

Washington State Legislature

Policy Internship

The Washington State Legislative Internship Program is a great opportunity to learn the legislative process and gain professional work experience. Interns spend winter quarter or spring semester working in Olympia as staff for members of the Washington State House of Representatives or Senate while they earn credit through their schools.

In addition to office work, interns participate in weekly academic seminars and workshops. The seminars include meeting with state officials, as well as panel discussions. In the workshops, interns take part in a budget exercise, a mock hearing and a mock floor debate. Interns learn parliamentary procedure as well as technical writing skills necessary for the legislature. Additionally, interns have the opportunity to shadow an elected official or state agency administrator and learn about his/her job.

Interns receive monthly compensation to offset costs associated with the internship, as well as academic credit. The amount of credit to be earned and other academic requirements are determined by the schools.

Acceptance and placement into the Legislative Internship Program is determined by the House and Senate Intern Coordinators. The application review process takes the applicant's academic qualifications, work experience, recommendations, writing samples, and personal interview into consideration.
