and development projects funded under this chapter during the immediately preceding biennium.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. (1) The appropriations from the habitat conservation account and the outdoor recreation account for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, shall be expended to acquire projects recommended by the committee to the governor by March 31, 1990. The governor may remove projects from the list and shall approve by April 15, 1990, a list of projects to be acquired for the fiscal biennium ending June 30, 1991.

(2) Acquisitions shall be completed to the extent possible within available funds. If a site has been converted, or the owner is not willing to sell, the committee shall select from the list until all funds have been expended. April 1, 1990

Mr. President:

ALAN THOMPSON, Chief Clerk

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended and Substitute House Bill No. 3035 was returned to second reading and read the second time.

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the following amendment by Senators Newhouse and Matson was adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The sum of two million four hundred thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the state building and construction account to the department of community development for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, for the purpose of providing a grant to Yakima County for construction and expansion of jail facilities. The appropriation is subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(1) Before receiving the grant, the county shall demonstrate an ability to complete the construction and expansion of the jail facility; and

(2) The grant shall not exceed eighty percent of the total project cost as determined by the department."

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the following title amendment was adopted:

On page 1, line 2 of the title, after "County;" strike the remainder of the title and insert "and making an appropriation."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, Substitute House Bill No. 3035, as amended by the Senate, under suspension of the rules, was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wojahn: "Senator Newhouse, would you be willing to also perhaps look to the future of expanding this particular jail into a state prison for people who are within the foreseeable end of a parole, such as they want to put in Pierce County--and we don't want? Would you consider expanding this into a state prison to house part Yakima prisoners and part regional prisoners--state prisoners--as in a state correctional facility?"

Senator Newhouse: "That is a very complex question and I can't give a simple answer, but say that yes this follows better. Senator Wojahn, the concept of the regional jail, because it is of very close proximity to the courthouse and the Yakima jail. The criminals that need a maximum security or even minimum security can be housed in the Yakima jail. It is quite a fancy structure. Then, the concept of a state prison--there is a town down the valley, by the name of Grandview that is asking for the next facility and many of the people in that town are asking that there be a new jail in that area."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 3035, as amended by the Senate, under suspension of the rules.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. FINDINGS AND INTENT. The legislature finds that uncoordinated and unplanned growth, together with a lack of common goals expressing the public's interest in the conservation and the wise use of our lands, pose a threat to the environment, sustainable economic development, and the health, safety, and high quality of life enjoyed by residents of this state. It is in the public interest that citizens, communities, local governments, and the private sector cooperate and coordinate with one another in comprehensive land use planning. Further, the legislature finds that it is in the public interest that economic development programs be shared with communities experiencing insufficient economic growth.

PART I

GOALS AND PLANNING

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. PLANNING GOALS. The following goals are adopted to guide the development and adoption of comprehensive plans and development regulations of those counties and cities that are required or choose to plan under section 4 of this act. The following goals are not listed in order of priority and shall be used exclusively for the purpose of guiding the development of comprehensive plans and development regulations:

- (2) Reduce sprawl. Reduce the inappropriate conversion of undeveloped land into sprawling, low-density development.
- (3) Transportation. Encourage efficient multimodal transportation systems that are based on regional priorities and coordinated with county and city comprehensive plans.
- (4) Housing. Encourage the availability of affordable housing to all economic segments of the population of this state, promote a variety of residential densities and housing types, and encourage preservation of existing housing stock.
- (5) Economic development. Encourage economic development throughout the state that is consistent with adopted comprehensive plans, promote economic opportunity for all citizens of this state, especially for unemployed and for disadvantaged persons, and encourage growth in areas experiencing insufficient economic growth, all within the capacities of the state's natural resources, public services, and public facilities.
- (6) Property rights. Private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation having been made. The property rights of landowners shall be protected from arbitrary and discriminatory actions.
- (7) Permits. Applications for both state and local government permits should be processed in a timely and fair manner to ensure predictability.
- (8) Natural resource industries. Maintain and enhance natural resource-based industries, including productive timber, agricultural, and fisheries industries. Encourage the conservation of productive forest lands and productive agricultural lands, and discourage incompatible uses.
- (9) Open space and recreation. Encourage the retention of open space and development of recreational opportunities, conserve fish and wildlife habitat, increase access to natural resource lands and water, and develop parks.
- (10) Environment. Protect the environment and enhance the state's high quality of life, including air and water quality, and the availability of water.
- (11) Citizen participation and coordination. Encourage the involvement of citizens in the planning process and ensure coordination between communities and jurisdictions to reconcile conflicts.
- (12) Public facilities and services. Ensure that those public facilities and services necessary to support development shall be adequate to serve the development at the time the development is available for occupancy and use without decreasing current service levels below locally established minimum standards.
- (13) Historic preservation. Identify and encourage the preservation of lands, sites, and structures, that have historical or archaeological significance.

(8) "Forest land" means land primarily useful for growing trees, including Christmas trees subject to the excise tax imposed under RCW 84.33.100 through 84.33.140, for commercial purposes, and that has long-term commercial significance for growing trees commercially.

(9) "Geologically hazardous areas" means areas that because of their susceptibility to erosion, sliding, earthquake, or other geological events, are not suited to the siting of commercial, residential, or industrial development consistent with public health or safety concerns.

(10) "Long-term commercial significance" includes the growing capacity, productivity, and soil composition of the land for long-term commercial production, in consideration with the land's proximity to population areas, and the possibility of more intense uses of the land.

(11) "Minerals" include gravel, sand, and valuable metallic substances.

(12) "Public facilities" include streets, roads, highways, sidewalks, street and road lighting systems, traffic signals, domestic water systems, storm and sanitary sewer systems, parks and recreational facilities, and schools.

(13) "Public services" include fire protection and suppression, law enforcement, public health, education, recreation, environmental protection, and other governmental services.

(14) "Urban growth" refers to growth that makes intensive use of land for the location of buildings, structures, and impermeable surfaces to such a degree as to be incompatible with the primary use of such land for the production of food, other agricultural products, or fiber, or the extraction of mineral resources. When allowed to spread over wide areas, urban growth typically requires urban governmental services. "Characterized by urban growth" refers to land having urban growth located on it, or to land located in relationship to an area with urban growth on it as to be appropriate for urban growth.

(15) "Urban growth areas" means those areas designated by a county pursuant to section 11 of this act.

(16) "Urban governmental services" include those governmental services historically and typically delivered by cities, and include storm and sanitary sewer systems, domestic water systems, street cleaning services, fire and police protection services, public transit services, and other public utilities associated with urban areas and normally not associated with nonurban areas.

(17) "Wetland" or "wetlands" means areas that are inundated or saturated by surface water or ground water at a frequency and duration sufficient to support, and that under normal circumstances do support, a prevalence of vegetation typically adapted for life in saturated soil conditions. Wetlands generally include swamps, marshes, bogs, and similar areas. Wetlands do not include those artificial wetlands intentionally created from nonwetland sites, including, but not limited to, irrigation and drainage ditches, grass-lined swales, canals, detention facilities, wastewater treatment facilities, farm ponds, and landscape amenities. However, wetlands may include those artificial wetlands intentionally created from nonwetland areas created to mitigate conversion of wetlands, if permitted by the county or city.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 4. WHO MUST PLAN. (1) Each county that has both a population of fifty thousand or more and has had its population increase by more than ten percent in the previous ten years, and the cities located within such county, and any other county regardless of its population that has had its population increase by more than twenty percent in the previous ten years, and the cities located within such county, shall adopt comprehensive land use plans and development regulations under this chapter. However, the county legislative authority of such a county with a population of less than fifty thousand population may adopt a resolution removing the county, and the cities located within the county, from the requirements of adopting comprehensive land use plans and development regulations under this chapter if this resolution is adopted and filed with the department by December 31, 1990. Once a county meets either of these criteria, the requirement to conform with sections 4 through 16 of this act remains in effect, even if the county no longer meets one of these criteria.

(2) The county legislative authority of any county that does not meet the requirements of subsection (1) of this section may adopt a resolution indicating its intention to have subsection (1) of this section apply to the county. Each city, located in a county that chooses to plan under this subsection, shall adopt a comprehensive land use plan in accordance with this chapter. Once such a resolution has been adopted, the county cannot remove itself from the requirements of this chapter.

(3) Any county or city that is required to adopt a comprehensive land use plan under subsection (1) of this section shall adopt the plan on or before July 1, 1993. Any county or city that is required to adopt a comprehensive land use plan under subsection (2) of this section shall adopt the plan not later than three years from the date the county legislative body takes action as required by subsection (2) of this section.

(4) If the office of financial management certifies that the population of a county has changed sufficiently to meet the requirements of subsection (1) of this section, and the county legislative authority has not adopted a resolution removing the county from these requirements as provided in subsection (1) of this section, the county and each city within such county shall adopt: (a) Development regulations under section 6 of this act within one year of the certification by the office of financial management; (b) a comprehensive land use plan under this chapter within three years of the certification by the office of financial management; and (c) development regulations pursuant to this chapter within one year of having adopted its comprehensive land use plan.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 5. GUIDELINES TO CLASSIFY AGRICULTURE, FOREST, AND MINERAL LANDS AND CRITICAL AREAS. (1) Subject to the definitions provided in section 3 of this act, the department shall adopt guidelines, under chapter 34.05 RCW, no later than September 1, 1990, to guide the classification of: (a) Agricultural lands; (b) forest lands; (c) mineral resource lands; and (d) critical areas. The department shall consult with the department of agriculture regarding guidelines for agricultural lands, the department of natural resources regarding forest lands and mineral resource lands, and the department of ecology regarding critical areas.

(2) In carrying out its duties under this section, the department shall consult with interested parties, including but not limited to: (a) Representatives of cities; (b) representatives of counties; (c) representatives of developers; (d) representatives of builders; (e) representatives of owners of agricultural lands, forest lands, and mining lands; (f) representatives of local economic development officials; (g) representatives of environmental organizations; (h) representatives of special districts; (i) representatives of the governor's office and federal and state agencies; and (j) representatives of Indian tribes. In addition to the consultation required under this subsection, the department shall conduct public hearings in the various regions of the state. The department shall consider the public input obtained at such public hearings when adopting the guidelines.

(3) The guidelines under subsection (1) of this section shall be minimum guidelines that apply to all jurisdictions, but also shall allow for regional differences that exist in Washington state. The intent of these guidelines is to assist counties and cities in designating the classification of agricultural lands, forest lands, mineral resource lands, and critical areas under section 17 of this act.

(4) The guidelines established by the department under this section regarding classification of forest lands shall not be inconsistent with guidelines adopted by the department of natural resources.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 6. NATURAL RESOURCE LANDS AND CRITICAL AREAS—DEVELOPMENT REGULATIONS. (1) Each county that is required or chooses to plan under section 4 of this act, and each city within such county, shall adopt development regulations on or before September 1, 1991, to assure the conservation of agricultural, forest, and mineral resource lands designated under section 17 of this act. Regulations adopted under this section may not prohibit uses permitted prior to their adoption and shall remain in effect until a county adopts development regulations pursuant to section 12 of this act. Such regulations shall assure that the use of lands adjacent to agricultural, forest, or mineral resource lands shall not interfere with the continued use, in the accustomed manner, of these designated lands for the production of food, agricultural products, or timber, or for the extraction of minerals.

Each county that is required or chooses to plan under section 4 of this act, and each city within such county, shall adopt development regulations on or before September 1, 1991, precluding land uses or development that is incompatible with the critical areas that are required to be designated under section 17 of this act.

(2) Such counties and cities shall review these designations and development regulations when adopting their comprehensive plans under section 4 of this act and implementing development regulations under section 12 of this act and may alter such designations and development regulations to insure consistency.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. COMPREHENSIVE PLANS—MANDATORY ELEMENTS. The comprehensive plan of a county or city that is required or chooses to plan under section 4 of this act shall consist of a map or maps, and descriptive text covering objectives, principles, and standards used to develop the comprehensive plan. The plan shall be an internally consistent document and all elements shall be consistent with the future land use map. A comprehensive plan shall be adopted and amended with public participation as provided in section 14 of this act.

Each comprehensive plan shall include a plan, scheme, or design for each of the following:

(1) A land use element designating the proposed general distribution and general location and extent of the uses of land, where appropriate, for agriculture, timber production, housing, commerce, industry, recreation, open spaces, public utilities, public facilities, and other land uses. The land use element shall include population densities, building intensities, and estimates of future population growth. The land use element shall provide for protection of the quality and quantity of ground water used for public water supplies. Where applicable, the land use element shall review drainage, flooding, and storm water run-off in the area and nearby jurisdictions and provide guidance for corrective actions to mitigate or cleanse those discharges that pollute waters of the state, including Puget Sound or waters entering Puget Sound.

(2) A housing element recognizing the vitality and character of established residential neighborhoods that: (a) Includes an inventory and analysis of existing and projected housing needs; (b) includes a statement of goals, policies, and objectives for the preservation, improvement, and development of housing; (c) identifies sufficient land for housing, including, but not limited to, government-assisted housing, housing for low-income families, manufactured housing, multifamily housing, and group homes and foster care facilities; and (d) makes adequate provisions for existing and projected needs of all economic segments of the community.

(3) A capital facilities plan element consisting of: (a) An inventory of existing capital facilities owned by public entities, showing the locations and capacities of the capital facilities; (b) a forecast of the future needs for such capital facilities; (c) the proposed locations and capacities of expanded or new capital facilities; (d) at least a six-year plan that will finance such capital facilities within projected funding capacities and clearly identifies sources of public money for such purposes; and (e) a requirement to reassess the land use element if probable funding falls short of meeting existing needs and to ensure that the land use element, capital facilities plan element, and financing plan within the capital facilities plan element are coordinated and consistent.

(4) A utilities element consisting of the general location, proposed location, and capacity of all existing and proposed utilities, including, but not limited to, electrical lines, telecommunication lines, and natural gas lines.

(5) Counties shall include a rural element including lands that are not designated for urban growth, agriculture, forest, or mineral resources. The rural element shall permit land uses that are compatible with the rural character of such lands and provide for a variety of rural densities.

(6) A transportation element that implements, and is consistent with, the land use element. The transportation element shall include the following subelements:

(a) Land use assumptions used in estimating travel;

(b) Facilities and services needs, including:

(i) An inventory of air, water, and land transportation facilities and services, including transit alignments, to define existing capital facilities and travel levels as a basis for future planning;

(ii) Level of service standards for all arterials and transit routes to serve as a gauge to judge performance of the system. These standards should be regionally coordinated;

(iii) Specific actions and requirements for bringing into compliance any facilities or services that are below an established level of service standard;

(iv) Forecasts of traffic for at least ten years based on the adopted land use plan to provide information on the location, timing, and capacity needs of future growth;

(v) Identification of system expansion needs and transportation system management needs to meet current and future demands;

(c) Finance, including:

(i) An analysis of funding capability to judge needs against probable funding resources;

(ii) A multiyear financing plan based on the needs identified in the comprehensive plan, the appropriate parts of which shall serve as the basis for the six-year street, road, or transit program required by RCW 35.77.010 for cities, RCW 36.81.121 for counties, and RCW 35.58.2795 for public transportation systems;

(iii) If probable funding falls short of meeting identified needs, a discussion of how additional funding will be raised, or how land use assumptions will be reassessed to ensure that level of service standards will be met;

(d) Intergovernmental coordination efforts, including an assessment of the impacts of the transportation plan and land use assumptions on the transportation systems of adjacent jurisdictions;

(e) Demand-management strategies.

After adoption of the comprehensive plan by jurisdictions required to plan or who choose to plan under section 4 of this act, local jurisdictions must adopt and enforce ordinances which prohibit development approval if the development causes the level of service on a transportation facility to decline below the standards adopted in the transportation element of the comprehensive plan, unless transportation improvements or strategies to accommodate the impacts of development are made concurrent with the development. These strategies may include increased public transportation service, ride sharing programs, demand management, and other transportation systems management strategies. For the purposes of this subsection (b) "concurrent with the development" shall mean that improvements or strategies are in place at the time of development, or that a financial commitment is in place to complete the improvements or strategies within six years.

The transportation element described in this subsection, and the six-year plans required by RCW 35.77.010 for cities, RCW 36.81.121 for counties, and RCW 35.58.2795 for public transportation systems, must be consistent.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 8. OPTIONAL ELEMENTS. (1) A comprehensive plan may include additional elements, items, or studies dealing with other subjects relating to the physical development within its jurisdiction, including, but not limited to:

- (a) Conservation;
- (b) Solar energy; and
- (c) Recreation.

(2) A comprehensive plan may include, where appropriate, subarea plans, each of which is consistent with the comprehensive plan.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 9. INNOVATIVE TECHNIQUES. A comprehensive plan should provide for innovative land use management techniques, including, but not limited to, density bonuses, cluster housing, planned unit developments, and the transfer of development rights.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 10. COMPREHENSIVE PLANS—MUST BE COORDINATED. The comprehensive plan of each county or city that is adopted pursuant to section 4 of this act shall be coordinated with, and consistent with, the comprehensive plans adopted pursuant to section 4 of this act of other counties or cities with which the county or city has, in part, common borders or related regional issues.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 11. COMPREHENSIVE PLANS—URBAN GROWTH AREAS. (1) Each county that is required or chooses to adopt a comprehensive land use plan under section 4 of this act shall designate an urban growth area or areas within which urban growth shall be encouraged and outside of which growth can occur only if it is not urban in nature. Each city that is located in such a county shall be included within an urban growth area. An urban growth area may include more than a single city. An urban growth area may include territory that is located outside of a city only if such territory already is characterized by urban growth or is adjacent to territory already characterized by urban growth.

(2) Based upon the population forecast made for the county by the office of financial management, the urban growth areas in the county shall include areas and densities sufficient to permit the urban growth that is projected to occur in the county for the succeeding twenty-year period. Each urban growth area shall permit urban densities and shall include greenbelt and open space areas. Within one year of the effective date of this section, each county required to designate urban growth areas shall begin consulting with each city located within its boundaries and each city shall propose the location of an urban growth area. The county shall attempt to reach agreement with each city on the location of an urban growth area within which the city is located. If such an agreement is not reached with each city located within the urban growth area, the county shall justify in writing why it so designated the area an urban growth area. A city may object formally with the department over the designation of the urban growth area within which it is located. Where appropriate, the department shall attempt to resolve the conflicts, including the use of mediation services.

(3) Urban growth should be located first in areas already characterized by urban growth that have existing public facility and service capacities to serve such development, and second in areas already characterized by urban growth that will be served by a combination of both existing public facilities and services and any additional needed public facilities and services that are provided by either public or private sources. Further, it is appropriate that urban government services be provided by cities, and urban government services should not be provided in rural areas.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 12. COMPREHENSIVE PLANS—DEVELOPMENT REGULATIONS AND CAPITAL PLANS—IMPLEMENT IN CONFORMITY. Within one year of the adoption of its comprehensive plan, each county and city that is required or chooses to plan under section 4 of this act shall enact development regulations that are consistent with and implement the comprehensive plan. These counties and cities shall perform their activities and make capital budget decisions in conformity with their comprehensive plans.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. COMPREHENSIVE PLANS—AMENDMENTS. (1) Each comprehensive land use plan and development regulations shall be subject to continuing evaluation and review by the county or city that adopted them.

Any amendment or revision to a comprehensive land use plan shall conform to this chapter, and any change to development regulations shall be consistent with and implement the comprehensive plan.

(2) Each county and city shall establish procedures whereby proposed amendments or revisions of the comprehensive plan are considered by the governing body of the county or city no more frequently than once every year. All proposals shall be considered by the governing body concurrently so the cumulative effect of the various proposals can be ascertained. However, a county or city may adopt amendments or revisions to its comprehensive plan that conform with this chapter whenever an emergency exists.

(3) Each county that designates urban growth areas under section 11 of this act shall review, at least every ten years, its designated urban growth area or areas, and the densities permitted within both the incorporated and unincorporated portions of each urban growth area. In conjunction with this review by the county, each city located within an urban growth area shall review the densities permitted within its boundaries, and the extent to which the urban growth occurring within the county has located within each city and the unincorporated portions of the urban growth areas. The county comprehensive plan designating urban growth areas, and the densities permitted in the urban growth areas by the comprehensive plans of the county and each city located within the urban growth areas, shall be revised to accommodate the urban growth projected to occur in the county for the succeeding twenty-year period.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. COMPREHENSIVE PLANS—ENSURE PUBLIC PARTICIPATION. Each county and city that is required or chooses to plan under section 4 of this act shall establish procedures providing for early and continuous public participation in the development and amendment of comprehensive land use plans and development regulations implementing such plans. The procedures shall provide for broad dissemination of proposals and alternatives, opportunity for written comments, public meetings after effective notice, provision for open discussion, communication programs, information services, and consideration of and response to public comments. Errors in exact compliance with the established procedures shall not render the comprehensive land use plan or development regulations invalid if the spirit of the procedures is observed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. Each county and city that is required or chooses to prepare a comprehensive land use plan under section 4 of this act shall identify lands useful for public purposes such as utility corridors, transportation corridors, landfills, sewage treatment facilities, recreation, schools, and other public uses. The county shall work with the state and the cities within its borders to identify areas of shared need for public facilities. The jurisdictions within the county shall prepare a prioritized list of lands necessary for the identified public uses including an estimated date by which the acquisition will be needed.

The respective capital acquisition budgets for each jurisdiction shall reflect the jointly agreed upon priorities and time schedule.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. Each county and city that is required or chooses to prepare a comprehensive land use plan under section 4 of this act shall identify open space corridors within and between urban growth areas. They shall include lands useful for recreation, wildlife habitat, trails, and connection of critical areas as defined in section 3 of this act.

The city or county may seek to acquire by purchase the fee simple or lesser interests in these open space corridors using funds authorized by RCW 84.34.230 or other sources.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. NATURAL RESOURCE LANDS AND CRITICAL AREAS—DESIGNATIONS. (1) On or before September 1, 1991, each county, and each city, shall designate where appropriate:

(a) Agricultural lands that are not already characterized by urban growth and that have long-term significance for the commercial production of food or other agricultural products;

(b) Forest lands that are not already characterized by urban growth and that have long-term significance for the commercial production of timber;

(c) Mineral resource lands that are not already characterized by urban growth and that have long-term significance for the extraction of minerals; and

(d) Critical areas.

(2) In making the designations required by this section, counties and cities shall consider the guidelines established pursuant to section 5 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. COMPREHENSIVE PLANS—SPECIAL DISTRICTS MUST CONFORM. (1) All special districts shall perform their activities which affect land use, including capital budget decisions, in conformity with the state policy goals and the comprehensive land use plan of the county or city having jurisdiction in the area where the activities occur.

(2) Not later than one year after the adoption of a comprehensive plan by a county or city pursuant to section 4 of this act, each special district located within such a county or city, that provides one or more of the public facilities or public services listed in this subsection, shall adopt or amend a capital facilities plan for its facilities that is consistent with the comprehensive plan and indicates the existing and projected capital facilities that are necessary to serve the projected growth for the area that is served by the special district. These public facilities or public services are: (a) Sanitary sewers; (b) potable water facilities; (c) park and recreation facilities; (d) fire suppression; (e) libraries; (f) schools; and (g) transportation, including mass transit.

(3) This section shall not apply to port districts or municipal airports.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. REPORT ON PLANNING PROGRESS. (1) It is the intent of the legislature that counties and cities required to adopt a comprehensive plan under section 4(1) of this act begin implementing this chapter on or before July 1, 1990, including but not limited to: (a) inventorying, designating, and conserving agricultural, forest, and mineral resource lands, and critical areas; and (b) considering the modification or adoption of comprehensive land use plans and development regulations implementing the comprehensive land use plans. It is also the intent of the legislature that funds be made available to counties and cities beginning July 1, 1990, to assist them in meeting the requirements of this chapter.

(2) Each county and city that adopts a plan under section 4 (1) or (2) of this act shall report to the department annually for a period of five years, beginning on January 1, 1991, and each five years thereafter, on the progress made by that county or city in implementing this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE, GRANTS, AND MEDIATION SERVICES. (1) The department shall establish a program of technical and financial assistance and incentives to counties and cities to encourage and facilitate the adoption and implementation of comprehensive plans and development regulations throughout the state.

(2) The department shall develop a priority list and establish funding levels for planning and technical assistance grants both for counties and cities that plan under section 4 of this act. Priority for assistance shall be based on a county's or city's population growth rates, commercial and industrial development rates, the existence and quality of a comprehensive plan and development regulations, and other relevant factors.

(3) The department shall develop and administer a grant program to provide direct financial assistance to counties and cities for the preparation of comprehensive plans under this chapter. The department may establish provisions for county and city matching funds to conduct activities under this subsection. Grants may be expended for any purpose directly related to the preparation of a county or city comprehensive plan as the county or city and the department may agree, including, without limitation, the conducting of surveys, inventories and other data gathering and management activities, the retention of planning consultants, contracts with regional councils for planning and related services, and other related purposes.

(4) The department shall establish a program of technical assistance utilizing department staff, the staff of other state agencies, and the technical resources of counties and cities to help in the development of comprehensive plans required under this chapter. The technical assistance may include, but not be limited to, model land use ordinances, regional education and training programs, and information for local and regional inventories.

(5) The department shall provide mediation services to resolve disputes between counties and cities regarding, among other things, coordination of regional issues and designation of urban growth areas.

(6) The department shall provide planning grants to enhance citizen participation under section 14 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. A new section is added to chapter 43.63A RCW to read as follows:

INVENTORYING AND COLLECTING DATA. (1) The department shall assist in the process of inventorying and collecting data on public and private land for the acquisition of data describing land uses, demographics, infrastructure, critical areas, transportation corridors physical features, housing, and other information useful in managing growth throughout the state. For this purpose the department shall contract with the department of information services and shall form an advisory group consisting of representatives from state, local, and federal agencies, colleges and universities, and private firms with expertise in land planning, and geographic information systems.

(2) The department shall establish a sequence for acquiring data, giving priority to rapidly growing areas. The data shall be retained in a manner to facilitate its use in preparing maps, aggregating with data from multiple jurisdictions, and comparing changes over time. Data shall further be retained in a manner which permits its access via computer.

(3) By December 1, 1990, the department shall report to the appropriate committees of the house of representatives and senate on the availability of existing data; specific data which is needed but not currently available; data compatibility across jurisdictions; the suitability of various types of data for retention on computer; the cost of collecting, storing, updating, mapping, and manipulating data on a computer; and recommendations on how to maintain an inventory of data which is accessible to any user and whether to maintain the data at a central repository or decentralized repositories.

(4) The department shall work with other state agencies, local governments, and private organizations that are inventorying public and private lands to ensure close coordination and to ensure that duplication of efforts does not occur.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. A new section is added to chapter 35.63 RCW to read as follows:

However, this sixty-day time limitation may be extended by the director of health or engineer for up to an additional sixty days if sufficient time is not available to review adequately the general comprehensive plans.

Before becoming effective, the general comprehensive plan shall also be submitted to, and approved by resolution of, the legislative authority of every county within whose boundaries all or a portion of the sewer district lies. The general comprehensive plan shall be approved, conditionally approved, or rejected by each of these county legislative authorities pursuant to the criteria in RCW 56.02.060 for approving the formation, reorganization, annexation, consolidation, or merger of sewer districts, and the resolution, ordinance, or motion of the legislative body which rejects the comprehensive plan or a part thereof shall specifically state in what particular the comprehensive plan or part thereof rejected fails to meet these criteria. The (~~legislative body may not impose requirements restricting the maximum size of the sewer system facilities provided for in the~~) general comprehensive plan (~~PROVIDED That~~) shall not provide for the extension or location of facilities that are inconsistent with the requirements of section 11 of this act. Nothing in this chapter shall preclude a county from rejecting a proposed plan because it is in conflict with the criteria in RCW 56.02.060. Each general comprehensive plan shall be deemed approved if the county legislative authority fails to reject or conditionally approve the plan within ninety days of submission to the county legislative authority or within thirty days of a hearing on the plan when the hearing is held within ninety days of the plan's submission to the county legislative authority (~~PROVIDED That~~). However, a county legislative authority may extend this ninety-day time limitation by up to an additional ninety days where a finding is made that ninety days is insufficient to review adequately the general comprehensive plan. In addition, the sewer commissioners and the county legislative authority may mutually agree to an extension of the deadlines in this section.

If the district includes portions or all of one or more cities or towns, the general comprehensive plan shall be submitted also to, and approved by resolution of, the (~~legislative authority~~) governing body of such cities and towns before becoming effective. The general comprehensive plan shall be deemed approved by the city or town (~~legislative authority~~) governing body if the city or town (~~legislative authority~~) governing body fails to reject or conditionally approve the plan within ninety days of the plan's submission to the city or town or within thirty days of a hearing on the plan when the hearing is held within ninety days of submission to the county legislative authority. However, a city or town governing body may extend this time limitation by up to an additional ninety days where a finding is made that insufficient time exists to adequately review the general comprehensive plan within these time limitations. In addition, the sewer commissioners and the city or town governing body may mutually agree to an extension of the deadlines in this section.

Before becoming effective, any amendment to, alteration of, or addition to, a general comprehensive plan shall also be subject to such approval as if it were a new general comprehensive plan: PROVIDED, That only if the amendment, alteration, or addition, affects a particular city or town, shall the amendment, alteration, or addition be subject to approval by such particular city or town (~~legislative authority~~) governing body.

Sec. 35. Section 6, chapter 18, Laws of 1959 as last amended by section 10, chapter 389, Laws of 1989 and RCW 57.16.010 are each amended to read as follows:

The water district commissioners before ordering any improvements hereunder or submitting to vote any proposition for incurring any indebtedness shall adopt a general comprehensive plan of water supply for the district. They shall investigate the several portions and sections of the district for the purpose of determining the present and reasonably foreseeable future needs thereof; shall examine and investigate, determine and select a water supply or water supplies for such district suitable and adequate for present and reasonably foreseeable future needs thereof; and shall consider and determine a general system or plan for acquiring such water supply or water supplies; and the lands, waters and water rights and easements necessary therefor, and for retaining and storing any such waters, erecting dams, reservoirs, aqueducts and pipe lines to convey the same throughout such district. There may be included as part of the system the installation of fire hydrants at suitable places throughout the district, and the purchase and maintenance of necessary fire fighting equipment and apparatus, together with facilities for housing same. The water district commissioners shall determine a general comprehensive plan for distributing such water throughout such portion of the district as may then reasonably be served by means of subsidiary aqueducts and pipe lines, and the method of distributing the cost and expense thereof against such water district and against local improvement districts or utility local improvement districts within such water district for any lawful purpose, and including any such local improvement district or utility local improvement district lying wholly or partially within the limits of any city or town in such district, and shall determine whether the whole or part of the cost and expenses shall be paid from water revenue bonds. After July 23, 1989, when the district adopts a general comprehensive plan or plans for an area annexed as provided for in RCW 57.16.010, the district shall include a long-term plan for financing the planned projects. The commissioners may employ such engineering and legal service as in their discretion is necessary in carrying out their duties.

The general comprehensive plan shall be adopted by resolution and submitted to an engineer designated by the legislative authority of the county in which fifty-one percent or more of the area of the district is located, and to the director of health of the county in which the district or any portion thereof is located, and must be approved in writing by the engineer and director of health. The general comprehensive plan shall be approved, conditionally approved, or rejected by the director of health within sixty days of the plan's receipt and by the designated engineer within sixty days of the plan's receipt. However, this sixty-day time limitation may be extended by the director of health or engineer for up to an additional sixty days if sufficient time is not available to review adequately the general comprehensive plans.

Before becoming effective, the general comprehensive plan shall also be submitted to, and approved by resolution of, the legislative authority of every county within whose boundaries all or a portion of the water district lies. The general comprehensive plan shall be approved, conditionally approved, or rejected by each of these county legislative authorities pursuant to the criteria in RCW 57.02.040 for approving the formation, reorganization, annexation, consolidation, or merger of water districts, and the resolution, ordinance, or motion of the legislative body which rejects the comprehensive plan or a part thereof shall specifically state in what particular the comprehensive plan or part thereof rejected fails to meet these criteria. ~~The ((legislative body may not impose requirements restricting the maximum size of the water supply facilities provided for in the)) general comprehensive plan((--PROVIDED--That)) shall not provide for the extension or location of facilities that are inconsistent with the requirements of section 11 of this act. Nothing in this chapter shall preclude a county from rejecting a proposed plan because it is in conflict with the criteria in RCW 57.02.040. Each general comprehensive plan shall be deemed approved if the county legislative authority fails to reject or conditionally approve the plan within ninety days of the plan's submission to the county legislative authority or within thirty days of a hearing on the plan when the hearing is held within ninety days of submission to the county legislative authority((--PROVIDED--That)). However, a county legislative authority may extend this ninety-day time limitation by up to an additional ninety days where a finding is made that ninety days is insufficient to review adequately the general comprehensive plan. In addition, the water commissioners and the county legislative authority may mutually agree to an extension of the deadlines in this section.~~

If the district includes portions or all of one or more cities or towns, the general comprehensive plan shall be submitted also to, and approved by resolution of, the ~~((legislative authority)) governing bodies~~ of such cities and towns before becoming effective. The general comprehensive plan shall be deemed approved by the city or town ~~((legislative authority)) governing body~~ if the city or town ~~((legislative authority)) governing body~~ fails to reject or conditionally approve the plan within ninety days of the plan's submission to the city or town or within thirty days of a hearing on the plan when the hearing is held within ninety days of submission to the county legislative authority. However, a city or town governing body may extend this time limitation by up to an additional ninety days where a finding is made that insufficient time exists to adequately review the general comprehensive plan within these time limitations. In addition, the sewer commissioners and the city or town governing body may mutually agree to an extension of the deadlines in this section.

Before becoming effective, any amendment to, alteration of, or addition to, a general comprehensive plan shall also be subject to such approval as if it were a new general comprehensive plan: PROVIDED, That only if the amendment, alteration, or addition affects a particular city or town, shall the amendment, alteration or addition be subject to approval by such particular city or town (~~legislative authority~~) governing body.

Sec. 36. Section 11, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.010 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) (~~Subject to the enactment into law of the 1982 amendment to RCW 82.02.020 by section 5, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess.;~~) The governing body of any county or any city may impose an excise tax on each sale of real property in the unincorporated areas of the county for the county tax and in the corporate limits of the city for the city tax at a rate not exceeding one-quarter of one percent of the selling price. The revenues from this tax shall be used by the respective jurisdictions for local capital improvements, including those listed in RCW 35.43.040.

After the effective date of this section, revenues generated from the tax imposed under this subsection in counties and cities that are required or choose to plan under section 4 of this act shall be used primarily for financing capital projects specified in a capital facilities plan element of a comprehensive plan and housing relocation assistance under sections 50 and 51 of this act. However, revenues (a) pledged by such counties and cities to debt retirement prior to the effective date of this section may continue to be used for that purpose until all outstanding debt is retired, or (b) committed prior to the effective date of this section by such counties or cities to a capital project may continue to be used for that purpose until the project is completed.

(2) (~~Subject to the enactment into law of the 1982 amendment to RCW 82.02.020 by section 5, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess.;~~) In lieu of imposing the tax authorized in RCW 82.14.030(2), the governing body of any county or any city may impose an additional excise tax on each sale of real property in the unincorporated areas of the county for the county tax and in the corporate limits of the city for the city tax at a rate not exceeding one-half of one percent of the selling price.

(3) Taxes imposed under this section shall be collected from persons who are taxable by the state under chapter 82.45 RCW upon the occurrence of any taxable event within the unincorporated areas of the county or within the corporate limits of the city, as the case may be.

(4) Taxes imposed under this section shall comply with all applicable rules, regulations, laws, and court decisions regarding real estate excise taxes as imposed by the state under chapter 82.45 RCW.

(5) As used in this section, "city" means any city or town.

Sec. 37. Section 13, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.030 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The county treasurer shall place one percent of the proceeds of the taxes imposed under RCW 82.46.010 in the county current expense fund to defray costs of collection.

(2) The remaining proceeds from the county tax under RCW 82.46.010(1) shall be placed in a county capital improvements fund. The remaining proceeds from city or town taxes under RCW 82.46.010(1) shall be distributed to the respective cities and towns monthly and placed by the city treasurer in a municipal capital improvements fund. ~~(These capital improvements funds shall be used by the respective jurisdictions for local improvements, including those listed in RCW 35.43.040.)~~

(3) This section does not limit the existing authority of any city, town, or county to impose special assessments on property specially benefited thereby in the manner prescribed by law.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 38. A new section is added to chapter 82.46 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The governing body of any county or any city that plans under section 4(1) of this act may impose an additional excise tax on each sale of real property in the unincorporated areas of the county for the county tax and in the corporate limits of the city for the city tax at a rate not exceeding one-quarter of one percent of the selling price. Any county choosing to plan under section 4(2) of this act and any city within such a county may only adopt an ordinance imposing the excise tax authorized by this section if the ordinance is first authorized by a proposition approved by a majority of the voters of the taxing district voting on the proposition at a general election held within the district or at a special election within the taxing district called by the district for the purpose of submitting such proposition to the voters.

(2) Revenues generated from the tax imposed under subsection (1) of this section shall be used by such counties and cities solely for financing capital projects specified in a capital facilities plan element of a comprehensive plan.

(3) Revenues generated by the tax imposed by this section shall be deposited in a separate account.

(4) As used in this section, "city" means any city or town.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 39. A new section is added to chapter 82.46 RCW to read as follows:

The tax authorized by section 38 of this act may be imposed only if either Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6904, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6639, or House Bill No. 3036 becomes law and grants counties and cities the authority to impose an additional excise tax on the sale of real property.

Sec. 40. Section 14, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.040 are each amended to read as follows:

Any tax imposed under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter and any interest or penalties thereon is a specific lien upon each piece of real property sold from the time of sale until the tax is paid, which lien may be enforced in the manner prescribed for the foreclosure of mortgages.

Sec. 41. Section 15, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.050 are each amended to read as follows:

The taxes levied under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter are the obligation of the seller and may be enforced through an action of debt against the seller or in the manner prescribed for the foreclosure of mortgages. Resort to one course of enforcement is not an election not to pursue the other.

Sec. 42. Section 16, chapter 49, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.46.060 are each amended to read as follows:

Any taxes imposed under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter shall be paid to and collected by the treasurer of the county within which is located the real property which was sold. The treasurer shall act as agent for any city within the county imposing the tax. The county treasurer shall cause a stamp evidencing satisfaction of the lien to be affixed to the instrument of sale or conveyance prior to its recording or to the real estate excise tax affidavit in the case of used mobile home sales. A receipt issued by the county treasurer for the payment of the tax imposed under (~~RCW 82.46.040~~) this chapter shall be evidence of the satisfaction of the lien imposed in RCW 82.46.040 and may be recorded in the manner prescribed for recording satisfactions of mortgages. No instrument of sale or conveyance evidencing a sale subject to the tax may be accepted by the county auditor for filing or recording until the tax is paid and the stamp affixed thereto: in case the tax is not due on the transfer, the instrument shall not be accepted until suitable notation of this fact is made on the instrument by the treasurer.

Sec. 43. Section 82.02.020, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 6, chapter 179, Laws of 1988 and RCW 82.02.020 are each amended to read as follows:

Except only as expressly provided in RCW 67.28.180 and 67.28.190 and the provisions of chapter 82.14 RCW, the state preempts the field of imposing taxes upon retail sales of tangible personal property, the use of tangible personal property, parimutuel wagering authorized pursuant to RCW 67.16.060, conveyances, and cigarettes, and no county, town, or other municipal subdivision shall have the right to impose taxes of that nature. Except as provided in sections 44 through 49 of this act, no county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall impose any tax, fee, or charge, either direct or indirect, on the construction or reconstruction of residential buildings, commercial buildings, industrial buildings, or on any other building or building space or appurtenance thereto, or on the development, subdivision, classification, or reclassification of land. However, this section does not preclude dedications of land or easements (pursuant to RCW 58.17.110) within the proposed development or plat which the county, city, town, or other municipal corporation can demonstrate are reasonably necessary as a direct result of the proposed development or plat to which the dedication of land or easement is to apply.

This section does not prohibit voluntary agreements with counties, cities, towns, or other municipal corporations that allow a payment in lieu of a dedication of land or to mitigate a direct impact that has been identified as a consequence of a proposed development, subdivision, or plat. A local government shall not use such voluntary agreements for local off-site transportation improvements within the geographic boundaries of the area or areas covered by an adopted transportation program authorized by chapter 39.92 RCW. Any such voluntary agreement is subject to the following provisions:

- (1) The payment shall be held in a reserve account and may only be expended to fund a capital improvement agreed upon by the parties to mitigate the identified, direct impact;
- (2) The payment shall be expended in all cases within five years of collection; and
- (3) Any payment not so expended shall be refunded with interest at the rate applied to judgments to the property owners of record at the time of the refund; however, if the payment is not expended within five years due to delay attributable to the developer, the payment shall be refunded without interest.

No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall require any payment as part of such a voluntary agreement which the county, city, town, or other municipal corporation cannot establish is reasonably necessary as a direct result of the proposed development or plat.

Nothing in this section prohibits cities, towns, counties, or other municipal corporations from collecting reasonable fees from an applicant for a permit or other governmental approval to cover the cost to the city, town, county, or other municipal corporation of processing applications, inspecting and reviewing plans, or preparing detailed statements required by chapter 43.21C RCW.

This section does not limit the existing authority of any county, city, town, or other municipal corporation to impose special assessments on property specifically benefitted thereby in the manner prescribed by law.

Nothing in this section prohibits counties, cities, or towns from imposing or permits counties, cities, or towns to impose water, sewer, natural gas, drainage utility, and drainage system charges: PROVIDED, That no such charge shall exceed the proportionate share of such utility or system's capital costs which the county, city, or town can demonstrate are attributable to the property being charged: PROVIDED FURTHER, That these provisions shall not be interpreted to expand or contract any existing authority of counties, cities, or towns to impose such charges.

Nothing in this section prohibits a transportation benefit district from imposing fees or charges authorized in RCW 36.73.120 nor prohibits the legislative authority of a county, city, or town from approving the imposition of such fees within a transportation benefit district.

Nothing in this section prohibits counties, cities, or towns from imposing transportation impact fees authorized pursuant to chapter 39.92 RCW.

Nothing in this section prohibits counties, cities, or towns from requiring property owners to provide relocation assistance to tenants under sections 50 and 51 of this act.

This section does not apply to special purpose districts formed and acting pursuant to Titles 54, 56, 57, or 87 RCW, nor is the authority conferred by these titles affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 44. A new section is added to chapter 82.02 RCW to read as follows:

(1) It is the intent of the legislature:

(a) To ensure that adequate facilities are available to serve new growth and development;

(b) To promote orderly growth and development by establishing standards by which counties, cities, and towns may require, by ordinance, that new growth and development pay a proportionate share of the cost of new facilities needed to serve new growth and development; and

(c) To ensure that impact fees are imposed through established procedures and criteria so that specific developments do not pay arbitrary fees or duplicative fees for the same impact.

(2) Counties, cities, and towns that are required or choose to plan under section 4 of this act are authorized to impose impact fees on development activity as part of the financing for public facilities, provided that the financing for system improvements to serve new development must provide for a balance between impact fees and other sources of public funds and cannot rely solely on impact fees.

(3) The impact fees:

(a) Shall only be imposed for system improvements that are reasonably related to the new development;

(b) Shall not exceed a proportionate share of the costs of system improvements that are reasonably related to the new development; and

(c) Shall be used for system improvements that will reasonably benefit the new development.

(4) Impact fees may be collected and spent only for the public facilities defined in section 49 of this act which are addressed by a capital facilities plan element of a comprehensive land use plan adopted pursuant to the provisions of section 7 of this act or the provisions for comprehensive plan adoption contained in chapter 36.70, 35.63, or 35A.63 RCW. After July 1, 1993, continued authorization to collect and expend impact fees shall be contingent on the county, city, or town adopting or revising a comprehensive plan in compliance with section 7 of this act, and on the capital facilities plan identifying:

(a) Deficiencies in public facilities serving existing development and the means by which existing deficiencies will be eliminated within a reasonable period of time;

(b) Additional demands placed on existing public facilities by new development; and

(c) Additional public facility improvements required to serve new development.

If the capital facilities plan of the county, city, or town is complete other than for the inclusion of those elements which are the responsibility of a special district, the county, city, or town may impose impact fees to address those capital facility needs for which the county, city, or town is responsible.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 45. A new section is added to chapter 82.02 RCW to read as follows:

The local ordinance by which impact fees are imposed:

(1) Shall include a schedule of impact fees which shall be adopted for each type of development activity that is subject to impact fees, specifying the amount of the impact fee to be imposed for each type of system improvement. The schedule shall be based upon a formula or other method of calculating such impact fees. In determining proportionate share, the formula or other method of calculating impact fees shall incorporate, among other things, the following:

(a) The cost of public facilities necessitated by new development;

(b) An adjustment to the cost of the public facilities for past or future payments made or reasonably anticipated to be made by new development to pay for particular system improvements in the form of user fees, debt service payments, taxes, or other payments earmarked for or proratable to the particular system improvement;

(c) The availability of other means of funding public facility improvements;

(d) The cost of existing public facilities improvements; and

(e) The methods by which public facilities improvements were financed;

(2) May provide an exemption for low-income housing, and other development activities with broad public purposes, from these impact fees, provided that the impact fees for such development activity shall be paid from public funds other than impact fee accounts;

(3) Shall provide a credit for the value of any dedication of land for, improvement to, or new construction of any system improvements provided by the developer, to facilities that are identified in the capital facilities plan and that are required by the county, city, or town as a condition of approving the development activity;

(4) Shall allow the county, city, or town imposing the impact fees to adjust the standard impact fee at the time the fee is imposed to consider unusual circumstances in specific cases to ensure that impact fees are imposed fairly;

(5) Shall include a provision for calculating the amount of the fee to be imposed on a particular development that permits consideration of studies and data submitted by the developer to adjust the amount of the fee;

(6) Shall establish one or more reasonable service areas within which it shall calculate and impose impact fees for various land use categories per unit of development;

(7) May provide for the imposition of an impact fee for system improvement costs previously incurred by a county, city, or town to the extent that new growth and development will be served by the previously constructed improvements provided such fee shall not be imposed to make up for any system improvement deficiencies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 46. A new section is added to chapter 82.02 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Payment of an impact fee in regard to the system improvement for which the impact fee is paid shall constitute full and complete compliance with the county, city, or town requirements for the provision of the particular public facility. No other payment may be required for the same system improvement by any county, city, or town by any other means.

(2) The county, city, or town may determine that a system improvement needs to be constructed prior to final completion of the development activity and may condition the development approval accordingly. Pursuant to an agreement with the county, city, or town, the developer may elect to construct the needed system improvement, provided the developer receives a credit for the costs of the construction that exceed the impact fee which otherwise would have applied.

(3) In the event that a developer enters into an agreement with a county, city, or town to construct, fund, or contribute system improvements such that the amount of the credit created by such construction, funding, or contribution is in excess of the impact fees which would otherwise have been paid for the development project, the developer shall be reimbursed for such excess construction, funding, or contribution from impact fees paid by other development located in the service area which is benefited by such improvements.

(4) Fees shall be collected upon the issuance of a building permit unless the fee is to be used for a system improvement to be undertaken within one year of the development approval, in which case the fee may be collected upon final development approval.

(5) Notwithstanding any other provision of sections 44 through 49 of this act, that portion of a project for which a valid building permit has been issued prior to the effective date of a county, city, or town impact fee ordinance, adopted pursuant to sections 44 through 49 of this act, shall not be subject to impact fees under such ordinance so long as the building permit remains valid and construction is commenced and is pursued according to the terms of the permit.

(6) Prior to adopting an ordinance imposing impact fees, each county, city, or town shall establish an advisory committee composed of not less than six persons, plus a nonvoting chairperson selected by the advisory committee, to advise the governing body on possible features to be included in an impact fees ordinance and to periodically review the ordinance. Half of the members of the advisory committee shall represent the development industry, the building industry, and realtors, while the other half shall represent the environmental community and community groups.

(7) If impact fees are imposed to finance system improvements to be undertaken by a different local government or taxing district than the one collecting the fee, the collecting entity shall enter into an interlocal agreement with that local government or taxing district that will make the service improvements to ensure compliance with the requirements established for impact fees.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 47. A new section is added to chapter 82.02 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Impact fee receipts shall be earmarked specifically and retained in special interest-bearing accounts. Separate accounts shall be established for each type of public facility for which impact fees are collected. All interest shall be retained in the account and expended for the purpose or purposes for which the impact fees were imposed. Annually, each county, city, or town imposing impact fees shall provide a report on each impact fee account showing the source and amount of all moneys collected, earned, or received and system improvements that were financed in whole or in part by impact fees.

(2) Impact fees for system improvements shall be expended only in conformance with the capital facilities plan element of the comprehensive plan.

(3) Impact fees shall be expended or encumbered for a permissible use within six years of receipt, unless there exists an extraordinary and compelling reason for fees to be held longer than six years. Such extraordinary or compelling reasons shall be identified in written findings by the governing body of the county, city, or town.

(4) Impact fees may be paid under protest in order to obtain a permit or other approval of development activity.

(5) Each county, city, or town that imposes impact fees shall provide for an administrative appeals process for the appeal of an impact fee; the process may follow the appeal process for the underlying development approval or the county, city, or town may establish a separate appeals process. The impact fee may be modified upon a determination that it is proper to do so based on principles of fairness. The county, city, or town may provide for the resolution of disputes regarding impact fees by arbitration.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 48. A new section is added to chapter 82.02 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The current owner of property on which an impact fee has been paid may receive a refund of such fees if the county, city, or town fails to expend or encumber the impact fees within six years of when the fees were paid or other such period of time established pursuant to section 47(3) of this act on public facilities intended to benefit the development activity for which the impact fees were paid. In determining whether impact fees have been encumbered, impact fees shall be considered encumbered on a first in, first out basis. The county, city, or town shall notify potential claimants by first class mail deposited with the United States postal service at the last known address of claimants.

The request for a refund must be submitted to the county, city, or town governing body in writing within one year of the date the right to claim the refund arises or the date that notice is given, whichever is later. Any impact fees that are not expended within these time limitations, and for which no application for a refund has been made within this one-year period, shall be retained and expended on the indicated capital facilities. Refunds of impact fees under this subsection shall include interest earned on the impact fees.

(2) When a county, city, or town seeks to terminate any or all impact fee requirements, all unexpended or unencumbered funds, including interest earned, shall be refunded pursuant to this section. Upon the finding that any or all fee requirements are to be terminated, the county, city, or town shall place notice of such termination and the availability of refunds in a newspaper of general circulation at least two times and shall notify all potential claimants by first class mail to the last known address of claimants. All funds available for refund shall be retained for a period of one year. At the end of one year, any remaining funds shall be retained by the local government, but must be expended for the indicated public facilities. This notice requirement shall not apply if there are no unexpended or unencumbered balances within an account or accounts being terminated.

(3) A developer may request and shall receive a refund, including interest earned on the impact fees, when the developer does not proceed with the development activity and no impact has resulted.

Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the following definitions shall apply in sections 44 through 49 of this act:

(1) "Development activity" means any construction or expansion of a building, structure, or use, any change in use of a building or structure, or any changes in the use of land, that creates additional demand and need for public facilities.

(2) "Development approval" means any written authorization from a county, city, or town which authorizes the commencement of development activity.

(3) "Impact fee" means a payment of money imposed upon development as a condition of development approval to pay for public facilities needed to serve new growth and development, and that is reasonably related to the new development that creates additional demand and need for public facilities, that is a proportionate share of the cost of the public facilities, and that is used for facilities that reasonably benefit the new development. "Impact fee" does not include a reasonable permit or application fee.

(4) "Owner" means the owner of record of real property, although when real property is being purchased under a real estate contract, the purchaser shall be considered the owner of the real property if the contract is recorded.

(5) "Proportionate share" means that portion of the cost of public facility improvements that are reasonably related to the service demands and needs of new development.

(6) "Project improvements" mean site improvements and facilities that are planned and designed to provide service for a particular development project and that are necessary for the use and convenience of the occupants or users of the project, and are not system improvements. No improvement or facility included in a capital facilities plan approved by the governing body of the county, city, or town shall be considered a project improvement.

(7) "Public facilities" means the following capital facilities owned or operated by government entities: (a) Public streets and roads; (b) publicly owned parks, open space, and recreation facilities; (c) school facilities; and (d) fire protection facilities in jurisdictions that are not part of a fire district.

(8) "Service area" means a geographic area defined by a county, city, town, or intergovernmental agreement in which a defined set of public facilities provide service to development within the area. Service areas shall be designated on the basis of sound planning or engineering principles.

(9) "System improvements" mean public facilities that are included in the capital facilities plan and are designed to provide service to service areas within the community at large, in contrast to project improvements.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 50. A new section is added to chapter 59.18 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Any city, town, county, or municipal corporation that is required to develop a comprehensive plan under section 4(1) of this act is authorized to require, after reasonable notice to the public and a public hearing, property owners to provide their portion of reasonable relocation assistance to low-income tenants upon the demolition, substantial rehabilitation whether due to code enforcement or any other reason, or change of use of residential property, or upon the removal of use restrictions in an assisted-housing development. No city, town, county, or municipal corporation may require property owners to provide relocation assistance to low-income tenants, as defined in this chapter, upon the demolition, substantial rehabilitation, upon the change of use of residential property, or upon the removal of use restrictions in an assisted-housing development, except as expressly authorized herein or when authorized or required by state or federal law. As used in this section, "assisted housing development" means a multi-family rental housing development that either receives government assistance and is defined as federally assisted housing in RCW 59.28.020, or that receives other federal, state, or local government assistance and is subject to use restrictions.

(2) As used in this section, "low-income tenants" means tenants whose combined total income per dwelling unit is at or below fifty percent of the median income, adjusted for family size, in the county where the tenants reside.

The department of community development shall adopt rules defining county median income in accordance with the definitions promulgated by the federal department of housing and urban development.

(3) A requirement that property owners provide relocation assistance shall include the amounts of such assistance to be provided to low-income tenants. In determining such amounts, the jurisdiction imposing the requirement shall evaluate, and receive public testimony on, what relocation expenses displaced tenants would reasonably incur in that jurisdiction including:

- (a) Actual physical moving costs and expenses;
- (b) Advance payments required for moving into a new residence such as the cost of first and last month's rent and security and damage deposits;
- (c) Utility connection fees and deposits; and
- (d) Anticipated additional rent and utility costs in the residence for one year after relocation.

(4)(a) Relocation assistance provided to low-income tenants under this section shall not exceed two thousand dollars for each dwelling unit displaced by actions of the property owner under subsection (1) of this section. A city, town, county, or municipal corporation may make future annual adjustments to the maximum amount of relocation assistance required under this subsection in order to reflect any changes in the housing component of the consumer price index as published by the United States department of labor, bureau of labor statistics.

(b) The property owner's portion of any relocation assistance provided to low-income tenants under this section shall not exceed one-half of the required relocation assistance under (a) of this subsection in cash or services.

(c) The portion of relocation assistance not covered by the property owner under (b) of this subsection shall be paid by the city, town, county, or municipal corporation authorized to require relocation assistance under subsection (1) of this section. The relocation assistance may be paid from proceeds collected from the excise tax imposed under section 36 of this act.

(5) A city, town, county, or municipal corporation requiring the provision of relocation assistance under this section shall adopt policies, procedures, or regulations to implement such requirement. Such policies, procedures, or regulations shall include provisions for administrative hearings to resolve disputes between tenants and property owners relating to relocation assistance or unlawful detainer actions during relocation, and shall require a decision within thirty days of a request for a hearing by either a tenant or property owner.

Judicial review of an administrative hearing decision relating to relocation assistance may be had by filing a petition, within ten days of the decision, in the superior court in the county where the residential property is located. Judicial review shall be confined to the record of the administrative hearing and the court may reverse the decision only if the administrative findings, inferences, conclusions, or decision is:

- (a) In violation of constitutional provisions;
- (b) In excess of the authority or jurisdiction of the administrative hearing officer;
- (c) Made upon unlawful procedure or otherwise is contrary to law; or
- (d) Arbitrary and capricious.

(6) Any city, town, county, or municipal corporation may require relocation assistance, under the terms of this section, for otherwise eligible tenants whose living arrangements are exempted from the provisions of this chapter under RCW 59.18.040(3) and if the living arrangement is considered to be a rental or lease pursuant to RCW 67.28.180(1).

(7)(a) Persons who move from a dwelling unit prior to the application by the owner of the dwelling unit for any governmental permit necessary for the demolition, substantial rehabilitation, or change of use of residential property or prior to any notification or filing required for condominium conversion shall not be entitled to the assistance authorized by this section.

(b) Persons who move into a dwelling unit after the application for any necessary governmental permit or after any required condominium conversion notification or filing shall not be entitled to the assistance authorized by this section if such persons receive written notice from the property owner prior to taking possession of the dwelling unit that specifically describes the activity or condition that may result in their temporary or permanent displacement and advises them of their ineligibility for relocation assistance.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 51. A new section is added to chapter 59.18 RCW to read as follows:

Relocation assistance payments received by tenants under section 50 of this act shall not be considered as income or otherwise affect the eligibility for or amount of assistance paid under any government benefit program.

PART II SUBDIVISIONS

Sec. 52. Section 6, chapter 271, Laws of 1969 ex. sess. as last amended by section 2, chapter 330, Laws of 1989 and RCW 58.17.060 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The legislative body of a city, town, or county shall adopt regulations and procedures, and appoint administrative personnel for the summary approval of short plats and short subdivisions or alteration or vacation thereof. When an alteration or vacation involves a public dedication, the alteration or vacation shall be processed as provided in RCW 58.17.212 or 58.17.215. Such regulations shall be adopted by ordinance and shall provide that a short plat and short subdivision may be approved only if written findings that are appropriate, as provided in RCW 58.17.110, are made by the administrative personnel, and may contain wholly different requirements than those governing the approval of preliminary and final plats of subdivisions and may require surveys and monumentations and shall require filing of a short plat, or alteration or vacation thereof, for record in the office of the county auditor: PROVIDED, That such regulations must contain a requirement that land in short subdivisions may not be further divided in any manner within a period of five years without the filing of a final plat, except that when the short plat contains fewer than four parcels, nothing in this section shall prevent the owner who filed the short plat from filing an alteration within the five-year period to create up to a total of four lots within the original short plat boundaries: PROVIDED FURTHER, That such regulations are not required to contain a penalty clause as provided in RCW 36.32.120 and may provide for wholly injunctive relief.

An ordinance requiring a survey shall require that the survey be completed and filed with the application for approval of the short subdivision.

(2) Cities, towns, and counties shall include in their short plat regulations and procedures pursuant to subsection (1) of this section provisions for considering sidewalks and other planning features that assure safe walking conditions for students who walk to and from school.

Sec. 53. Section 11, chapter 271, Laws of 1969 ex. sess. as last amended by section 3, chapter 330, Laws of 1989 and RCW 58.17.110 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The city, town, or county legislative body shall inquire into the public use and interest proposed to be served by the establishment of the subdivision and dedication. It shall determine: (a) If appropriate provisions are made for, but not limited to, the public health, safety, and general welfare, for open spaces, drainage ways, streets or roads, alleys, other public ways, transit stops, potable water supplies, sanitary wastes, parks and recreation, playgrounds, ((sites for)) schools and schoolgrounds, and shall consider all other relevant facts, including sidewalks and other planning features that assure safe walking conditions for students who only walk to and from school((-and determine)); and (b) whether the public interest will be served by the subdivision and dedication. ((If it finds that the proposed plat makes))

(2) A proposed subdivision and dedication shall not be approved unless the city, town, or county legislative body makes written findings that: (a) Appropriate provisions are made for the public health, safety, and general welfare and for such open spaces, drainage ways, streets or roads, alleys, other public ways, transit stops, potable water supplies, sanitary wastes, parks and recreation, playgrounds, ((sites for)) schools and schoolgrounds and all other relevant facts, including sidewalks and other planning features that assure safe walking conditions for students who only walk to and from school((-and that)); and (b) the public use and interest will be served by the platting of such subdivision((-then it shall be approved)) and dedication. If it finds that the proposed ((plat does not)) subdivision and dedication makes such appropriate provisions ((or)) and that the public use and interest will ((not)) be served, then the legislative body ((may disapprove)) shall approve the proposed ((plat)) subdivision and dedication. Dedication of land to any public body, provision of public improvements to serve the subdivision, and/or impact fees imposed under sections 44 through 49 of this act may be required as a condition of subdivision approval (~~and~~) Dedications shall be clearly shown on the final plat. No dedication, provision of public improvements, or impact fees imposed under sections 44 through 49 of this act shall be allowed that constitutes an unconstitutional taking of private property. The legislative body shall not as a condition to the approval of any (~~plat~~) subdivision require a release from damages to be procured from other property owners.

PART III

REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION PLANS

NEW SECTION. Sec. 54. INTENT—TRANSPORTATION PLANNING. The legislature finds that while the transportation system in Washington is owned and operated by numerous public jurisdictions, it should function as one interconnected and coordinated system. Transportation planning, at all jurisdictional levels, should be coordinated with local comprehensive plans. Further, local jurisdictions and the state should cooperate to achieve both state-wide and local transportation goals. To facilitate this coordination and cooperation among state and local jurisdictions, the legislature declares it to be in the state's interest to establish a coordinated planning program for regional transportation systems and facilities throughout the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 55. REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION PLANNING ORGANIZATIONS AUTHORIZED. The legislature hereby authorizes creation of regional transportation planning organizations within the state. Each regional transportation planning organization shall be formed through the voluntary association of local governments within a county, or within geographically contiguous counties. Each organization shall:

- (1) Encompass at least one complete county;
- (2) Have a population of at least one hundred thousand, or contain a minimum of three counties; and
- (3) Have as members all counties within the region, and at least sixty percent of the cities and towns within the region representing a minimum of seventy-five percent of the cities' and towns' population.

The state department of transportation must verify that each regional transportation planning organization conforms with the requirements of this section.

In urbanized areas, the regional transportation planning organization is the same as the metropolitan planning organization designated for federal transportation planning purposes.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 56. REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION PLANNING ORGANIZATIONS—DUTIES. (1) Each regional transportation planning organization shall:

(a) Certify that the transportation elements of comprehensive plans adopted by counties, cities, and towns within the region conform with the requirements of section 7 of this act, and are consistent with regional transportation plans as provided for in (b) of this subsection;

(b) Develop and adopt a regional transportation plan that is consistent with county, city, and town comprehensive plans and state transportation plans. Regional transportation planning organizations are encouraged to use county, city, and town comprehensive plans that existed prior to the effective date of this section as the basis of its regional transportation plan whenever possible. Such plans shall address existing or planned transportation facilities and services that exhibit one or more of the following characteristics:

- (i) Physically crosses member county lines;
- (ii) Is or will be used by a significant number of people who live or work outside the county in which the facility, service, or project is located;
- (iii) Significant impacts are expected to be felt in more than one county;
- (iv) Potentially adverse impacts of the facility, service, or project can be better avoided or mitigated through adherence to regional policies;
- (v) Transportation needs addressed by a project have been identified by the regional transportation planning process and the remedy is deemed to have regional significance;

(c) Designate a lead planning agency to coordinate preparation of the regional transportation plan. The lead planning agency may be a regional council, a county, city, or town agency, or a Washington state department of transportation district;

(d) Review the regional transportation plan biennially for currency; and

(e) Forward the adopted plan, and documentation of the biennial review of it, to the state department of transportation.

(2) All transportation projects within the region that have an impact upon regional facilities or services must be consistent with the plan.

(3) In order to ensure state-wide consistency in the regional transportation planning process, the state department of transportation shall:

(a) In cooperation with regional transportation planning organizations, establish minimum standards for development of a regional transportation plan;

(b) Facilitate coordination between regional transportation planning organizations; and

(c) Through the regional transportation planning process, and through state planning efforts as required by RCW 47.01.071, identify and jointly plan improvements and strategies within those corridors important to moving people and goods on a regional or state-wide basis.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 57. TRANSPORTATION POLICY BOARDS. Each regional transportation planning organization shall create a transportation policy board. Transportation policy boards shall provide policy advice to the regional transportation planning organization and shall allow representatives of major employers within the region, the department of transportation, transit districts, port districts, and member cities, towns, and counties within the region to participate in policy making.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 58. ALLOCATION OF REGIONAL TRANSPORTATION PLANNING FUNDS. Biennial appropriations to the department of transportation to carry out the regional transportation planning program shall set forth the amounts to be allocated as follows:

- (1) A base amount per county for each county within each regional transportation planning organization, to be distributed to the lead planning agency;
- (2) An amount to be distributed to each lead planning agency on a per capita basis; and
- (3) An amount to be administered by the department of transportation as a discretionary grant program for special regional planning projects, including grants to allow counties which have significant transportation interests in common with an adjoining region to also participate in that region's planning efforts.

Sec. 59. Section 20, chapter 49, Laws of 1983 1st ex. sess. as amended by section 8, chapter 167, Laws of 1988 and RCW 36.81.121 are each amended to read as follows:

TRANSPORTATION PLANS MUST CONFORM TO COMPREHENSIVE PLAN. (1) Before July 1st of each year, the legislative authority of each county with the advice and assistance of the county road engineer, and pursuant to one or more public hearings thereon, shall prepare and adopt a comprehensive road program for the ensuing six calendar years. If the county has adopted a comprehensive plan pursuant to chapter 35.63 or 36.70 RCW, the inherent authority of a charter county derived from its charter, or chapter 36.— RCW (sections 1 through 20 of this act), the program shall be consistent with this comprehensive plan.

The program shall include proposed road and bridge construction work, and for those counties operating ferries shall also include a separate section showing proposed capital expenditures for ferries, docks, and related facilities. Copies of the program shall be filed with the county road administration board and with the state secretary of transportation not more than thirty days after its adoption by the legislative authority. The purpose of this section is to assure that each county shall perpetually have available advanced plans looking to the future for not less than six years as a guide in carrying out a coordinated road construction program. The program may at any time be revised by a majority of the legislative authority but only after a public hearing thereon.

(2) The six-year program of each county having an urban area within its boundaries shall contain a separate section setting forth the six-year program for arterial road construction based upon its long-range construction plan and formulated in accordance with regulations of the transportation improvement board. The six-year program for arterial road construction shall be submitted to the transportation improvement board forthwith after its annual revision and adoption by the legislative authority of each county. The six-year program for arterial road construction shall be based upon estimated revenues available for such construction together with such additional sums as the legislative authority of each county may request for urban arterials from the urban arterial trust account or the transportation improvement account for the six-year period. The arterial road construction program shall provide for a more rapid rate of completion of the long-range construction needs of principal arterial roads than for minor and collector arterial roads, pursuant to regulations of the transportation improvement board.

(3) Each six-year program forwarded to the secretary in compliance with subsection (1) of this section shall contain information as to how a county will expend its moneys, including funds made available pursuant to chapter 47.30 RCW, for bicycles, pedestrians, and equestrian purposes.

Sec. 60. Section 35.77.010, chapter 7, Laws of 1965 as last amended by section 6, chapter 167, Laws of 1988 and RCW 35.77.010 are each amended to read as follows:

TRANSPORTATION PLANS MUST CONFORM TO COMPREHENSIVE PLAN. (1) The legislative body of each city and town, pursuant to one or more public hearings thereon, shall prepare and adopt a comprehensive street program for the ensuing six calendar years ~~((and shall file))~~. If the city or town has adopted a comprehensive plan pursuant to chapter 35.63 or 35A.63 RCW, the inherent authority of a first class city derived from its charter, or chapter 36.— RCW (sections 1 through 20 of this act), the program shall be consistent with this comprehensive plan.

The program shall be filed with the secretary of transportation not more than thirty days after its adoption. Annually thereafter the legislative body of each city and town shall review the work accomplished under the program and determine current city street needs. Based on these findings each such legislative body shall prepare and after public hearings thereon adopt a revised and extended comprehensive street program before July 1st of each year, and each one-year extension and revision shall be filed with the secretary of transportation not more than thirty days after its adoption. The purpose of this section is to assure that each city and town shall perpetually have available advanced plans looking to the future for not less than six years as a guide in carrying out a coordinated street construction program. The program may at any time be revised by a majority of the legislative body of a city or town, but only after a public hearing.

The six-year program of each city lying within an urban area shall contain a separate section setting forth the six-year program for arterial street construction based upon its long range construction plan and formulated in accordance with rules of the transportation improvement board. The six-year program for arterial street construction shall be submitted to the transportation improvement board forthwith after its annual revision and adoption by the legislative body of the city. The six-year program for arterial street construction shall be based upon estimated revenues available for such construction together with such additional sums as the legislative authority may request for urban arterials from the urban arterial trust account or the transportation improvement account for the six-year period. The arterial street construction program shall provide for a more rapid rate of completion of the long-range construction needs of principal arterial streets than for minor and collector arterial streets, pursuant to rules of the transportation improvement board: PROVIDED, That urban arterial trust funds made available to the group of incorporated cities lying outside the boundaries of federally approved urban areas within each region need not be divided between functional classes of arterials but shall be available for any designated arterial street.

(2) Each six-year program forwarded to the secretary in compliance with subsection (1) of this section shall contain information as to how a city or town will expend its moneys, including funds made available pursuant to chapter 47.30 RCW, for bicycle, pedestrian, and equestrian purposes.

Sec. 61. Section 1, chapter 396, Laws of 1989 and RCW 35.58.2795 are each amended to read as follows:

TRANSPORTATION PLANS MUST CONFORM TO COMPREHENSIVE PLAN. By April 1st of each year, the legislative authority of each municipality, as defined in RCW 35.58.272, shall prepare a six-year transit development and financial program for that calendar year and the ensuing five years. The program shall be consistent with the comprehensive plans adopted by counties, cities, and towns, pursuant to chapter 35.63, 35A.63, or 36.70 RCW, the inherent authority of a first class city or charter county derived from its charter, or chapter 36.-- RCW (sections 1 through 20 of this act). The program shall contain information as to how the municipality intends to meet state and local long-range priorities for public transportation, capital improvements, significant operating changes planned for the system, and how the municipality intends to fund program needs. Each municipality shall file the six-year program with the state department of transportation, the transportation improvement board, and cities, counties, and regional planning councils within which the municipality is located.

In developing its program, the municipality shall consider those policy recommendations affecting public transportation contained in the state transportation policy plan approved by the state transportation commission and, where appropriate, adopted by the legislature. The municipality shall conduct one or more public hearings while developing its program and for each annual update.

PART IV FOREST PRACTICES AND WATER

Sec. 62. Section 5, chapter 137, Laws of 1974 ex. sess. as last amended by section 47, chapter 36, Laws of 1988 and RCW 76.09.050 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The board shall establish by rule which forest practices shall be included within each of the following classes:

Class I: Minimal or specific forest practices that have no direct potential for damaging a public resource that may be conducted without submitting an application or a notification;

Class II: Forest practices which have a less than ordinary potential for damaging a public resource that may be conducted without submitting an application and may begin five calendar days, or such lesser time as the department may determine, after written notification by the operator, in the manner, content, and form as prescribed by the department, is received by the department. Class II shall not include forest practices:

- (a) On lands platted after January 1, 1960, or being converted to another use;
- (b) Which require approvals under the provisions of the hydraulics act, RCW 75.20.100;
- (c) Within "shorelines of the state" as defined in RCW 90.58.030; or
- (d) Excluded from Class II by the board;

Class III: Forest practices other than those contained in Class I, II, or IV. A Class III application must be approved or disapproved by the department within thirty calendar days from the date the department receives the application;

Class IV: Forest practices other than those contained in Class I or II: (a) On lands platted after January 1, 1960, (b) on lands being converted to another use, (c) on lands which, pursuant to RCW 76.09.070 as now or hereafter amended, are not to be reforested because of the likelihood of future conversion to urban development, and/or (d) which have a potential for a substantial impact on the environment and therefore require an evaluation by the department as to whether or not a detailed statement must be prepared pursuant to the state environmental policy act, chapter 43.21C RCW. Such evaluation shall be made within ten days from the date the department receives the application: PROVIDED, That nothing herein shall be construed to prevent any local or regional governmental entity from determining that a detailed statement must be prepared for an action pursuant to a Class IV forest practice taken by that governmental entity concerning the land on which forest practices will be conducted. A Class IV application must be approved or disapproved by the department within thirty calendar days from the date the department receives the application, unless the department determines that a detailed statement must be made, in which case the application must be approved or disapproved by the department within sixty calendar days from the date the department receives the application, unless the commissioner of public lands, through the promulgation of a formal order, determines that the process cannot be completed within such period.

Forest practices under Classes I, II, and III are exempt from the requirements for preparation of a detailed statement under the state environmental policy act.

(2) No Class II, Class III, or Class IV forest practice shall be commenced or continued after January 1, 1975, unless the department has received a notification with regard to a Class II forest practice or approved an application with regard to a Class III or Class IV forest practice containing all information required by RCW 76.09.060 as now or hereafter amended: PROVIDED, That any person commencing a forest practice during 1974 may continue such forest practice until April 1, 1975, if such person has submitted an application to the department prior to January 1, 1975: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That in the event forest practices regulations necessary for the scheduled implementation of this chapter and RCW 90.48.420 have not been adopted in time to meet such schedules, the department shall have the authority to regulate forest practices and approve applications on such terms and conditions consistent with this chapter and RCW 90.48.420 and the purposes and policies of RCW 76.09.010 until applicable forest practices regulations are in effect.

(3) If a notification or application is delivered in person to the department by the operator or his agent, the department shall immediately provide a dated receipt thereof. In all other cases, the department shall immediately mail a dated receipt to the operator.

(4) Forest practices shall be conducted in accordance with the forest practices regulations, orders and directives as authorized by this chapter or the forest practices regulations, and the terms and conditions of any approved applications.

(5) The department of natural resources shall notify the applicant in writing of either its approval of the application or its disapproval of the application and the specific manner in which the application fails to comply with the provisions of this section or with the forest practices regulations. Except as provided otherwise in this section, if the department fails to either approve or disapprove an application or any portion thereof within the applicable time limit, the application shall be deemed approved and the operation may be commenced: PROVIDED, That this provision shall not apply to applications which are neither approved nor disapproved pursuant to the provisions of subsection (7) of this section: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That if seasonal field conditions prevent the department from being able to properly evaluate the application, the department may issue an approval conditional upon further review within sixty days: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That the department shall have until April 1, 1975, to approve or disapprove an application involving forest practices allowed to continue to April 1, 1975, under the provisions of subsection (2) of this section. Upon receipt of any notification or any satisfactorily completed application the department shall in any event no later than two business days after such receipt transmit a copy to the departments of ecology, wildlife, and fisheries, and to the county ~~(in which)~~, city, or town in whose jurisdiction the forest practice is to be commenced. Any comments by such agencies shall be directed to the department of natural resources.

(6) If the county, city, or town believes that an application is inconsistent with this chapter, the forest practices regulations, or any local authority consistent with RCW 76.09.240 as now or hereafter amended, it may so notify the department and the applicant, specifying its objections.

(7) The department shall not approve portions of applications to which a county, city, or town objects if:

(a) The department receives written notice from the county, city, or town of such objections within fourteen business days from the time of transmittal of the application to the county, city, or town, or one day before the department acts on the application, whichever is later; and

(b) The objections relate to lands either:

(i) Platted after January 1, 1960; or

(ii) Being converted to another use.

The department shall either disapprove those portions of such application or appeal the county, city, or town objections to the appeals board. If the objections related to subparagraphs (b) (i) and (ii) of this subsection are based on local authority consistent with RCW 76.09.240 as now or hereafter amended, the department shall disapprove the application until such time as the county, city, or town consents to its approval or such disapproval is reversed on appeal. The applicant shall be a party to all department appeals of county, city, or town objections. Unless the county, city, or town either consents or has waived its rights under this subsection, the department shall not approve portions of an application affecting such lands until the minimum time for county, city, or town objections has expired.

(8) In addition to any rights under the above paragraph, the county, city, or town may appeal any department approval of an application with respect to any lands within its jurisdiction. The appeals board may suspend the department's approval in whole or in part pending such appeal where there exists potential for immediate and material damage to a public resource.

(9) Appeals under this section shall be made to the appeals board in the manner and time provided in RCW 76.09.220(8). In such appeals there shall be no presumption of correctness of either the county, city, or town or the department position.

(10) The department shall, within four business days notify the county, city, or town of all notifications, approvals, and disapprovals of an application affecting lands within the county, city, or town, except to the extent the county, city, or town has waived its right to such notice.

(1) A county, city, or town may waive in whole or in part its rights under this section, and may withdraw or modify any such waiver, at any time by written notice to the department.

Sec. 63. Section 6, chapter 137, Laws of 1974 ex. sess. as amended by section 3, chapter 200, Laws of 1975 1st ex. sess. and RCW 76.09.060 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department shall prescribe the form and contents of the notification and application. The forest practices regulations shall specify by whom and under what conditions the notification and application shall be signed. The application or notification shall be delivered in person or sent by certified mail to the department. The information required may include, but shall not be limited to:

(a) Name and address of the forest land owner, timber owner, and operator;

(b) Description of the proposed forest practice or practices to be conducted;

(c) Legal description of the land on which the forest practices are to be conducted;

(d) Planimetric and topographic maps showing location and size of all lakes and streams and other public waters in and immediately adjacent to the operating area and showing all existing and proposed roads and major tractor roads;

(e) Description of the silvicultural, harvesting, or other forest practice methods to be used, including the type of equipment to be used and materials to be applied;

(f) Proposed plan for reforestation and for any revegetation necessary to reduce erosion potential from roadsides and yarding roads, as required by the forest practices regulations;

(g) Soil, geological, and hydrological data with respect to forest practices;

(h) The expected dates of commencement and completion of all forest practices specified in the application;

(i) Provisions for continuing maintenance of roads and other construction or other measures necessary to afford protection to public resources; and

(j) An affirmation that the statements contained in the notification or application are true.

(2) At the option of the applicant, the application or notification may be submitted to cover a single forest practice or any number of forest practices within reasonable geographic or political boundaries as specified by the department. Long range plans may be submitted to the department for review and consultation.

(3) The application shall indicate whether any land covered by the application will be converted or is intended to be converted to a use other than commercial timber production within three years after completion of the forest practices described in it.

(a) If the application states that any such land will be or is intended to be so converted:

(i) The reforestation requirements of this chapter and of the forest practices regulations shall not apply if the land is in fact so converted unless applicable alternatives or limitations are provided in forest practices regulations issued under RCW 76.09.070 as now or hereafter amended;

(ii) Completion of such forest practice operations shall be deemed conversion of the lands to another use for purposes of chapters 84.28, 84.33, and 84.34 RCW unless the conversion is to a use permitted under a current use tax agreement permitted under chapter 84.34 RCW;

(iii) The forest practices described in the application are subject to applicable county, city, town, and regional governmental authority permitted under RCW 76.09.240 as now or hereafter amended as well as the forest practices regulations.

(b) If the application does not state that any land covered by the application will be or is intended to be so converted:

(i) For six years after the date of the application the county ((~~or~~)), city, town, and regional governmental entities may deny any or all applications for permits or approvals, including building permits and subdivision approvals, relating to nonforestry uses of land subject to the application;

(ii) Failure to comply with the reforestation requirements contained in any final order or decision shall constitute a removal from classification under the provisions of RCW 84.28.065, a removal of designation under the provisions of RCW 84.33.140, and a change of use under the provisions of RCW 84.34.080, and, if applicable, shall subject such lands to the payments and/or penalties resulting from such removals or changes; and

(iii) Conversion to a use other than commercial timber operations within three years after completion of the forest practices without the consent of the county ((~~or municipality~~)), city, or town shall constitute a violation of each of the county, municipal city, town, and regional authorities to which the forest practice operations would have been subject if the application had so stated.

(c) The application shall be either signed by the land owner or accompanied by a statement signed by the land owner indicating his or her intent with respect to conversion and acknowledging that he or she is familiar with the effects of this subsection.

(4) Whenever an approved application authorizes a forest practice which, because of soil condition, proximity to a water course or other unusual factor, has a potential for causing material damage to a public resource, as determined by the department, the applicant shall, when requested on the approved application, notify the department two days before the commencement of actual operations.

(5) Before the operator commences any forest practice in a manner or to an extent significantly different from that described in a previously approved application or notification, there shall be submitted to the department a new application or notification form in the manner set forth in this section.

(6) The notification to or the approval given by the department to an application to conduct a forest practice shall be effective for a term of one year from the date of approval or notification and shall not be renewed unless a new application is filed and approved or a new notification has been filed.

(7) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, no prior application or notification shall be required for any emergency forest practice necessitated by fire, flood, windstorm, earthquake, or other emergency as defined by the board, but the operator shall submit an application or notification, whichever is applicable, to the department within forty-eight hours after commencement of such practice.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 64. A new section is added to chapter 19.27 RCW to read as follows:

Each applicant for a building permit of a building necessitating potable water shall provide evidence of an adequate water supply for the intended use of the building. Evidence may be in the form of a water right permit from the department of ecology, a letter from an approved water purveyor stating the ability to provide water, or another form sufficient to verify the existence of an adequate water supply. An application for a water right shall not be sufficient proof of an adequate water supply.

Buildings that do not need potable water facilities are exempt from the provisions of this section. The department of ecology may adopt rules to implement this section.

PART V

ENCOURAGING ECONOMIC GROWTH STATE-WIDE

NEW SECTION, Sec. 65. INTENT. The legislature finds that the Puget Sound region is experiencing economic prosperity and the challenges associated with rapid growth; much of the rest of the state is not experiencing economic prosperity, and faces challenges associated with slow economic growth. It is the intent of the legislature to encourage economic prosperity and balanced economic growth throughout the state.

In order to accomplish this goal, growth must be managed more effectively in the Puget Sound region, and rural areas must build local capacity to accommodate additional economic activity in their communities. Where possible, rural economies and low-income areas should be linked with prosperous urban economies to share economic growth for the benefit of all areas and the state.

To accomplish this goal it is the intent of the legislature to: (1) Assure equitable opportunities to secure prosperity for distressed areas, rural communities, and disadvantaged populations by promoting urban-rural economic links, and by promoting value-added product development, business networks, and increased exports from rural areas; (2) improve the economic development service delivery system to be better able to serve these areas, communities, and populations; (3) redirect the priorities of the state's economic development programs to focus economic development efforts into areas and sectors of the greatest need; (4) build local capacity so that communities are better able to plan for growth and achieve self-reliance; (5) administer grant programs to promote new feasibility studies and project development on projects of interest to rural areas or areas outside of the Puget Sound region; and (6) develop a coordinated economic investment strategy involving state economic development programs, businesses, educational and vocational training institutions, local governments and local economic development organizations, ports, and others.

Sec. 66. Section 1, chapter 20, Laws of 1983 1st ex. sess. as amended by section 1, chapter 231, Laws of 1985 and RCW 43.210.010 are each amended to read as follows:

EXPORT ASSISTANCE CENTER—ENCOURAGE URBAN-RURAL LINKS. The legislature finds:

(1) The exporting of goods and services from Washington to international markets is an important economic stimulus to the growth, development, and stability of the state's businesses in both urban and rural areas, and that these economic activities create needed jobs for Washingtonians.

(2) Impediments to the entry of many small and medium-sized businesses into export markets have restricted growth in exports from the state.

(3) Particularly significant impediments for many small and medium-sized businesses are the lack of easily accessible information about export opportunities and financing alternatives.

(4) There is a need for a small business export finance assistance center which will specialize in providing export assistance to small and medium-sized businesses throughout the state in acquiring information about export opportunities and financial alternatives for exporting.

Sec. 67. Section 2, chapter 20, Laws of 1983 1st ex. sess. as amended by section 2, chapter 231, Laws of 1985 and RCW 43.210.020 are each amended to read as follows:

EXPORT ASSISTANCE CENTER—ENCOURAGE URBAN-RURAL LINKS. A nonprofit corporation, to be known as the small business export finance assistance center, and branches subject to its authority, may be formed under chapter 24.03 RCW for the following public purposes:

(1) To assist small and medium-sized businesses in both urban and rural areas in the financing of export transactions.

(2) To provide, singly or in conjunction with other organizations, information and assistance to these businesses about export opportunities and financing alternatives.

(3) To provide information to and assist those businesses interested in exporting products, including the opportunities available to them in organizing export trading companies under the United States export trading company act of 1982, for the purpose of increasing their comparative sales volume and ability to export their products to foreign markets.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 68. A new section is added to chapter 43.63A RCW to read as follows:

BUILDING LOCAL CAPACITY. (1) The department shall administer a grant program which makes grants to local nonprofit organizations for rural economic development or for sharing economic growth outside the Puget Sound region. The grants shall be used to: (a) Develop urban-rural links; (b) build local capacity for economic growth; or (c) improve the export of products or services from rural areas to locations outside the United States.

(2) The department shall consult with, and if necessary form an advisory committee including, a diverse group of private sector representatives including, but not limited to, major corporations, commercial financial institutions, venture capitalists, small businesses, natural resource businesses, and developers to determine what opportunities for new investment and business growth might be available for areas outside high-growth counties. The department shall also consult with the department of trade and economic development. The department shall seek to maximize and link new investment opportunities to grant projects under this section.

(3) The department may enact rules to carry out this section.

Sec. 69. Section 1, chapter 466, Laws of 1985 and RCW 43.31.005 are each amended to read as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT—ENCOURAGE GROWTH STATE-WIDE. The legislature of the state of Washington finds that economic development is an essential public purpose which requires the active involvement of state government. The state's primary economic strategy is to encourage the retention and expansion of existing businesses, to attract new businesses and industries, ~~((and))~~ to foster the formation of new businesses, and to economically link rural communities with urban areas. In order to aid the citizens of Washington to obtain desirable employment and achieve adequate incomes, it is necessary for the state to encourage balanced growth and economic prosperity and to promote a more diversified and healthy economy throughout the state.

The legislature finds that the state needs to improve its level of employment, business activity, and revenue growth. In order to increase job opportunities and revenues, a broader and more stable economic base is needed. The state shall take primary responsibility to encourage the balanced growth of the economy consistent with the preservation of Washington's quality of life and environment. A healthy economy can be achieved through partnership efforts with the private sector to facilitate increased investment in Washington. It is the policy of the state of Washington to encourage and promote an economic development program that provides sufficient employment opportunities for our current resident work force and those individuals who will enter the state's work force in the future.

The legislature finds that the state of Washington has the potential to become a major world trade gateway. In order for Washington to fulfill its potential and compete successfully with other states and provinces, it must articulate a consistent, long-term trade policy. It is the responsibility of the state to monitor and ensure that such traditional functions of state government as transportation, infrastructure, education, taxation, regulation and public expenditures contribute to the international trade focus the state of Washington must develop.

Sec. 70. Section 4, chapter 466, Laws of 1985 and RCW 43.31.035 are each amended to read as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT—ENCOURAGE GROWTH STATE-WIDE. The department shall pursue a coordinated approach for the state's economic development policies and programs to achieve a more diversified and healthy economy. The department shall support and work cooperatively with other state agencies, public and private organizations, and units of local government, as well as the federal government, to strengthen and coordinate economic development programs ~~((in))~~ throughout the state. The department's activities shall include, but not be limited to:

(2) Providing staff and support to cabinet level interagency economic development coordinating activities.

(3) Representing and monitoring the state's interests with the federal government in its formulation of policies and programs in economic development.

(4) Assisting in the development and implementation of a long-term economic strategy for the state that encourages a balance in economic growth between urban and rural areas and that stimulates economic development in areas not experiencing problems associated with rapid growth, and assisting the continual update of information and strategies contained in the long-term economic program for the state.

Sec. 71. Section 5, chapter 125, Laws of 1984 as amended by section 137, chapter 266, Laws of 1986 and RCW 43.63A.065 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Cooperate with and provide technical and financial assistance to the local governments and to the local agencies serving the communities of the state for the purpose of aiding and encouraging orderly, productive, and coordinated development of the state, and, unless stipulated otherwise, give priority to local communities with the greatest relative need and the fewest resources.

(2) Administer state and federal grants and programs which are assigned to the department by the governor or the legislature.

(4) It is the intent of the legislature that the associate development organizations shall promote and coordinate, through local service agreements or other methods, the delivery of economic development services in their areas that are provided by public and private organizations, including state agencies.

(5) The legislature encourages local associate development organizations to form partnerships with other associate development organizations in their region to combine resources for better access to available services, to encourage regional delivery of state services, and to more effectively build the local capacity of communities in the region.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 73. THE SERVICE DELIVERY TASK FORCE. The service delivery task force is established. The purpose of the task force is to review the current system for delivering economic development services in Washington and to make recommendations for improving the effectiveness of state economic development services, especially in rural areas.

Sec. 74. Section 6, chapter 40, Laws of 1982 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 62, chapter 431, Laws of 1989 and RCW 43.160.060 are each amended to read as follows:

COMMUNITY ECONOMIC REVITALIZATION BOARD—CONSIDER BENEFITS TO RURAL COMMUNITIES. The board is authorized to make direct loans to political subdivisions of the state for the purposes of assisting the political subdivisions in financing the cost of public facilities, including development of land and improvements for public facilities, as well as the acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, alteration, expansion, or improvement of the facilities. A grant may also be authorized for purposes designated in this chapter, but only when, and to the extent that, a loan is not reasonably possible, given the limited resources of the political subdivision.

Application for funds shall be made in the form and manner as the board may prescribe. In making grants or loans the board shall conform to the following requirements:

(1) The board shall not make a grant or loan:

(a) For a project the primary purpose of which is to facilitate or promote a retail shopping development or expansion.

(b) For any project that ~~((probably)) evidence exists~~ would result in a development or expansion that would displace existing jobs in any other community in the state.

(c) For the acquisition of real property, including buildings and other fixtures which are a part of real property.

(2) The board shall only make grants or loans:

(a) For those projects which would result in specific private developments or expansions (i) in manufacturing, production, food processing, assembly, warehousing, and industrial distribution; (ii) for processing recyclable materials or for facilities that support recycling, including processes not currently provided in the state, including but not limited to, de-inking facilities, mixed waste paper, plastics, yard waste, and problem-waste processing; (iii) for manufacturing facilities that rely significantly on recyclable materials, including but not limited to waste tires and mixed waste paper; ~~((or))~~ (iv) which support the relocation of businesses from nondistressed urban areas to distressed rural areas; or (v) which substantially support the trading of goods or services outside of the state's borders.

(b) For projects which it finds will improve the opportunities for the successful maintenance, establishment, or expansion of industrial or commercial plants or will otherwise assist in the creation or retention of long-term economic opportunities.

(c) When the application includes convincing evidence that a specific private development or expansion is ready to occur and will occur only if the grant or loan is made.

(3) The board shall prioritize each proposed project according to the relative benefits provided to the community by the jobs the project would create, not just the total number of jobs it would create after the project is completed and according to the unemployment rate in the area in which the jobs would be located. As long as there is more demand for loans or grants than there are funds available for loans or grants, the board is instructed to fund projects in order of their priority.

(4) A responsible official of the political subdivision shall be present during board deliberations and provide information that the board requests.

Before any loan or grant application is approved, the political subdivision seeking the loan or grant must demonstrate to the community economic revitalization board that no other timely source of funding is available to it at costs reasonably similar to financing available from the community economic revitalization board.

Sec. 75. Section 5, chapter 164, Laws of 1985 as last amended by section 9, chapter 430, Laws of 1989 and RCW 43.168.050 are each amended to read as follows:

DEVELOPMENT LOAN FUND COMMITTEE—CONSIDER BENEFITS TO RURAL COMMUNITIES.

(1) The committee may only approve an application providing a loan for a project which the committee finds:

(a) Will result in the creation of employment opportunities or the maintenance of threatened employment;

(b) Has been approved by the director as conforming to federal rules and regulations governing the spending of federal community development block grant funds;

(c) Will be of public benefit and for a public purpose, and that the benefits, including increased or maintained employment, improved standard of living, and the employment of disadvantaged workers, will primarily accrue to residents of the area;

(d) Will probably be successful;

(e) Would probably not be completed without the loan because other capital or financing at feasible terms is unavailable or the return on investment is inadequate.

(2) The committee shall, subject to federal block grant criteria, give higher priority to economic development projects that contain provisions for child care.

(3) The committee may not approve an application if it fails to provide for adequate reporting or disclosure of financial data to the committee. The committee may require an annual or other periodic audit of the project books.

(4) The committee may require that the project be managed in whole or in part by a local development organization and may prescribe a management fee to be paid to such organization by the recipient of the loan or grant.

(5) (a) Except as provided in (b) of this subsection, the committee shall not approve any application which would result in a loan or grant in excess of three hundred fifty thousand dollars.

(b) The committee may approve an application which results in a loan or grant of up to seven hundred thousand dollars if the application has been approved by the director.

(6) The committee shall fix the terms and rates pertaining to its loans.

(7) Should there be more demand for loans than funds available for lending, the committee shall provide loans for those projects which will lead to the greatest amount of employment or benefit to a community. In determining the "greatest amount of employment or benefit" the committee shall also consider the employment which would be saved by its loan and the benefit relative to the community, not just the total number of new jobs or jobs saved.

(8) To the extent permitted under federal law the committee shall require applicants to provide for the transfer of all payments of principal and interest on loans to the Washington state development loan fund created under this chapter. Under circumstances where the federal law does not permit the committee to require such transfer, the committee shall give priority to applications where the applicants on their own volition make commitments to provide for the transfer.

(9) The committee shall not approve any application to finance or help finance a shopping mall.

(10) The committee shall make at least eighty percent of the appropriated funds available to projects located in distressed areas, and may make up to twenty percent available to projects located in areas not designated as distressed. The committee shall not make funds available to projects located in areas not designated as distressed if the fund's net worth is less than seven million one hundred thousand dollars.

(11) If an objection is raised to a project on the basis of unfair business competition, the committee shall evaluate the potential impact of a project on similar businesses located in the local market area. A grant may be denied by the committee if a project is not likely to result in a net increase in employment within a local market area.

(3) Existing debt or financial obligations of local governments shall not be refinanced under this chapter. Each local government applicant shall provide documentation of attempts to secure additional local or other sources of funding for each public works project for which financial assistance is sought under this chapter.

(4) Before November 1 of each year, the board shall develop and submit to the chairs of the ways and means committees of the senate and house of representatives a description of the emergency loans made under RCW 43.155.065 during the preceding fiscal year and a prioritized list of projects which are recommended for funding by the legislature, including one copy to the staff of each of the committees. The list shall include, but not be limited to, a description of each project and recommended financing, the terms and conditions of the loan or financial guarantee, the local government jurisdiction and unemployment rate, demonstration of the jurisdiction's critical need for the project and documentation of local funds being used to finance the public works project. The list shall also include measures of fiscal capacity for each jurisdiction recommended for financial assistance, compared to authorized limits and state averages, including local government sales taxes; real estate excise taxes; property taxes; and charges for or taxes on sewerage, water, garbage, and other utilities.

(5) The board shall not sign contracts or otherwise financially obligate funds from the public works assistance account before the legislature has appropriated funds for a specific list of public works projects. The legislature may remove projects from the list recommended by the board. The legislature shall not change the order of the priorities recommended for funding by the board.

(6) Subsections (4) and (5) of this section do not apply to loans made for emergency public works projects under RCW 43.155.065.

Sec. 84. Section 7, chapter 125, Laws of 1984 as amended by section 33, chapter 505, Laws of 1987 and RCW 43.63A.078 are each amended to read as follows:

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE GRANTS. (1) The department shall develop and administer a local development matching fund program. To be eligible to receive funds under this program, an organization must be a local government or a nonprofit local development entity. Any local government or entity requesting funds must demonstrate the participation of a cross-section of the local community in the economic development project, including business, labor, education and training, and the public sector. Under this program, the department shall provide matching funds which shall be used for the formulation of local economic development strategies, including the technical analysis necessary to designate and carry out the strategies. A technical analysis can include, but is not limited to, the development and dissemination of data on local markets, demographics, comparative business costs, site availability, labor force characteristics, and local incentives. Funds are to be used primarily to foster new developments and expansions which result in the trading of goods and services outside of the state's borders. Funds may be made available for assisting local businesses in utilizing state and federal programs in exporting, training, and financing. Funds may also be used to provide technical assistance to businesses in the areas of land use, transportation, site location, and manpower training. Matching funds cannot be used for entertainment, capital expenses, hosting, or marketing. Funds granted for economic development projects must be matched by local resources on a dollar-for-dollar basis. Not more than fifty thousand dollars of state matching funds as provided by this section may be used for any one project.

(2) The department shall set aside, within its general fund appropriation, a sum of two hundred thousand dollars per biennium for technical assistance grants to assist community-based organizations in their efforts contributing to the redevelopment and economic well-being of low-income areas.

A maximum of forty percent of the funds set aside for technical assistance purposes provided in this subsection may be made available for technical assistance in organizational and board development to those organizations demonstrating a reasonable probability that such assistance will help them undertake a development project. A minimum of sixty percent of the funds set aside for technical assistance purposes shall be used for projects which meet the following standards:

(a) Community-based organizations have or will have a minimum ten percent ownership of the development project;

(b) The project is within a low-income area;

(c) The project has provided reasonable assurance that it will conform to all applicable environmental, zoning, and building laws;

(d) The benefits of the project, including the addition or retention of employment and of capital in the low-income area, shall primarily accrue to the residents of the area;

(e) There is a reasonable expectation that the project will be successful, and that the eligible organization and project participants are responsible parties;

(f) Alternative sources, including other agencies or institutions of the state or federal government, have been sought and are either insufficient or unavailable to meet the needs of the project;

(g) The technical assistance to be provided is essential to the success of the project;

(h) Provision has been made for the active participation in the project of residents of the low-income area; and

(i) Provisions have been made for reporting by the eligible organization concerning the manner in which the technical assistance is used on the project and the extent to which it achieves its intended results.

The amount required to be set aside under this section for the biennium ending June 30, 1991, shall be reduced or eliminated if a specific appropriation for the full amount required under this subsection is not made to the department by June 30, 1990.

Grant recipients under this subsection may be community-based organizations or state-wide organizations which provide technical assistance to community-based organizations.

(3) For purposes of subsection (2) of this section, "community-based organization" means:

(a) A nonprofit corporation organized under state law that:

(i) Is organized to operate within a specific substate area;

(ii) Has experience operating programs which directly benefit low-income citizens;

(iii) Has low-income people or representatives of organizations serving the low income on its board of directors.

(b) Any Native American tribal governing body.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 85. A new section is added to chapter 43.63A RCW to read as follows:

LOW-INCOME SELF EMPLOYMENT. The department of community development shall implement a self-employment loan program. The program shall provide grants to local development organizations to use solely in revolving loan funds to finance the small businesses of low-income persons. Grants are to be distributed through a competitive application process to be administered by the department in consultation with an advisory committee. Any organization receiving a grant must: (1) Demonstrate the need for a low-income, self-employment project in its community; (2) demonstrate the capacity of the organization to administer the project; and (3) describe the loan procedure and the self-employment training and support programs into which the loan fund will be incorporated. No grant shall be greater than sixty thousand dollars. An organization may provide loans from the grant award of no greater than five thousand dollars. No more than ten percent of any appropriation to the department for the program may be used by the department for administrative costs.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 86. If funding for the purposes of section 68, 73, 76, or 85 of this act is not provided by June 30, 1990, in Substitute Senate Bill No. 6407, the supplemental appropriations act, referencing this act by bill number, then each of the sections whose purpose is not funded shall be null and void.

(2) Sections 54 through 58 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 47 RCW.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 89. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

REPORT OF FREE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

RE: ESHB 2929

Enacting comprehensive growth planning provisions.

April 1, 1990

Mr. President:

Mr. Speaker:

We of your Free Conference Committee, have had the same under consideration and we recommend that the measure be amended as proposed under the request of Free Conference and that the bill do pass as amended by the Free Conference Committee.

(See Report of Conference Committee and request for Free Conference on Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2929, read in earlier today.)

Signed by Senators Vognild, Amondson; Representatives Cantwell, Nutley, Betrozoff.

MOTION

Senator Newhouse moved that the Report of the Free Conference Committee on Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2929 be adopted.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Amondson, I am looking at Section 30 and I don't quite understand it. That is not the only section that I don't quite understand. This is about the most complicated bill that I have seen and will probably do great damage through the years. It is full of good intent, but let me ask you where it says 'Annexation beyond the urban growth area is prohibited. No city or town located in a county in which urban growth areas has been designated under Section 11 of this act may annex territory beyond an urban growth area.' It has always been my understanding that cities could annex anybody that wanted to willingly annex to them. This would leave them forever in the county. Is that for some of those areas--the use of the county protection act?"

Senator Amondson: "Senator Rasmussen, if you will notice on front of the Conference Committee Report, we did take out that portion of the section."

Senator Rasmussen: "Is that stricken along with Section 39?"

Senator Amondson: "Section 39--all of 39 was stricken--yes."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, I don't see that particular page or section stricken."

Senator Amondson: "Page 29, beginning on line 19--"

Senator Rasmussen: "No, I am reading from page 20, line 26, actually line 28. It is on page 20, line 28."

Senator Amondson: "I stand corrected, Senator Rasmussen. That fell into the bill yesterday."

Senator Rasmussen: "That would prohibit cities, both cities and code cities forever from annexing any area that wasn't designated for urban growth. Is that right? That locks them into the county then forever. Is that the right page, page 20?"

Senator Amondson: "You are correct."

Senator Rasmussen: "I don't quite understand that."

Senator Amondson: "Senator Vognild would--"

REMARKS BY SENATOR VOGNILD

Senator Vognild: "Senator Rasmussen, in Section 11 of this bill, it states that a city or town must be entirely within an urban growth area and without Section 30, Section 11 would not work. The urban growth area boundaries will be set by cities and counties working together. If you didn't have this Section 30, then Section 11 wouldn't work, but this is only effective after the urban growth boundaries have been set by the cities and counties in conjunction."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the Report of the Free Conference Committee on Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2929.

The motion by Senator Newhouse carried and the Report of the Free Conference Committee on Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2929 was adopted.

There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of Reengrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2964, deferred on second reading March 9, 1990.

SECOND READING

REENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 2964, by Committee on Capital Facilities and Financing (originally sponsored by Representatives Schoon, H. Sommers, P. King and Betrozoff)

Authorizing bonds for capital facilities.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Barr moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 4, line 4, after "treasury" and before the semicolon, insert "Funds provided under this subsection shall not be used to purchase individual parcels of real property located east of the crest of the Cascade mountain range if the individual parcel exceeds one hundred fifty acres in size".

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Sutherland, as I read this, the commissioners seek to, as Senator Barr spoke, buy the development rights, not the land. I am sure you are aware of what they do in South Dakota and North Dakota where they do pay the ranchers a certain stipend yearly for the preservation of habitat. I think this is what those people in eastern Washington are talking about. Are you aware of that?"

Senator Sutherland: "Senator, the specific reference that you are making to the letter from Okanogan County--in the last paragraph on the first page in that specific instance, they are referring to the development rights. If you will turn to the next page, actually the second page following, Resolution 89-1, on the bottom where it says, 'Resolved,' you will note in the second to last line, it says, 'acquisition,' and then it goes on to say, 'wildlife.' The importance of that, Senator, is to note that there are those organizations in eastern Washington that are concerned with not just the development right purchasing, but also with acquisition.

"I think those coalition members that are listed on the front page of that hand-out, and there are a good number of them, had a full knowledge of the legislation that was being proposed, had full knowledge of the intention of the individuals that put this together and, in fact, were a part of putting the whole proposal together, and were supportive of that entire proposal. That proposal included the acquisition of property and the acquisition of development rights."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment on page 4, line 4, by Senator Barr to Reengrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2964.

The motion by Senator Barr failed and the amendment was not adopted.

MOTION

Senator Metcalf moved that the following amendment be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

*Sec. 1. Section 1, chapter 14, Laws of 1989 1st ex. sess. and RCW 43.99H.010 are each amended to read as follows:

No such bonds may be offered for sale without prior legislative appropriation of the net proceeds of the sale of the bonds. The appropriations in this subsection are subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(a) A maximum of ~~$((33,812,000))~~ 35,212,000 of the general fund—state appropriation and ~~$((16,057,000))~~ 17,127,000 of the general fund—federal appropriation are provided for approved regional network plans through contracts negotiated with the secretary of social and health services.

(i) It is the intent of the legislature to implement mental health reform on a multi-year schedule. Dramatic escalation of costs for new programs would impair the state's ability to proceed with subsequent expansion. The contracts shall contain a fiscal plan that will ensure that the increased cost of maintaining fiscal year 1991 programs in fiscal year 1992 will not unduly exceed the rate of inflation. Of the amounts provided in this subsection, a maximum of $500,000 from the general fund—state appropriation may be used for planning and technical assistance grants to counties or regions wishing to form networks. The amounts in this subsection include moneys needed to implement the federal omnibus budget and reconciliation act of 1987 ("OBRA"). First priority for necessary mental health services shall be given to individuals transferred from nursing homes because of OBRA. Such services shall be consistent with an individual's discharge plan and shall include residential services, if needed. Assumptions regarding the number of transfers from the nursing homes shall be incorporated into each contract and shall be consistent with the state-wide plan. The department shall coordinate OBRA transfers consistent with the provisions of each contract. ~~((The secretary shall negotiate contracts with networks from areas comprising no more than two-thirds of the state's population. Contracts shall be negotiated in at least two competitive rounds. The first round of contracts shall be effective no later than January 1, 1990. The last round of contracts shall be effective no later than March 1, 1990.))~~ The secretary shall negotiate contracts only with regional support networks that received recognition under chapter 205, Laws of 1989 as of January 1, 1990. Funding for the north sound and north central networks shall commence no sooner than January 1, 1991. Networks funded after January 1990 shall be subject to the same contracting process as networks funded in January 1990.

(ii) The department shall continue contracting directly for the Kitsap mental health services residential care alternative project until such time as Kitsap county becomes or joins a regional support network. The reimbursement rate per available bed-day shall not exceed $206 in fiscal year 1990 and $210 in fiscal year 1991. During the contract period, all eligible involuntary treatment referrals for Kitsap county residents shall be made to the project. No involuntary referrals shall be made to western state hospital unless the Kitsap residential treatment facility is filled to capacity and the mental health division and the Kitsap county mental health coordinator concur with the referral. Priority for referral to western state hospital shall be given to individuals under ninety-day or one hundred eighty-day commitments and individuals who have exhausted all community placement options.

(iii) The department may continue to contract directly with Chartley house until King county joins or becomes a regional support network.

(iv) The department's contracts with regional support networks shall include a provision for the transfer or diversion of mentally ill individuals from nursing homes when those individuals are not in need of a nursing home level of care. No individual shall be transferred without his or her consent or the consent of his or her guardian. Networks shall develop outreach and orientation protocols to encourage mentally ill individuals who might otherwise reside in nursing homes to reside in appropriate community settings supported by the network. The networks shall report the number of individuals diverted or transferred from nursing homes to network placements. The department shall report the same information for nonnetwork areas. The department shall make summary reports to the fiscal committees of the legislature on a quarterly basis.

(b) $2,000,000 of the general fund—state appropriation is provided solely for a mental health housing reserve. The secretary of social and health services shall transfer funds from the reserve to the state hospitals in any quarter in which hospital census exceeds the December 1988 forecast adjusted to eliminate the bed contract assumption. Any amount remaining after March 1991 may be used for one-time grants. In making grants, the secretary shall give priority to proposals that facilitate network development, demonstrate integration with other mental health services, and are designed to reduce involuntary treatment.

(c) $5,500,000 of the general fund—state appropriation is provided solely for increases for involuntary treatment act administration, including costs associated with involuntary medication hearings.

(d) $2,200,000 of the general fund—state appropriation is provided solely for information system requirements associated with chapter 205, Laws of 1989. The department shall contract with networks and counties through separate performance-based contracts. Contracts shall include a provision expanding services for underserved or difficult-to-service children, including minorities. Applications from counties and networks shall include endorsements from affected school districts, child welfare agencies, juvenile court systems, and tribes. Of these amounts, $200,000 is provided solely for the development of a state-wide action plan for children's mental health. The plan shall include strategies to reduce duplicate case management. It shall recommend changes, if necessary, to mental health statutes and other statutes to accommodate children's special needs and circumstances. It shall include proposals to increase access and availability of culturally relevant mental health services for minority children. It shall propose a protocol for client referrals from educational and social service agencies and a cross-system collaborative process for ranking those referrals. In developing the plan, the department shall involve representatives of the education, juvenile justice, child welfare, and mental health systems. The department shall present the plan by December 1, 1990, to the appropriate program and fiscal committees of the house of representatives and the senate.

(b) For all other enrollment in grades kindergarten through twelve, including vocational but excluding handicapped full time equivalent enrollments, one classified staff unit for each sixty average annual full time equivalent students.

(c) For each nonhigh school district with an enrollment of more than fifty annual average full time equivalent students and less than one hundred eighty students, an additional one-half of a classified staff unit.

(5) Insurance benefit allocations shall be calculated at the rates specified in section 505 of this act, based on:

(a) The number of certificated staff units determined in subsection (2) of this section; and

(b) The number of classified staff units determined in subsection (3) of this section multiplied by 1.152. This factor is intended to adjust allocations so that, for the purposes of distributing insurance benefits, full time equivalent classified employees may be calculated on the basis of 1440 hours of work per year, with no individual employee counted as more than one full time equivalent.

(6)(a) For nonemployee related costs associated with each certificated staff unit allocated under subsection (2) (a), (b), (c), and ((dd)) (e) through ((hh)) (i) of this section, there shall be provided a maximum of $6,355 per certificated staff unit in the 1989-90 school year and a maximum of $6,654 per certificated staff unit in the 1990-91 school year.

(b) For nonemployee related costs associated with each certificated staff unit allocated under subsection (2)((ee)) (d) of this section, there shall be provided a maximum of $12,110 per certificated staff unit in the 1989-90 school year and a maximum of $12,679 per certificated staff unit in the 1990-91 school year.

(7) Allocations for substitute costs for classroom teachers shall be distributed at a maximum rate of $290 per year for allocated classroom teachers. Solely for the purposes of this subsection, allocated classroom teachers shall be equal to the number of certificated instructional staff units allocated under subsection (2) of this section, multiplied by the ratio between the number of actual basic education certificated teachers and the number of actual basic education certificated instructional staff reported state-wide for the 1987-88 school year.

(8) The superintendent may distribute a maximum of $9,925,000 outside the basic education formula during fiscal years 1990 and 1991 as follows:

(a) For fire protection for school districts located in a fire protection district as now or hereafter established pursuant to chapter 52.04 RCW, a maximum of $358,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1990 and a maximum of $375,000 in fiscal year 1991.

(b) For summer vocational programs at skills centers, a maximum of $1,321,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1990 and a maximum of $1,599,000 may be expended in fiscal year 1991.

(c) A maximum of $272,000 may be expended for school district emergencies.

(d) A maximum of $6,000,000 is provided solely for the purchase of new and replacement vocational education equipment for use primarily in approved vocational-secondary and skill center programs. These moneys shall be allocated to school districts during the 1989-90 school year on the basis of full time equivalent enrollment in vocational programs.

(9) For the purposes of RCW 84.52.0531, the increase per full time equivalent student in state basic education appropriations provided under this act, including appropriations for salary and benefits increases, is 6.07 percent from the 1988-89 school year to the 1989-90 school year, and ((5-74)) 7.0 percent from the 1989-90 school year to the 1990-91 school year.

(10) (a) The superintendent of public instruction shall revise personnel reporting systems to include information on grade level assignments of basic education certificated instructional staff, by grade level groupings of K-3, 4-6, and 7-12. The superintendent of public instruction shall collect such information from school districts beginning in the 1989-90 school year. School districts may submit supplemental information on changes in staffing levels after the initial personnel report for each school year. Staffing ratios calculated under this subsection may recognize additional staff reported, prorated by the number of months of employment during the academic year.

(b) For each school year, the funding provided under subsection (2)(a) of this section shall be based on a ratio of fifty-one certificated instructional staff per thousand students in kindergarten through grade three only if the district documents an actual ratio of at least fifty-one full time basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand full time equivalent students at those grade levels. For any school district documenting a lower ratio, the funding provided under this section shall be based on the district's actual K-3 ratio achieved in that school year, or the statutory minimum ratio established under RCW 28A.41.140(2)(c), if greater.

(c) School districts that had a ratio of fifty-one basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand students in kindergarten through grade three in the 1988-89 school year shall expend additional funding generated by the increase in staffing ratios provided in this section solely to improve staffing ratios in kindergarten through grade twelve.

(11) School districts shall use allocations for salaries and benefits generated under subsection (2)(b) of this section only to increase the district's ratio of basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand full time equivalent students in grades K-3 above fifty-one per thousand, or to employ classified instructional assistants assigned to K-3 basic education classrooms. However, a district that has achieved a ratio of fifty-three basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand full time equivalent students in grades K-3 may also use the allocation to employ additional basic education certificated instructional staff or classified instructional assistants in any grades K-12. School districts shall document to the superintendent of instruction how the allocation was used and shall submit documentation on the number of classified instructional assistants employed in grades K-3 in the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years. If a district uses moneys provided under subsection (2)(b) of this section for K-3 certificated instructional staff, these staff shall be excluded when determining the district's actual K-3 staffing ratio under subsection (10) of this section. A district shall be ineligible to receive allocations under subsection (2)(b) of this section unless the district documents to the superintendent of public instruction that its actual K-3 ratio under subsection (10) of this section for the 1990-91 school year is at least fifty-one full time basic education certificated instructional staff per thousand full time equivalent students. Districts may not use allocations provided under this subsection to supplant other moneys previously used to employ K-3 certificated instructional staff or K-3 classified instructional assistants. The superintendent of public instruction shall recover funding allocated under subsection (2)(b) of this section if the district does not submit documentation showing that the funding was used for the purposes specified.

(12) The additional moneys allocated due to the increase in the vocational-secondary staff ratio provided in subsection (2)(d) of this section shall be expended solely for expanded vocational-secondary programs approved by the superintendent of public instruction. Funds provided may be expended for extended day contracts. The percentage rate of indirect charges to vocational-secondary programs, in total, shall not exceed the state-wide average percentage rates of indirect charges in all other state-funded categorical programs.

(3) $5,000,000 is provided solely for the purchase of new and replacement vocational-education equipment in fiscal year 1991 for use primarily in approved vocational-secondary and skill center programs. These moneys shall be allocated to school districts during the 1991 fiscal year on the basis of full time equivalent enrollment in vocational programs.

(b) As used in this subsection, the column headings "BA+(N)" refer to the number of credits earned since receiving the baccalaureate degree.

(c) For credits earned after the baccalaureate degree but before the masters degree, any credits in excess of forty-five credits may be counted after the masters degree. Thus, as used in this subsection, the column headings "MA+(N)" refer to the total of:

(i) Credits earned since receiving the masters degree; and

(ii) Any credits in excess of forty-five credits that were earned after the baccalaureate degree but before the masters degree.

(8) For the purposes of this section:

(a) "BA" means a baccalaureate degree.

(b) "MA" means a masters degree.

(c) "PHD" means a doctorate degree.

(d) "Years of service" shall be calculated under the same rules used by the superintendent of public instruction for salary allocations in the 1988-89 school year.

(e) "Credits" means college quarter hour credits and equivalent inservice credits computed in accordance with RCW 28A.71.110.

(9) The salary allocation schedules established in subsections (6) and (7) of this section are for allocation purposes only. However, it is the legislature's intent to respond to salary needs of many senior teachers who have not been receiving salary increments on either state or local salary schedules. The legislature and the public recognize the need to provide salary growth for these senior teachers in order to encourage them to continue teaching. School districts should target moneys generated by the additional seniority steps provided for state salary funding in the 1990-91 school year to senior certification instructional staff. By December 1, 1990, each school district shall submit to the superintendent of public instruction a statement signed by the district's board of directors explaining how the moneys generated by the additional seniority steps were used and whether these moneys were targeted to senior staff.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 6114

April 23, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6114 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to corrections."

This measure creates a statutory formula for providing mitigation funds to counties where state correctional facilities are located. The Department of Corrections is required to provide funds based on the number of inmates' families living in close proximity to the facility.

It is the policy of this state to reimburse local governments for the direct impacts experienced by the location of correctional facilities. The Institutional Impact Account has been created to ensure that counties are compensated when they provide services required by the activities of inmates.

This bill, however, proposes to go further by providing mitigation funds for impacts that are not directly associated with the operation of the facility. Further, the term "close proximity" is inexact, as is the term "inmate family." Thus, this bill provides neither a clear rationale nor a workable model for providing mitigation funds.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 6114 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,

Booth Gardner, Governor

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, Senate Bill No. 6114 and Senate Bill No. 6253 were held on the desk.

*EDITOR'S NOTE: The Governor's Messages on the partial veto of Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5835, Senate Bill No. 6292, Senate Bill No. 6408 and Substitute Senate Bill No. 6417 were read in on the twenty-fourth day of the First Special Session April 1, 1990.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL NO. 5371

April 13, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 8, Senate Bill No. 5371 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to excellence in teacher preparation."

This bill establishes two important programs. It creates an annual award program to recognize excellent higher education teacher educators. The second portion of the bill establishes the excellence in teacher preparation program to provide cooperating teachers to all student teachers during their internship with local school districts. Both programs are essential components in our continuing efforts to improve teacher preparation and I am pleased to sign them into law.

Section 8 of the bill, however, delays the effective date for the sections of the bill that establish the excellence in teacher preparation program. It is important that this program go into effect without delay to allow the Superintendent of Public Instruction to publish regulations and the institutions of higher education to begin the planning process that will enable them to begin operating the program as soon as funds are appropriated.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed section 8.

With the exception of section 8, Senate Bill No. 5371 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR
PARTIAL VETO MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6407

April 23, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 116(7), section 120(5), section 206(1)(a)(iv), section 207(1)(g), section 208(14), section 218(7), section 221(8), section 225(25), section 225(27), section 229(2)(c), section 229(3)(b), section 302(20), section 302(25), section 306(17), section 306(18), section 306(19), section 306(26), and section 705 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6407 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to fiscal matters."

My reasons for vetoing these sections are as follows:

Section 116(7)

This section directs the Office of Financial Management to study the Schools for the Deaf and Blind to determine the management organization and fiscal practices necessary for maximum operational and financial efficiency.

I am vetoing this item because these studies have already been done. Another study will not improve the operations of these schools. I will direct the Office of Financial Management to assist the schools to improve their efficiency and fiscal practices, but I do not feel another study at this time is needed.

Section 120(5)

Section 120(5) directs the Department of Revenue to immediately promulgate and implement a rule providing for fair and equitable applications of the business and occupation tax to persons engaged in business as tour operators. The Department has processes in place through which any taxpayer or group of taxpayers can appeal their treatment under the state's tax laws and Administrative Code. I am vetoing this subsection because it constitutes an inappropriate intrusion into the appeal and due process provisions already present in tax law and the Washington Administrative Code.

Section 206(1)(a)(iv)

Section 206(1)(a)(iv) requires that mentally ill nursing-home residents who do not need a nursing-home level of care be transferred and provided services through regional support networks. Further, the person may not be transferred without his or her consent or consent of his or her guardian.

This requirement for consent is in conflict with federal Medicaid requirements for nursing-homes, as amended by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987. The federal law requires that, in some cases, mentally ill nursing-home residents who do not need a nursing-home level of care must be discharged. Were the state to allow persons meeting the federal discharge criteria to reside in Medicaid-funded nursing-homes, the federal government would not share in the nursing home cost of care.

Section 207(1)(g)

This item directs that portions of the money appropriated in section 207 are provided solely for salary and benefit increases for employees of community-contracted facilities serving the developmentally disabled. The chairs of the legislative fiscal committees have indicated by letter that the intent of the Legislature was that these funds be provided only to residential facilities serving the developmentally disabled. Therefore, to ensure that these funds are expended as intended, I am vetoing this item and directing the Department of Social and Health Services to expend the funds to provide salary and benefit increases effective May 1, 1990, for employees of community-contracted residential facilities serving the developmentally disabled.

Section 208(14)

This subsection directs that mentally ill persons not in need of nursing home care may be referred to residences outside regional support networks. Senate Bill No. 5400 and the 1989 Biennial Budget bill directed the Department of Social and Health Services to implement the federal Omnibus Budget and Reconciliation Act of 1987 (OBRA). Senate Bill No. 5400 requires that funding be distributed to regional support networks for residential services for a variety of populations, including persons transferred from nursing homes. The budget bill appropriated all OBRA funding to the regional support networks. The Department, with legislative endorsement, is implementing OBRA beds incrementally in areas of the state with regional support networks. At this point of the biennium, the Department cannot shift course and reallocate funding differently and jeopardize programs being developed under the policies of Senate Bill No. 5400. I am vetoing this subsection to avoid this conflict.

Section 218(7)

This subsection restores chiropractic services to the medical assistance program but limits payments to ten treatments per recipient per twelve-month period. Limiting the number of chiropractic treatments by budget proviso is overly prescriptive. The Department of Social and Health Services intends to provide limited chiropractic services within the funds appropriated for this purpose. The Department has options to limit the number of treatments covered, which will ensure that the service can be provided within available funds. Within these general limits, the Department needs the ability to approve, on an exception basis, a greater number of treatments if it is determined to be medically necessary.

Section 221(8)

Section 221(8) limits to $250,000 the amount of the General Fund-State appropriation that may be expended on the Automated Clients Eligibility System (ACES). If the cost of the project in this biennium exceeds the limit by any amount, the Department of Social and Health Services would not be able to continue with the project until review in the 1991 session.

The Department of Social and Health Services estimates the 1989-91 cost of ACES planning and development at $339,000 General Fund-State. This estimate was provided to legislative staff, the Office of Financial Management, the Department of Information Services and the relevant federal agencies.

It is difficult to predict the federal match for the project. The amount of match currently assumed is tentative and could be revised by the participating federal agencies after the project is underway, making it impossible for the Department to guarantee that ACES expenditures will not exceed $250,000 General Fund-State before executing a contract.

The Department will continue to comply with the requirements of section 802, chapter 19, Laws of 1989, 1st Extraordinary Session, which requires ongoing review of information system projects by the Department of Information Systems and the Office of Financial Management.

Section 225(25)

This subsection requires the Department of Community Development to establish a new and significant children's ombudsman program. I am vetoing this appropriation because $90,000 is insufficient to create and properly administer a program of this scope. I will consider developing a budget item for inclusion in the 1991-93 biennium budget. The $90,000 will be placed in reserve, and not used for any other purpose.

Section 225(27)

This subsection unduly restricts the Department of Community Development from adequately administering the Housing Trust Fund program by providing that none of the housing trust fund appropriation may be used for administrative expenses. While it is my expectation that the $10 million appropriated will be expended on direct program activity, I am vetoing this subsection to make it clear that some of the interest earned on the $10 million will be expended on administration, as allowed under the statute governing the Housing Trust Fund. The Department must have the ability to staff the program adequately in order to expedite the availability of these funds for local programs and to ensure that projects and contracts are monitored, that repayments be managed, and that site visits be conducted.

Section 229(2)(c)

This subsection states that the civil commitment of sexual predators pursuant to chapter 3, Laws of 1990, shall be at the Twin Rivers Corrections Center. Flexibility is needed to place the program where it can be operated most efficiently and effectively within the Monroe correctional facilities.

Section 229(3)(b)

Section 229(3)(b) provides prison impact funding. I recognize that some local jurisdictions may experience extraordinary costs relating to expansion of correctional institutions. The language of this subsection restricts the use of the appropriation to a few local jurisdictions for new purposes. In the interest of equitable distribution of impact funds, I am directing the Department of Corrections to develop revisions to the Washington Administrative Code that will specify how local jurisdictions are to be reimbursed for these new actual costs that are clearly related to offender populations.

Section 302(20)

Section 302(20)(a) provides $600,000 for grants to local jurisdictions to develop local wetlands protection and management programs. Section 302(20)(b) provides $600,000 to the Department of Ecology, contingent on a wetlands protection bill being enacted. The Legislature did not pass a wetlands protection bill, and if section 302(20)(b) remains, the funding will lapse.

In the absence of a comprehensive wetlands protection bill, this money is necessary for the Department of Ecology to more fully utilize existing authority to protect wetlands. I am vetoing this subsection and am directing the Department of Ecology to use these funds for the stricter implementation and enforcement of current statutes and to provide a portion of the aforementioned grants to local jurisdictions.

Section 302(25)

Section 302(25) limits the Department of Ecology's June 1991 FTE level to not more than 154 above the agency's June 30, 1990, FTE level. This limitation on FTE growth unnecessarily limits the agency's ability to perform its required duties. The restriction on FTEs may not be sufficient to meet the Department of Ecology's growth assumed in the Supplemental Budget or those assumed in bills passed by the 1990 Legislature. In vetoing this section, I am directing the Department of Ecology to identify savings as a result of vacancies in Fiscal Year 1991 and directing that those savings remain unexpended.

Section 306(17)

Subsection 17 directs the Department of Community Development to implement a self-employment loan program as described in subsection 84 of House Bill No. 2929. Encouraging self-employment as an option for dislocated and low-income individuals is a worthwhile idea. However, the Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is an inappropriate funding source. These funds are legislatively dedicated for use by the Community Economic Revitalization Board. The fund is intended to be a renewable resource, originally capitalized through General Obligation Bonds, for economic development that requires expansion to local infrastructure. The Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is needed for one-time projects in which there is critical need, and should not be used for programs that are clearly ongoing and operating in nature. The proposed self-employment loan program would be ongoing and would require support from the General Fund-State for continued operation in the next biennium.

Section 306(18)

Subsection 18 creates an industrial competitiveness program in the Department of Trade and Economic Development, as described in subsection 75 of House Bill No. 2929. It is important to encourage the growth of value-added manufacturing in the state and to encourage smaller firms to work together to increase their competitiveness. However, again the Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is an inappropriate funding source. These funds are legislatively dedicated for use by the Community Economic Revitalization Board. The fund is intended to be a renewable resource, originally capitalized through General Obligation Bond sales, for economic development that requires expansion to local infrastructure. The Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is needed for one-time projects in which there is critical need, and should not be used for programs that are clearly ongoing and operating in nature. The industrial competitiveness program would be ongoing and would require support from the General Fund-State for continued operation in the next biennium. I am directing the Department of Trade and Economic Development to use existing general fund monies to provide assistance to facilitate efforts by small businesses to develop cooperative networks in order to increase their competitiveness.

Section 306(19)

Subsection 19 directs the Department of Community Development to provide grants for technical assistance for community-based organizations as described in subsection 83 of House Bill No. 2929. Efforts to increase the capacity of community-based organizations in low-income communities are valuable and worthwhile. However, the provisions contained in this section are overly prescriptive and have the potential to reduce the effectiveness of the existing successful Local Development Matching Fund program. Once again, the Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is an inappropriate funding source. These funds are legislatively dedicated for use by the Community Economic Revitalization Board. The fund is intended to be a renewable resource, originally capitalized through General Obligation Bonds, for economic development that requires expansion to local infrastructure. The Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is needed for one-time projects in which there is critical need, and should not be used for programs that are clearly ongoing and operating in nature. I am directing the Department of Community Development to explore opportunities to provide training and technical assistance to community-based organizations serving low-income rural and urban areas.

Section 306(26)

Subsection 26 provides for a review of state-supported advanced-technology and technology-transfer economic development activities. While I applaud the Legislature for examining these important issues, the language contained in section 76 of House No. Bill 2929 is overly prescriptive given the size of the appropriation to support the review. I am directing the Department of Trade and Economic Development to utilize the available funds to evaluate existing state-supported applied research and technology transfer activities in the state. I am also directing the Department of Trade and Economic Development to conduct an initial examination of opportunities for collaboration between higher education, industry and the state as a way to increase the economic competitiveness of the state.

Section 705

This section forgives loans made to the cities of Federal Way and Sea-Tac that were supported by an Emergency Fund allocation to the Department of Community Development for that purpose. In modifying the Executive's decision in the matter of the allocation to the Department of Community Development in this way, the Legislature makes an unacceptable encroachment into gubernatorial authority and responsibility for the Governor's Emergency Fund.

With the exceptions of sections 116(7), 120(5), 206(1)(a)(iv), 207(1)(g), 208(14), 218(7), 221(8), 225(25), 225(27), 229(2)(c), 229(3)(b), 302(20), 302(25), 306(17), 306(18), 306(19), 306(26) and 705, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6407 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

This provision does not in any way restrict the sharing or collection of information by state and local governmental agencies required for the daily administration of their duties. The secretary of state shall administer this provision and establish the procedures and rules that are necessary for its operation. An agency that has not been furnished with a request for confidentiality of address information is not liable for damages resulting from its disclosure of the information. For purpose of service of process, the secretary of state shall serve as agent for each person who submits a request under this subsection. A request shall be of no force or effect if the requester does not include a statement, along with or part of the request, designating the secretary of state as agent of the requester for purposes of service of process.

(2) Except for information described in subsection (1)(c)(i) of this section and confidential income data exempted from public inspection pursuant to RCW 84.40.020, the exemptions of this section are inapplicable to the extent that information, the disclosure of which would violate personal privacy or vital governmental interests, can be deleted from the specific records sought. No exemption may be construed to permit the nondisclosure of statistical information not descriptive of any readily identifiable person or persons.

(3) Inspection or copying of any specific records exempt under the provisions of this section may be permitted if the superior court in the county in which the record is maintained finds, after a hearing with notice thereof to every person in interest and the agency, that the exemption of such records is clearly unnecessary to protect any individual's right of privacy or any vital governmental function.

(4) Agency responses refusing, in whole or in part, inspection of any public record shall include a statement of the specific exemption authorizing the withholding of the record (or part) and a brief explanation of how the exemption applies to the record withheld."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rinehart: "Senator McCaslin, as prime sponsor of Senate Bill No. 6880, I am interested in the purpose for this delayed implementation date. What is the specific reason for this delay?"

Senator McCaslin: "Senator Rinehart, several local governments indicated a need to have more time to implement this important legislation. There is no intent to come back next year to dismantle or weaken this law. The locals understand the need for this type of protection and only seek more time to properly implement it."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendments by Senators Hayner and Vognild on page 49, after line 25, and page 50, lines 3 and 4, to Senate Bill No. 6913.

The motion by Senator Hayner carried and the amendments were adopted.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the following title amendment was adopted: In line 7 of the title, after "82.14.210," insert "42.17.310."

On motion of Senator Newhouse, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6913 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Benitz: "Senator Hayner, in this past fiscal year, 1989-1990, some local governments have had to make budget cuts in other areas of government in order to fund essential criminal justice functions. Is it the intent of this legislation to prevent these local governments from restoring these recent budget cuts?"

Senator Hayner: "No. While this legislation requires the new money to be expended exclusively for criminal justice purposes, we cannot ignore the fact that this past year has been one of uncertainty for local governments in the area of budgeting for criminal justice. It is not our intent to prevent local governments from restoring other moneys that have been diverted to essential criminal justice and law enforcement purposes during this past fiscal year."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Barr: "Senator Newhouse, some of the funds in this bill are distributed to cities and counties on the basis of the jurisdictions's crime rate as published by the Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs. What happens if a city or county failed to report its 1988-1989 crime rate, or if they filed late?"

Senator Newhouse: "There is nothing in the bill that prevents the association from publishing an addendum or supplement to pick up those jurisdictions that failed to file their 1988-1989 report. This is what we hope they will do, and these new figures can be used by the state treasurer for all subsequent distributions of funds."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Hayner, you and Senator Benitz were making law on the floor with your questions and answers. It wasn't clear to me--I think your explanation was that if we didn't buy a park or a new convention center and use that money for criminal work--investigation and so forth--we would allow ourselves to take some of this money that is going to be available and put it back in the convention center or whatever. Was that the gist of your remarks?"

Senator Hayner: "There are about six or eight or ten counties in the state that are bankrupt or certainly in deficit spending. That is true because they have taken money from whatever it is--from parks, from roads, from mental health--and put it into criminal justice. We are just saying that if you have done that in the last fiscal year, you may return it. That, as I understand it, is the intention of the bill."

Senator Rasmussen: "One more question. You are aware that the Pierce County people voted for an additional levy to hire fifty deputy sheriffs. Could this money then be refunded to the people out of the criminal justice fund under your explanation where we can build swimming pools and convention centers with this money if we have diverted it in the last year?"

Senator Hayner: "Well, I commend them for doing that. I think probably all the other counties should do that, but I don't think they can return it, no."

Further debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 6913 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 42; nays, 4; excused, 3.

COMMENTS
CONDOMINIUM ACT

Prepared by

of the Washington State Bar Association

APPENDIX A: COMMENTS TO CONDOMINIUM ACT

RCW 64.34.010. APPLICABILITY.

1. The question of the extent to which a state statute should apply to particular condominiums involves the extent to which the statute should require or permit different results for condominiums created before and after the statute becomes effective.

Two conflicting policies are proposed when considering the applicability of this Act to "old" and "new" condominiums located in Washington. On the one hand, it is desirable, for reasons of uniformity, for the Act to apply to all condominiums located in a particular state, regardless of whether the condominium was created before or after adoption of the Act in that state. To the extent that different laws apply within the same state to different condominiums, confusion results in the minds of both lenders and consumers. Moreover, because of the uncertainties existing under RCW 64.32, and because of the requirements placed on declarants and unit owners' associations by this Act which might increase the costs of new condominiums, different markets might tend to develop for condominiums created before and after adoption of the Act.

On the other hand, to make all provisions of this Act automatically apply to "old" condominiums might violate the constitutional prohibition of impairment of contracts. In addition, aside from the constitutional issue, automatic applicability of the entire Act almost certainly would unduly alter the legitimate expectations of some present unit owners and declarants.

Accordingly, the philosophy of this section reflects a desire to maximize the uniform applicability of the Act to all condominiums in the enacting state, while avoiding the difficulties raised by automatic application of the entire Act to pre-existing condominiums.

2. In carrying out this philosophy with respect to "new" condominiums, the Act applies to all condominiums "created" within the state after the Act's effective date. This is the effect of the first sentence of subsection (1). The first sentence of subsection (2) makes clear that the provisions of old statutes expressly applicable to condominiums do not apply to condominiums created after the effective date of this Act.

"Creation" of a condominium pursuant to this Act occurs upon recordation of a declaration and survey map and plans pursuant to RCW 64.34.200. "Creation" of a condominium under RCW 64.32 occurs upon the recordation of the declaration, survey map and plans and an as-built verification for constructed units pursuant to RCW 64.32.020, .090 and .100. The focus of the applicability language of subsections (1) and (2) is on whether a condominium project was created before or after the effective date of this Act, and not on whether all of the units (and/or related common and limited common areas and facilities) contemplated to be part of the project have been completed or are a part of the condominium by that date. Thus, with respect to a "phased" condominium project, if prior to the effective date of this Act a declaration (together with the survey map and plans and as-built certificate for units then constructed) has been recorded, and if that declaration specifically provides for the subsequent addition of further units (and/or related common and limited common areas and facilities), then the condominium project was "created" prior to the effective date of this Act, and the subsequent addition of further units (and/or common and limited common areas and facilities) to that project is governed by RCW 64.32 and the provisions of the declaration, and not by this Act.

3. The section adopts a novel three-step approach to condominiums created before the effective date of the Act. First, certain provisions of the Act automatically apply to "old" condominiums, but only prospectively, and only in a manner which does not invalidate provisions of condominium declarations and bylaws valid under RCW 64.32. Second, RCW 64.32 remains applicable to previously created condominiums where not automatically displaced by the Act. Third, owners of "old" condominiums may amend any provisions of their declaration or bylaws, even if the amendment would not be permitted by RCW 64.32 so long as (a) the amendment is adopted in accordance with the procedure required by RCW 64.32 and the existing declaration and bylaws, and (b) the substance of the amendment does not violate this Act.

4. Elaboration of the principles described in Comment 3 may be helpful.

First, the second sentence of subsection (1) provides that the enumerated provisions automatically apply to condominiums created under pre-existing law, even though no action is taken by the unit owners. Many of the sections which do apply should measurably increase the ability of the unit owners to effectively manage the association, and should help to encourage the marketability of condominiums created under early condominium statutes. To avoid possible constitutional challenges, these provisions, as applied to "old" condominiums, apply only to "events and circumstances occurring after the effective date of this Act"; moreover, the provisions of this Act are subject to any inconsistent provisions of the instruments creating the condominium, and this Act does not invalidate those instruments.

EXAMPLE:

Under subsection (1), RCW 64.34.425 (Resale of Units) automatically applies to "old" condominiums. Accordingly, unit owners in condominiums established prior to adoption of the Act would be obligated after the Act's effective date to provide resale certificates to future purchasers of units in "old" condominiums. However, the failure of a unit owner to provide such a certificate to a purchaser who acquired the unit before the effective date of the Act would not create a cause of action in the purchaser, because the conveyance was an event occurring before the effective date of the Act.

Second, RCW 64.32 is not repealed by this Act because those laws will still apply to previously-created condominiums, except when displaced.

Third, the Act seeks to alleviate any undesirable consequences of RCW 64.32 by a limited "opt-in" provision. More specifically, subsection (2) permits the owners of a pre-existing condominium to take advantage of the provisions of this statute to the extent that can be accomplished consistent with the procedures for amending the condominium instruments as specified in those instruments and in the pre-existing statute.

EXAMPLE:

Under RCW 64.32, unit owners have no express statutory power to relocate boundaries between adjoining units. Under RCW 64.34.244 of this Act, unit owners have such power, unless limited by the declaration. While RCW 64.34.244 does not automatically apply to "old" condominiums, if the unit owners of a pre-existing condominium amend their condominium instruments in the manner permitted by the old statute and their existing instruments to permit unit owners to relocate boundaries, this section would validate that amendment, even if it were invalid under RCW 64.32.

5. In considering the permissible amendments under subsection (2), it is important to distinguish between the law governing the procedure for amending declarations, and the substance of the amendments themselves. An amendment to the declaration of the condominium created under RCW 64.32, even if permissible under this Act, must nevertheless be adopted "in conformity with the procedures and requirements specified" by the original condominium instruments, and in compliance with RCW 64.32.

EXAMPLE:

RCW 64.32 requires the approval of 100% of the unit owners to amend the percentages of interest used in determining the allocation of voting rights under the declaration, but the unit owners wish to amend the declaration to provide for only 90% of the unit owners' approval of all such amendments in the future, as permitted by RCW 64.34.264 of this Act. The amendment would not be valid unless 100% of the unit owners approved it because of the procedural requirement in RCW 64.32. Once approved, however, only 90% would be required for subsequent amendments.

6. The last sentence of subsection (2) addresses the potential problem of a declarant seeking to take undue advantage of the amendment provisions to assume a power granted by the Act without being subject to the Act's limitations on the power. The last sentence insures that, if declarants or other persons assume any of the powers and rights which the Act grants, the correlative obligations, liabilities, and restrictions of the Act also apply to that person, even if the amendment itself does not require that result.

EXAMPLE:

Assume that pursuant to the declaration, the declarant may exercise control over the association for only 3 years from the date the condominium is created, but the control may be maintained during that period for so long as declarant owns any units. In the absence of any amendment, a provision in the declaration taking full advantage of the fact that RCW 64.32 does not expressly limit the declarant control provisions would be valid and enforceable. Assume further that, in the second year following creation of the condominium in question, this Act is adopted. The declarant then properly amends the declaration pursuant to subsection (2) to extend the period of declarant control for 5 years from the date of creation. The amendment would effectively extend control for 2 additional years, because RCW 64.34.308(4) does not limit the number of the years the declarant may specify as a control period.

Nevertheless, if the declarant, before that extended time limit has expired, conveys 75 percent of the units that may ever be a part of the condominium, or fails for 2 years to exercise development rights or offer units for sale in the ordinary course of business, the period of declarant control would terminate by virtue of the limitations in RCW 64.34.308(4). That limitation is imposed on the declarant even if the amendment called for retaining control for so long as any units were owned by declarant, and despite the fact that there is no corresponding restriction expressed in RCW 64.32.

7. This section does not permit a pre-existing condominium to elect to come entirely within the provisions of the Act, disregarding RCW 64.32. However, the owners of a pre-existing condominium may elect to terminate the condominium under pre-existing law and create a new condominium which would be subject to all the provisions of this Act.

RCW 64.34.020. DEFINITIONS.

1. The first clause of this section permits the defined terms used in the Act to be defined differently in the declaration and bylaws. Regardless of how terms are used in those documents, however, terms have an unvarying meaning in the Act, and any restricted practice which depends on the definition of a term is not affected by a changed term in the documents.

EXAMPLE:

A declarant might vary the definition of "unit owner" in the declaration to exclude itself in an attempt to avoid assessments for units which it owns. The attempt would be futile, since the Act defines a declarant who owns a unit as a unit owner and defines the liabilities of a unit owner.

2. The definition of "affiliate of a declarant" (RCW 64.34.020(1)) is similar to the definitions for persons deemed to be associated with a broker or dealer in the federal securities laws.

3. Definition (2), "allocated interests," refers to all of the interests which this Act requires the declaration to allocate. See RCW 64.34.224.

4. Definition (3), "assessment," includes items such as fines, interest and late charges. Pursuant to RCW 64.34.304(1)(k) and RCW 64.34.364(10), fines may be imposed only pursuant to a previously established schedule furnished to the owners and following notice and an opportunity to be heard by the Board of Directors or its designated representative, and the association may only establish late charges on all assessments becoming delinquent thereafter. Under RCW 64.34.364(10), delinquent assessments bear interest from the date of delinquency at the maximum rate permitted under RCW 19.52.020, unless the rate is otherwise established by the association for future assessments. The question of whether interest on assessments is subject to state statutory usury limitations is not addressed in the Act and its resolution is left to other applicable laws.

5. Definitions (6) and (31), treating "common elements" and "units," should be examined in light of RCW 64.34.204, which specifies in detail how the precise differentiation between units and common elements is to be determined in any given condominium to the extent that the declaration does not provide a different scheme. No exhaustive list of items comprising the common elements is necessary in this Act or in the declaration; as long as the boundaries between units and common elements can be ascertained with certainty, the common elements include by definition all of the real property in the condominium not designated as part of the units.

6. Definition (19), "condominium," makes clear that, unless the ownership interest in the common elements is vested in the owners of the units, the project is not a condominium. Thus, for example, if the common elements were owned by an association in which each unit owner was a member, the project would not be a condominium. Similarly, if a declarant sold units in a building but retained title to the common areas, granting easements over them to unit owners, no condominium would have been created. Such projects have many of the attributes of condominiums, but they are not covered by this Act.

7. Definition (10), "conversion condominium," is important because of the protection which the Act provides in RCW 64.34.440 for residential tenants in rental projects which are being converted into a condominium. The definition not only includes residential rental apartment projects in which the units are located within a building and have physical boundaries, but also projects such as mobile home parks in which the units may be defined by planes in space and have no physical boundaries. The definition distinguishes condominiums which prior to creation were occupied by residential tenants entitled to the benefits of RCW 64.34.440 from those condominiums not so occupied.

Frequently, in the early stage of marketing a newly constructed residential condominium, units may be occupied under what legally might be considered a landlord-tenant relationship. This may occur as a result of accommodating a purchaser's desire to occupy a unit prior to the actual closing of the sale, or during the period in which a developer is still attempting to satisfy a "pre-sale" requirement imposed by a lender. Clause (b) of the first sentence is intended to permit such pre-closing occupancy or rental arrangements without invoking the provisions of RCW 64.34.440. Clause (b) is also, however, intended to assure that each tenant of a declarant is aware that the unit being rented is subject to sale as a condominium. Thus, after creation of the condominium and before the sale of any units, a declarant's failure to advise a tenant in writing that the unit was subject to sale will cause the project to become a conversion condominium.

The last sentence of the definition is intended to avoid certain constitutional issues, including impairment of contracts that might arise if RCW 64.34.440 was imposed on rental projects in the process of conversion on the effective date of the Act.

8. Definition (13), "declarant," is designed to exclude persons who may be called upon to execute the declaration in order to ratify the creation of the condominium, but who are not intended to be charged with the responsibilities imposed on declarants by this Act if that is all they do. Examples of such persons include holders of pre-existing liens and, in the case of leasehold condominiums, ground lessors. (Of course, such a person could become a declarant by subsequently succeeding to a special declarant right.)

9. Definition (16), "development rights," includes a panoply of sophisticated development techniques that have evolved over time throughout the United States and which have been expressly recognized (and regulated) in an increasing number of jurisdictions, beginning with Virginia in 1974.

Some of these techniques relate to the phased development of condominiums which the declarant hopes, but cannot be sure, will be successful enough to grow to include more land than it is initially willing to commit to the condominium. For example, a declarant may be building (or converting) a 50-unit building on Parcel A with the intention, if all goes well, to "expand" the condominium by adding an additional building on Parcel B, containing additional units, as part of the same condominium. If it reserves the right to do so, i.e., to "add real property to a condominium," it has reserved a "development right."

In certain cases, however, the declarant may desire, for a variety of reasons, to include both parcels in the condominium from the outset, even though it may subsequently be obliged to withdraw all or part of one parcel. Assume, for example, that in the example just given the declarant intends to build an underground parking garage that will extend into both parcels. If the project is a success, its documentation will be simpler if both parcels were included in the condominium from the beginning. If its hopes are not realized, however, and it becomes necessary to withdraw all or part of Parcel B from the condominium and devote it to some other use, it may do so if it has reserved such a development right "to withdraw real property from a condominium." The portion of the garage which extends into Parcel B may be left in the condominium (separated from the remainder of Parcel B by a horizontal boundary), or the garage may be divided between Parcels A and B with appropriate cross-easement agreements.

The right "to create units, common elements, or limited common elements" is frequently useful in commercial or mixed-use condominiums where the declarant needs to retain a high degree of flexibility to meet the space requirements of prospective purchasers who may not approach it until the condominium has already been created. For example, an entire floor of a high-rise building may be intended for commercial buyers, but the declarant may not know in advance whether one purchaser will want to buy the whole floor as a single unit or whether several purchasers will want the floor divided into several units, separated by common element walls and served by a limited common element corridor. This development right is sometimes useful even in purely residential condominiums, especially those designed to appeal to affluent buyers. Similarly, the development rights "to subdivide units or convert units into common elements" is most often of value in commercial condominiums, but can occasionally be useful in certain kinds of residential condominiums as well.

10. Definition (17), "dispose" or "disposition," includes voluntary transfers to purchasers of any interest in a unit, other than as security for an obligation. Consequently, the grant of a mortgage or other security interest is not a "disposition," nor is any transfer of any interest to a person who is excluded from the definition of "purchaser," infra. However, the term includes more than fee conveyances and would, for example, cover leases and real estate contracts.

11. Definition (21), "leasehold condominium," should be distinguished from land which is leased to a condominium but not subjected to the condominium regime. A leasehold condominium means, by definition, a leasehold interest in real property which has been subjected to the condominium form of ownership. In such a case, units located on the leasehold real property are typically leased for long terms. At the expiration of such a lease, the condominium unit or the real property underlying the unit would be removed from the condominium if the lease were not extended or renewed. On the other hand, real property not subjected to condominium ownership may be leased directly to the association or to one or more unit owners for a term of years.

This distinction is very significant. Under RCW 64.34.320, the unit owners' association is empowered, following expiration of the period of declarant control, to cancel any lease of recreational or parking areas or facilities to which it is a party, regardless of who the lessor is. The association also has the power to cancel any lease for any land if the declarant or an affiliate of the declarant is a party to that lease. If the leased real property, however, is subjected by the declarant to condominium form of ownership, that lease may not be cancelled unless it is unconscionable or unless the real property was submitted to the condominium regime for the purpose of avoiding the right to terminate the lease.

While the subjective test of declarant's "purpose" may not always be clear, the rights of the association to cancel a lease depend upon the test. Thus, for example, a declarant who wishes to lease a swimming pool to the unit owners would have a choice of subjecting the pool for, say, a term of 20 years to the condominium form of ownership as a common element. At the end of the term, the lease would terminate and the real property containing the pool would be automatically removed from the condominium unless there were a right to renew the lease. During the 20-year term, the lease would not be cancellable, regardless of the terms, unless it were found to be unconscionable under RCW 64.34.080, or cancellable because submitted for the purpose of avoiding the right to cancel. On the other hand, if the pool were not submitted to the condominium form of ownership and was leased directly to the association for a 20-year term, the association could cancel that lease 90 days after the period of declarant control expired, even if, for example, 18 years remained of the term.

12. Definition (26), "purchaser," includes a person who acquires any interest in a unit, even as a tenant, if the tenancy entitles such person to occupy the premises for 20 or more years (including renewal options). Excluded from the definition, however, are mortgagees, declarants, and "dealers," as such term is defined in RCW 64.34.020(12). Persons excluded from the definition of "purchaser" do not receive certain benefits under Article 4, such as the right to a public offering statement (RCW 64.34.405(3)) and the right to rescind (RCW 64.34.420).

13. Definition (27), "real property," is very broad, and is very similar to the definition of "real estate" in Section 1-201(16) of the Uniform Land Transactions Act.

Although often thought of in two-dimensional terms, real property is a three-dimensional concept and the third dimension is unusually important in the condominium context. Where real property is described in only two dimensions (length and width), it is correctly assumed that the property extends indefinitely above the earth's surface and downwards toward a point in the center of the planet. In most condominiums, however, as in so-called "air rights" projects, ownership does not extend ab solo usque ad coelu, because units are stacked on top of units or units and common elements are interstratified. In such cases the upper and lower boundaries must be identified with the same precision as the other boundaries.

14. Definition (29), "special declarant rights," seeks to isolate those rights reserved for the benefit of a declarant which are unique to the declarant and not shared in common with other unit owners. The list, while short, encompasses virtually every significant right which a declarant might seek in the course of creating or expanding a condominium.

Any person who possesses a special declarant right would be a "declarant", including any who succeed under RCW 64.34.316 to any of those rights. Thus, the concept of special declarant rights triggers the imposition of obligations on those who possess the rights. Under RCW 64.34.316, those obligations vary significantly, depending upon the particular special declarant rights possessed by a particular declarant. These circumstances are described more fully in the comments to RCW 64.34.316.

15. Definition (31), "unit," describes a tangible, physical part of the project, rather than a right in, or claim to, a tangible physical part of the property. Therefore, for example, a "time-share" arrangement in which a unit is sold to 12 different persons each of whom has the right to occupy the unit for one month does not create 12 new units--there are, rather, 12 owners of the unit. (Under the section on voting (RCW 64.34.340), a majority of the time-share owners of a unit are entitled to cast the votes assigned to that unit.)

While a separately described part of the project is not a unit unless it is designed for, and is subject to, separate ownership by persons other than the association, the association developer can hold or acquire units unless otherwise provided in the declaration.

16. Definition (32), "unit owner," makes it clear that declarants, so long as they own units in the condominium, are unit owners and are therefore subject to all of the obligations imposed on other unit owners, including the obligation to pay common expense assessments against those units.

RCW 64.34.030. VARIATION BY AGREEMENT.

1. The Act is generally designed to provide great flexibility in the creation of condominiums and, to that end, the Act permits the parties to vary many of its provisions. In many instances, however, provisions of the Act may not be varied, because of the need to protect purchasers, lenders, and declarants. Accordingly, this section adopts the approach of prohibiting variation by agreement except in those cases where it is expressly permitted by the terms of the Act itself.

2. One of the consumer protections in this Act is the requirement for consent by specified percentages of unit owners to particular actions or changes in the declaration. In order to prevent declarants from evading these requirements by obtaining powers of attorney from all unit owners, or in some other fashion controlling the votes of unit owners, this section forbids the use by a declarant of any device to evade the limitations or prohibitions of the Act or of the declaration.

3. The following sections permit variation:

RCW 64.34.010. (Applicability.) Pre-existing condominiums may elect to conform to the Act.

RCW 64.34.020. (Definitions.) All definitions used in the declaration and bylaws may be varied in the declaration, but not in interpretation of the Act.

RCW 64.34.060. (Condemnation.) The formulas for reallocation upon taking a part of a unit, and for allocation of proceeds attributable to limited common elements, may be varied.

RCW 64.34.204. (Unit Boundaries.) The declaration may vary the distinctions as to what constitutes the units and common elements.

RCW 64.34.216. (Contents of Declaration.) A declarant may add any information it desires to the required content of the declaration.

RCW 64.34.224. (Allocation of Common Element Interests, Votes, and Common Expense Liabilities.) A declarant may allocate the interests in any way desired, subject to certain limitations.

RCW 64.34.228. (Limited Common Elements.) The Act permits reallocation of limited common elements unless prohibited by the declaration.

RCW 64.34.232. (Plats and Plans.) There is a presumption regarding horizontal boundaries of units, unless the declaration provides otherwise.

RCW 64.34.240. (Alterations of Units.) Subject to the provisions of the declaration, unit owners may make alterations and improvements to units.

RCW 64.34.244. (Relocation of Boundaries Between Adjoining Units.) Subject to the provisions of the declaration, boundaries between adjoining units may be relocated by affected unit owners.

RCW 64.34.248. (Subdivision of Units.) If the declaration expressly so permits, a unit may be subdivided into two or more units.

RCW 64.34.256. (Use By Declarant.) The declarant may maintain sales offices, management offices, and model units only if the declaration so provides. Unless the declaration provides otherwise, the declarant may maintain advertising on the common elements.

RCW 64.34.260. (Easement Rights.) Subject to the provisions of the declaration, the declarant has an easement to facilitate its exercise of or performing its obligations related to special declaration rights.

RCW 64.34.264. (Amendment of Declaration.) The declaration of a non-residential condominium may specify less than a two-thirds vote to amend the declaration. Any declaration may require a larger majority.

RCW 64.34.268. (Termination of Condominium.) The declaration may specify a majority larger than 80 percent to terminate and, in a non-residential condominium, a smaller majority. The declarant may require that the units be sold following termination even though none of them have horizontal boundaries.

RCW 64.34.276. (Master Associations.) The declaration may provide for some of the powers of the Board of Directors to be exercised by a master association.

RCW 64.34.304. (Powers of Unit Owners' Association.) The declaration may limit the right of the association to exercise any of the listed powers, except in a manner which discriminates in favor of a declarant. The declaration may authorize the association to assign its rights to future income.

RCW 64.34.308. (Board of Directors and Officers.) Except as limited by the declaration or bylaws, the Board of Directors may act for the association.

RCW 64.34.324. (Bylaws.) Subject to the provisions of the declaration, the bylaws may contain any matter in addition to that required by the Act.

RCW 64.34.328. (Upkeep of the Condominium.) Except to the extent otherwise provided in the declaration, the declarant must pay the expenses of and is entitled to the income derived from real property subject to development rights.

RCW 64.34.332. (Meetings.) The bylaws may provide for special meetings at the call of less than 20 percent of the Board of Directors or the unit owners.

RCW 64.34.336. (Quorums.) This section permits statutory quorum requirements to be increased by the bylaws.

RCW 64.34.340. (Voting--Proxies.) A majority in interest of the multiple owners of a single unit determine how that unit's vote is to be cast unless the declaration provides otherwise. The declaration may require that lessees vote on specified matters.

RCW 64.34.352. (Insurance.) The declaration may vary the provisions of this section in non-residential condominiums, and may require additional insurance in any condominium.

RCW 64.34.356. (Surplus Funds.) Unless otherwise provided in the declaration, surplus funds are paid or credited to unit owners in proportion to common expense liability.

RCW 64.34.360. (Assessments for Common Expenses.) To the extent otherwise provided in the declaration, common expenses for limited common elements must be assessed against the units to which they are assigned, common expenses benefiting fewer than all the units must be assessed only against the units benefited, insurance costs must be assessed in proportion to risk, and utility costs must be assessed in proportion to usage.

RCW 64.34.400. (Applicability.) Article 4 is not applicable to a condominium or the portion of any condominium which is not restricted to residential use.

RCW 64.34.445. (Implied Warranties of Quality.) Implied warranties of quality may be excluded or modified by agreement.

RCW 64.34.264 requires the consent of the holders of 90% of the allocated votes to make certain amendments to the declaration and bylaws. If a declarant were permitted to use powers of attorney to accomplish such changes, the substantial protection which RCW 64.34.264(4) provides to unit-owners would be illusory. RCW 64.34.030 prohibits the declarant from using powers of attorney for such purposes.

4. While freedom of contract is a principle of this Act, and variation by agreement is accordingly widely available, freedom of contract does not extend so far as to permit parties to disclaim obligations of good faith, see RCW 64.34.090, or to enter into contracts which are unconscionable when viewed as a whole, or which contain unconscionable terms. See RCW 64.34.080. This section derives from Section 1-102(3) of the Uniform Commercial Code.

RCW 64.34.040. SEPARATE TITLES AND TAXATION.

A condominium may be created, by the recordation of a declaration and survey map and plans, long before the first unit is conveyed. This happens frequently with existing rental apartment projects which are converted into condominiums. Subsection (4) spares the local taxing authorities from having to assess each unit separately until such time as the declarant begins conveying units, although separate assessment from the date the condominium is created may be permitted under other law. When separate tax assessments become mandatory under this section, the assessment for each unit must include the value of that unit's common element interest, and no separate tax bill on the common elements is to be rendered to the association or the unit owners collectively.

RCW 64.34.050. APPLICABILITY OF LOCAL ORDINANCES, REGULATIONS, AND BUILDING CODES.

1. The first sentence of this section prohibits discrimination against condominiums by local law-making authorities. Thus, this section makes it unlawful to impose a local law, ordinance or regulation on a condominium if it would not be applied if all of the property constituting the condominium were owned by a single owner. For example, in the case of a high-rise apartment building, if a local requirement imposing a minimum number of parking spaces per apartment would not prevent a rental apartment building from being built, this Act would override any requirement that might impose a higher number of spaces per apartment merely by virtue of the same building being owned as a condominium.

2. The second sentence makes clear that, except for the prohibition on discrimination against condominiums, the Act has no effect on real property use laws. For example, a particular piece of real property submitted to the condominium form of ownership might be of such size that all of the real property is required to support a proposed density of units or to satisfy minimum setback requirements. Under this Act, part of the submitted real property might be subject to a development right entitling the declarant to withdraw it from the condominium, but the mere reservation of this right would not constitute a subdivision of the parcel into separate ownership. If a declarant or foreclosing lender at a later time sought to exercise the option to withdraw the real property, however, withdrawal would constitute a subdivision and would be illegal if the effect of withdrawal would be to violate setback requirements, or to exceed the density of units permitted on the remaining parcel.

3. This section does not prohibit local condominium conversion ordinances to the extent they are permitted by RCW 64.34.440(6).

RCW 64.34.060. CONDEMNATION.

1. The provisions of this statute are not intended to supplant the usual rules of condemnation but merely to supplement them to address the unique problems which condemnation raises in the context of a condominium.

2. When a unit is taken or partially taken by condemnation, this section provides for a recalculation of the allocated interests of all units.

EXAMPLE 1:

Suppose that all allocated interests in a 9-unit condominium were originally allocated to the units on the basis of size. If eight of the units are equal in size and one is twice as large as the others, the allocated interests would be 20% for the largest unit and 10% for each of the other eight units.

Suppose that one of the smaller units is taken out of the condominium by a condemning authority. Subsection (1) provides that the allocated interests would automatically shift, at the time of the taking, so that the larger unit would have 22 2/9% while each of the small units would have 11 1/9%.

EXAMPLE 2:

Suppose, in Example 1, that the condemnation only reduced the size of one of the smaller units by 50%, leaving the remaining half of the unit usable. Subsection (2) provides that the allocated interests would automatically shift to 5 5/19% for the partially taken unit, 21 1/19% for the largest unit, and 10 10/19% for each of the other units. Note that the fact that the partially taken unit was reduced to half its former size does not mean that its allocated interests are only half as large as before the taking. Rather, that unit participates in the reallocation in proportion to its reduced size. That is why the partially taken unit's reallocated interests are 5 5/19% rather than 5%.

3. An important issue raised by this section is whether or not a governmental body acquiring a unit by condemnation has a right to also take that unit's allocated interests and thereby assume membership in the association by virtue of its power of condemnation. While there is no question that a governmental body may acquire any real property by condemnation, there is no Washington case law on the question of whether or not the governmental body may take a condominium unit as a part of the condominium or must take the unit and have the unit excluded from the condominium.

Subsection (1) merely requires that the taking body compensate the unit owner for all of its unit and its interest in the common elements, whether or not the common element interest is acquired. The Act also requires that the allocated interests are automatically reallocated upon taking to the remaining units unless the decree provides otherwise. Whether or not the decree may constitutionally provide otherwise in the case of a particular taking (for example, by allocating the common element interest, votes, and common expense liability to the government) is an unanswered question in Washington.

4. In the circumstances of a taking of part of a unit, it is important to have some objective test by which to measure the portion of allocated interest to be reallocated. Subsection (2) sets forth a formula based on relative size, but permits the declaration to vary that formula to some other more appropriate formula in a particular circumstance. This right to vary the formula in the declaration is important, since it is clear that the formula set forth in the statute may in some instances result in gross inequities.

EXAMPLE 1:

Suppose, in a commercial condominium consisting of four units, each unit consists of a factory and parking lot, and that the declaration provides that each unit's common expense liability, including utilities, is equal. Suppose further that the area of the factory building and parking lot in unit No. 1 are equal, and that 1/2 the parking lot is taken by condemnation, leaving the factory and 1/2 the lot intact. Under the formula set out in the statute, unit No. 1's common expense liability would be reduced even though its utilities might not be reduced at all, thus resulting in a windfall for the unit owner.

Suppose that a condominium contains ten units, each of which is allocated at 1/10 undivided interest in the common elements. Suppose further that a taking by condemnation reduces the size of one of the units by 50%. In such case, the common element interest of all the units will be reallocated so that the partially-taken unit has a 1/19 undivided interest in the common elements and the remaining 9 units each a 2/19 undivided interest in the common elements. Thus, the partially-taken unit has a common element interest equal to 1/2 of the common element interest allocated to each of the other units. Note that this is not equivalent to the partially-taken unit having a 5% undivided interest and the remaining 9 units each having a 10% undivided interest.

5. Even before the amendment formally acknowledging the reallocation of percentages required by this section is recorded, the reallocation is deemed to have occurred simultaneously with the taking. This rule is necessary to avoid the hiatus that otherwise could occur between the taking and reallocation of interest, votes, and liabilities.

RCW 64.34.070. SUPPLEMENTAL GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF LAW APPLICABLE.

This Act displaces existing law relating to condominiums and other law only as stated by specific sections and by reasonable implication therefrom. Moreover, unless specifically displaced by this statute, common law rights are retained. The listing given in this section is merely an illustration: no listing could be exhaustive.

RCW 64.34.080. UNCONSCIONABLE AGREEMENT OR TERM OF CONTRACT.

This section is similar to Section 2-302 of the Uniform Commercial Code. The rationale and comments provided in those sections are equally applicable to this section.

RCW 64.34.090. OBLIGATION OF GOOD FAITH.

This section sets forth a basic principle running throughout this Act: in condominium transactions, good faith is required in the performance and enforcement of all agreements and duties. Good faith, as used in this Act, means observance of two standards, "honesty in fact" and observance of reasonable standards of fair dealing. While the term is not defined, the term is derived from and used in the same manner as Sections 2-103(i)(b) and 7-404 of the Uniform Commercial Code.

RCW 64.34.200. CREATION OF CONDOMINIUM.

1. A condominium is created pursuant to this Act only by recording a declaration and survey map and plans. As with any instrument affecting real property, the declaration must be recorded in every county in which any portion of the condominium is located.

2. A condominium has not been lawfully created under this Act unless the requirements of this section have been complied with.

3. Mortgagees and other lienholders need not execute the declaration, and foreclosure of a mortgage or other lien will not, of itself, terminate the condominium. However, if that lien is prior to the declaration, the lienholder may exclude that real property from the condominium after foreclosure. See RCW 64.34.268(8) and (9). See also RCW 64.34.435(1) pertaining to the release of liens against a unit prior to the first conveyance of that unit.

4. RCW 64.34.200(2) requires that all units which are intended to be created by the recording of a declaration or amendment thereto be substantially completed in accordance with the survey map and plans required to be recorded by RCW 64.34.232. Because a condominium (and the units located therein) may only be created under RCW 64.34.200(1) by the recording of a declaration and related survey map and plans, RCW 64.34.200 prohibits the creation of "phantom" units; that is, units which may be described in the declaration but which are not then physically in existence. Because RCW 64.34._____ prohibits the conveyance of an interest in a unit until a declaration is recorded, RCW 64.34.200 and RCW 64.34._____ effectively prohibit the conveyance of "phantom" units.

5. RCW 64.34.200(2) does not require that all units ultimately intended to be constructed within a condominium be completed when the initial declaration is recorded, but only that the units which will be created by the declaration recording be completed. For example, if ten of twenty proposed units are completed, a declaration may be recorded to create ten completed units with declaration amendments later being recorded to create the remaining units as they are completed.

6. The plans pertaining to units and the buildings in which the units may be located, which plans are required under RCW 64.34.232 and must be recorded simultaneously with the declaration under RCW 64.34.200(1), primarily focus on the vertical and horizontal boundaries of units, and thus do not reflect the kind of construction detail which is required for the issuance of a building permit or which must be completed before the issuance of a final certificate of occupancy. Thus, a condominium and units located therein may be created by the recording of a declaration and survey map and plans prior to all of the units being completed to the point of qualifying for the issuance of a final certificate of occupancy.

7. In addition to requiring substantial completion of all horizontal and vertical boundaries of units, RCW 64.34.200(2) also requires substantial completion of the "structural components and mechanical systems of all buildings containing or comprising any units". The intent of the subsection (2) is that if any buildings are depicted on the survey map and plans which are required by RCW 64.34.232, and these buildings contain or comprise spaces which become units by virtue of recording the declaration, the structural components and mechanical systems of these buildings must be substantially complete before the declaration is recorded. This is required even though the survey maps and plans recorded pursuant to RCW 64.34.232 depict only the boundaries of the buildings and the units created in those buildings, and not the structural components or mechanical systems (which need not be shown). If the boundaries of units are not depicted, of course, then no units are created. If the declarant fails to comply with this section, title is not affected.

The concept of "structural components and mechanical systems" is one commonly understood in the construction field and this comment is not intended as a comprehensive list of those components. For example, however, the term "structural components" is generally understood to include those portions of a building necessary to keep any part of the building from collapsing, and to maintain the building in a weathertight condition. This would include the foundations, bearing walls and columns, exterior walls, roof, floors and similar components. It would not include such components as interior non-bearing partitions, surface finishes, interior doors, carpeting, and the like. Similarly, typical examples of "mechanical systems" include the plumbing, heating, air conditioning and other like systems. Whether or not "electrical systems" are included within the meaning of the term depends on local practice.

8. "Substantial completion" is a well understood term in the construction industry. For example, the American Institute of Architects Document A201, General Conditions of the Contract for Construction (1976 Ed.) at para. 8.1.3, states:

The Date of Substantial Completion of the Work . . . is the date certified by the Architect when construction is sufficiently complete, in accordance with the Contract Documents (that is, the owner-contractor agreement, the conditions of the contract, and the specifications and all addenda and modifications), so the Owner can occupy or utilize the Work . . . for the use for which it is intended.

This standard is also one often used by building officials in issuing certificates of occupancy. It does not suggest that the unit is "entirely completed" as that term is understood in the construction industry; lesser details, such as sticking doors, leaking windows, or some decorative items, might still remain, and the Act contemplates that they need not be completed prior to lawful conveyance.

9. RCW 64.34.200(2) requires that completion certificates be recorded as evidence of the fact that the required levels of construction have been met. Although the completion certificate for boundaries must be signed by a licensed surveyor, the completion certificate for structural components and mechanical systems is signed by the declarant. Once the certificates have been recorded, good title to the units may be conveyed in reliance on the record. It is possible, of course, that the declarant may have failed to completed the required levels of construction and the certificates filed may be false. Such acts might create a cause of action in the purchaser, but would not affect the validity of the purchaser's title to the condominium.

10. The requirement of "substantial completion" does not mean that the declarant must complete all buildings in which all possible units would be located before creating the condominium. If only some of the buildings in which units which may ultimately be located have been "structurally" completed, the declarant may create a condominium in which he reserves particular development rights. In such a project, only the completed units might be treated as units from the outset, and the development rights would be reserved to create additional units, either by adding additional real estate and units to the condominium, by creating new units on common elements, or by subdividing units previously created. The optional units may never be completed or added to the condominium; however, this will not affect the integrity of the condominium as originally created.

11. RCW 64.34.____ requires that, before any individual unit may be conveyed, the unit must be "substantially completed." A prospective unit purchaser, by agreement with the declarant, may complete much of the construction work, either directly or by the purchaser's contractor, so as to reduce the unit purchase price or to obtain more elaborate custom finish work. However, the fact that units may be created that are not completed does not alter a unit seller's obligation to comply with the requirements of RCW 64.34.443 (pertaining to express warranties) or RCW 64.34.445 (pertaining to implied warranties). Also, developers and lenders must continue to be sensitive to the completion requirements of the secondary mortgage market, particularly those of the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (FHLMC).

12. The requirement of completion would be irrelevant in some types of condominiums comprised of units without physical boundaries, such as campsite condominiums or some subdivision condominiums where the units might consist of unimproved lots, and the airspace above them, within which each purchaser would be free to construct or not construct a residence. Any residence actually constructed would ordinarily become a part of the "unit" by the doctrine of fixtures, but nothing in this Act would require any residence to be built before the lots could be treated as units.

RCW 64.34.204. UNIT BOUNDARIES.

1. It is important for title purposes and other reasons to have a clear guide as to precisely which parts of a condominium constitute the units and which parts constitute the common elements. This section fills the gap left when the declaration merely defines unit boundaries in terms of floors, ceilings, and perimetric walls.

The provisions of this section may be varied to the extent that the declarant wishes to modify the details for a particular condominium.

For example, in a townhouse project structured as a condominium, it may be desirable that the boundaries of the unit constitute the exterior surfaces of the roof and exterior walls, with the centerline of the party walls constituting the perimetric boundaries of the units in that plane, and the undersurface of the bottom slab dividing the unit itself from the underlying land. Alternatively, the boundaries of the units at the party walls might be extended to include actual division of underlying land itself. In the second alternative, it would not be appropriate for walls, floors and ceilings to be designated as boundaries, and the declaration would describe the boundaries in the above manner. The differentiations made clear here, in conjunction with the provisions of RCW 64.34.328, will assist in minimizing disputes which have historically arisen in association administration with respect to liability for repair of such things as pipes, porches and other components of a building which unit owners may expect the association to pay for and which the association may wish to have repaired by unit owners. Problems which may arise as a result of negligence in the use of components--such as pipes--are resolved by RCW 64.34.328, which imposes liability on the unit owner who causes damage to common elements, or under the broader provisions of RCW 64.34.360(5), which permits the association to assess common expenses "caused by the misconduct of any unit owner" exclusively against that owner. This would include, of course, not only damages to common elements, but fines or unusual service fees, such as clean-up costs, incurred as a result of the unit owner's misuse of common elements.

2. The differentiation between components constituting common elements and components which are part of the units is particularly important in light of RCW 64.34.324(1), which (subject to the exceptions therein mentioned) makes the association responsible for upkeep of common elements and each unit owner individually responsible for upkeep of his unit.

3. The differentiation between unit components and common element components may also be important for insurance purposes under this Act. See generally RCW 64.34.352 and RCW 64.34.360(3)(c) pertaining to insurance.

RCW 64.34.208. CONSTRUCTION AND VALIDITY OF DECLARATION AND BYLAWS.

1. Subsection (2) does not totally invalidate the rule against perpetuities as applied to condominiums. The language does provide that the rule against perpetuities is ineffective as to documents which would govern the condominium during the entire life of the project, regardless of how long that should be. With respect to deeds or devises of units, however, the policies underlying the rule against perpetuities continue to have validity and remain applicable under this Act.

2. In considering the effect of failures to comply with this Act on title matters, subsection (4) refers only to defects in the declaration and the survey map and plans, because the declaration and survey map and plans are the instruments which create and define the units and common elements. No reference is made to other instruments, such as bylaws, because these instruments have no impact on title, whether or not recorded. However, in all cases of violations of the Act, a failure of the bylaws--or any other instrument--to comply with the Act, would entitle any affected persons to appropriate relief under RCW 64.34.455.

3. No special prohibition against racial or other forms of discrimination is included in this Act because the provisions of generally applicable federal and state law apply as much to condominiums as to other forms of real property.

4. Some examples may help to clarify what sorts of defects in the declaration are to be regarded as "insignificant" within the meaning of the first sentence of subsection (4).

Suppose the declaration allocates common element interests to all the units, but fails to indicate the formula for the allocation as required by RCW 64.34.224. This would be a significant defect if the assigned interests were unequal, but if all units were assigned identical interests it would be possible to infer that the basis of allocation was equality--and the failure of the declaration to say so would be an insignificant defect. Were this to happen in a condominium where the right to add new units is reserved, however, it should be noted that a subsequent amendment to the declaration adding new units could not use any formula other than equality for reallocating the common element interests unless a different formula were specified pursuant to RCW 64.34.224(2).

Other examples of insignificant defects that might occur include failure of the declaration to include the word "condominium" in the name of the project, as required by RCW 64.34.216(1), or failure of the survey map and plans to comply satisfactorily with the requirement of RCW 64.34.232(1) that they be "clear and legible," so long as they can at least be deciphered by persons with proper expertise. Failure to organize the unit owners' association at the time specified in RCW 64.34.300 would not be a defect in the declaration at all, and would not affect the validity or marketability of titles in the condominium. It would, however, be a violation of this Act, and create a claim for relief under RCW 64.34.455.

5. Each state has case or statutory law dealing with marketability of titles, and the question of whether significant failures of the declaration to comply with the Act affect marketability of title should be determined by that law and not by this Act.

RCW 64.34.212. DESCRIPTION OF UNITS.

1. The intent of this section is that no description of a unit in a deed, lease, deed of trust, mortgage, or any other instrument or document shall be subject to challenge for failure to meet any common law or other requirements so long as the requirements of this section are satisfied, and so long as the declaration, together with the survey map and plans which are recorded with the declaration, provides a legally sufficient description.

2. This section makes clear that an instrument which does meet those requirements includes all interest appurtenant to the unit. As a result, it will not be necessary under this Act to continue the practice required by RCW 64.32.090(4) and (5) of describing the common element interests, or limited common elements, that are appurtenant to a unit in the instrument conveying title to that unit.

RCW 64.34.216. CONTENTS OF DECLARATION.

1. This Act seeks functionally to distinguish between the declaration and the public offering statement. It requires the declaration to contain only those matters which affect the legal structure or title to the condominium. This includes the reserved powers of the declarant to exercise development rights within the condominium. A list of these rights also is contained in the public offering statement. See RCW 64.34.410.

2. This section requires a statement of the name of the association for the condominium as well as the name of the condominium.

3. Subsection (1)(c) requires the declarant to state the number of units which the declarant has created and reserves the right to create. Unlike many current condominium statutes, this Act imposes no time limit, measured by an absolute number of years, within which the declarant must relinquish control of the association. Instead, declarant control ends when 75% of the maximum number of units which may be created by the declarant have been sold, or at the end of a 2-year period during which development or sales are not proceeding. See RCW 64.34.308(4). The flexibility afforded by this section may be important to a declarant when responding to unanticipated future changes in the market.

In theory, a declarant might overstate the maximum number of units in an attempt to artificially extend the period of declarant control, since the time might never come when a declarant has sold 75% of that number of units. As a practical matter, however, such a practice would not likely achieve long-term control.

However, there are practical constraints on the declarant's decision in this matter. Substantial exaggeration of the future density of the development might tend to impede sales of units in that project. Moreover, such a statement might also produce negative governmental reaction to proposals which might require local approval. Even if the declarant did overstate the number of units to retain control, however, other limitations imposed by RCW 64.34.308(4) will require turnover at an appropriate time.

4. Subsection (1)(d) requires that the boundaries of each unit created by the declaration be identified "if and to the extent they are different from the boundaries stated in RCW 64.34.204(1)". The words "created by the declaration" emphasize that in an expandable project, new units may be created in the future by amendments to the declaration. Until those new units are actually added to the project by amending the declaration, however, they are not units within the meaning of that defined term, and they need not be described.

5. RCW 64.34.204 makes it possible in many projects to satisfy subsection (1)(d) of this section by merely providing the identifying number of the units and stating that each unit is bounded by its ceiling, floor, and walls. The survey map and plans will show where those ceilings, floors, and perimeter walls are located, and RCW 64.34.204 provides all other details, except to the extent the declaration may make additional or contradictory specifications because of the nature of the project.

6. Subsection (1)(h) makes clear that the limited common elements described in RCW 64.34.204(2) and (4) need not be described in the declaration. These limited common elements are typically porches, balconies, patios, or other amenities which may be included in a project. Such improvements are treated by the Act as limited common elements, rather than either common elements or parts of units, in order to minimize the attention which the documents need to give them, and to secure the result that would be desired in the usual case. Thus, if these improvements remain limited common elements, and no special provisions concerning them are included in the declaration, they may be used only by the units to which they are physically attached; maintenance of those improvements must be paid for by the association; and such improvements need not be specially referred to in the declaration. Porches, balconies, patios, parking spaces and storage areas must be shown on the survey map and plans (see RCW 64.34.232(2)(j)), but other limited common elements described in RCW 64.34.204(2) and (4) need not be shown.

7. Subsection (1)(i) contemplates that the common elements in the project may be allocated as limited common elements at some future time, either by the declarant or the association. For example, a swimming pool might serve an entire project during early phases of development. At the outset, that pool might be a common element which all the unit owners may use. At a later time, with more units and additional pools built in subsequent phases, either the declarant or the association might determine that the first pool should become a limited common element reserved for the use only of units in the first phase, while the other pools should be reserved exclusively for units in the subsequent phases. Such a potential allocation should be described in the declaration pursuant to this section.

8. Subsection (1)(j) requires the declaration to describe all development rights and other special declarant rights which the declarant reserves. The declaration must describe the real property to which each right applies, and state the time limit within which each of those rights must be exercised. The Act imposes no maximum time limit for the exercise of those rights, and the particular language of a declaration will vary from project to project depending on the requirements of each project. This Act contemplates that those rights may be exercised after the period of declarant control terminates.

9. The "conditions or limitations" referred to in RCW 64.34.216(1) are only those expressly set forth in the declaration.

10. Subsection (1)(p) is a cross-reference to other sections of the Act which require the declaration to contain particular matters. Some of these sections, such as RCW 64.34.224 on the allocations of allocated interests or RCW 64.34.232 on survey map and plans, will affect all projects. Others, such as RCW 64.34.220 on leasehold condominiums, will apply only to particular kinds of projects.

11. Subsection (3) contemplates that, in addition to the content required by subsection (1), other matters may also be included in the declaration if the declarant or lender feel they are appropriate to the particular project. In particular, the draftsman should carefully consider any desired provisions which would vary any of the many sections of the Act where variation is permitted, including such matters as expanding or restricting the association's powers. A list of sections which may be varied appears in the comment to RCW 64.34.030.

RCW 64.34.220. LEASEHOLD CONDOMINIUMS.

1. Subsection (1) requires that the lessor of any lease, which upon termination will terminate the condominium or reduce its size, must sign the declaration. This requirement insures that the lessor has consented to use of his land as a condominium.

2. This section sets out requirements concerning leasehold condominiums which are not typically contained in the statutes of most states. In particular, it requires that the declaration describe the rights of the unit owners, or state that they have no rights concerning a variety of significant matters. The section also contains a number of other consumer protection provisions. However, in contrast to the result under some states' laws, unit owners have no statutory right to renewal of a lease upon termination.

3. The most significant matter of consumer protection in this section is subsection (3), which provides that unit owners who pay their share of the rent of the underlying lease may not be deprived of their enjoyment of the leasehold premises, if the Declaration fails to provide for the collection by the association of the proportionate rents paid on the lease by unit owners.

4. Subsection (5) considers the problems created when termination of a lease reduces the size of a condominium. In the event that some units are thereby withdrawn from the condominium, reallocation of the allocated interests would be required; the section describes how that reallocation would occur.

RCW 64.34.224. ALLOCATION OF COMMON ELEMENT INTERESTS, VOTES, AND COMMON EXPENSE LIABILITIES.

1. RCW 64.32 requires a single common basis related to the "value" of the units to be used in the allocation of common element interests, votes in the association, and common expense liabilities. This Act departs radically from such requirements by permitting each of these allocations to be made on different bases, and by permitting allocations which are unrelated to value.

Thus, all three allocations might be made equally among all units, or in proportion to the relative size of each unit, or on the basis of any other formula the declarant may select, regardless of the values of those units. Moreover, "size" might be used, for example, in allocating common expenses and common element interests, while equality is used in allocating votes in the association. This section does not require that the formulas used by the declarant be justified, but it does require that the formulas be explained. The sole restriction on the formulas to be used in these allocations is that they not discriminate in favor of the units owned by the declarant or an affiliate of the declarant. Otherwise, each of the separate allocations may be made on any basis which the declarant chooses, and none of the allocations need be tied to any other allocation.

2. While the flexibility permitted in allocations is broader than that permitted by RCW 64.32, it is likely that the traditional bases for allocation will continue to be used, and that the allocations for all allocated interests will often be based on the same formulas. Most commonly, those bases include size, equality, or value of units. Each of these is discussed below.

3. If size is chosen as a basis of allocation, the declarant must choose between reliance on area or volume, and the choice must be indicated in the declaration. The declarant might further refine the formula by, for example, excluding unheated areas from the calculation or by partially discounting such areas by means of a ratio. Again, the declarant must indicate the choices he has made and explain the formulas he has chosen.

4. RCW 64.32 requires that "value" be used as the basis of all allocations. Under this Act a declarant is free to select such a basis if he wishes to do so. For example, he might designate the "par value" of each unit as a stated number of dollars or points. However, the formula used to develop the par values of the various units would have to be explained in the declaration. For example, the declaration for a high-rise condominium might disclose that the par value of each unit is based on the relative area of each unit on the lower floors, but increases by specified percentages at designated higher levels. The formula for determining area in this example could be further refined in the manner suggested in Comment 2, above, and any other factors (such as the direction in which a unit faces) could also be given weight so long as the weight given to each factor is explained in the declaration.

5. The purpose of subsection (2) is to afford some advance disclosure to purchasers of units in the first phase of a flexible condominium of how common element interests, votes and common expense liabilities will be reallocated if additional units are added.

6. Subsection (5) means what it says when it states that a lien or encumbrance on a common element interest without the unit to which that common element interest is allocated is void. Thus, consider the case of a flexible condominium in which there are 50 units in the first phase, each of which initially has a 2 percent undivided interest in the common elements. The declarant borrows money by mortgaging additional real property. When the declarant expands the condominium by adding phase 2 containing an additional 50 units, it reallocates the common element interests in the manner described in his original declaration, to give each of the 100 units a 1 percent undivided interest in the common elements in both phases of the condominium. At this point, the construction lender cannot have a lien on the undivided interest of phase 1 owners in the common elements of phase

2 because of the wording of the statute. Thus, the most that the construction lender can have is a lien on the phase 2 units together with their common element interests. The mortgage documents may be written to reflect the fact that upon the addition of phase 2 of the condominium, the lien on the additional real property will be converted into a lien on the phase 2 units and on the common element interest as they pertain to those units in both phase 1 and phase 2; however, see Comment to RCW 64.34.236.

Unless the lender also requires phase 2 to be designated as withdrawable real property, the phase 2 portion may not be foreclosed upon other than as condominium units and the construction lender may not dispose of phase 2 other than as units which are a part of the condominium. In the event that phase 2 is designated as withdrawable land, then the construction lender may force withdrawal of phase 2 and dispose of it as it wishes, subject to the provisions of the declaration. If one unit in phase 2, however, has been sold to anyone other than the declarant, then phase 2 ceases to be withdrawable land by operation of RCW 64.34.236(4)(b).

7. If a unit owned only by the declarant—as opposed to the same unit if owned by another person—may be subdivided into 2 or more units but cannot be converted in whole or in part into common elements, it is still a unit that may be subdivided or converted into 2 or more units or common elements, within the meaning of the definition of development rights, and is not governed by RCW 64.34.248 (Subdivision of Units).

8. This section recognizes that there may be certain instances in which class voting in the association would be desirable. For example, in a mixed-use condominium consisting of both residential and commercial units, there may be certain kinds of issues upon which the residential or commercial unit owners should have a special voice. To prevent abuse of class voting by the declarant, subsection (3) permits class voting only with respect to specified issues directly affecting the designated class and only insofar as necessary to protect valid interests of the designated class.

EXAMPLE:

Owners of town house units, in a single project consisting of both town house and high-rise buildings, might properly constitute a separate class for purposes of voting on expenditures affecting just the town house units, but they might not be permitted to vote by class on rules for the use of facilities used by all the units.

The subsection further provides that the declarant may not use the class voting device for the purpose of evading any limitation imposed on declarants by this Act (e.g., to maintain declarant control beyond the period permitted by RCW 64.34.308).

9. The last clause of subsection (3) prohibits a practice common in the planned community or other non-condominium multi-ownership projects, where units owned by declarant constitute a separate class of units for voting and other purposes. Upon transfer of title, those units lose these more favorable voting rights. This section makes clear that the votes and other attributes of ownership of a unit may not change by virtue of the identity of the owner. In those circumstances which such classes were legitimately intended to address, principally control of the association, the Act provides other, more balanced devices for declarant control. See RCW 64.34.308(4).

RCW 64.34.228. LIMITED COMMON ELEMENTS.

1. Like all other common elements, limited common elements are owned in common by all unit owners. The use of a limited common element, however, is reserved to less than all of the unit owners. Unless the declaration provides otherwise, the association is responsible for the upkeep of a limited common element and the cost of such upkeep is assessed against all the units. See RCW 64.34.328(1) and RCW 64.34.260(3)(a). This might include the costs of repainting all shutters, or balconies, for example, which are limited common elements pursuant to RCW 64.34.204(4). Accordingly, there may be occasions where, to meet the expectations of owners and to have costs borne directly by those who benefit from those amenities, the declaration might provide that the costs will be borne, not by all unit owners as part of their common expense assessments, but only by the owners to which the limited common elements are assigned.

2. Even common elements which are not "limited" within the meaning of this Act may nevertheless be restricted by the unit owners' association pursuant to the powers set forth in RCW 64.34.304(i) and (j), unless that power is limited in the declaration. For example, the association might assign reserved parking spaces to designated unit owners, or even to persons who are not unit owners. Such a parking space would differ from a limited common element in that its use would be merely a personal right of the person to whom it is assigned and this section would not have to be complied with to allocate it or to reallocate it.

3. Because a mortgage or deed of trust may restrict the borrower's right to transfer the use of a limited common element without the lender's consent, the terms of the encumbrance should be examined to determine whether the lender's consent or release is needed to transfer that right of use to another person.

RCW 64.34.232. SURVEY MAP AND PLANS.

1. The terms "survey map" or "plan" have been given a variety of meanings by custom and usage in the various jurisdictions. Under this Act, it is important to recognize that a "survey map" means a "survey" of the entire real property constituting a project at the time the initial survey map is recorded, including not only the land within the condominium initially created but also any land which may later be added to the condominium.

As to "plan," the Act does not use that term to mean the actual building plans used for construction of the project. Instead, the required content of the plans in this act is described in subsection (4). Essentially, the plans constitute a boundary survey of each unit. Typically, the walls will be the vertical ("up and down" or "perimetric") boundaries, and the floors and ceilings will be the horizontal boundaries. Importantly, these boundaries need not be physically measured, but may instead be projected from the survey map or from actual building construction plans. Thus, the plans under this Act are not conceived to be "as built" plans.

2. Subsection (3) permits, but does not require, the survey map to show the location of contemplated improvements. Since construction of contemplated improvements by a declarant involves the exercise of development rights, a declarant may not create any improvement within real property where no development rights have been reserved, unless the survey map actually show that proposed improvement or unless the association (which the declarant may control) makes the improvement pursuant to RCW 64.34.304(1)(q). Should the association attempt that improvement, in the face of unit owner's objections, it may involve risk of challenge. Within land subject to development rights, of course, construction may take place in accordance with the reserved rights, even if no contemplated improvements are shown on the survey map. As to the declarant's obligation to complete an improvement that is shown, see RCW 64.34.465(1).

3. As noted in the Comments to RCW 64.34.200, a condominium unit may consist of unenclosed ground and/or airspace, with no "building" involved. If this were true of all units in a particular condominium, the provisions of RCW 64.34.232 relating to plans (but not survey maps) would be inapplicable.

4. Subsection (2)(c) requires that the boundaries of real property which is subject to development rights must be identified. Since different portions of the real property may be subject to differing development rights—for example, only a portion of the total real property may be added as well as withdrawn from the project—the plan must identify the rights applicable to each portion of that real property. The same reasoning applies to the location and dimensions of easements affecting the condominium and any leasehold real property in subsection (2)(e).

5. Subsection (6) describes the amendments to the survey map and plans which must be made as development rights are exercised. This section requires that the survey map and plans be amended at each stage of development to reflect actual progress to date.

6. The terms "horizontal" and "vertical" are now commonly understood in condominium parlance to refer, respectively, to "upper and lower" and "lateral or perimetric." Thus, RCW 64.34.204 contemplates that the perimetric walls may be designated as the "vertical" boundaries of a unit and the floor and ceiling as its "horizontal" boundaries. That is the sense in which the words "horizontal" and "vertical" are to be understood in this section and throughout this Act.

7. RCW 64.34.460 and RCW 64.34.465 reveal the effect of labeling an improvement "MUST BE BUILT" or "NEED NOT BE BUILT," as required by subsection (3).

RCW 64.34.236. EXERCISE OF DEVELOPMENT RIGHTS.

1. This section generally describes the method by which any development right may be exercised. Importantly, while new development rights may be reserved within real property which is added to the condominium, the original time limits on the exercise of these rights which the declarant must include in the original declaration may not be extended. Thus, the development process may continue only within the self-determined constraints originally described by the declarant.

2. The reservation and exercise of development rights is and must be closely coordinated with financing for the project. As a result, lender review and control of that process is common, and the financing documents often reflect the proposed development process.

A typical construction loan mortgage on a portion of a phased condominium might provide that as soon as new units are built on new land to be added (or if the portion is also designated withdrawable land, as soon thereafter as anyone other than the declarant becomes the unit owner of a unit in the withdrawable land) the mortgage on that land converts into a mortgage on all of the units located within that portion, together with their respective common element interests. The common element interest of those units will, of course, extend to the common elements in other sections of the condominium. However, failure of a construction loan mortgage to so provide is inconsequential, because conveyance of the units in that phase to the lender or to a purchaser at a foreclosure sale would automatically transfer all of those units' common element interests, as a result of the requirements of RCW 64.34.224(5) and RCW 64.34.236(1).

3. A lender who holds a mortgage lien on one portion of a condominium may not cause that portion to be withdrawn from the condominium unless the portion constitutes withdrawable real property in which there is no unit owner other than the declarant. Even then, the amendment effectuating the withdrawal must be executed by the declarant. Consequently, unless the lender wishes to become a declarant subsequent to foreclosure or a deed in lieu of foreclosure in order to execute the amendment, or forecloses in order to require an amendment from the association under RCW 64.34.268(8), a lender might require that the signed amendment be delivered with the deed in lieu of foreclosure.

4. As indicated in the Comments to RCW 64.34.050, the withdrawal of real property from a condominium may constitute a subdivision of land under the applicable subdivision ordinance. Under most subdivision ordinances, the owner of the real property is regarded as the "subdivider." In the event of a withdrawal under this section, however, the declarant is in fact the subdivider because of his unique interest in and control over the real property, even though the real property, for title purposes, is a common element until withdrawn. Accordingly, the declarant would bear the cost of compliance with any subdivision ordinance required to withdraw a part of the real property from the condominium.

5. Subsection (3) deals with special problems surrounding allocated interests when the declarant subdivides or converts units which were originally created in the declaration into additional units, common elements or both. This development right permits the declarant to defer a final decision as to the size of certain units by permitting the subdivision of larger interior spaces into smaller units. The declarant may thus "build to suit" for purchasers' needs or to meet changing market demand. The concept is called "convertible space" in several existing state statutes.

For example, a declarant of a 5-story office building condominium may have purchasers committed at the time of the filing of the condominium declaration but a lack of purchasers for the upper 2 floors. In such a circumstance, the declarant could designate the upper 2 floors as a unit, reserving to himself the right to subdivide or convert that unit into additional units, common elements or a combination of units and common elements as needed to suit the requirements of ultimate purchasers.

If, at a later time, a purchaser wishes to purchase half of one floor as a unit, the declarant could exercise the development right to subdivide his 2-floor unit into 2 or more units. He may also wish to reserve a portion of the divided floor as a corridor which will constitute common elements. In that case, he would proceed pursuant to this subsection to reallocate the allocated interests among the units in the manner described in this section.

Alternatively, the declarant may ultimately decide that the entire 2 floors should be turned over to the unit owners' association not as a unit but as common elements to be used perhaps as a cafeteria serving the balance of the building, or for retail space to be rented by the association. In that case, should he choose to make the entire 2 floors common elements, the provisions of subsection (3)(a) would apply.

RCW 64.34.240. ALTERATIONS OF UNITS.

1. This section deals with permissible alterations of the interior of a unit, and impermissible alterations of the exterior of a unit and the common elements, in ways which reflect common practice. The stated rules, of course, may be varied by the declaration where desired.

2. Subsection (3) deals in a unique manner with the problem of creating access between adjoining units owned by the same person. The subsection provides a specific rule which would permit a door, stairwell, or removal of a partition wall between those units, so long as structural integrity is not impaired. That alteration would not be an alteration of boundaries, but would be an exception to the basic rule stated in subsection (2).

3. In considering permissible alteration of the interior of a unit, an example may be useful. A nail driven by a unit owner to hang a picture might enter a portion of the wall designated as part of the common elements, but this section would not be violated because structural integrity would not be adversely affected. More over, no trespass would be committed because each unit owner, as a part owner of the common elements, has a right to utilize them subject only to such restrictions as may be created by the Act, the declaration, bylaws, and the unit owners' association pursuant to RCW 64.34.304.

4. Removal of a partition or the creation of an aperture between adjoining units would permit the units to be used as one, but they would not become one unit. They would continue to be separate units within the meaning of RCW 64.34.020(31) and would continue to be treated separately for the purposes of this Act.

5. In addition to the restrictions placed on unit owners by this section, the declaration or bylaws may restrict a unit owner from altering the interior appearance of his unit. Although this might be an undue restriction if imposed upon the primary residence of a unit owner, it may be appropriate in the case of timeshare or other condominiums.

RCW 64.34.244. RELOCATION OF BOUNDARIES BETWEEN ADJOINING UNITS.

This section contemplates that, upon relocation of the unit boundaries, no reallocation of allocated interest will occur if none is specified in the application. If a reallocation is specified but the board of directors deems it unreasonable, then the applicants have the choice of resubmitting the application with a reallocation more acceptable to the board, or going to court to challenge the board's finding as unreasonable.

RCW 64.34.248. SUBDIVISION OF UNITS.

1. This section provides for subdivision of units by unit owners, thereby creating more and smaller units than were originally created. The underlying policy of this section is that the original development plan of the project must be followed, and the expectations of unit owners realized. Accordingly, unless subdivision of the units is expressly permitted by the original declaration, a unit may not be subdivided into 2 or more units unless the declaration is amended to permit it. A subdivision itself is accomplished by an amendment to the declaration.

2. At the same time, situations will often occur where future subdivision is appropriate, and this section permits the declaration to provide for it.

An analogous concept in the context of development rights is subdivision of units by a declarant. The development right is described in RCW 64.34.236.

RCW 64.34.252. MONUMENTS AS BOUNDARIES.

This section recognizes the fact that the actual physical boundaries of a unit may differ somewhat from what is shown on the survey map and plans. This section makes the title lines move to follow movement of the physical boundaries caused by such discrepancies or subsequent settling or shifting.

RCW 64.34.256. USE BY DECLARANT.

1. This section prescribes the circumstances under which portions of the condominium—either units or common elements—may be used for sales offices, management offices, or models. The basic requirement is that the declarant must describe its rights to maintain such offices in the declaration. There are no limitations on that right, so that either units owned by the declarant or other persons, or the common elements themselves, may be used for that purpose. Typical common element uses might include a sales booth in the lobby of the building, or a trailer or temporary building located outside the buildings on the grounds of the property.

2. In addition, this section contains a permissive provision permitting advertising on the common elements. The declarant may choose to limit its rights in terms of the size, location, or other matters affecting the advertising. The Act, however, imposes no limitation. At the same time, the last sentence of the section recognizes that state or local zoning or other laws may limit advertising, both in terms of size and content of the advertising, or the use of the units or common elements for such purposes. This section makes it clear that local law would apply in those cases, but subject to RCW 64.34.050 limitations.

RCW 64.34.260. EASEMENT RIGHTS.

1. This section grants to declarant an easement across the common elements, subject to any self-imposed restrictions on that easement contained in the declaration. At the same time, the easement is not an easement for all purposes and under all circumstances, but only a grant of such rights as may be reasonably necessary for the purpose of exercising the declarant's rights. Thus, for example, if other access were equally available to the land where new units are being created, which did not require the declarant's construction equipment to pass and repass over the common elements in a manner which significantly inconvenienced the unit owners, a court might apply the "reasonably necessary" test contained in this section to consider limitations on the declarant's easement. The rights granted by this section may be enlarged by a specific reservation in the declaration.

2. The declarant is also required to repair and restore any portion of the condominium used for the easement granted under this section. See RCW 64.34.465(2).

RCW 64.34.264. AMENDMENT OF DECLARATION.

1. This section recognizes that the declaration, as the perpetual governing instrument for the condominium, may be amended by various parties at various times in the life of the project. The basic rule, stated in subsection (1), is that the declaration, including the survey map and plans, may only be amended by vote of 67% of the unit owners. The section permits a larger percentage to be required by the declaration, and also recognizes that, in an entirely non-residential condominium, a smaller percentage might be appropriate.

In addition to that basic rule, subsection (1) lists those other instances where the declaration may be amended by the declarant alone without association approval, or by the association acting through its board of directors.

2. RCW 64.34.030 does not permit the declarant to use any device, such as powers of attorney executed by purchasers at closings, to circumvent requirement in RCW 64.34.264(4) of 90% consent. This section does not supplant any requirements of common law or of other statutes with respect to conveyancing if title to real property is to be affected.

3. Subsection (5) describes the mechanics by which amendments recorded by the association are filed, and resolves a number of matters often neglected by bylaws.

4. Subsection (6) prohibits elimination or modifying a special declarant right without the consent of the declarant and any mortgagee of record having a security interest in the right.

RCW 64.34.268. TERMINATION OF CONDOMINIUM.

1. While few condominiums have yet been terminated under present state law, a number of problems are certain to arise upon termination which have not been adequately addressed by RCW 64.32. These include such matters as the percentage of unit owners which should be required for termination; the time frame within which written consents from all unit owners must be secured; the manner in which common elements and units should be disposed of following termination, both in the case of sale and non-sale of all of the real property; the circumstances under which sale of units may be imposed on dissenting owners; the powers held by the Board of Directors on behalf of the association to negotiate a sales agreement; the practical consequences to the project from the time the unit owners approve the termination until the transfer of title and occupancy actually occurs; the impact of termination on liens on the units and common elements; distribution of sales proceeds; the effect of foreclosure or enforcement of liens against the entire condominium with respect to the validity of the project; and other matters.

2. Recognizing that unanimous consent from all unit owners would be impossible to secure as a practical matter on a project of any size, subsection (1) states a general rule that 80% consent of the unit owners would be required for termination of a project. The declaration may require a larger percentage of the unit owners and, in a non-residential project, it may also require a smaller percentage. Pursuant to RCW 64.34.272 (Rights of Secured Lenders), lenders may require that the declaration specify a larger percentage of unit owner consent or, more typically, will require the consent of a percentage of the lenders before the project may be terminated.

3. As a result of subsection (3), unless the declaration requires unanimous consent for termination, the declarant may be able to terminate the condominium despite the unanimous opposition of other unit owners if the declarant owns units to which the requisite number of votes are allocated. Such a result might occur, for example, should a declarant be unable to continue sales in a project where some sales have been made.

4. Subsection (2) describes the procedure for execution of the termination agreement. It recognizes that not all unit owners will be able to execute the same instrument, and permits execution or ratification of the master termination agreement. Since the transfer of an interest in real property is being accomplished by the agreements, each of the ratifications must be executed in the same manner as a deed. Importantly, the agreement must specify the time within which it will be effective; otherwise, the project might be indefinitely in "limbo" if ratifications had been signed by some, but not all, required unit owners, and the signing unit owners fail to revoke their agreements. Importantly, the agreement becomes effective only when it is recorded.

5. Subsection (3) deal with the question of when all the real property in the condominium, or the common elements, may be sold without unanimous consent of the unit owners.

6. Subsection (4) describes the powers of the association during the pendency of the termination proceedings. It empowers the association to negotiate for the sale, but makes the validity of any contract dependent on unit owner approval. This section also makes clear that, upon termination, title to the real property shall be held by the association, so that the association may convey title without the necessity of each unit owner signing the deed. Finally, this section makes clear that, until the association delivers title to the condominium property, the project will continue to operate as it had prior to the termination, thus insuring that the practical necessities of operation of the real property will not be impaired.

7. Subsection (5) contemplates the possibility that a condominium might be terminated but the real property not sold. While this is not likely to be the usual case, it is important to provide for the possibility.

8. A complex series of creditors' rights questions may arise upon termination. Those questions involve competing claims of first mortgage holders on individual units, other secured and unsecured creditors of individual unit owners, judgment creditors of the association, creditors of the association to whom a security interest in the common elements has been granted, and unsecured creditors of the association. Subsection (6) attempts to establish general rules with respect to these competing claims, but leaves to state law the resolution of the priorities of those competing claims.

9. Subsection (7)(a) departs significantly from RCW 64.32. Under that act the proceeds of the sale of the entire project are distributed upon termination to each unit owner in accordance with the common element interest which was allocated at the outset of the project. Of course, in an older development, those original allocations will bear little resemblance to the actual value of the units. For that reason, the Act adopts an appraisal procedure for distribution of the sales proceeds. As suggested in the examples on the distribution of proceeds, this appraisal may dramatically affect the amount of dollars actually received by unit owners. Accordingly, it is likely the appraisal will be required to be distributed prior to the time the termination agreement is approved, so that unit owners may understand the likely financial consequences of the termination.

10. Subsection (7)(b) is an exception to the "fair market value" rule. It provides that, if appraisal of any unit cannot be made, either through pictures or comparison with other units, so that any unit's appropriate share in the overall proceeds cannot be calculated, then the distribution will fall back on the only objective, albeit artificial, standard available, which is the common element interest allocated to each unit.

11. Foreclosure of a mortgage or other lien or encumbrance does not automatically terminate the condominium, but, if a mortgagee or other lienholder (or any other party) acquires units with a sufficient number of votes, that party can cause the condominium to be terminated pursuant to subsection (1) of this section.

12. A mortgage or deed of trust on a condominium unit may provide for the lien to shift, upon termination, to become a lien on what will then be the borrower's undivided interest in the whole property. However, such a shift would be deemed to occur even in the absence of express language, pursuant to subsection (6).

13. With respect to the association's role as trustee under subsection (6), see RCW 64.34.376.

14. If an initial appraisal made pursuant to subsection (7) were rejected by vote of the unit owners, the association would be obligated to secure a new appraisal.

15. "Foreclosure" in subsection (8) includes deeds in lieu of foreclosure, and "liens" includes tax and other liens on real property which may be converted or withdrawn from the project. See RCW 64.34.020(19).

16. The termination agreement should adopt or contain any restrictions, covenants and other provisions for the governance and operation of the property formerly constituting the condominium which the owners deem appropriate. These might closely parallel the provisions of the declaration and bylaws. This is particularly important in the case of a condominium which is not to be sold pursuant to the terms of the termination agreement. In the absence of such provisions, the general law of the state governing tenancies in common would apply.

17. Subsection (9) recognizes the possibility that a pre-existing lien might not have been released prior to the time the condominium declaration was recorded. In the absence of a provision such as subsection (9), recordation of the declaration would constitute a changing of the priority of those liens; and it is contrary to all expectations that a prior lienholder may be involuntarily subjected to the condominium documents. For that reason, this section permits the nonconsenting prior lienholder upon foreclosure to exclude the withdrawable real property subject to its lien from the condominium.

RCW 64.34.272. RIGHTS OF SECURED LENDERS.

1. In a number of instances, particularly sale or encumbrance of common elements, or termination of a condominium, a lender's security may be dramatically affected by acts of the association. For that reason, this section permits ratification of those acts of the association which are specified in the declaration as a condition of their effectiveness.

2. There are three important limitations on the rights of lender consent. They are: (1) a prohibition on control over the general administrative affairs of the association; (2) restrictions on control over the association's powers during litigation or other proceedings; and (3) prohibition of receipt or distribution of insurance proceeds prior to application of those proceeds for rebuilding.

3. It is important that lenders not be able to step in and unilaterally act as receiver or trustee of the association. There may, of course, be occasions when a court of competent jurisdiction would order appointment of a receiver for an association. While this would be possible in a court proceeding, the Act prohibits private contractual granting of such a power.

4. Since it may well be that the association might find itself involved in litigation which would be adverse to the interests of the lender or the declarant, it is inappropriate for a secured party to be able to control the course of litigation in the absence of the consent of the other parties. In an appropriate case, of course, where the lenders' interests are affected, a lender might seek to intervene as a party in that proceeding.

5. RCW 64.34.352 provides for the distribution of insurance proceeds in a particular manner. In particular, it prevents distribution of those proceeds to lenders until the intended purpose of the insurance has been met. For that reason, under this section the declaration may not provide the lender a right to receive insurance proceeds in any manner except the manner provided in RCW 64.34.352.

6. In addition to the provision of the declaration, the provisions of individual mortgages of units may require that unit owner to secure his lender's consent before taking particular actions.

RCW 64.34.276. MASTER ASSOCIATIONS.

1. It is very common in large or multi-phased condominiums, particularly those developed under existing laws, for the declarant to create a master or umbrella association which provides management services or decision-making functions for a series of smaller condominiums. While it is expected that this phenomenon will be less necessary under this Act because of the permissible period of time for declarant control over the project, it is nonetheless possible in larger developments that this form of management will continue.

2. Subsection (1) states the general rule that the powers of a unit owners' association may only be exercised by, or delegated to, a master association if the declaration for the condominium permits that result. The declaration may have originally provided for a master association; alternatively, the unit owners of several condominiums may amend their declarations in similar fashion to provide for this power. Subsection (1) makes it clear that, if any of the powers of the unit owners' association may be exercised by, or delegated to, a master association, all other provisions of this Act which apply to a unit owners' association apply to that master association except as modified by this section. Accordingly, such provisions on notice, voting, quorums, records, meetings, and other matters which apply to the unit owners' association would apply with equal validity to such a master association.

3. Subsection (2) changes the usual presumption with respect to the powers of the unit owners' association, except in those cases where the master association is actually acting as the only association for one or more condominiums. In those cases where it is not so acting, however, the only powers of the unit owners' association which the master association may exercise are the ones expressly permitted in the declaration or in the delegation of power. This is in significant contrast with the rule of RCW 64.34.304 that all of the powers described in that section may be exercised unless limited by the declaration.

4. Subsection (3) clarifies the liability of the members of the executive board of a unit owners' association when the condominium for which the unit owners' association acts has delegated some of its powers to a master association. In that instance, subsection (3) makes it clear that the members of the executive board of the unit owners' association have no liability for acts and omissions of the master association board; under subsection (1), that liability lies with the members of the master association.

5. Subsection (4) addresses the question of the rights and responsibilities of the unit owners in their dealings with the master board. A variety of sections enumerated in subsection (4) provide certain rights and powers to unit owners in their dealings with their association. In the affairs of the master association, however, it would be incongruous for the unit owners to maintain those same rights if those unit owners were not in fact electing the master board. Thus, for example, the question of election of directors, meetings, notice of meetings, quorums, and other matters enumerated in those sections would have little meaning if those sections were read literally when applied to a master board which was not elected by all members of the condominiums subject to the master board. For that reason, the rights of notice, voting, and other rights enumerated in the Act are available only to the persons who actually elect the board.

6. Subsection (5) recognizes that there may be reasons for a representative form of election of directors of the master association. Alternatively, there may be cases where at-large election is reasonable. For that reason, subsection (5) provides that, after the period of declarant control has terminated, there may be 4 ways of electing the master association board. Those four ways are: (1) at-large election of the master board among all the condominiums subject to the master association; (2) at-large election of the master board only among the members of the boards of directors of all condominiums subject to the master association; (3) each condominium might have designated positions on the master board, and those spaces could be filled by an at-large election among all the members of each condominiums; or (4) the designated positions could be filled by an election only among the members of the executive board of the unit owners' association for each condominium. It would only be in the case of an at-large election of the master board among all condominiums that subsection (4) would have no relevance.

RCW 64.34.280. MERGER OR CONSOLIDATION OF CONDOMINIUMS.

1. There may be circumstances where condominiums may wish to merge or consolidate their activities by the creation of a single condominium; this section provides for that possibility.

Subsection (1) makes it clear that a merger or consolidation may occur by the same vote of the unit owners necessary to terminate the condominium. If 2 or more condominiums are merged or consolidated, the resulting condominium is for all purposes the legal successor of the pre-existing condominiums, with a single association for all purposes. In the event condominiums did not wish to completely merge or consolidate their affairs, it would also be possible for them to create a master association pursuant to RCW 64.34.276.

2. Under subsection (2), the merger or consolidation agreement is treated for recording purposes as an amendment to the declaration, and the same requirements for approval are mandated as for termination.

3. Subsection (3) does not state a minimum requirement for the contents of a merger or consolidation agreement, and any additional clauses not inconsistent with subsection (3) may be included. The important point that subsection (3) makes is that the reallocation of the common element interests, common expense liabilities and votes in the new association must be carefully stated.

Subsection (3) states 2 alternative rules in this respect. First, the reallocations may be accomplished by stating specifically the allocation of common element interests, common expense liability, and votes in the association to each unit, or by stating the formulas by which those interests may be allocated to each unit in all of the pre-existing condominiums.

Alternatively, the merger or consolidation agreement may state the percentage of overall common element interests, common expense liabilities, and votes in the association allocated to "all of the units comprising each of the pre-existing condominiums." The agreement might then also provide that the portion of the percentage allocated to each unit from among the shares allocated to each condominium will be equal to the percentage of common expense liability and votes in the association allocated to that unit by the declaration of the pre-existing condominium. An example of how this alternative formulation would operate may be useful.

EXAMPLE:

Assume that 2 adjoining condominiums wish to merge their activities into one condominium. Assume that the first condominium consists of 10 one-bedroom units, with an annual budget of $10,000. Assume further that each of the units, being identical, has a common element interest of 10%, equal common expense liability of 10%, and one vote per unit.

The second condominium consists of 40 units, with 20 2-bedroom units and 20 3-bedroom units. The budget of the second condominium consists of $70,000 per year. Each of the 2-bedroom units has been allocated a 2% interest in the common element and a 2% common expense liability, while each of the 3-bedroom units has been allocated a 3% interest in the common elements, and a 3% common expense liability. Finally, each of the units in the second condominium also has an equal vote.

There is no provision in the Act which mandates a particular allocation among condominiums 1 and 2 as to either common element interest, common expense liabilities or votes. Should the unit owners wish to retain similarity to their previous common element interests and common expense liabilities, however, and should they wish to retain equal voting in a merged project, it would be possible for them, pursuant to subsection (3)(b), to state "the percentage of overall allocated interests of the new condominium" as follows: as to common element interests and common expense liabilities, they might allocate 12.5% of those interests in the merged project to condominium 1, and 87.5% thereof to condominium 2. If the agreement further provided that "the portion of the percentages allocated to each unit formerly comprising a part of the pre-existing condominium must be equal to the percentages of allocated interests allocated to that unit by the declaration of the pre-existing condominium" as required by subsection (3), each unit in condominium 1 would then have allocated to it 1.25% of both the common element interests and common expense liabilities in the new condominium. It happens that 1.25% of the common expenses of a merged condominium which has a budget of $80,000 equals $1,000.

Under the same rationale, if each of the 2-bedroom units in the second condominium, to which were formerly allocated 2% of the common element interests and common expense liabilities, now has allocated 2% of the 87.5% allocated to the second condominium, each of those units would then have allocated to it 1.75% of the common element interest and common expense liabilities of the new condominium. 1.75% of $80,000 is $1,400. Similarly, each of the 3-bedroom units would then have allocated to it 2.625% of the common element interest and common expense liabilities in the merged condominium. That percentage of the common expense liabilities of $80,000 would yield an annual cost of $2,100, the same cost as previously obtained in this condominium.

Further, the unit owners are free to allocate votes among the units in any way which they see fit. Of course, if they choose to allocate equal votes to all the units, which was the method previously used in both condominiums, this would have the effect of giving 20% of the votes to condominium 1, even though condominium 1 had only 12.5% of the common expense liabilities. It may be, however, that this tracks with the expectations of the unit owners in both condominiums. Alternatively, condominium 1 might be allocated 12.5% of the votes, which, when divided up among the 10 units, would give each one-bedroom unit a .125 vote. If 87.5% of the votes were allocated equally among the unit owners in the second condominium, then each of the unit owners in condominium 2 would have .21875 votes.

If some other configuration was to be desired, then the allocations would of necessity be made pursuant to subsection (3)(a) rather than (3)(b).

RCW 64.34.300. ORGANIZATION OF UNIT OWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

1. The first purchaser of a unit is entitled to have in place the legal structure of the unit owners' association. The existence of the structure clarifies the relationship between the declarant and other unit owners and makes it easy for the declarant to involve unit owners in the governance of the condominium even during a period of declarant control reserved pursuant to RCW 64.34.308(4).

2. Unlike RCW 64.32, which allows the association to be organized as an unincorporated association, the Washington Condominium Act requires the association to be organized as a profit or non-profit corporation.

RCW 64.34.304. POWERS OF UNIT OWNERS' ASSOCIATION.

1. This section permits the declaration, subject to the limitations of subsection (2), to include limitations on the exercise of any of the enumerated powers.

2. Required provisions of the bylaws of the association, referenced in subsection (1), are set forth in RCW 64.34.324.

3. The Act gives the association the power to sue and be sued in its own name. In the absence of a statutory grant of standing such as that set forth in subsection (d), some courts in other jurisdictions have held that the association, because it has no ownership interest in the condominium, has no standing to bring, defend, or to intervene in litigation or administrative proceedings in its own name.

4. Subsection (h) refers to the power granted by RCW 64.34.348 to sell or encumber common elements without a termination of the condominium upon a vote of the requisite number of unit owners. Subsection (i) permits the association to grant easements, leases, licenses, and concessions with respect to the common elements and to petition for or consent to the vacation of streets and alleys without a vote of the unit owners.

5. The powers granted the association in subsection (k) to impose charges for late payment of assessments and to levy reasonable fines for violations of the association's rules reflect the need to provide the association with sufficient powers to exercise its "governmental" functions as the ruling body of the condominium community. The power to impose sanctions for violations of the association's governing documents is subject to a requirement of minimum "due process" for the accused violator. These due process procedures include notice of the alleged violation and an opportunity for a hearing before either the board of directors or another person or body which has been designated by the board of directors to conduct the hearing. This section also requires that the procedures for enforcement be set forth in the association's governing documents and that the board of directors has previously adopted a fine schedule and communicated it to the owners. The powers granted under this subsection are intended to be in addition to any rights which the association may have under other law.

6. Under subsection (n), the declaration may provide for the assignment of income of the association, including common expense assessment income, as security for, or payment of, debts of the association. The power may be limited in any manner specified in the declaration—for example, the power might be limited to specified purposes such as repair of existing structures, or to income from particular sources such as income from tenants, or to a specified percentage of common expense assessments. The power, in many instances, should help materially in securing credit for the association at favorable interest rates. The inability of associations to borrow because of a lack of assets, in spite of its income stream, has been a significant problem.

7. An association may, pursuant to subsection (p), exercise all other powers which may be exercised by a corporation of the same type. Inconsistent provisions of state corporation law are controlled by the provisions of this Act, as provided in RCW 64.34.070 and RCW 64.34.300.

RCW 64.34.308. BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS.

1. Subsection (1) makes members of the board of directors appointed by the declarant liable as fiduciaries of the unit owners with respect to their actions or omissions as members of the board. This provision imposes a very high standard of duty because the board is vested with great power over the property interests of unit owners, and because there is a great potential for conflicts of interest between the unit owners and the declarant.

Officers and board members elected by the unit owners are required only to exercise ordinary and reasonable care. This lower standard of care should increase the willingness of unit owners to serve as officers and members of the board.

2. The provisions of subsection (3) permit the unit owners to disapprove any proposed budget, but a rejection of the budget does not result in cessation of assessments until a budget is approved. Rather, assessments continue on the basis of the last approved periodic budget until the new budget is in effect. Failure of the board to provide the budget summary and to call an owners' meeting automatically functions as a rejection of the budget by the owners.

3. Subsections (4) and (5) recognize the practical necessity for the declarant to control the association during the developmental phases of a condominium project. However, any board member appointed by the declarant is liable as a fiduciary to any unit owner for that director's acts or omissions in such capacity.

4. Subsection (4) permits a declarant to surrender the right to appoint and remove officers and board members prior to the termination of the period of declarant control in exchange for a veto right over certain actions of the association or its board of directors. This provision is designed to encourage transfer of control by declarants to unit owners as early as possible, without impinging upon the declarant's rights (for the duration of the period of declarant control) to maintain ultimate control of those matters which the declarant may deem particularly important. The declarant at all times (even after the expiration of the period of declarant control) is entitled to cast the votes allocated to declarant owned units in the same manner as any other unit owner.

5. Subsection (5), in combination with subsection (4), provides for a gradual transfer of control of the association to the unit owners from the declarant. Such a gradual transfer is preferable to a one-time turnover of control since it assures that the unit owners will be involved, to some extent, in the affairs of the association from a relatively early date and that some unit owners will acquire experience in dealing with association matters.

6. Although the declarant's right to control the association terminates upon the happening of the events enumerated in subsection (4), the members of the board of directors appointed or elected by the declarant will continue to serve until their successors are elected by the unit owners unless they sooner resign.

RCW 64.34.312. TRANSFER OF ASSOCIATION CONTROL.

1. RCW 64.34.312 is derived from Alaska Statutes Sec. 34.08.340 rather than the Uniform Condominium Act. It is designed to ensure that the property and funds belonging to the association as well as the information and documents needed for assuming control of the association and the management of the condominium are in fact transferred to the association.

2. In order to ensure that the declarant and the board of directors appointed by the declarant have properly managed the financial affairs of the association during the period of declarant control and that all funds and property belonging to the association has been turned over to the board of directors elected by the unit owners, the Act requires an audit of the association's books and records as of the date of transfer of control by an independent certified public accountant unless the unit owners, other than the declarant, by two-thirds vote elect to waive the audit.

RCW 64.34.316. TRANSFER OF SPECIAL DECLARANT RIGHTS.

1. This section deals with the issue of the extent to which obligations and liabilities imposed upon a declarant by this Act are transferred to a third party by a transfer of the declarant's interest in a condominium. There are two issues. First, what obligations and liabilities to unit owners (both existing unit owners and persons who become unit owners in the future) should a declarant retain, notwithstanding a transfer of interests. Second, what obligations and liabilities may fairly be imposed upon the declarant's successor in interest. RCW 64.32 does not address these issues.

2. This section strikes a balance between the obvious need to protect the interests of unit owners and the equally important need to protect innocent successors to a declarant's rights, especially persons such as mortgagees whose only interest in the condominium project is to protect their debt security. The general scheme of the section is to impose upon a declarant continuing obligations and liabilities for promises, acts, or omissions undertaken during the period that it was in control of the condominium while relieving a declarant who transfers all or part of its special declarant rights in a project of such responsibilities with respect to the promises, acts, or omissions of a successor over whom it has no control. Similarly, the section imposes obligations and liabilities arising after the transfer upon a non-affiliated successor to a declarant's interests, but absolves such a transferee of responsibility for the promises, acts, or omissions of a transferor declarant over which it had no control. Finally, the section makes special provision for the interests of certain successor declarants (e.g., a mortgagee who succeeds to the rights of the declarant pursuant to a "deed in lieu of foreclosure" and who holds the project solely for transfer to another person) by relieving such persons of virtually all of the obligations and liabilities imposed upon declarants by this Act.

3. Subsection (1) provides that a successor in interest to a declarant may acquire the special rights of the declarant only by recording an instrument which reflects a transfer of those rights. This recordation requirement is important to determine the duration of the period of declarant control pursuant to RCW 64.34.308(4), as well as to place unit owners on notice of all persons entitled to exercise the special rights of a declarant under this Act. In addition, the declarant or successor declarant must furnish a copy of the recorded instrument to all unit owners. The transfer by a declarant of all of its interest in a condominium project to a successor, without a concomitant transfer of the special rights of a declarant pursuant to this subsection, results in the automatic termination of such special declarant rights and of any period of declarant control.

4. Under subsection (2), a transferor declarant remains liable to unit owners (both existing unit owners and persons who subsequently become unit owners) for all obligations and liabilities, including warranty obligations on all improvements made by it, arising prior to the transfer. If a declarant transfers any special declarant right to an affiliate (as defined in RCW 64.34.020(1)), the transferor remains subject to all liabilities specified in subsection (2)(a) and, in addition, is jointly and severally liable with its successor in interest for all obligations and liabilities of the successor.

5. The obligations and liabilities imposed upon transferee declarants under the Act are set forth in subsection (5). In general, a transferee declarant (other than an affiliate of the original declarant and other than a successor whose interest in the project is solely for the protection of debt security) becomes subject to all obligations and liabilities imposed upon a declarant by the Act or by the declaration with respect to any promises, acts, or omissions undertaken subsequent to the transfer which relate to the rights it holds. Such a transferee is liable for the promises, acts, or omissions of the original declarant undertaken prior to the transfer, except as set forth in subsection (5)(b)(ii). For example, a successor declarant would not be liable for the warranty obligations of the original declarant with respect to improvements to the project made by the original declarant. Similarly, a successor would not be liable, under normal circumstances, for any misrepresentation or breach of fiduciary duty by the original declarant prior to the transfer. The successor is obligated, however, to complete improvements labeled "MUST BE BUILT" on the original plans.

6. To preclude declarants from evading their obligations and liabilities under this Act by transferring their interests to affiliated companies, subsection (5)(a) makes clear that any successor declarant who is an affiliate of the original declarant is subject to all obligations and liabilities imposed upon the original declarant by the Act or by the declaration. Similarly, as previously noted, subsection (2)(b) provides that an original declarant who transfers its rights to an affiliate remains jointly and severally liable with its successor for all obligations and liabilities imposed upon declarants by the Act or by the declaration.

7. The section handles the problem of certain successor declarants (i.e., persons whose sole interest in the condominium project is the protection of debt security) in three ways. First, subsection (3) provides that, in the case of a foreclosure of a mortgage, a sale by a trustee under a deed of trust, or a sale by a trustee in bankruptcy of any units owned by a declarant, any person acquiring title to all of the units being foreclosed or sold succeeds to all special declarant rights unless that person requests that all or any of those rights not be transferred. Unless such a request is made and a disclaimer is contained in the instrument conveying title, such rights will be transferred in the instrument conveying title to the units and such transferee will thereafter become a successor declarant subject to the other provisions of this section. In the event of a foreclosure, sale by a trustee under a deed of trust, or sale by a trustee in bankruptcy of all units owned by a declarant, if the transferee of such units requests that the special declarant rights not be transferred, and if the does not provide for transfer of the special declarant rights, then, under subsection (4), such special declarant rights cease to exist and any period of declarant control terminates.

Second, any person who succeeds to special declarant rights as a result of the transfers just described or by deed in lieu of foreclosure, may, pursuant to subsection (5)(d), declare its intention (in a recorded instrument) to hold those rights solely for transfer to another person. Thereafter, such a successor may transfer all special declarant rights to a third party acquiring title to any units owned by the successor but may not, prior to such transfer, exercise any special declarant rights other than the right to control the board of directors of the association in accordance with the provisions of RCW 64.34.308(4). A successor declarant who exercises such a right is relieved of any liability under the Act except liability for any acts or omissions related to its control of the board of directors of the association. This provision is designed to deal with the typical problem of a foreclosing mortgage lender who opts to bid in and obtain the project at the foreclosure sale solely for the purpose of subsequent resale. It permits such a foreclosing lender to undertake such a transaction without incurring the full burden of declarant obligations and liabilities. At the same time, the provision recognizes the need for continuing operation of the association and, to that end, permits a foreclosing lender to assume control of the association for the purpose of ensuring a smooth transition.

Third, subsection (5)(c) provides that a successor who has only the right to maintain model units, sales offices, and signs does not thereby become subject to any obligations or liabilities as a declarant except for the obligation to provide a public offering statement and any liability resulting therefrom. This provision also is designed to protect mortgage lenders and contemplates the situation where a lender takes over a condominium project and desires to sell out existing units without making any additional improvements to the project. This provision facilitates such a transaction by relieving the mortgage lender, in that instance, from the full burden of obligations and liabilities ordinarily imposed upon a declarant under the Act.

Under RCW 64.34.236, a declarant may reserve the right to create additional units in portions of the condominium which were originally designated as common elements. The declarant becomes the owner of any units created, but, prior to creation of units, the title to those portions of the condominium is in the unit owners. The right to create the units is an interest in land in which a security interest might be granted. If the mortgagee of that interest forecloses, the purchaser at the foreclosure sale has the choices concerning development rights and resulting liability which are described in the preceding paragraph. That is, under subsections (3) and (4), the purchaser may limit its liability by agreeing to hold the developments only for the purpose of transfer as provided by subsection (5)(d) or may buy the rights under subsection (3).

RCW 64.34.320. TERMINATION OF CONTRACTS AND LEASES OF DECLARANT.

1. This section deals with a common problem in the development of condominium projects in some jurisdictions: the temptation on the part of the declarant, while in control of the association, to enter into, on behalf of the association, long-term contracts and leases with himself or with an affiliated entity.

The Act deals with this problem in two ways. First, RCW 64.34.308(1) imposes upon all board members appointed by the declarant liability as fiduciaries of the unit owners for all of their acts or omissions as members of the board. Second, RCW 64.34.320 provides for the termination of certain contracts and leases made during a period of declarant control.

2. In addition to contracts or leases made by a declarant with itself or with an affiliated entity, there are also certain contracts and leases so critical to the operation of the condominium and to the unit owners' full enjoyment of their rights of ownership that they too should be voidable by the unit owners upon the expiration of any period of declarant control. At the same time, a statutorily-sanctioned right of cancellation should not be applicable to all contracts or leases which a declarant may enter into in the course of developing a condominium project. For example, a commercial tenant would not be willing to invest substantial amounts in equipment and other improvements for the operation of its business if the lease could unilaterally be cancelled by the association. Accordingly, this section provides that (subject to the exception set forth in the last sentence thereof), upon the expiration of any period of declarant control, the association may terminate without penalty, any "critical" contract (i.e., any management contract, employment contract, or lease of recreational or parking areas or facilities) entered into during a period of declarant control, any contract or lease to which the declarant or an affiliate of the declarant is a party, or any contract or lease previously entered into by the declarant which is not bona fide or which was unconscionable to the unit owners at the time entered into under the circumstances then prevailing.

3. The last sentence of the section addresses the usual leasehold condominium situation where the underlying real estate is subject to a long-term ground lease which is then submitted to the Act. Because termination of the ground lease would terminate the condominium, this sentence prevents cancellation. However, in order to avoid the possibility that recreation and other leases otherwise cancellable under subsection (1) will be restructured to come within the exception, a subjective test of "intent" is imposed. Under the test, if a declarant's principal purpose in subjecting the leased real estate to the condominium was to prevent termination of the lease, the lease may nevertheless be terminated.

1. Because the Act does not require the recordation of bylaws, it is contemplated that unrecorded bylaws will set forth only matters relating to the internal operations of the association and various "housekeeping" matters with respect to the condominium. The Act requires specific matters to be set forth in the recorded declaration and not in the bylaws, unless the bylaws are to be recorded as an exhibit to the declaration. As an alternative, matters which would ordinarily be set forth in the bylaws may instead be contained in the declaration.

2. The requirement, set forth in subsection (1)(e), that the bylaws designate which of the officers of the association has the responsibility to prepare, execute, certify, and record amendments to the declaration reflects the obligation imposed upon the association by several provisions of this Act to record such amendments in certain circumstances. These provisions include RCW 64.34.060 (Condemnation), RCW 64.34.220(5) (expiration of certain leases), RCW 64.34.244 (Relocation of Boundaries Between Adjoining Units), and RCW 64.34.248 (Subdivision of Units). RCW 64.34.264(5) provides that, if no officer is designated for this purpose, it shall be the duty of the president.

3. Subsection (3) provides for a broad definition of the term "unit owner" for the purpose of determining who may serve as an officer or director of the association. Unless the declaration or bylaws provide otherwise, if a unit is owned, in whole or in part, by a person other than a natural person, certain natural persons affiliated with the unit owner are deemed to be unit owners for the limited purposes of serving as an officer or director of the association. Upon termination of that affiliation, the person serving as an officer or director may not continue in such position unless that person otherwise qualifies as a unit owner.

RCW 64.34.328. UPKEEP OF CONDOMINIUM.

1. The Act permits the declaration to separate maintenance responsibility from ownership. This is commonly done in practice. In the absence of any provision in the declaration, maintenance responsibility follows ownership of the unit or rests with the association in the case of common elements (including limited common elements). Under this Act, limited common elements (which might include, for example, patios, balconies, and parking spaces) are common elements. See RCW 64.34.020(22). As a result, under subsection (1), unless the declaration requires that unit owners are responsible for the upkeep of such limited common elements, the association will be responsible for their maintenance. Under RCW 64.34.360(3), the cost of maintenance, repair, and replacement for such limited common elements is assessed against all the units in the condominium, unless the declaration provides for such expenses to be paid only by the units benefited. See Comment 1 to RCW 64.34.228.

2. Under RCW 64.34.236, a declarant may reserve the right to create units in portions of the condominium originally designated as common elements. Prior to creation of the units, title to those portions of the condominium is in the unit owners. However, under RCW 64.34.328(2), the declarant is obligated to pay all of the expenses of (including real estate taxes properly apportionable to) that real estate unless the owners have the right to use the common element and the declaration provides that the expenses associated with its operation, maintenance, repair and replacement are to be paid by the unit owners. As to real estate taxes, see RCW 64.34.040(3).

RCW 64.34.336. QUORUMS.

Mandatory quorum requirements lower than 50 percent for meetings of the association are often justified because of the common difficulty of inducing unit owners to attend meetings. The problem is particularly acute in the case of resort condominiums where many owners may reside elsewhere, often at considerable distances, for most of the year.

RCW 64.34.340. VOTING; PROXIES.

Subsection (3) addresses an increasingly important matter in the governance of condominiums: the role of tenants occupying units owned by investors or other persons. Most present statutes require voting by owners in the association. However, it may be desirable to give lessees, rather than lessors, of units the right to vote on issues involving day-to-day operation both because the lessees may have a greater interest than the lessors and because it is desirable to have lessees feel they are an integral part of the condominium community.

RCW 64.34.344. TORT AND CONTRACT LIABILITY.

1. This section provides that any action in tort or contract arising out of acts or omissions of the association shall be brought against the association and not against the individual unit owners or any officer or director of the association. The subsection also provides that a unit owner is not precluded from bringing an action in tort or contract against the association solely because that person is a unit owner or a member or officer of the association.

2. In recognition of the practical control that can (and in most cases will) be exercised by a declarant over the affairs of the association during any period of declarant control permitted pursuant to RCW 64.34.308, RCW 64.34.344 provides that the association or any unit owner shall have a right of action against the declarant for any losses (including both payment of damages and attorneys' fees) suffered by the association or any unit owner as a result of an action based upon a tort or breach of contract arising during any period of declarant control except where the wrong was done by a unit owner other than the declarant. To assure that the decision to bring such an action can be made by a board of directors free from the influence of the declarant, the section also provides that any statute of limitations affecting such a right of action by the association shall be tolled until the expiration of any period of declarant control.

3. If a suit based on a claim which accrued during the period of declarant control is brought against the association after control of the association has passed from the declarant, reasonable notice to, and grant of an opportunity to the declarant to defend, are conditions to declarant liability. If, however, suit is brought against the association while the declarant is still in control, obviously the declarant cannot later resist a suit by the association for reimbursement on the grounds of failure to notify.

RCW 64.34.348. CONVEYANCE OR ENCUMBRANCE OF COMMON ELEMENTS.

1. Subsection (1) provides that, on agreement of unit owners holding 80% of the votes in the association, or such larger percentage as is required by the declaration, parts of the common elements which are not necessary for the habitability of a unit may be sold or encumbered. (80% is the percentage required for termination of the condominium under RCW 64.34.268.) This power may be exercised during the period of declarant control, but, in order to be effective, 80% of the votes allocated to units not owned by the declarant or an affiliate of the declarant must approve the action.

The ability to sell a portion of the common elements without termination of the condominium gives the condominium regime desirable flexibility. For example, the unit owners, some years after the initial creation of the condominium, may decide to convey away a portion of the open space which has been reserved as a part of the common elements because they no longer find the area useful or because they wish to use sale proceeds to make other improvements. Similarly, the ability to encumber common elements gives the association power to raise money for improvements through the device of mortgaging the improvements themselves. Of course, recreational improvements will frequently not be sufficient security for a loan for their construction. Nevertheless, the ability to take a security interest in such improvements may lead lenders to be more favorably disposed toward making a loan in larger amounts and at lower interest rates.

2. Subsection (2) requires that the agreement for sale or encumbrance be evidenced by the execution of an agreement in the same manner as a deed by the requisite number of the unit owners. The agreement then must be recorded in the real property records of each county in which the condominium is located. The recorded agreement signed by the unit owners is not the conveyance itself, but is rather a supporting document which shows that the association has full power to execute a deed or mortgage. Under subsection (3), it is contemplated that the association will execute the actual instrument of conveyance. Under subsection (5), a conveyance or encumbrance of common elements may not deprive a unit owner of rights of access and support.

3. Under the condominium form of ownership, each unit owner owns a share of the common elements as an appurtenant interest to a unit and, when the unit owner mortgages the unit, the owner also mortgages the appurtenant interest. The unit owner cannot convey the unit separately from its interest in the common elements nor can the owner convey the common element interest separately from the unit. Therefore, if there is a mortgage or other lien against any unit, the problem arises as to whether the association under this section can convey a part of the common elements free from the mortgage interest of the unit mortgagee. Subsection (6) answers that question no. Therefore, a sale or encumbrance of common elements under this section would be subject to the superior priority of any prior mortgagee on the unit unless the mortgagee releases its interest therein.

RCW 64.34.352. INSURANCE.

1. Subsections (1) and (2) provide that the required insurance must be maintained only to the extent reasonably available. This permits the association to comply with the insurance requirements even if certain coverages are unavailable or unreasonably expensive. If the required insurance is not reasonably available or if the insurance is modified, cancelled or not reviewed, the association must cause notice of that fact to all unit owners and to eligible mortgagees and those mortgagees to whom a memorandum or certificate of insurance has been issued.

2. Subsection (1) requires that the association obtain and maintain property insurance on both the common elements and the units within buildings. This mandates that the association maintain property insurance on the entire condominium, including the units. Given the great interdependence of the unit owners in the condominium situation, mandating property insurance for the entire building is the preferable approach. Moreover, such an approach greatly simplifies claims procedures, particularly where both common elements and portions of a unit have been destroyed. If common elements and units are insured separately, the insurers could be involved in disputes as to the coverage provided by each policy.

3. Put simply, if any item is installed, constructed, repaired or replaced by the declarant or a successor in connection with the original sale of a unit, the item is insured by the association. Clearly, this does not include items of personal property easily movable within the unit or easily removable from the unit (whether or not deemed a fixture under state law), such as a vase, table or other furnishings. If installed by the unit owner, the item may be insured by the association but generally the preferable approach is that these items be insured by the unit owner.

Those items, installed by the unit owner and not covered by the association policy, are called "improvements and betterments".

4. Although "all risk" coverage is not required as to conversion buildings, but merely fire and extended coverage, this is not intended to imply that such coverage is unnecessary. "All risk" coverage is not required because it may not be appropriate in the case of an un-renovated conversion where cost is a critical factor.

5. The minimum requirement as to the amount of insurance, which is 80% of the actual cash value unless a greater amount is required by the declaration, should not be viewed as a recommendation; rather, the 80% is a floor. Typically, many condominium documents require insurance in an amount equal to 100% of the replacement cost of the insured property. The Act permits greater flexibility, however, inasmuch as different types of construction and varieties of projects may not require such total coverage with its attendant higher premium cost.

6. Subsection (1)(b) covers only the liability of the association, and unit owners as members, but does not cover the unit owner's individual liability for the owner's acts or omissions or liability for occurrences within a unit.

7. Clause (1) of the third sentence of subsection (8) would operate as follows: (1) if the condominium consists of campsites, restoration after fire damage might consist of merely re-sodding the area damaged; (2) if the condominium consists of separate garden-type buildings, restoration after fire damage might consist of demolishing the remaining structure and paving or landscaping the area; and (3) if the condominium consists of a single high-rise building, restoration may not be required (if the building is substantially destroyed) inasmuch as "a condition compatible with the remainder of the condominium" would be damaged and unrestored.

8. The scheme of this section, as set forth in subsection (8), is that any damage or destruction to any portion of the condominium must be repaired (if repairs can be made consistent with applicable safety and health laws) absent a decision to terminate the condominium or a decision by 80% of the unit owners (including the owners of any damaged units) not to rebuild. Unless a decision is made not to rebuild, any available insurance proceeds must be used to effectuate such repairs. For this reason, subsection (4) provides that any loss covered by the association's property insurance policy shall be adjusted with the association and that the proceeds for any loss shall be payable to the association or to any insurance trustee that may be designated for such purpose. Significantly, such insurance proceeds may not be paid to any holder of a mortgage or other outside party. This provision is necessary to insure that insurance proceeds are available to effectuate any repairs or restoration to the condominium that may be required.

9. In the case of commercial or industrial condominiums, unit owners may prefer to act as self-insurers or make other arrangements with respect to property insurance. Accordingly, subsection (8) provides that the insurance requirements of this section may be varied or waived in the declaration in the case of a condominium all of the units of which are reserved exclusively for non-residential use. Such waiver or modification is not possible in the case of a mixed-use condominium, some of the units of which are used for residential purposes.

RCW 64.34.356. SURPLUS FUNDS.

Surplus funds of the association are generally used first for the prepayment of reserves, and remaining funds are, in the discretion of the board of directors thereafter credited to the accounts of unit owners or paid to them. In some cases, however, unit owners might prefer that surplus funds be used for other purposes (e.g., the purchase of recreational equipment). Accordingly, this section permits the declaration to specify any other use of surplus funds.

RCW 64.34.360. ASSESSMENTS FOR COMMON EXPENSES.

1. This section contemplates that a declarant might find it advantageous, particularly in the early stages of condominium development, to pay all of the expenses of the condominium itself rather than assessing each unit individually. Such a situation might arise, for example, where a declarant owns most of the units in the condominium and wishes to avoid billing the costs of each unit separately and crediting payment to each unit. It might also arise in the case of a declarant who, although willing to assume all expenses of the condominium, is unwilling to make payments for replacement reserves or for other expenses which it expects will ultimately be part of the association's budget. Subsections (1) and (2) grant the declarant such flexibility while at the same time providing that once an assessment is made against any unit, all units, including those owned by the declarant, must be assessed for their full portion of the common expense liability.

2. Under subsection (3), the declaration may provide for assessment on a basis other than the allocation made in RCW 64.34.224 as to limited common elements, other expenses benefiting less than all units, insurance costs, and utility costs.

3. If additional units are added to a condominium after a judgment has been entered against the association, the new units are not assessed any part of the judgment debt. Since unit owners will know the assessment, and since such unpaid judgment assessments would affect the price paid by purchasers of units, it would be complicated and unnecessary to fairness to reallocate judgment assessments when new units are added.

4. Subsection (6) refers to those instances in which various provisions of this Act require that common expense liabilities be reallocated among the units of a condominium by amendment to the declaration. These provisions include RCW 64.34-.060 (Condemnation), RCW 64.34.220(5) (expiration of certain leases), RCW 64.34.236 (Exercise of Development Rights) and RCW 64.34.248(2) (Subdivision of Units).

RCW 64.34.364. LIEN FOR ASSESSMENTS.

1. Subsection (1) provides that the association has a lien on a unit for unpaid assessments from the time that the assessment is due.

2. To ensure prompt and efficient enforcement of the association's lien for unpaid assessments, such liens should enjoy statutory priority over most other liens. Accordingly, subsection (2) provides that the association's lien takes priority over all other liens and encumbrances except those recorded prior to the recordation of the declaration, those imposed for real estate taxes or other governmental assessments or charges against the unit, and mortgages recorded before the date the assessment became delinquent. However, as to prior mortgages, subsection (3) provides that the association's lien does have a limited priority for assessments based on the periodic budget. (See Comment 3).

3. The association's priority under subsection (3) is usually for a sum equal to the assessments which would normally have come due in the six month prior to the foreclosure of either a mortgage or the lien for assessments. The period dates back from the time of the foreclosure sale, or the recordation of the declaration of forfeiture. A significant departure from existing practice, the priority for the assessment lien strikes an equitable balance between the need to enforce collection of unpaid assessments and the obvious necessity for protecting the priority of the security interests of mortgage lenders. As a practical matter, mortgage lenders will most likely pay the assessments demanded by the association which are prior to its mortgage rather than having the association foreclose on the unit and eliminate the lender's mortgage lien.

4. The priority for the assessment lien may be reduced under subsection (4) by up to three months of assessments where a mortgagee has either filed a notice with the secretary of the association making it an "eligible mortgagee" or has made a written request to the association for a notice of delinquencies, and the assessment lien priority relates to a period during which the association was under an obligation to give the mortgagee notice of the delinquencies but failed to do so. In addition, if a mortgage lender forecloses its lien, it will take subject to the association's lien for up to six months' assessments. If the mortgage lender wishes, an impound for assessments can be required.

5. Under subsection (6) the lien priority is automatically waived by the association, however, by electing to foreclose its lien nonjudicially pursuant to subsection (9).

6. Although RCW 64.34.364 is automatically applicable to condominiums created under RCW 64.32 by virtue of RCW 64.34.010(1), it is only applicable with respect to events and circumstances occurring after the effective date of the act. Thus an assessment lien would not have any priority over a mortgage recorded prior to the effective date of this Act. In addition, because RCW 64.34.364 does not invalidate or supersede existing, inconsistent provisions of the governing documents of these pre-Act condominiums, an association would have to amend its declaration to change any language giving mortgages absolute priority over the lien for assessments.

7. A lien for assessments is not subject to the homestead exemption of RCW 6.13 and an association will no longer need to give the notice regarding the effect of foreclosure which is required by that chapter in order to avoid the homestead exemption.

8. Subsection (7) makes clear that the only document which needs to be recorded to give record notice of and to perfect the association's lien is the declaration. A notice of claim of lien need not be recorded by an association in order to enforce its lien or to perfect its priority vis-a-vis other liens. Recording of such a notice is permissive and does not satisfy the requirement of actual notice to a mortgagee entitled to notice of their mortgagor's delinquency.

9. Subsection (8) supersedes the six year statute of limitations for an action upon a liability arising out of a written agreement and imposes a three year statute of limitations on a proceeding to foreclose the association's lien for assessments or to collect on the personal liability of any person to pay assessments.

10. In addition to the judicial foreclosure of assessment liens in the manner of a mortgage which has been available to associations under RCW 64.32, the Act in subsection (9) adds the ability for an association to foreclose its assessment lien nonjudicially under RCW 61.24. In order to avail itself of this procedure, the declaration, which serves the purpose of the deed of trust, must contain the same elements found in a deed of trust, that is, (a) a grant of the condominium in trust to a trustee qualified under RCW 61.24.010 to secure the obligations of the unit owners to the association for the payment of assessments, (b) a power of sale, (c) a provision that the units are not used principally for agricultural or farming purposes, and (d) a provision that the power of sale is operative in the case of a default in the obligation to pay assessments.

11. Under subsection (10) the right to the appointment of a receiver to rent out a unit is automatically available to an association once a foreclosure has been commenced even if the declaration does not expressly provide for this remedy. However, the remedy is only available with respect to a unit which is not occupied by its owner.

12. Subsections (12) and (16) make clear that the association may have remedies short of foreclosure of its lien that can be used to collect unpaid assessments. The association, for example, might bring an action in debt or breach of contract against a recalcitrant unit owner rather than resorting to foreclosure.

13. In view of the association's powers to enforce its lien for unpaid assessments, subsection (15) provides unit owners with a method to determine the amount presently due and owing. A unit owner may obtain a statement of any unpaid assessment, including fines and other charges enforceable as assessments under subsection (1), currently levied against the owner's unit. The statement is binding on the association, the board of directors, and every unit owner in any subsequent action to collect such unpaid assessments.

14. Units may be part of a condominium and of a larger real estate regime. For example, a large real estate development may consist of a larger planned community which contains detached single family dwellings and town houses which are not part of any condominium and a high-rise building which is organized as a condominium within the planned community. In that case, the planned community association might assess the condominium units for the general maintenance expenses of the planned community and the condominium association would assess for the direct maintenance expenses of the building itself. In such a situation, subsection (6) provides that unpaid liens of the two associations have equal priority regardless of the relative time of creation of the two regimes and regardless of the time the assessments were made or become delinquent.

15. One of the remedies for collection of delinquent assessments available to many associations created under RCW 64.32 is the power to terminate utilities to a unit on ten days notice to an owner. Although the Act does not grant this power to associations created after its effective date, RCW 64.34.010(1) makes it clear that the Act does not deprive condominiums formed under the prior law of this remedy.

RCW 64.34.368. OTHER LIENS AFFECTING THE CONDOMINIUM.

1. This section deals with the effect on unit owners of judgments against the association. The Act strikes a balance, making the judgment lien a direct lien against each individual unit, but allowing the individual unit owner to discharge the lien by payment of the pro-rata share of the judgment. The judgment would also be a lien against any property owned by the association.

2. It should be noted that, while the judgment lien runs directly against unit owners, the actual liability of the unit owner is almost identical with what it would be if the ordinary corporation rule insulating the unit owner from direct liability were applied. If the incorporated association only is liable for a judgment, it will, of course, have no assets to satisfy the judgment except whatever personal property and real estate not a part of the common elements it owns. If a checking account or other cash funds of the association are attached or garnished by the creditor, the association, in order to maintain its operations and fulfill its other obligations, will be obliged to make an additional assessment against the unit owners to cover the judgment. The same result follows if the association is to prevent the sale of other assets at an execution sale. That additional assessment would be in precisely the amount for which this Act gives a direct lien against the individual unit owners. Unpaid assessments made by the association constitute liens against units just as do judgments.

Therefore, whether the lien of the judgment creditor runs against the units directly, or whether the lien is only against the association which finds it necessary to make additional assessments to satisfy the judgment, the unit owner who does not pay the proportionate share will end up with a lien against the unit.

The differences, therefore, between the lien system established by RCW 64.34-.368 and the system which would be applicable if ordinary corporation rules were applied are these:

(1) The unit owner can discharge the owner's unit from the lien and free it from the possibility of being subsequently assessed by the association for the judgment by making a payment directly to the lien holder. This ability may be valuable to a unit owner who is in the process of selling or securing a mortgage on the unit during the period between the time the judgment is entered and the time the association makes a formal assessment against individual unit owners for the amount of the judgment lien.

(2) The judgment creditor through its ability to threaten to foreclose the lien on an individual unit if the judgment is not paid is given some leverage over individual unit owners to encourage them to see that the association pays the judgment.

Except for situations in which the association has given a mortgage or deed of trust on common elements, the judgment creditor cannot assert a lien against common elements, but is rather left to a lien against the units. That is, the judgment creditor has no power to levy on the golf course or on the swimming pool or other open spaces and sell them independently of the units to satisfy the judgment.

RCW 64.34.372. ASSOCIATION RECORDS.

(1) This section requires that each association shall prepare or cause to be prepared a financial statement in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, as that term is defined by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, at least annually. These annual financial statements must be audited by a certified public accountant for all associations with fifty or more units, however this section grants to associations with fewer than fifty units, which are not otherwise required by their governing documents to have an annual audit, the power to waive the audit requirement. The waiver must be made annually by the affirmative vote of unit owners other than the declarant of units to which sixty percent of the votes are allocated, excluding the votes allocated to units owned by the declarant.

(2) Subsection (2) establishes certain important safeguard with respect to the segregation of association funds and the method of disbursing funds from a reserve account. Persons charged with the custody of association funds may not commingle them with funds which do not belong to the association. In addition, reserve funds must be kept in a separate account and must be disbursed on the signature of two officers or directors of the association.

RCW 64.34.376. ASSOCIATION AS TRUSTEE.

Based on Section 7 of the Uniform Trustees' Powers Act, this section is intended to protect an innocent third party in its dealings with the association only when the association is acting as a trustee for the unit owners, either under RCW 64.34.352 for insurance proceeds, or RCW 64.34.268 following termination.

RCW 64.34.400. APPLICABILITY.

In the case of commercial and industrial condominiums, the purchaser is often more sophisticated than the purchaser of residential units and thus better able to bargain for the protections. While this may not always be true, no objective test can be developed which easily distinguishes those commercial purchasers who are able to protect themselves from those who, in the ordinary course of business, have not developed such sophistication. At the same time, the cost of protection imposed by Article 4 may be substantial. Accordingly, subsection (1) permits waiver or modification of Article 4 protections with respect to units which are restricted to nonresidential use, e.g., in the case of most commercial and industrial condominium units. However, except for certain waivers of implied warranties of quality (see RCW 64.34.450) and certain exemptions from public offering statement and resale certificate requirements (see subsection (2)), no express waiver of the protections of this Article with respect to the purchasers of residential units is permitted by this subsection. Accordingly, by operation of RCW 64.34.030, the rights provided by this Article may not be waived in the case of residential purchasers.

RCW 64.34.405. LIABILITY FOR PUBLIC OFFERING STATEMENT REQUIREMENTS.

This section permits declarants to transfer responsibility for preparation of a public offering statement to successor declarants or dealers. The declarant or dealer who is responsible for delivering the public offering statement is liable for any misrepresentations and material omissions to the extent such person knew or should have known of the misrepresentation or omission. A person who assists the declarant or dealer in preparing a public offering statement is responsible for any such deficiencies only to the extent of that person's actual knowledge.

RCW 64.34.410. PUBLIC OFFERING STATEMENT--GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1. The best "consumer protection" that the law can provide to any purchaser is to ensure that such purchaser has an opportunity to acquire an understanding of the nature of the products which it is purchasing. Such a result is difficult to achieve, however, in the case of the condominium purchaser because of the complex nature of the bundle of rights and obligations which each unit owner obtains. For this reason, the Act is similar to many so-called "second generation" condominium statutes in that it sets forth a list of specific information which must be provided to each purchaser before acquiring a unit. Unlike some other statutes, however, the Washington Condominium Act avoids lengthy "narrative descriptions" of information otherwise contained in the condominium documents. The objectives fostered by the approach of specifically listing the information to be included in the public offering statement include: providing the drafter with a clear guide as to what the public offering statement is to contain; promoting the preparation of a short, clear and concise public offering statement, which in turn will increase the likelihood that prospective unit purchasers will both read and understand it; avoiding irrelevant, ambiguous and confusing disclosures; avoiding a false sense of security among purchasers who may assume that a lengthy public offering statement contains all of the relevant information regarding the condominium; enabling the declarant to prepare the public offering statement at a reasonable expense; promoting uniform public offering statements among projects and therefore the ease of comparison of information; facilitating the ability of interested parties to obtain legal opinions with respect to the public offering statement's compliance with the statute; and decreasing the need for a state agency review of the public offering statement.

The requirement for providing the public offering statement appears in RCW 64.34.405(3), and RCW 64.34.420 provides prospective purchasers with cancellation rights and imposes liability for damages upon declarants not complying with the public offering statement requirements of the Act.

2. Subsection (1)(i) requires a list of the principal "common amenities" to be indicated. "Common amenities" are not defined in the statute. The term encompasses items within the common areas which constitute significant features of the project and which materially affect its value. The disclosure is intended to enable prospective purchasers to confirm that existing recreational and other facilities conform to the impressions given through advertising, salespersons or others. Items which would fall under this category would include swimming pools, tennis courts, and clubhouses, but need not include landscaping, sidewalks, parking areas, and the like.

3. Subsection 1(l) requires the identification of real property which is not in the condominium but to which unit owners have access. Thus, if the unit owners have an easement over property not within the condominium or if the association (as opposed to the owners) leases recreational or other areas, those properties are to be disclosed, together with a brief description of the terms of the easement, lease or other agreement by which such access is afforded.

4. Subsection (1)(m) requires a statement as to the status of construction and the estimated dates of completion for improvements not completed. Under RCW 64.34-.232, the declarant is obligated to label all improvements which may be made in the condominium as either "MUST BE BUILT" or "NEED NOT BE BUILT." Under RCW 64.34.465, the declarant is obligated to complete all improvements labeled "MUST BE BUILT." The estimated schedule of commencement and completion of construction dates provides a standard for judging whether a declarant has complied with the requirements of RCW 64.34.465.

5. Subsection 1(n) requires a disclosure of the "estimated current common expense liability" for the units being offered for sale. In addition to ensuring that such information will be available to prospective purchasers, this is intended to eliminate the quotation of deceptively low assessments by the seller when the seller knows that because of the deferral of payments, inadequate reserves, nominal charges for services performed by the declarant which must be obtained from third parties in the future, and other reasons, significant increases in assessments are expected.

6. Under subsection (1)(p), the declarant is obligated to disclose any current or expected fees or charges which unit owners may be required to pay for the use of the common elements and other facilities related to the condominium. Such fees or charges might include swimming pool fees, golf course fees, or required membership fees for recreation associations.

7. Subsection (1)(q) requires a disclosure of certain "assessments." The use of that word in this section is not the defined term under RCW 64.34.020(3), but refers to real property special assessments, local improvement district assessments and the like which may be levied against the unit as a result of the condominium's inclusion in a special assessment district.

8. Subsection (1)(t) requires the disclosure of any restrictions against "timesharing." The term "timeshare" has the meaning set forth in RCW 64.36.010(11), and includes use sharing arrangements established through the sale of undivided fee interests and "right to use" programs.

9. Subsection (1)(v) requires a description of the material differences in a model unit available for inspection by a prospective purchaser and the unit being offered to such purchaser. This disclosure is limited to model units which are actually available to the purchaser at the time of an inspection. Consequently, the public offering statement need not be amended if such a model unit is altered or replaced, unless that particular purchaser was led to believe that any resulting alterations or additions would be included in its unit.

10. Subsection (1)(x) requires a listing of physical hazards known to the declarant which particularly affect the condominium. These would not include matters which are obvious, such as hazards resulting from a busy intersection, the possibility of adverse weather conditions, and the like. On the other hand, to the extent unusual environmental conditions would affect the use or enjoyment of the condominium or the condominium is located near the end of an airport runway, such items would be expected to be disclosed.

11. Subsections (1)(ff) and (gg) require certain notices to be contained at the top of the first page of the public offering statement pursuant to RCW 64.34.410(4). These are to be typed or printed in 10-point bold-faced type size using the language set forth in the statute.

RCW 64.34.415. PUBLIC OFFERING STATEMENT; CONDOMINIUMS CONTAINING CONVERSION BUILDINGS.

1. In the case of a condominium containing one or more conversion buildings, the disclosure of additional information relating to the condition of those buildings, to the extent reasonably ascertainable, is required in the public offering statement because of the difficulty inherent in a single purchaser attempting to determine the condition of what is likely to be an older building being renovated for the purpose of condominium sales.

2. Subsection (1)(a) requires the person who gives the public offering statement to retain an independent architect or engineer to report on the present condition of all structural components and fixed mechanical and electrical installations in the conversion building. Such information is as useful to the declarant as to the purchaser since, under the implied warranty provisions of RCW 64.34.445, a declarant impliedly warrants all improvements made by any person to the building "before creation of the condominium" unless such improvements are specifically excluded from the implied warranty of quality pursuant to RCW 64.34.450(2).

3. Any material changes in the "present condition" of these systems must be reported by an amendment to the public offering statement.

4. Under subsection (1)(c), the person required to give the public offering statement is required to provide purchasers with a list of all outstanding notices of uncured violations of building codes or other municipal regulations. The literal wording of this provision does not require disclosure of known violations of such building codes or municipal regulations (at least violations having no effect upon the structural components or fixed mechanical and electrical installations of the condominium) unless actual "notices" of such violations have been received. To the extent that outstanding notices of uncured violations do exist, the cost of curing such violations would become a liability of the unit owners or the association following transfer of the unit to a purchaser. For that reason, the estimated cost of curing any outstanding violations must also be disclosed.

5. For the same reasons set forth in the Comment to RCW 64.34.400(1), this section does not apply to units which are restricted exclusively to nonresidential use.

RCW 64.34.____. MULTIPLE OFFERING STATEMENTS.

In addition to the public offering statement required under RCW 64.34.4103 or RCW 64.34.415, a declarant may be required to file a similar disclosure statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission of the United States or in connection with various state laws, including the Securities Act of Washington, Chapter 21.20 RCW; the Land Development Act of 1973, Chapter 58.19 RCW; the Timeshare Act, Chapter 64.36 RCW; or the Camping Resorts Act, Chapter 19.105 RCW. The goal of RCW 64.34.____ is to assure full disclosure to prospective unit purchasers while at the same time avoiding redundant disclosure documents.

RCW 64.34.420. PURCHASER'S RIGHT TO CANCEL.

1. Subsection (1) requires that each purchaser be provided with both the public offering statement and all material amendments thereto prior to the time that the unit is conveyed. The section makes clear that any material amendments to the public offering statement prepared between the date of any contract and the date of conveyance must also be provided to the purchaser.

2. This section does not require the delivery of a public offering statement prior to the execution by the purchaser of an agreement pursuant to which the purchaser reserves the right to buy a unit but is not contractually bound to do so. If such agreements (frequently referred to as "reservation agreements") may be unilaterally canceled at any time by a prospective purchaser without penalty, they do not constitute "contracts of sale" within the meaning of the section.

3. The requirement set forth in subsection (1) that a purchaser be provided with subsequent material amendments to the public offering statement during the period between execution of the contract for purchase and conveyance of the unit does not, in itself, extend the "cooling off" period. Indeed, the delivery of such amendments is required even if the "cooling off" period has expired. The purpose of this requirement is to assure that purchasers of units are advised of any material change in the condominium which may affect their sales contracts under general law. While many such amendments will be merely technical and will not affect the bargain that the purchaser and declarant entered into, each purchaser should be advised of any changes in the nature of the condominium to determine whether cancellation of the contract should be pursued.

4. Under the scheme set forth in this section, it is at least theoretically possible that there will be a contract for sale of the unit, and that a public offering statement will be given to the purchaser at closing just prior to conveyance. However, the available evidence suggests that such practice would be rare, and that the provision of a public offering statement moments prior to conveyance would, in itself, tend to dampen the enthusiasm of the purchaser for immediate closing. In such circumstances, under subsection (1), the purchaser has the right to extend the date of closing for up to 7 days from the time the public offering statement was provided. This fact, together with the generally unsatisfactory experience with mandatory "cooling off" periods such as that imposed under the federal Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act, supports the conclusion that it is inappropriate to require a minimum period of delay between delivery of a public offering statement and conveyance.

5. Under subsection (1), the failure to deliver a public offering statement before conveyance does not result in a statutory right by the purchaser to cancel the conveyance or to reconvey the unit once conveyance has occurred. Any such cancellation or reconveyance right following an actual conveyance could create serious mechanical and title problems that could not be easily resolved. The failure of the Act to provide for such cancellation or reconveyance is not, however, intended to diminish any right which a purchaser may otherwise have under general state law. For example, where it appears that a seller, by deliberately failing to disclose certain material information with respect to a transaction, substantially changed the bargain which he and the purchaser entered into, it is possible under the common law that reconveyance would be an available remedy.

Even absent such resort to general law, however, the penalty provisions of subsection (3) are designed to provide a sufficient incentive to the seller to insure that the public offering statement is provided in the timely fashion required by the Act. The penalty so specified in the subsection is in addition to any right a prevailing purchaser may have under RCW 64.34.455 to collect attorney's fees in connection with his action against the declarant.

1. In the case of the resale of a unit by a private unit owner who is not a declarant or dealer, a public offering statement need not be provided. See RCW 64.34.405(3). Nevertheless, there are important facts which a purchaser should have in order to make a rational judgment about the advisability of purchasing the particular condominium unit. Accordingly, each unit owner not required to furnish a public offering statement under RCW 64.34.405(3) and not exempt under RCW 64.34.400(2) is required to furnish to a resale purchaser, before the execution of any contract of sale, a copy of the declaration, bylaws, and rules and regulations of the association and a variety of fiscal, insurance, and other information concerning the condominium and the unit.

2. While the obligation to provide the information required by this section rests upon each unit owner (since the purchaser is in privity only with that unit owner), the association has an obligation to provide the information to the unit owner within 10 days after a request for such information. Under RCW 64.34.304(1)(i), the association is entitled to charge the unit owner a reasonable fee for the preparation of the certificate. Should the association fail to provide the certificate as required, the unit owner would have a right to action against the association pursuant to RCW 64.34.455.

3. Under subsection (3), if a purchaser receives a resale certificate which fails to state the proper amount of the unpaid assessments due from the purchased unit, the purchaser is not liable for any amount greater than that disclosed in the resale certificate. Because a resale purchaser is dependent upon the association for information with respect to the outstanding assessments against the unit which he contemplates buying, it is altogether appropriate that the association should be prohibited from later collecting greater assessments than those disclosed prior to the time of the resale purchase.

RCW 64.34.430. ESCROW OF DEPOSITS.

1. This section applies to the sale by persons required to furnish public offering statements of residential units and of non-residential units unless waived pursuant to the provisions of RCW 64.34.400. It does not apply, however, to resales of units between private parties.

2. This section provides declarant a number of choices as to the appropriate escrow agent. To minimize record keeping the institutional depository could itself be the escrow agent. The section does not require a separate account for each unit, so that mingling of funds in a single escrow account would be permitted.

3. The escrow requirements of this section apply in connection with any deposit made by a purchaser, whether such deposit is made pursuant to a binding contract or pursuant to a non-binding reservation agreement (with respect to which no public offering statement is required under RCW 64.34.400(2)(f)).

RCW 64.34.435. RELEASE OF LIENS.

The exemption for withdrawable real estate set forth in subsection (1) is designed to preserve flexibility for the declarant in terms of financing arrangements. Theoretically, a declarant might partially avoid the lien release requirement of subsection (1) by placing part of the common element improvements such as a swimming pool or tennis court on withdrawable real estate. By doing so, it could separately mortgage that part of the common elements without being obligated to discharge the mortgage or secure partial releases when individual units are sold. (However, even if there were no withdrawable real estate exemption from the release of lien requirement, declarants could still separately mortgage such improvements as pools and tennis courts without having to discharge the mortgage on sale of units. All they would have to do is leave the particular real estate out of the condominium and then convey it directly to the association subject to the mortgage.)

If a mortgage or other lien created by or arising against the declarant attaches to withdrawable real estate after the declaration has been recorded, a lapse of the declarant's right to withdraw the real estate would also terminate the rights of the lienor, since the lien would attach only to the declarant's interest (the right to withdraw). However, an alert lienor would not permit the right to withdraw to lapse without taking steps to see that the right to withdraw is exercised. If the mortgage or other lien attached to the real estate and was perfected before the condominium declaration was recorded, lapse of the right to withdraw would not affect the lienor's rights and it could foreclose on the real estate whether or not the developer had lost the right to withdraw. As a practical matter, whether the mortgage or other lien against withdrawable real estate arises before or after the declaration is recorded, unit owners may find that, if the association does not release liens on withdrawable real estate containing common elements, the lienor will be able to withdraw the land and deprive the unit owners of its use. Therefore, unit purchasers and their counsel should be alert to that possibility.

If units are created in withdrawable real estate, the units, when sold, are subject to the release-of-lien rule of subsection (1) and after a unit in a particular withdrawable parcel is sold, that parcel can no longer be withdrawn. In that case, any lien created by or arising against the developer which attached to that real estate would be subordinate to the condominium declaration and would automatically expire.

RCW 64.34.440. CONVERSION BUILDINGS.

1. One of the most controversial issues in the field of condominium development relates to conversion of rental buildings to condominiums. Opponents of conversions point out that the frequent result of conversions, which occur principally in large urban areas, is to displace low- and moderate-income tenants and provide homes for more affluent persons able to afford the higher prices which the converted apartments command. Indeed, studies indicate that the burden of conversion displacement falls most frequently on low- and moderate-income and elderly persons. At the same time, the conversion of a building to condominium ownership can lead to a substantial increase in property value, a result which proponents believe can be an important factor in curtailing the problem of declining urban tax bases. Proponents also point out that the conversion of rental units in inner-city areas to individual ownership frequently results in the stabilization of the buildings concerned, thus providing an important technique for use in neighborhood preservation and revitalization.

2. In an attempt to strike a fair balance between the competing interests of rental tenants and prospective owners, subsection (2) provides the tenant a right for 60 days to purchase the unit which he leases at a price and on terms offered by the declarant. The subsection discourages unreasonable offers by declarants by providing that, if the tenant fails to accept the terms offered, the declarant may not thereafter sell the unit at a lower price or upon more favorable terms to a third person for at least 180 days. However, the declarant is not required to offer residential tenants the right to purchase commercial units or to offer to sell to tenants if the dimensions of their previous apartments have been substantially altered. The reason for this exception is that, if an apartment is subdivided or if two apartments are merged into a single condominium unit, compliance with the requirements of subsection (b) would be impossible.

3. Except for the restrictions on permissible evictions stated in subsection (1), this Act does not change the law of summary process in this state. As a result, if a tenant refuses to vacate the premises following the 90-day notice, the usual provisions of the state's summary process statutes would apply, while any defenses available to a tenant would also be available.

4. Subsection (6) permits cities and counties, on a local option basis, to require a governmental housing code inspection in addition to the report required under RCW 64.34.415(1)(a), that violations of the housing code be repaired and that such repairs be warranted for one year, and payment of a relocation allowance. Subsection (6)(e) is intended to provide specific authorization for such relocation assistance and to establish the Legislature's clear intent that RCW 82.02.020 is not a bar to such assistance in connection with residential condominium conversions. Similar provisions are contained in some existing local conversion ordinances.

5. A number of local jurisdictions have adopted conversion ordinances. The evolving "patchwork" of state and local regulation has resulted in property owners, tenants, unit purchasers, lenders, title insurers and others involved in the condominium conversion process being confronted with widely divergent rights, duties, obligations and procedures. Accordingly, except for the "local option" provisions of subsection (6), the Legislature intended by the adoption of this section (as well as other related sections, including RCW 64.34.415 and RCW 64.34.443 - 450) to preempt and replace local condominium conversion ordinances with a uniform state-wide set of regulations. See also RCW 64.34.050 and the related comments concerning applicability of local ordinances and regulations.

1. This section, together with RCW 64.34.445, RCW 64.34.450 and RCW 64.34.____, are adapted from the real estate warranty provisions contained in the Uniform Land Transactions Act (ULTA).

2. This section, which parallels Section 2-308 of ULTA, deals with express warranties, that is, with the expectations of the purchaser created by particular conduct of the declarant in connection with inducement of the sale. It is based on the principle that, once it is established that the declarant has acted so as to create particular expectations in the purchaser, warranty should be found unless it is clear that, prior to the time of final agreement, the declarant has negated the conduct which created the expectation. Because of the requirements imposed on the declarant to disclose information to the prospective purchasers in writing, a purchaser should not rely on oral statements concerning the unit or the condominium. Accordingly, this section makes it clear that, except with respect to the model unit, express warranties are created only in writing, such as in the public offering statement or a separate writing signed by the declarant or the declarant's authorized agent.

3. Subsection (2) makes it clear that no specific intention to make a warranty is necessary if any of the factors mentioned in subsection (1) are made part of the basis of the bargain between the parties. In actual practice, representations made by a declarant concerning condominium property during the bargaining process are typically regarded as a part of the description. Therefore, no particular reliance on the representations need be shown in order to weave them into the fabric of the agreement. Rather, the burden is on the declarant to show that representations made in the bargaining process were not relied upon by the purchaser at the time of contracting.

4. Subsection (1)(a) provides that representations as to improvements and facilities not located in the condominium may create express warranties. Declarants often assert that recreational facilities, such as swimming pools, golf courses, tennis courts, etc., will be constructed in the future and that unit owners will have the right to utilize such facilities once constructed. Such assertions are intended to be included within the language "have the benefit of facilities not located in the condominium." If, under the circumstances, such improvements would benefit the unit being sold, then the declarant may be liable for breach of express warranty if they are not completed. Such liability is distinct from the declarant's obligations, under RCW 64.34.465, to complete all improvements labeled "MUST BE BUILT" on plats and plans.

5. Under subsection (1)(d), a contract provision permitting the purchaser to use a condominium unit only for a specified use or uses creates an express warranty that the unit may lawfully be used for that purpose. Therefore, if there is a limitation on use, the resulting express warranty could not be disclaimed by a disclaimer of implied warranties under RCW 64.34.450.

6. The precise time when representations set forth in subsection (1) are made is not material. The sole question is whether the language of the declarant are fairly to be regarded as part of the contract between the parties.

7. The provision of subsection (3) that the conveyance of a unit transfers to the purchaser all express warranties made by prior declarants is intended, in part, to avoid the possibility that a declarant could negate his warranty obligations through the device of transferring a unit through a shell entity to the ultimate purchaser.

RCW 64.34.445. IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF QUALITY.

1. This section, which is based upon Section 2-309 of ULTA, overturns the rule still applied in many states that a professional seller of real estate makes no implied warranties of quality (the rule of "caveat emptor"). In recent years, that rule has been increasingly recognized as a relic of an earlier age whose continued existence defeats reasonable expectations of purchasers. Since the 1930's, more and more courts have completely or partially abolished the caveat emptor rule, and it is clear that the judicial tide is now running in favor of seller liability.

2. The principal warranty imposed under this section is that of suitability of both the unit and common elements for ordinary uses of real estate of similar type, and of quality of construction. Both of these warranties, which arise under subsection (2), are imposed only against declarants and dealers and not against unit owners selling their units to others.

3. Many recent cases have held that a seller of new housing impliedly warrants that the houses sold are habitable. The warranty of suitability under this Act is similar to the warranty of habitability although it is broader than interpreted by our Supreme Court. Under the Act, the warranty of suitability applies to both units and common elements in both commercial and residential condominiums. If, for example, a commercial unit is sold for commercial use although it is not suitable for the ordinary uses of condominium units of that type, the warranty of suitability has been breached. Moreover, this warranty of suitability arises in the case of used, as well as new, buildings or other improvements in the condominium.

4. The warranty of suitability and of quality of construction arises only against a declarant and a dealer. As in the case of sales of goods, a non-professional seller is liable, if at all, only for any express warranties such seller makes. However, if a non-professional seller fails to disclose defects of which such seller is aware, that seller may be liable to the purchaser for fraud or misrepresentation under the common law of the state where the transaction occurred. Also, the warranties imposed by this section may be used to give content to a general "guarantee" by a non-professional seller.

5. The warranty as to quality of construction for improvements made or contracted for by the declarant or made by any person before the creation of the condominium is broader than the warranty of suitability. Particularly, it imposes liability for defects which may not be so serious as to render the condominium unsuitable for ordinary purposes of real estate of similar type. Moreover, subsection (5) prevents a declarant from avoiding liability with respect to the quality of construction warranty by having an affiliated entity make the desired improvements.

6. Under subsection (3), a declarant also warrants to a residential purchaser that an existing use contemplated by the parties does not violate applicable law. The declarant, therefore, is liable for any violation of housing codes or other laws which renders any existing use of the condominium unlawful.

7. The issue of declarant liability for warranties is an important one in cases where a transfer of the declarant's rights occurs, either as an arm's length transaction, as a transfer to an affiliate, or as a transfer by foreclosure or a deed in lieu of foreclosure. Subsection (6) makes clear that a conveyance of a unit transfers to the purchaser all warranties of quality made by any declarant, and RCW 64.34.316(2)(a) makes clear that the original declarant remains liable for all warranties of quality with respect to improvements made by the declarant, even after the declarant transfers all declarant rights, regardless of whether the unit is purchased from the declarant who made the improvements. If the successor declarant is an affiliate of the original declarant, it is clear, under both RCW 64.34.316(2)(b) and RCW 64.34.445(5), that the original declarant remains liable for warranties of quality or improvements made by his successor even after the declarant himself ceases to have any special declarant rights.

8. As to the liabilities of successor declarants for warranties of quality, a successor who is an affiliate of a declarant is liable, pursuant to RCW 64.34.316(5)(a), for warranties or improvements made by the successor declarant's predecessor. However, any non-affiliated successor of the original declarant is liable only for warranties of quality for improvements made or contracted for by such successor, and is not liable for warranties which may lie against the original declarant even if the success or sells units completed by the original declarant to a purchaser. See RCW 64.34.316(5)(b). In the case of a foreclosing lender, this is the same result as that reached under Section 2-309(f) of ULTA. The same result is also reached under ULTA in the case of a successor who, under ULTA Section 3-309(b), would be a seller in the business of selling real estate since under that subsection the seller is liable only for warranties or improvements made or contracted for by such seller.

RCW 64.34.450. EXCLUSION OR MODIFICATION OF IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF QUALITY.

1. This section parallels Section 2-311(b) and (c) of ULTA.

2. Under this section, implied warranties of quality may be disclaimed in writing. However, a warranty disclaimer clause, like any other contract clause, is subject to a possible court holding of unconscionability.

3. Except as against purchasers of residential units, there are no formal standards for the effectiveness of a disclaimer clause. All that is necessary under this section is that the disclaimer be calculated to effectively notify the purchaser of the nature of the disclaimer.

4. Under subsection (2), general disclaimers of implied warranties are not permitted with respect to purchasers of residential units. However, a declarant may disclaim liability for a specified defect or a specified failure to comply with applicable law in an instrument signed by such a purchaser. The requirement that the disclaimer as to each defect or failure be in a signed instrument is designed to insure that the declarant sufficiently calls each defect or failure to the purchaser's attention and that the purchaser has the opportunity to consider the effect of the particular defect or failure upon the bargain of the parties. Consequently, this section imposes a special burden upon the declarant who desires to make a "laundry list" of defects or failures by requiring him to emphasize each item on such a list and make its import clear to prospective purchasers. For example, the declarant of a conversion condominium might, consistent with this subsection, disclaim certain warranties for "all electrical wiring and fixtures in the building, the furnace, all materials comprising or supporting the roof, and all components of the air conditioning system."

5. This section is not intended to be inconsistent with, or to prevent, the use of insured warranty programs offered by some home builders. However, under the Act, the implied warranty that a new condominium unit will be suitable for ordinary uses (i.e., habitable) and will be constructed in a sound, workmanlike manner, and free of defective materials, cannot be disclaimed by general language.

RCW 64.34.____. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS FOR WARRANTIES.

1. Unlike Section 4-116(1) of the UCA, the statute of limitations under RCW 64.34.____(1) of the Act may not be shortened even by written agreement between the parties.

2. Except for warranties of quality which explicitly refer to future performance or duration, a cause of action for breach of warranty of quality would normally arise with respect to a unit, when the purchaser to whom it is first made enters into possession; and with respect to a common element, when the first unit is sold or, if later, when the common element is created or added to the condominium. Suit on such a warranty would thus have to be brought within four years thereafter, unless such period is extended with respect to the common elements as a result of the declarant's maintaining control of the association under RCW 64.34.308(4). Neither the failure nor the inability to discover the breach will not delay the running of the statute of limitations.

RCW 64.34.455. EFFECT OF VIOLATIONS ON RIGHTS OF ACTION; ATTORNEY'S FEES.

This section provides a general cause of action or claim for relief for failure to comply with the Act by either a declarant or any other person subject to the Act's provisions. Such persons might include unit owners, persons exercising a declarant's rights of appointment pursuant to RCW 64.34.308(4), or the association. A claim for appropriate relief might include damages, injunctive relief, specific performance, rescission or reconveyance if appropriate under the law of the state, or any other remedy normally available under state law. The section specifically refers to "any person or class of persons" to indicate that any relief available under the state class action statute would be available in circumstances where a failure to comply with this Act has occurred. This section permits attorney's fees to be awarded in the discretion of the court to any party that prevails in any action.

RCW 64.34.460. LABELING OF PROMOTIONAL MATERIAL.

1. RCW 64.34.232(3) requires that the survey maps and plans for every condominium indicate whether or not any improvement that might be built in the condominium must be built. RCW 64.34.410 requires copies of the survey maps and plans be provided to purchasers as part of the public offering statement. This section requiring the labeling of improvements depicted on promotional material is appropriate to ensure that purchasers are not deceived with respect to which improvements the declarant is obligated to make in a particular condominium project.

2. Since no contemplated improvements on real estate subject to development rights need be shown on survey maps and plans, additional labeling is required by this section to insure that, if the declarant shows any contemplated improvements in his promotional material which are not shown on the survey maps and plans, those improvements must also be appropriately labeled.

RCW 64.34.465. DECLARANT'S OBLIGATION TO COMPLETE AND RESTORE.

1. Subsection (1) requires the declarant to complete any improvement which the plats or plans indicate, pursuant to the requirements of RCW 64.34.232(3), "MUST BE BUILT." This is a fundamental obligation of the declarant and is one with which a successor declarant is obligated to comply under RCW 64.34.316.

2. Under subsection (2), if a declarant exercises the right to use an easement which is created by RCW 64.34.260, or if the declarant maintains model units or signs on the condominium, the declarant is obligated to restore the portions of the condominium used to a condition compatible with the remainder of the condominium.

RCW 64.34.____. SUBSTANTIAL COMPLETION OF UNITS.

1. This section makes it clear that contracts for sale can validly be entered into before recording the declaration and survey map and plans.

2. RCW 64.34.200(2) prohibits filing a declaration until all units thereby created are substantially completed in accordance with the plans required to be recorded by RCW 64.34.232 of this act. As discussed in comments to RCW 64.34.200, a unit may be sufficiently completed to enable plans to be recorded, but not be finished and ready for occupancy. This section requires that the unit at the time of conveyance be substantially completed and ready for occupancy unless the purchaser and seller specifically agree otherwise, thus protecting the purchaser in the usual transaction and also permitting by agreement the purchase and sale of "shell" condominium units.

RCW 64.34.940. CONSTRUCTION AGAINST IMPLICIT REPEAL.

RCW 64.34.950. UNIFORMITY OF APPLICATION AND CONSTRUCTION.

This Act should be construed in accordance with its underlying purpose of making uniform the law with respect to condominiums, as well as the purposes stated in the Prefatory Note of simplifying, clarifying, and modernizing the law of condominiums, promoting the interstate flow of funds to condominiums, and protecting consumers, purchasers and borrowers against condominium practices which may cause unreasonable risk of loss to them. Accordingly, the text of each section should be read in light of the purpose and policy of the rule or principle in question, and also of the Act as a whole.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE ON SENATE BILL
1990 SECOND SPECIAL SESSION

June 6, 1990

TO THE HONORABLE, THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to advise you that on June 6, 1990, Governor Gardner approved the following Senate Bill entitled:

Senate Bill No. 6913

Relating to local government.

Sincerely,

Thomas J. Felnagle, Legal Counsel to the Governor

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGES ON SENATE BILLS
VETOED AND PARTIALLY VETOED

1990 REGULAR SESSION, FIRST AND SECOND SPECIAL SESSIONS

April 13, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 8, Senate Bill No. 5371 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to excellence in teacher preparation."

This bill establishes two important programs. It creates an annual award program to recognize excellent higher education teacher educators. The second portion of the bill establishes the excellence in teacher preparation program to provide cooperating teachers to all student teachers during their internship with local school districts. Both programs are essential components in our continuing efforts to improve teacher preparation and I am pleased to sign them into law.

Section 8 of the bill, however, delays the effective date for the sections of the bill that establish the excellence in teacher preparation program. It is important that this program go into effect without delay to allow the Superintendent of Public Instruction to publish regulations and the institutions of higher education to begin the planning process that will enable them to begin operating the program as soon as funds are appropriated.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed section 8.

With the exception of section 8, Senate Bill No. 5371 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

March 31, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5835 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to energy education."

This bill requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction, with the assistance of an Energy Education Advisory Committee, to develop and disseminate an energy information program for use in local school districts.

It is essential that the state's citizens understand the need for using energy efficiently and the trade-offs associated with acquiring energy resources. I concur that it is desirable to begin a public education campaign on energy issues through our school system.

Section 3 requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction to establish an Energy Education Advisory Committee but includes no sunset date for that committee. Currently, the Superintendent has authority to establish ad-hoc committees as the need arises. The Superintendent has assured me that individuals representing a broad spectrum of viewpoints on energy issues will be consulted.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed section 3 of Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5835.

With the exception of section 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5835 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

March 29, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 2 and 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5882 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to reckless, negligent, and inattentive driving."

Section 1 of this bill makes the crime of reckless driving a gross misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of up to one year and by a fine of up to five thousand dollars. Increased penalties for this serious traffic offense should be a useful tool to prosecutors, police and judges.

Section 2 provides a 90-day maximum jail sentence for the less serious traffic offense of negligent driving. Currently, negligent driving is not punishable by imprisonment. While the overall intent of this bill is to provide judges with more options through increased penalties, this particular change fails to accomplish the intended result. It is counterproductive to increase the penalty for negligent driving while at the same time trying to reduce the number of cases that are plea-bargained from DWI and reckless driving to negligent driving. Of additional concern is the drain on resources associated with this change. Emphasis must be placed on providing the jail space and law enforcement personnel to assure convictions and stiff sentences for our most serious criminal and traffic offenders. I encourage the Legislature, working together with local officials, to pursue comprehensive solutions for our criminal justice system.

Section 3 creates a new traffic infraction of inattentive driving. The definition of this new infraction potentially punishes behavior where no erratic driving is present and thus creates enforcement problems for the police. Existing specific violations are adequate and this infraction is unnecessary.

For the reasons stated, I have vetoed sections 2 and 3.

With the exception of sections 2 and 3, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5882 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

April 23, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6114 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to corrections."

This measure creates a statutory formula for providing mitigation funds to counties where state correctional facilities are located. The Department of Corrections is required to provide funds based on the number of inmates' families living in close proximity to the facility.

It is the policy of this state to reimburse local governments for the direct impacts experienced by the location of correctional facilities. The Institutional Impact Account has been created to ensure that counties are compensated when they provide services required by the activities of inmates.

This bill, however, proposes to go further by providing mitigation funds for impacts that are not directly associated with the operation of the facility. Further, the term "close proximity" is inexact, as is the term "inmate family." Thus, this bill provides neither a clear rationale nor a workable model for providing mitigation funds.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 6114 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

March 29, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to prevention of head injuries."

Section 5 requires the Department of Health to establish a state-wide trauma registry to collect information on the incidence, severity, and causes of traumatic brain injury. This registry is to identify and track major brain injury cases from onset through rehabilitation or recovery, and is to keep specific statistics on helmet and non-helmet, motorcycle-related head and neck injuries. This section would also require the Department of Health to report to the Legislature on the feasibility of expanding the registry to include information on minor brain injuries.

This bill contains an appropriation of $49,000 to the Department of Health for all the purposes of this act. The Department's estimate of the fiscal impact of section 5 alone is nearly $500,000. I cannot in good conscience sign into law a program which will put the Department of Health at such a fiscal risk.

However, I am signing into law Substitute Senate Bill No. 6191. Substitute Senate Bill No. 6191 requires the Department of Health to establish a state-wide data registry to collect and analyze data on the incidence, severity, and causes of trauma, including traumatic brain injury. That provision is more comprehensive than section 5 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190. It is very likely that if adequately funded, the Department could collect the information required by section 5 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190 in the overall trauma registry of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6191.

For these reasons, I have vetoed section 5 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190.

With the exception of Section 5, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6190 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

March 31, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6253 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the regulatory taking of private property by state government."

This bill sets a bad precedent by attempting to turn a complex and changing legal area into an overly simplistic administrative checklist. The bill also sends a very threatening message to agencies regarding the regulation of land use for health, safety and environmental protection. In addition, it creates an administrative process intended, but legally unable, to replace a current judicial process.

While it is true that both the state and U.S. Constitutions prohibit the "taking" of property without just compensation, it is not true that any regulation of land amounts to a "taking." More importantly, should a regulation amount to a constitutional infringement on someone's property rights, the analysis may well be that of a violation of due process, rather than a "taking", in which case the remedy is invalidation not compensation. The recent Washington Supreme Court opinion, Presbytery of Seattle v. King County, re-emphasized that there is only a slight risk of a taking occurring from regulatory programs, such as King County's wetland ordinance.

This bill would establish yet another administrative layer in state government. In conducting rule-making, state agencies currently must comply with the Administrative Procedure Act, the Regulatory Fairness Act, the State Economic Policy Act, and the State Environmental Policy Act. All agency rules are also submitted to a joint legislative committee for review (JARRC). Yet another layer would only further delay agency action and provide more reason for the public to view government as an administrative nightmare.

This bill would require the Attorney General's office to develop guidelines for evaluating and avoiding the risk of "regulatory takings." The Attorney General's office, in its role of advising each state agency, already reviews policies and provides advice on constitutional parameters. There is no need to codify the nature of the advice given, especially since the parameters have been and may continue to evolve within the judicial system.

The real impact of this bill is to impose an additional layer of review on governmental regulation in the hope that a more cautious approach by governmental entities will ensue. A bill such as this only serves to intimidate regulatory entities from making the difficult but necessary choices presented by the most sensitive environmental land-use problems.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 6253.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

February 28, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1202, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 6259, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to criminal offenders."

Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 6259 is among the most significant legislation enacted in Washington State. Stemming from brutally violent crimes that recently rocked our state, this measure represents a comprehensive, balanced, and effective approach to addressing sexual violence in our communities.

In order to ensure that careful deliberation was given to changes in the state's criminal justice system's response to violent predatory crimes, I authorized the creation of the Governor's Task Force on Community Protection. The Task Force was able to reach broad agreement on the elements of this bill by listening not only to professionals who work with offenders and victims, but also to citizens around the state who had been touched by crime.

One of the Task Force's recommendations was the creation of a crime victims' advocate with programmatic responsibilities within the Department of Community Development. Section 1202 places the crime victims' advocate within the Governor's Office. A grant program is created separately within the Department of Community Development.

I endorse the creation of a crime victims' advocate to review and coordinate victim's programs. To prevent fragmentation, however, I believe the position should be located in an agency with program responsibilities.

For these reasons, I am vetoing section 1202 of Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 6259. In concert with this veto, I am promulgating an Executive Order establishing the office of crime victims' advocacy within the Department of Community Development.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

March 30, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 6292 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the control of mosquitos."

This bill allows local mosquito control districts to establish a policy that the control of mosquitos within the district is the responsibility of the owner of the land from which the mosquitos originate. However, section 1 of the bill expands the common definition of owner from the possessor of the legal or equitable title to include anyone with any other interest entitling the person to possession or management control. Individuals who are renting or leasing property would, therefore, be responsible for mosquito control. This definition would confuse landowners and tenants and would be inconsistent with other statutes relating to property ownership and management. For these reasons I have vetoed section 1.

With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 6292 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

March 28, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1, 2, 4, 5, and 6, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6306 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to tenure modification at community colleges."

Section 2 of this bill amends the community college faculty tenure review process by changing the maximum probationary period language from "three consecutive college years, excluding summer quarters" to "nine consecutive college quarters, excluding summer quarters and approved leaves of absence". In addition, section 2 provides that the probationary period could be extended up to three additional college quarters upon the recommendation of the review committee, and with the consent of the probationary faculty member and the appointing authority. Both the institution and the probationer would benefit by these changes.

I am supportive of an initiative which clarifies, and possibly lengthens, the performance review of faculty appointees prior to the granting of tenure, as long as the initiative improves the review process. I do not believe, however, that this proposed legislation adequately corrects the problems associated with the award of faculty tenure following a probationary period.

Under current law, the appointing authority, upon deciding not to renew a probationary faculty appointment, is required to notify the probationer of its decision by no later than the last day of the winter quarter in the third consecutive college year. Since this requirement was not eliminated in conjunction with the probationary period changes, virtually no improvement is made to the current review process. With the removal of section 2, sections 1, 4, 5 and 6 are superfluous. For these reasons, I have vetoed sections 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6306.

Section 3 of this bill requires the State Board of Community College Education to conduct a study of salaries for faculty and administrators at Community Colleges. That study, which I support, is already underway. This provision has the benefit of formalizing that study and setting a reporting date.

With the exception of sections 1, 2, 4, 5, and 6, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6306 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

March 23, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 6399 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to employer cooperation with the office of support enforcement."

Section 1 dramatically reduces the sanctions against employers who unlawfully penalize a person who pays child support through wage assignment.

Employers have cooperated well with wage assignment statutes, and there has been no indication that the existing sanctions have been abused to the detriment of employers.

Employee protections were established in furtherance of public policy that encourages and protects persons who pay their child support. Children also benefit when persons supporting them are protected from arbitrary actions by employers.

With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 6399 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

April 23, 1990

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 116(7), section 120(5), section 206(1)(a)(iv), section 207(1)(g), section 208(14), section 218(7), section 221(8), section 225(25), section 225(27), section 229(2)(c), section 229(3)(b), section 302(20), section 302(25), section 306(17), section 306(18), section 306(19), section 306(26), and section 705 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6407 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to fiscal matters."

My reasons for vetoing these sections are as follows:

Section 116(7)

This section directs the Office of Financial Management to study the Schools for the Deaf and Blind to determine the management organization and fiscal practices necessary for maximum operational and financial efficiency.

I am vetoing this item because these studies have already been done. Another study will not improve the operations of these schools. I will direct the Office of Financial Management to assist the schools to improve their efficiency and fiscal practices, but I do not feel another study at this time is needed.

Section 120(5)

Section 120(5) directs the Department of Revenue to immediately promulgate and implement a rule providing for fair and equitable applications of the business and occupation tax to persons engaged in business as tour operators. The Department has processes in place through which any taxpayer or group of taxpayers can appeal their treatment under the state's tax laws and Administrative Code. I am vetoing this subsection because it constitutes an inappropriate intrusion into the appeal and due process provisions already present in tax law and the Washington Administrative Code.

Section 206(1)(a)(iv)

Section 206(1)(a)(iv) requires that mentally ill nursing-home residents who do not need a nursing-home level of care be transferred and provided services through regional support networks. Further, the person may not be transferred without his or her consent or consent of his or her guardian.

This requirement for consent is in conflict with federal Medicaid requirements for nursing-homes, as amended by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987. The federal law requires that, in some cases, mentally ill nursing-home residents who do not need a nursing-home level of care must be discharged. Were the state to allow persons meeting the federal discharge criteria to reside in Medicaid-funded nursing-homes, the federal government would not share in the nursing home cost of care.

Section 207(1)(g)

This item directs that portions of the money appropriated in section 207 are provided solely for salary and benefit increases for employees of community-contracted facilities serving the developmentally disabled. The chairs of the legislative fiscal committees have indicated by letter that the intent of the Legislature was that these funds be provided only to residential facilities serving the developmentally disabled. Therefore, to ensure that these funds are expended as intended, I am vetoing this item and directing the Department of Social and Health Services to expend the funds to provide salary and benefit increases effective May 1, 1990, for employees of community-contracted residential facilities serving the developmentally disabled.

Section 208(14)

This subsection directs that mentally ill persons not in need of nursing home care may be referred to residences outside regional support networks. Senate Bill

No. 5400 and the 1989 Biennial Budget bill directed the Department of Social and Health Services to implement the federal Omnibus Budget and Reconciliation Act of 1987 (OBRA). Senate Bill No. 5400 requires that funding be distributed to regional support networks for residential services for a variety of populations, including persons transferred from nursing homes. The budget bill appropriated all OBRA funding to the regional support networks. The Department, with legislative endorsement, is implementing OBRA beds incrementally in areas of the state with regional support networks. At this point of the biennium, the Department cannot shift course and reallocate funding differently and jeopardize programs being developed under the policies of Senate Bill No. 5400. I am vetoing this subsection to avoid this conflict.

Section 218(7)

This subsection restores chiropractic services to the medical assistance program but limits payments to ten treatments per recipient per twelve-month period. Limiting the number of chiropractic treatments by budget proviso is overly prescriptive. The Department of Social and Health Services intends to provide limited chiropractic services within the funds appropriated for this purpose. The Department has options to limit the number of treatments covered, which will ensure that the service can be provided within available funds. Within these general limits, the Department needs the ability to approve, on an exception basis, a greater number of treatments if it is determined to be medically necessary.

Section 221(8)

Section 221(8) limits to $250,000 the amount of the General Fund-State appropriation that may be expended on the Automated Clients Eligibility System (ACES). If the cost of the project in this biennium exceeds the limit by any amount, the Department of Social and Health Services would not be able to continue with the project until review in the 1991 session.

The Department of Social and Health Services estimates the 1989-91 cost of ACES planning and development at $339,000 General Fund-State. This estimate was provided to legislative staff, the Office of Financial Management, the Department of Information Services and the relevant federal agencies.

It is difficult to predict the federal match for the project. The amount of match currently assumed is tentative and could be revised by the participating federal agencies after the project is underway, making it impossible for the Department to guarantee that ACES expenditures will not exceed $250,000 General Fund-State before executing a contract.

The Department will continue to comply with the requirements of section 802, chapter 19, Laws of 1989, 1st Extraordinary Session, which requires ongoing review of information system projects by the Department of Information Systems and the Office of Financial Management.

Section 225(25)

This subsection requires the Department of Community Development to establish a new and significant children's ombudsman program. I am vetoing this appropriation because $90,000 is insufficient to create and properly administer a program of this scope. I will consider developing a budget item for inclusion in the 1991-93 biennium budget. The $90,000 will be placed in reserve, and not used for any other purpose.

Section 225(27)

This subsection unduly restricts the Department of Community Development from adequately administering the Housing Trust Fund program by providing that none of the housing trust fund appropriation may be used for administrative expenses. While it is my expectation that the $10 million appropriated will be expended on direct program activity, I am vetoing this subsection to make it clear that some of the interest earned on the $10 million will be expended on administration, as allowed under the statute governing the Housing Trust Fund. The Department must have the ability to staff the program adequately in order to expedite the availability of these funds for local programs and to ensure that projects and contracts are monitored, that repayments be managed, and that site visits be conducted.

Section 229(2)(c)

This subsection states that the civil commitment of sexual predators pursuant to chapter 3, Laws of 1990, shall be at the Twin Rivers Corrections Center. Flexibility is needed to place the program where it can be operated most efficiently and effectively within the Monroe correctional facilities.

Section 229(3)(b)

Section 229(3)(b) provides prison impact funding. I recognize that some local jurisdictions may experience extraordinary costs relating to expansion of correctional institutions. The language of this subsection restricts the use of the appropriation to a few local jurisdictions for new purposes. In the interest of equitable distribution of impact funds, I am directing the Department of Corrections to develop revisions to the Washington Administrative Code that will specify how local jurisdictions are to be reimbursed for these new actual costs that are clearly related to offender populations.

Section 302(20)

Section 302(20)(a) provides $600,000 for grants to local jurisdictions to develop local wetlands protection and management programs. Section 302(20)(b) provides $600,000 to the Department of Ecology, contingent on a wetlands protection bill being enacted. The Legislature did not pass a wetlands protection bill, and if section 302(20)(b) remains, the funding will lapse.

In the absence of a comprehensive wetlands protection bill, this money is necessary for the Department of Ecology to more fully utilize existing authority to protect wetlands. I am vetoing this subsection and am directing the Department of Ecology to use these funds for the stricter implementation and enforcement of current statutes and to provide a portion of the aforementioned grants to local jurisdictions.

Section 302(25)

Section 302(25) limits the Department of Ecology's June 1991 FTE level to not more than 154 above the agency's June 30, 1990, FTE level. This limitation on FTE growth unnecessarily limits the agency's ability to perform its required duties. The restriction on FTEs may not be sufficient to meet the Department of Ecology's growth assumed in the Supplemental Budget or those assumed in bills passed by the 1990 Legislature. In vetoing this section, I am directing the Department of Ecology to identify savings as a result of vacancies in Fiscal Year 1991 and directing that those savings remain unexpended.

Section 306(17)

Subsection 17 directs the Department of Community Development to implement a self-employment loan program as described in subsection 84 of House Bill No. 2929. Encouraging self-employment as an option for dislocated and low-income individuals is a worthwhile idea. However, the Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is an inappropriate funding source. These funds are legislatively dedicated for use by the Community Economic Revitalization Board. The fund is intended to be a renewable resource, originally capitalized through General Obligation Bonds, for economic development that requires expansion to local infrastructure. The Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is needed for one-time projects in which there is critical need, and should not be used for programs that are clearly ongoing and operating in nature. The proposed self-employment loan program would be ongoing and would require support from the General Fund-State for continued operation in the next biennium.

Section 306(18)

Subsection 18 creates an industrial competitiveness program in the Department of Trade and Economic Development, as described in subsection 75 of Engrossed House Bill No. 2929. It is important to encourage the growth of value-added manufacturing in the state and to encourage smaller firms to work together to increase their competitiveness. However, again the Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is an inappropriate funding source. These funds are legislatively dedicated for use by the Community Economic Revitalization Board. The fund is intended to be a renewable resource, originally capitalized through General Obligation Bond sales, for economic development that requires expansion to local infrastructure. The Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is needed for one-time projects in which there is critical need, and should not be used for programs that are clearly ongoing and operating in nature. The industrial competitiveness program would be ongoing and would require support from the General Fund-State for continued operation in the next biennium. I am directing the Department of Trade and Economic Development to use existing general fund monies to provide assistance to facilitate efforts by small businesses to develop cooperative networks in order to increase their competitiveness.

Section 306(19)

Subsection 19 directs the Department of Community Development to provide grants for technical assistance for community-based organizations as described in subsection 83 of House Bill No. 2929. Efforts to increase the capacity of community-based organizations in low-income communities are valuable and worthwhile. However, the provisions contained in this section are overly prescriptive and have the potential to reduce the effectiveness of the existing successful Local Development Matching Fund program. Once again, the Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is an inappropriate funding source. These funds are legislatively dedicated for use by the Community Economic Revitalization Board. The fund is intended to be a renewable resource, originally capitalized through General Obligation Bonds, for economic development that requires expansion to local infrastructure. The Public Facilities Construction Loan Revolving Fund is needed for one-time projects in which there is critical need, and should not be used for programs that are clearly ongoing and operating in nature. I am directing the Department of Community Development to explore opportunities to provide training and technical assistance to community-based organizations serving low-income rural and urban areas.

Section 306(26)

Subsection 26 provides for a review of state-supported advanced-technology and technology-transfer economic development activities. While I applaud the Legislature for examining these important issues, the language contained in section 76 of House Bill No. 2929 is overly prescriptive given the size of the appropriation to support the review. I am directing the Department of Trade and Economic Development to utilize the available funds to evaluate existing state-supported applied research and technology transfer activities in the state. I am also directing the Department of Trade and Economic Development to conduct an initial examination of opportunities for collaboration between higher education, industry and the state as a way to increase the economic competitiveness of the state.

Section 705

This section forgives loans made to the cities of Federal Way and Sea-Tac that were supported by an Emergency Fund allocation to the Department of Community Development for that purpose. In modifying the Executive's decision in the matter of the allocation to the Department of Community Development in this way, the Legislature makes an unacceptable encroachment into gubernatorial authority and responsibility for the Governor's Emergency Fund.

With the exceptions of sections 116(7), 120(5), 206(1)(a)(iv), 207(1)(g), 208(14), 218(7), 221(8), 225(25), 225(27), 229(2)(c), 229(3)(b), 302(20), 302(25), 306(17), 306(18), 306(19), 306(26) and 705, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6407 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 3, 13 and 33, Senate Bill No. 6408 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to transportation appropriations."

Section 3 replaces $750,000 of State Patrol Highway Account funds with an equal amount of Public Safety Education Account (PSEA) funds for the Safety Education program. Additionally, it appropriates $250,000 of PSEA funds to enhance the Safety Education program. The Public Safety Education Account, already in precarious financial condition, has many beneficiaries, including the Crime Victims Compensation program. With the lifting of the crime victim's medical cap, the future demands on this fund may exceed estimated revenues. The operating budget conference committee should appropriate $250,000 of State Patrol Highway Account funds to enhance the Safety Education Program, including the Bicycle Awareness program.

Section 13 appropriates state general funds and transportation funds to the newly created Air Transportation Commission. While I can support the purpose and need for creating a statewide Air Transportation Commission, I question the use of state general funds because the mission of this commission, as described in this legislation, does not include the broader perspective necessary to justify the use of general funds. Therefore, I will ask the House and Senate fiscal committee chairs to provide start-up and study funding for the Commission out of transportation funds.

Section 33 appropriates $3,000,000 General Fund – State to the Department of Ecology (DOE) for distribution to local air pollution control authorities for activities relating to transportation-caused air pollution.

I question whether the activities described in this section should be paid from the state general fund or more appropriately paid out of transportation funds, as the focus of the program addresses "transportation-caused air pollution."

An issue as important as air quality should not be approached in a piecemeal fashion. DOE is currently developing a comprehensive program and budget request to address air pollution as a priority in the 1991 legislative agenda. Vehicle emissions monitoring and compliance is but one component of a comprehensive air quality program. This program will be developed using the Department's Environment 2010 report which is due this June.

It is appropriate that the issue of additional funding for local air pollution control authorities be addressed next session in the context of an overall comprehensive plan, and for these reasons, I have vetoed this section.

With the exception of sections 3, 13, and 33, Senate Bill No. 6408 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 315, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6417 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the capital budget."

This section provides $500,000 from the State Wildlife Fund for a continued feasibility study and design work for a steelhead and rainbow trout hatchery at Grandy Creek. Funds available to the State Wildlife Fund are extremely limited. Revenues may not be sufficient to cover projected expenditures next biennium. Additionally, initial studies by the Department of Wildlife have shown that the amount of water available at Grandy Creek is marginal to support a hatchery. Moreover, this project is being developed outside the normal Capital budget process, without a thorough review by the Department of Wildlife or the Office of Financial Management. The Department of Wildlife has not had the opportunity to rank this project in terms of its other capital needs. Given these factors, approval of the appropriation is not prudent. While I am opposing the project at this time, I am willing to work with the Department of Wildlife, the Legislature, and interested groups in pursuing the feasibility of a steelhead facility on the Skagit River.

For the reasons stated above, I have vetoed section 315 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6417.

With the exception of section 315, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6417 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6533 entitled:
"AN ACT Relating to school suspension."

The bill restates existing statutory authority permitting a school district to reduce the length of a student's suspension upon condition that the student begin counseling or other treatment. The bill also specifically releases the district from any financial responsibility for such counseling or treatment.

School districts have not been found to be financially obligated for these expenses.

School districts sponsor many programs of voluntary participation by students contingent upon some financial or other student commitment. The bill's release of districts from financial obligation in the instance of counseling or treatment related to the length of a suspension raises an inference that the districts may be financially obligated in other instances where not specifically released.

In order to avoid unintended consequences from a well-intended bill, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 6533 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 9, Senate Bill No. 6574 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the Washington state housing finance commission."

The bill allows the Housing Finance Commission to issue bonds to finance nursing home construction and renovation. The bill expands the purposes of bonding authority to include financing of capital facilities owned and operated by non-profit corporations. The bill also is intended to give, with limited exceptions, the Housing Finance Commission exclusive authority to issue bonds for these purposes.

Section 2(6) of the bill recognizes and preserves existing statutory authority for local housing authorities to establish non-profit corporations for the purpose of issuing bonds for the construction of low-income housing. While the remainder of the bill expands the purposes of bonding authority, section 9, unlike section 2(6), fails to preserve existing local housing finance programs by failing to except them from the purposes for which the Housing Finance Commission is established as the "sole issuer of revenue bonds."

Neither the bill nor its legislative history provides information to reconcile the apparent conflict between section 2(6) and section 9.

In order to preserve the financing programs of local housing programs and to correct any inconsistency between section 2(6) and section 9, I have vetoed section 9 of this bill.

With the exception of section 9, Senate Bill No. 6574 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 48, 55, 76, and 87, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6663 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to Special License Plates and technical revisions to the department of licensing statutes."

Section 55 duplicates an amendment in Senate Bill No. 6190 and section 76 duplicates an amendment in Senate Bill No. 6358. To avoid these duplications, I have vetoed these two sections.

Section 48 allows those who refuse the alcohol breath test to obtain an occupational driver's license. An occupational driver's license is granted to a person who provides proof of requiring driving privileges for employment reasons. Section 87 requires rescission of the revocation, for failure to take the breath test, of a person's driving privilege if that person is found not guilty of the underlying offense and the person's impaired driving was caused by a medical condition. These two sections serve to erode the implied consent law. That law is the state's most effective tool to combat drunken driving.

Nearly 800 people die on Washington's roadways each year. Nearly half of those deaths are alcohol related. I have indicated a strong commitment to a policy of no tolerance and strict deterrence. I remain convinced that the public message of no tolerance for drunken driving, with swift and sure consequences, is an effective deterrent.

Although the Legislature declined to take the issue of drivers' license revocation out of the criminal process, now is not the time to erode tough sanctions against drunken drivers. Instead, I challenge the Legislature to join me in the endeavor to save lives in the upcoming years and improve safety on Washington roads by promoting tougher laws against drunken drivers.

For these reasons, I have vetoed sections 48, 55, 76, and 87 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6663.

With the exception of sections 48, 55, 76, and 87, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6663 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6664 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the business license center act."

Section 4 repeals the provisions which established the Business License Center and added licenses to the Master License System. Although technically these provisions are no longer applicable since the time frames and requirements have been met, they provide useful historical information regarding the program. It is normal practice to retain such historical information in statute to minimize confusion regarding programs. I have, therefore, vetoed section 4 of this bill.

With the exception of section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6664 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6698, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to limitations on the use of solid fuel burning devices."

Section 1 of this bill makes reference to Substitute House Bill No. 2277, which would have set up a joint select task force on clean air. Substitute House Bill No. 2277 did not pass the Legislature. Section 1 of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6698 charges the task force with reviewing implementation of this bill. Since the task force does not exist, I have vetoed section 1.

With the exception of section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6698 is approved.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6729 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to DNA Identification."

This bill specifically authorizes and directs the Washington State Patrol to adopt rules for RCW 43.43.752 through RCW 43.43.758, the statutes establishing the DNA Identification Program.

Section 4 of the bill does not specifically address the DNA Identification Program, but rather the general role and authority of the Department of Corrections and county jail administrators to conduct blood sampling. As constructed, section 4 would not be codified within the statutes for which the bill establishes rule-making authority. As a result, the rule-making authority established by the bill will not be effective to implement section 4.

I believe section 3 of the bill provides sufficient authority to implement the regulations necessary to carry out the intent of this bill.

For these reasons, I have vetoed section 4 of the bill.

With the exception of section 4, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6729 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Booth Gardner, Governor
